Character of Jensen is not changing

The year 1978 just past was a year of important change, yet a year of life-goes-on-as-usual, for the stable and level-headed area including Jensen Beach, Sewall's Point, Rio, and Hutchinson Island.

True, shopping centers big and small have been outcropping all around us, elegant condominiums and apartment complexes have been lifting from the ground along the beach, coveys of pleasant new homes have begun nesting in tidy pockets where bare land existed before.

Yet unlike the burgeoning onslaught of cement megalopolis to the south of us, our area, thanks to good government and careful planners, is not losing its true character. Change is there, if you go looking for it, but as yet, in the past year at least, it's not treading on our toes.

Some of the events, big and small, in the past 12 months, have been:

Wacha evaluates the past year; looks forward to a big 1979

BY SALLY LATHAM

Martin County Commission Chairman Frank Wacha, with one eye over his shoulder to the year just past and the other looking ahead to the coming 12 months, sees both years as a pathway to progress for the north end of the county.

"I look at the last two years more or less as a preparation for 1979," he told the Mirror Tuesday morning. "We spent 1977 and '78 working the kinks out of a comprehensive plan for the county. I think in 1979 we will adopt the comprehensive plan and get it underway."

Wacha, who has had a total of 14 years in county politics, says he feels the two years since he returned (unopposed) to the county commission in 1976, after a four year hiatus, have been productive ones for the county in general and for the Jensen area in particular.

"In 1977 and '78 wave been getting the inlet project back on the track," he said, observing that he had been pushing for it back in 1972 when he gave up the commission seat to run for the state senate.

"In 1974 and '75," he recalled, "things slowed to a standstill on the inlet."

During the past year, Wacha, Commissioner Tom Higgins, and Dr. William Myers, former commission chairman now serving in the state house of representatives, made a number of trips to Washington to get action on the permanent improvement of the inlet which has taken heavy toll in boats and lives. Finally, in October of the year just past, a bill was passed to fund some $6 million in long-term construction here.

Wacha also pointed with pardonable pride to the groundwork laid in recent months for the much needed widening and upgrading the intersection at Commercial Street and Savanna Road. Since fall, he reminded The Mirror, the commission has been working on obtaining all the necessary rights of way to widen and three-lane the bottleneck intersection.

"Florida Power and Light has to start by moving back the power poles," Wacha said. "Then the commission can go ahead and let bids for the work."

He predicts that the intersection problems will be over by summer.

Another bright prospect, both for the fire department and for all residents of the community, is the combined community hall and fire station on Savanna Road. Ground has been cleared at the site across the street from the new St. Martin de Porres Catholic Church for a playground, and as soon as a topographical map can be made, bids will be let for its construction.

The building, when complete, will be 38 by 82 feet, and will have a kitchen both for use by the fireman and for groups using the quarters which will be "much like the Ambulance headquarters but larger."

The comprehensive plan, when it is adopted, should open the door to other needed improvements in the area, Wacha said. First to be determined will be the land use aspects.

"I believe when that's determined, the balance of the elements will fall into line," he said. "The land use is going to determine where the roads will go."

Will the comprehensive plan's traffic future do anything for Jensen's traffic-clogged streets?

Wacha isn't too optimistic about that.

"The only way to solve the downtown traffic problem is for the community to bite the bullet, and one-way it east on Commercial and West on Ricou," he said. "There's no other way of getting the traffic through over there."

As he's not making any rash promises about the fate of the town's other problem intersection, at Indian River Drive and the Jensen Causeway.

"That's hanging with the State Road Department," he said. "I believe they will designate 707 from the Causeway through Rio as a state primary road, and Commercial Street as a county secondary road."

If Indian River Drive does get a state primary road designation, he said, there should be a good chance that the Department of Transportation will install a much-needed traffic light at the west end of the Causeway. Such an installation would cost approximately $30,000, he said.

In the area of recreation, Wacha feels the commission has done well by Jensen Beach and adjacent communities in the north county.

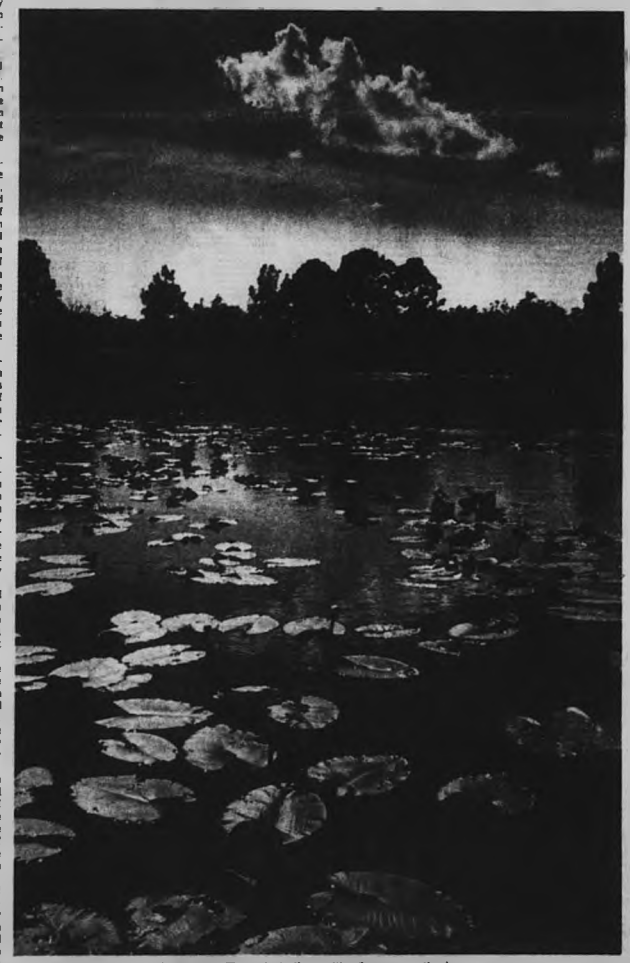
"We have built two hand ball courts at Langford Park, and we helped construct the Heart Parcours there," the commissioner said.

FRANK WACHA

The Parcours dedicated last month, was financed with $4,000 from the American Heart Association and built with county equipment.

As well as the county has done for recreation and healthful exercise facilities, the commission chairman is hoping to beef it up still more, in the coming year.

"We hope we can get a good strong youth softball program," Wacha commented. "We're going to need all the help and support we can get."



SAVANNAS–The ecologically sensitive Savannas wetlands which stretch from Jensen Beach to south Fort Pierce are a natural habitat to numerous endangered species. Much of the land has been purchased by the state to protect it from the intrusion of man. One of the highlights of last year in Port St. Lucie was the deeding of 578 acres of the Savannas to the state from General Development Corporation. The firm sold the land at a price far below market value. (Staff photo by Alice Hicky.)

Eckerd building

The Jack Eckerd Corporation is building a new Eckerd Drug in Jensen Beach. The 10,088 square foot store will be built on the lot to the east of Cumberland Farms store at the northeast corner of Savanna Road and Comercial Street.

The site of the store has been cleared and graded thus far.

The new store has been rumored in Jensen Beach for the past week, but was confirmed Tuesday by Alex Radford, public relations director of the drug chain, who had just returned from vacation.

Radford could not confirm the projected opening of the store, citing the problems with construction timing. No other store was involved with the building program of Eckerd.

The property was purchased by Eckerd Drug of Florida, Inc., on November 14, 1978, and a notice of commencement of building was filed on December 12.

Jack Eckerd, founder of the 870 drug stores in Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas, Oklahoma, Delaware, Maryland, Colorado, New Jersey, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, Virginia and Pennsylvania, retired from the corporation in 1975. Stewart Turley, 44, is chairman of the board, president and chief executive officer of the corparation.

Eckerd Drug operates 183 Eckerd Optical Centers in five states, and six Eckd photo labs which produce more than 100 million prints from four million rolls of film annually.

Every Eckerd Drug Store concentrates on prescription service, with over 1,700 licensed pharmacists, and prescription departments open seven days a week. There are also individual departments for non-prescription drugs, cosmetics, cameras, electronic items, sporting goods and photographic supplies.

Samaritans get a new H-I angel

The Jensen Area Samaritans started the year right by acquiring a new angel, over the weekend. The good news came in the form of a check for more than $750 from the Island Club, a condominium on Hutchinson Island.

Mrs. Maxine Bailey, Samaritans president, got the word from Halaine (Mrs. Milton M.) Lang, one of the condo owners.

When the residents found out that the Samaritans serve that area of Hutchinson Island with their free ambulance service, they unanimously decided to donate to the volunteer organization.

Winter sings the blues

BY SALLY LATHAM

The north wind doth blow, and it has plumb blown out the magical weather that blessed the holiday vacation and so many beautiful weeks before, through the fall. According to the weatherman, squaw summer is over, and the next few days are for none but the braves.

The attack of northern weather, the first since the monsoons of early October, is nothing but the petticoats of a monstrous wintery cold front blanketing everything from the Carolinas up, and shouldn't (mark that, we said SHOULDN'T) turn into anything severe enough to damage citrus or the feelings of winter visitors. In fact, the bait and tackle spies are looking forward to it making the harvest of bluefish better, out in the surf.

"The fishing's been terrible all week, with the storminess on the ocean," said Tommy Stewart of the Snook Nook, "but the cold weather should bring in the blues."

The Indian River has been whipping up white caps almost as inexorably as the ocean, in the past few days, and the river fishermen have been few and far between. But those who've gone out haven't done too badly, Tommy reports. Among the catches have been:

Bill Pedroff and David Chris (both of Ohio,) 12 blues in the surf on cut mackerel; Joe and Jeff Janieri and Tony Battaglia, 12 blues, four croakers and one pompano, on mackerel, in the surf; Morgan West, eight blues in the surf on mackerel; Daye Lamb, at the Jensen Bait and Tackle, concurs that the fishing has been pretty lousy, to coin an oxymoron, but a few hardy souls have been out. M. Dumonde caught a three pound trout off the Jensen Beach causeway on cut bait; Charlie Areni got a good trout out of the river on Trout Tout.

High and low temperatures during the past week have been:

If the costs were tabulated, they would pass $200 million.

We believe that the $200 million is down the drain, because the Nuclear Regulatory Commission should have had those hearings out of the way before permitting Florida Power and Light to proceed with the plant.

The permitting process is to blame, not the protestors, not FPL. Protests are necessary to make certain that nuclear plants properly protect the public from the dangers of radioactivity, and from other potential dangers relative to accidents that might happen.

However, once the answers to protest have been given, and the plant is permitted to be constructed, any protests should then be made in hearings that do not interfere with construction, that do not add $200 million in excess costs to the construction of a plant.

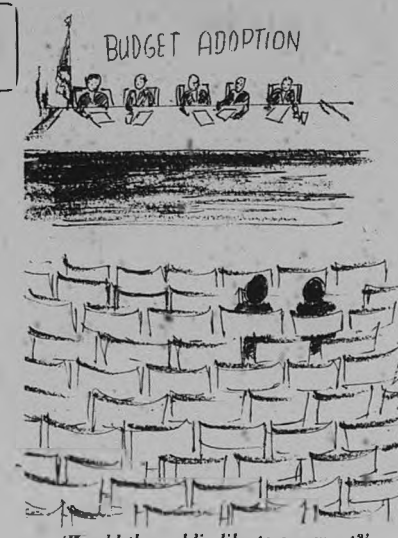
Some of the Little League folks say they'd be willing to pay more taxes for more recreational facilities. But there are probably many citizens who would not be so willing to do so. The city council considered the latter group when it made the budget cuts.

One Little League spokesman complained that the Recreation Committee members did not attend the public hearing when the council adopted its budget for this year. He said the committee members should have been there to fight for their recommendations.

If that criticism can apply to the Recreation Committee, it should also apply to Little League organizers. In spite of numerous public meetings conducted on the city budget, all of which were covered by The Mirror, the Little Leaguers were conspicuous by their absence.

Well before the final hearing to adopt this year's budget was conducted, the press had reported city council intentions to delete many of the things the Recreation Committee had proposed. At the final budget hearing, only three members of the public were there. True, none of those three were Recreation Committee members. Nor were there representatives of the Little League.



'Would the public like to comment?'

My New Year resolutions

I resolve to don't make no more misteaks this year.

I resolve that I will not write another editorial on I-95.

I resolve not to make a U-turn on Commercial Street.

I resolve not to tell Don Wilkie, "it's time for the younger folks to run the Chamber of Commerce," any more.

I resolve to meet with Don Caldwell of Lake City so that we can paste back together the five dollar bill we tore in half eight years ago, each taking half, so we can spend it.

I resolve to listen when people are talking to me so they don't have to repeat themselves.

I resolve to check the oil and transmission fluid on the boat before starting the engine.

I resolve to get the ladder installed on the diving platform so people can get back on the boat when we visit Peck's Lake.

I resolve to learn how to fish this year.

I resolve to not mention the inlet project more than four times this year.

I resolve to play golf more than one time this year.

I resolve to put the seat down in the bathroom.

I resolve to get Peg Meissner her art thing this year.

I resolve to read Bob Fryer's column this year.

I resolve to move my desk so that I don't daydream out the window at the Indian River.

I resolve to finish reading "A Time for Truth" by William Simon, a promise I made to Ransom.

I resolve to give Benny his pill every morning.

I resolve not to jump up in the air to smash a low lob, thus saving Tom Falkenburg stomach cramps.

I resolve that I won't walk into the bathroom when Sally Latham is talking to me.

I resolve not to smoke cigars, except when Ransom Tilton, Bobby Lord and I have our annual birthday party next week.

I resolve not to be the chairman of anything this year.

I resolve to empty the ash tray in the car at least once a month.

I promise not to hit my doubles partner in the back with my serve.

I promise that the cannon will go off in the next present I give Jack and Judy Sheridan.

I promise not to get upset with Dick Penick when he tries to hit the ball in front of the baseline.

I promise not make ERA jokes about the woman's place in the home in front of Mary B.

I promise not to tell Italian jokes to Matt, Greek jokes to Ernie, Jewish jokes to Sam, Polish jokes to Meathead, Norwegian jokes to Ralph, doctor jokes to Chee-chee, real estate jokes to Ransom, or Wall Street jokes to Roland.

I resolve not to ask Ron Mitchell for a loan this year, unless I really need it.

I resolve not to take the boat out at night unless the searchlight is working.

I resolve to keep my car seats clean, and vacuum the trunk of the car.

I resolve not to get angry because the Stuart News and Post-Times deliveryman throws my newspaper in the sprinklers.

All these things I promise as my New Year resolutions. I cannot promise to keep them, but I will try. Note that I did not resolve to quit smoking. I did that every year, and this year may be different.

I also didn't make any wild-eyed promises, like giving up eating elephant steak, or drinking carrot juice. I am more conservative as I gain in age and experience.

I had thought of not even making resolutions this year, but, then, what would there be to break?

How to boil down memories

I know the turn of the New Year is the time to get rid of the old and look forward to the new, but this is ridiculous.

I have been evicted by an unfeeling northern landlord, and here in the midst of the holiday season, I am madly paring down and casting off the old which filled four comfortably large rooms to make it fit into two.

Eviction, friends, is indeed a moving experience.

For your normal run-of-the-mill friendly neighborhood packrat, moving isn't usually such a painful chore. If my memory serves me, in those dim halcyon days when I was nothing but a housewife and mother of a growingly large brood, we moved seven times in ten years, and I survived the chain reaction of ordeals with no more than a few giant headaches, severe backaches and minor nervous breakdowns.

Those hegiras usually entailed calling in a moving van and a day or two of trying to keep the kids from packing themselves behind the furniture of in one of the barrels, feats I met with a modicum of success.

The worst and most costly instance occurred during the move from Addison, N.Y., where I was playing librarian for the local library. Our house was only three doors away, and people had a habit of dropping books on my doorstep when the public facility was closed.

The packers were at work, come dark, and I took the kids out to supper. It was only after our arrival in Oak Ridge, Tenn., that I unpacked three cartons of books, all belonging to the town of Addison. It cost me a fat $34 to send them back, and that month I had to convince the kids that sardine and peanut butter sandwiches were the tastiest fare in the world, until Pop got his first paycheck from Union Carbide.

Things like that, when removed safely from the immediacy of the situation by time and tide, you can look back fondly on and laugh a lot. So what if the family heirloom rocker was lost in the shuffle? The boys would probably have demolished it anyway, somewhere in their Cub-Scout-Boy-Scout-knife period of peril.

But all that was before I became a newspaper-type packrat. Every step of there-to-here-ing since my first one from Oak Ridge to Fort Pierce, eight years after becoming a sister of the inky profession, has entailed painful weeks of decisions-decisions-decisions.

Only another newspaper nut can appreciate the mountains of what becomes other people's bird-cage liners and fish-wrappers that you stow away over a given period of years. These are your own scrivenings—your own mementoes of blood-sweat-and-tears expended on stories you're proud of, stories you've kept because they have the makings of potential saleable magazine pieces, landmarks in your journeys through journalism-land....

...there's the 84-page copy of The Oak Ridger, the one you spent three months inside the microfilm monster working on, to chronicle the tenth birthday of the Atomic City...the first skybrow story on the front page...the time you followed King Hussein around the atomic plants...the account of the weekend you spent on Mount LeConte with the ski club, dying of the cold which you hate with a gelid purple-nosed passion and winding up loving its poetic majesty....

...then there are all those "Younsta Idea" weekly series features you did on the beautiful people you want to remember, from 18 and 20 years back with the Fort Pierce News Tribune...the best of you from The Town News in Pompano, when you helped give birth to the Pompano Harness Track and ditto to Florida Atlantic University when it was nothing but a fire-station on an old airport...the great people you got to interview as entertainment writer, like Peggy Lee, Buddy Hackett, Sophie Tucker, Tony Bennett...

...the articles you did on The Fort Lauderdale News for a lovely guy named Barc Bowman who always had the genius of bringing out the best in you when you didn't know it was there, like the time you became an expert on spiders which you always run screaming from, and the interviews with Billy Graham...

...And then, up in Chattanooga, that first edition of the Chattanooga Post which got you a mention in the New York Times as the skybrow story writer, and the last edition when that beautiful paper was killed by litigation in the courts.

Ah, what memories those Chattanooga years evoke, not only of the great people you worked with and for but of the once-in-a-lifetime interviews like the one you did in the office of publisher Ruth Golden (now Holmberg), chatting with New York Times executive editor James (Scotty) Reston and his Sally while a race riot was fomenting in the street below...

All these, and tons more, are encased, yellowing, in six boxes, which have to be bolted down to at least two, and you don't know where you're going to stash those.

Then there's another box full of great letters you can't possibly pitch out...some "vanity bits," true, like the ones from the late great Benjamin Mayes of Morehouse College, DeWitt Wallace of Reader's Digest, the late Ralph McGill of the Atlanta Journal, from Merv Griffin, the ambassador to the British Embassy...

...But most important, all the ones from your nearest and dearest—all those v-mail letters from Uncle Don when he was flying B-25s over New Guinea, the ones from sons Bill and Robin when they did their respective stints in Japan and Germany, the packs of philosophy-filled wisdom from my late beloved mother and other packs from old friend Layton Spraker...some rare but choice love letters that release floods of sentimental memories...Who can throw any of them out?

I love my new landlord and landlady, Fire Chief Joe Luciano and his adorable Dorothy, both of whom are doing their utmost to make me totally at home. But where are their attics and basements of yore? Those musty trunks of yesteryear?

Anybody have a memory-bank-sized cubby hole to spare?

Oh well. Even if you don't, have a Smithsonian-sized 1979, and give a thought to me, spending the years stumbling over my unrelinquishable memorabilia.

The cookie monster that stole Christmas

Brian: "Mommy, can I have a cookie?"

Pris: "No, honey we're all out of cookies."

Brian: "But, Mommy, Grandma has some. She's looking for them."

That exchange between my sister and her soon-to-be-three-year-old son occurred over Christmas weekend while I was in Titusville visiting with my family.

When my brother, Alton, told us what Brian had said, we all thought it was hilarious.

What made it funny was the conversation between Alton and Dad that had preceded it.

Alton had gone, with Brian tagging along, to check on my mother. It was the morning before Christmas and she hadn't come out for breakfast yet. Normally, she would have been up hours ago, fixing breakfast.

But she wasn't feeling well, and when Alton checked with Dad to see how she was doing, my father told him, "She just lost her cookies a few minutes ago."

Mom wasn't the only one to "lose her cookies" over the Christmas weekend. Nearly everybody in the family came down with a case of stomach flu during the holidays. We gave it to one another as freely as we gave gifts. And, I have a feeling that in future years it's a "gift" that will make this last Christmas stand out in our memories Christmases past.

My sister Pris' daughter, Sara, got it first.

She gave it to her mom, who in turn passed it along to her husband, Jim, and her son, Brian.

All that happened before I got to Titusville on the Friday evening before Christmas.

My nephew, Altie, got it Saturday and my mom woke up with it Sunday.

By Sunday evening it was my turn, and around 3 a.m. Christmas morning my sister Susan got it.

When I left Christmas night to go back to home, my father was coming down with it.

I told them to finish passing it around the family and to be rid of it by the time I returned the next weekend for another visit before Altie, Ellen, Jean and Alton returned to Mystic, Conn.

When I went to work Tuesday, the day after Christmas, my stomach was nearly back to normal. By Tuesday night, Dick Campbell's wasn't.

I don't know how he did it, but he gave the bug back to me Wednesday.

So today, Thursday, Dec. 28th, I'm writing this column at home as I nurse my queezy stomach back to health.

I don't know where it will all end. If I'm well enough to go to Titusville as planned for New Year's weekend, I fully expect my family will not have heeded my pleas to be rid of the thing and will be in the process of Round 2. Only for me, if I get it again, it will be Round 3.

I don't know if the thing has a name, other than stomach flu. And I apparently don't know a prevention for it.

But as a public service, I do have a few tips to pass along to readers who may come down with it.

First, don't insist on eating that plate of spaghetti when your stomach has already given you hints that things are not as they should be down there.

Second, don't be frightened by those fevered visions of the Grim Reaper coming at you as your stomach churns. In spite of that burning lump of coal in your tum tum, you will survive.

Third, if you decide it would be a neat idea to pass your little gastronomic goodie along to your boss, don't. He'll only return the favor.

And, finally, when it comes to losing your cookies, do it quietly. Brian's still looking for Grandma's cookies.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir,

Many thanks for taking to the defense of the little man vs the mighty GDC. I agree wholeheartedly with your development of the park site squabble.

We bought lots in Port St. Lucie way back in the 1960s. The salesmen pushed the park site and the school site and the shopping centers. It was a motivation that prompted us to buy and to choose sites near the parks. little did we know that 20 years later we would have to buy the park sites. I think Lolita Kernohan—one of the more knowledgeable council persons—was right when she moved to hold back on this sale. True, if GDC keeps the sites they can not use them for other purposes and have to pay tax on it and maintain it. I am curious to know if GDC pays the same tax rate per building lot that private purchasers pay or is it just one big bill? We pay well over twice as much for our unimproved lots that we do in Volusia County for essentially the same type of lot and size. Why is this?

The same argument for park sites should be used for school sites. GDC should volunteer a site for the second school in Port St. Lucie. They sold the homes and land and now that they created the impact and made their profit, I am left to pay for these improvements.

Sincerely,
John J. Miara

TWO HATS OR ONE?

QUESTION: I recently got my real estate license. Even though my main job is selling carpeting, I have acquired five triple deckers over the past few years, which I'm getting ready to sell. Now that I have a license, I am thinking of giving the listing to many brokers and splitting the commission with the successful one. That way, I'll sell my property and get half the commission to boot. Is this a good idea?

ANSWER: No, for the following reasons:

First, as a broker you can wear only one hat. You have a fiduciary allegiance to the party you represent. Obviously, as an owner, you have an allegiance to yourself. By attempting to split another broker's commission, you are asking him to pledge you his full allegiance as required by law, but at only half the compensation he would normally be entitled to. By doing so, you are really hurting yourself. This is true because the several brokers you are asking to work at half price are not going to work at all! Your property won't sell unless you sell it yourself, and if you do, you're entitled to the entire commission.

I can only equate your logic to that of the local doctor who needed brain surgery and asked the surgeon to split his fee!

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-6747, or stop by.

1978 may lead to balanced budget

BY SKIP BAFALIS

1978 will soon be history. And, like all of its predecessors, it will go down in the books as the year when some good and some bad things happened.

As always, it was a year of superlatives, the best, the worst, the biggest. The biggest armed robbery, the worst airline crash in U.S. history, the most heinous murder-suicide pact ever – all occurred in 1978.

It ended with forecasts gone wrong - a growth of merely 3.8 per cent in the production of goods and services and a consumer price hike.

Americans saw state, local and federal taxes take more and more of their income, while their faith in government at all levels – but particularly at the federal level - declined.

1978 was the 205th anniversary of the Boston Tea Party and the American people commemorated the occasion in a fitting manner – by organizing a modern day tax revolt.

It started in California with Proposition 13, the proposal to slash property taxes by $7 billion and impose severe restrictions on the

And it quickly spread to other states – Idaho and Nevada where 1 per cent limits were placed on property taxes; to Alabama where property tax increases were limited; to Arizona where spending was curtailed to 7 per cent of personal income; to Hawaii where spending increases are limited to future economic growth; and to Illinois where an advisory referendum calling on the legislature to set a mandatory ceiling on spending was overwhelmingly adopted.

Massachusetts okayed a proposal to prevent property tax increases, while Michigan limited state spending to a fixed percentage of income and Missouri impowered the legislature to cut property taxes. North Dakota voted to lower state income taxes, while South Dakota passed an amendment requiring a two-thirds vote of the legislature to enact new taxes, instead of the simple majority now required. And Texas voters approved a package to increase homestead exemptions, ease the tax burden on older residents, reduce farm taxes and link future state spending to economic growth.

It even reached Washington where, all of a sudden, it became popular to vote for cuts in spending programs and to talk about a spending cap.

In fact, it ever became popular to join me in pushing for a Constitutional Amendment to end deficit spending and require a balanced budget.

So, perhaps 1978 will go down in the books as the year which paved the way for the 1979 passage of the balanced budget amendment.

Suit against nuke plant zilched

Martin Hodder, attorney for two area conservation groups, met his final defeat in the courts last week, when the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled him down in his last-ditch attempt to halt Florida Power and Light's Nuclear Power Plant No. 2.

The Miami lawyer had most recently taken his five year fight against the plant to Washington, after failing to gain satisfaction against FPL at several other levels. His latest claim was that Hutchinson Island would one day become a dense population center, and that the NRC had not explored fully the potential results of a nuclear accident on the surrounding residential areas.

The three-judge appeals panel shot the attorney's claims down the both counts, disclaiming the possibility of any major population growth in that area, and stating that the NRC had no basis and no obligation in projecting the results, according to Gene van Curen, district manager for FPL.

Hodder's legal battle began in 1974, when his clients sought to stall the beginning of construction of the second nuclear plant on Hutchinson's Island. The initial argument was the FPL hadn't explored thoroughly the alternate sites on which the plant could be built.

Builders are introduced to Martin Downs

Several hundred builder-developers, realtors and their associates were feted by First Southern Holdings during two days of orientation sessions to introduce Martin Downs, the company's 2,300-acre, master-planned community development adjacent to Stuart.

First Southern's first residential development in Martin County is the 2,300-acre Martin Downs development, the initial phase of which is the golf and tennis community of Crane Creek.

During the sessions, builders, realtors and bankers toured one-acre home sites fringing the rolling fairways of the Crane Creek golf course and clustered around the Racquet Club, a recreational complex where construction is now commencing.

The company expects to announce lot purchases by a number of builders, shortly.

During the first phase, First Southern Holdings, will build a limited number of homes, with four models already under construction.

The balance of 276 home sites in Crane Creek will be sold to selected builders and individuals. The homes will have to meet the standards of the Martin Downs Architectural Review Board, formed to maintain the aesthetic and quality standards mandated by the First Southern.

South Florida Realtors and their associates were introduced to a participating commission plan, designed to make Crane Creek more widely available to prospective home buyers from Miami to Vero Beach. The program will be coordinated by First Southern's marketing director Don Ricci and will be conducted from the newly constructed sales and information center at 2265 S.W. Crane Creek Avenue.

Martin Downs officially opens to the public Jan. 13, with the dedication by First Southern Holdings of Martin Downs Blvd., a $3 million roadway. The 2.9-mile, landscaped thoroughfare bisects the Martin Downs development and links Exit 52 of the Florida Turnpike with the Palm City Bridge.

Golf cart caravans at Crane Creek allowed guests to view home sites.

THE CLOCK STRUCK 12–and the traditional pandemonium broke loose with whistles, shouts and much kissing at the Outrigger Restaurant Sunday evening. The party-goers, enjoying resort-aura informality, turned out in everything from tuxes to beachwear. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

OFFICIAL GREETER–Helping revelers see the old year out and the new year in at the Outrigger was maitre d'Tom Odessa, wearing the appropriate lei. The favorite restaurant was jammed for the celebration, as were all the other eateries. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

But the tactic did not work, as Johnson calmly made the second shot and forced an overtime session.

Finally, after the teams deadlocked in the first overtime, the Tigers blew the game open in overtime number two and won by six points.

In the final game, Clearwater took an early 14-9 lead, but after the Tigers were able to catch the Turnadoes, the game was never led by the west-coast squad again.

With under a minute to play, Martin County's Ernest McIntyre stepped to the line and added two free throws to the Tigers' total, making it 60-55. Then, avoiding a disasterous foul, the Tigers allowed Clearwater to score two unmolested baskets, closing the gap to 60-59. But the second shot came at the buzzer, thus preventing any chance of a Tornado comeback.

So although Wallen did not receive his present from Santa of Christmas and New Year's happiness (The Mirror, December 21), he has to be pleased overall with his team's performance and the way they handled the pressures of the two holiday tournaments.

Now, it's on to the Suncoast Eastern Division schedule. Martin County stands 2-0 in the East so far.

January brings games against Fort Pierce Central and suddenly awesome Twin Lakes. The surprising Rams have lost just two games, and those were close ones, to North Shore and Glades Central.

In February it's Leonard, who has finally been at least temporarily derailed in its two losses in tournaments to North Shore. The Mustangs, on the other hand, are red hot. Since opening losses to state powers Evans and Seals Vanguard, they haven't lost. Martin County must cope with this bunch of 35-foot bombers in Stuart in two weeks.

March brings the district and state playoffs. They are saying in Stuart that this is the year the year Wallen returns to the state championships and wins another. It's been a long time since his last visit there.

Carroll loses final of own tourney

BY DONNIE WILKIE

FORT PIERCE—The John Carroll Golden Rams basketball team played good basketball last weekend as it hosted the Carroll Christmas Tournament, but good was not good enough as they ran into a tough group of northerners from Pennsylvania named the Roses.

The Roses, representing Sacred Heart High School in Carbondale, Pennsylvania, won two games in a row to capture the championship in the tournament, including an impressive 65-52 victory over John Carroll in the final game last Saturday night.

Sacred Heart, with the two wins, ran its record to 9-3 on the 1978-79 season, but the Roses head coach, George Werthmuller, stressed that winning was not the most important thing on the team's long journey from the cold.

"This was strictly a fun thing," said Werthmuller. "It was like a football team playing in a bowl game. We came down on the 28th (of December), and we are leaving (left) on the 31st. We spent both game days at the beach and just had a ball."

"The games don't really matter. We can go home and tell all our friends that we beat some of Florida's biggest and best teams, and they won't know the difference. So the biggest thing was just having fun."

But fun turned out to be agony for John Carroll, the host team in the rotating tournament, which each year is hosted by a different competing school.

Carroll fell behind early in the title tilt with the team from Carbondale, giving up eight straight points early in the first period to trail 10-2, when Kilcommons called a time out to slow the pace. It helped for a while-Carroll trailed only 14-8 minutes later but Roses forward Billy Pope, the tourney MVP, got a hot hand and ripped off two free throws and a bomb from the corner to add to the lead. By the end of the first period, Carroll trailed 29-8.

More of the same followed in the second canto, as Carroll trailed 37-24 at the half, but Delancy and Heffelfinger combined in the third quarter for 10 points and the Ram defense held Sacred Heart to just nine points. On the bad side of the ledger, the Rams themselves could only score two markers other than what Delancy and Heffelfinger could produce, and they still trailed after the third stanza, 48-36.

The closest the Rams, now 5-3, could get in the final quarter was eight points, which is where they stood with three minutes remainging in the game, 56-48. But the Roses went on a 9-2 spurt which saw them lead 65-50 with just seconds to go.

The Roses advanced to the final with a 52-45 win over Orlando Bishop Moore, while the Rams edged the Melbourne Central Catholic Hustlers, 65-52.

"I was pleased with our team overall," stated Kilcommons after the final game loss. "I was displeased with our shots made, but our selection was good and can't really gripe when you take good shots."

About the referees, who awarded a record 18 free throws as a result of technical fouls, Kilcommons only said "they are honest men. I could stand here and say a lot of things about the referees and start bad-mouthing everyone but I'm not that kind of man. I thought the key to the whole tournament was their shooting." The Roses shot almost 50 percent in their two games.

John Carroll will now travel to St. Cloud for a contest tomorrow night (Friday), then to Okeechobee next Tuesday. It is part of a five-game road trip, although one of the games is in Fort Pierce, again, Westwood.

Meanwhile, the Roses are now safely in Pennsylvania, having already played a regular game in Scranton. They play only teams from the Scranton-Wilkes Barre area, but with the kind of team that performed in Fort Pierce last weekend, this bunch of Roses could blossom into a Pennsylvania state title contender.

Three players made the all-tournament team from the Rams including Jensen Beach standout Malcolm Delancy, who shot the lights out in the second half of both games. Delancy has established himself as a slow starter, and he's the first to admit it.

"I don't know what it is," said the localer, "I guess I just can't play in the first half. It takes me a while to get going." When he did get things going against Melbourne Central Catholic in the semi-final game, the only prep product from the Jensen Beach area scored thirteen points, compared to his first half output of zero. In game two, against the Roses, Delancy scored 12 points-eight of them in the second half. But the biggest contribution he makes to the John Carroll team is his extremely aggressive defense. Coach Marty Kilcommons likes to put him on the other team's best shooter one-to-one, while using his other four defenders in a zone defense.

Other Rams to make the all tournament team, as selected by a panel of sportswriters, including Mirror Sportswriter Donnie Wilkie, were Karl Heffelfinger and Joe Paschal.

Ex-car dealer into treasures

BY SALLY LATHAM

It might sound like a far cry from selling automobiles to dealing in art, fine china and antiquities, but for "Mr. B." it was a perfectly logical step in the right direction. George Washington Bixler is in love with his work because he loves people.

The owner of Mr. B's Serendipity Shop in Commercial Plaza, Bixler has merely turned his avocation into a vocation.

"I've always collected things," he told The Mirror last week. "Wherever we've gone, I've bought things old and new if I liked them. I could run my shop out of our garage."

The well-lighted, attractively-arranged emporium bespeaks Bixler's catholic tastes. Fine cut glass, Capo di Monte and Limoges hobnob with exquisite plastic-encased butterflies, pressed glass and corningware. And on the walls hang several paintings by area artists, which he has on consignment.

Mr. B. came to Florida from Pennsylvania in 1959, to retire from the automobile business.

"I gained 32 pounds in nine months–and I went back to work," the big but not too stocky (now) man said.

The return to the harness, quite naturally, was with the automobile business, in Fort Lauderdale.

Much as he needed the vigor of the work to keep in trim and the contact with people to keep alert, he still didn't really go for the 8 a.m. on the dot reporting-for-duty-time, or the pressures of sales meetings. So when his inlaws, who own property in the Stuart area, and fell in love with it 25 years ago, gave in and his wife Joyce a chance at a house they owned in Rio, Mr. B. and his wife jumped at the cahnce.

Joyce, who is a whiz at the real estate game and holds her broker's license, is with Dorothy J. Baum on 707 in Rio. A great team, they share each other's interests and promote each other every chance they get. Joyce, in fact, is so fond of their mutually accumulated collection of treasures and curios in that garage, that "she won't let me sell any of it."

Mr. B. a connoisseur of arts, also likes to promote local and area artists. In addition to the paintings he's selling for others, he also buys and takes on consignment the trash or treasures of people who, for various reasons, need to clear the attic.

"Some of them don't have the room for their things when they come down here," he said. "Others, especially the older people need to sell their family treasures because they need the money."

It is unfortunate, he noted, but many retired people on fixed incomes can't meet the inexorable demands of inflation, and must part with precious belongings to provide their daily bread.

But Mr. B isn't a scalper looking for the big buck to the detrement to others. On more than one occasion, he said, he has bought job lots of old treasures at the asking price, and has received more than he anticipated in return.

"I bought two boxes of things from one lady, and a dealer came in while I was unpacking them," he said. "He bought the whole lot for $185, I went back to the lady and gave her an extra $50. She was ecstatic."

How does he establish prices, on the antiques especially?

"I read a lot, and I pick the brains of other dealers," he said.

And he can't be telling a lie. He was named George Washington, because he was born on Feb. 22, 1918.

That was a good year for truth-tellers.

'MR. B.'–The Serendipity Shop, in Commercial Plaza is such fun because its owner was a treasure collector before he ever dreamed of going into business with antiques and other collectors' items. Here he is seen with the delicate, plastic-encased butterflies he so prizes. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

HOME SWEET BANK–The First National Bank of Stuart got a Christmas present last week, in the form of a cake "architected" in the image of the main bank building. Baked by Ann Gabler of new accounts, it even bore the motto of the financial establishment. Getting set to cut the creation is Gloria Patterson, head teller at the new Stuart Square facility. Trooper cleared in shooting

A Florida Highway Patrol trooper who fatally shot a 15-year-old boy at the local Florida Turnpike service plaza several weeks ago was cleared of any wrongdoing recently by the St. Lucie County grand jury.

The jury heard testimony from a number of witnesses and was in session for about seven hours before returning "no true bill" in the case.

FHP Trooper Eugene Chapman, who shot the youth on the morning of Dec. 7, was at the county courthouse during the grand jury session but was not called to testify.

Apparently, the grand jury decision not to charge Chapman was based on state law which gives law officers the right to shoot fleeing felons if they feel that is necessary to stop them from fleeing.

The boy who was shot, Vencent Morviani, 15, of Miami, had been charged with carrying a concealed weapon, a felony, a short time before fleeing from the trooper. A 22 caliber pistol had been taken from the boy, and was the reason for the charge against the youth. When the boy fled, he was unarmed.

The incident began around 9 a.m. on Dec. 7 when Trooper Chapman picked up four juveniles for hitchhiking on the Turnpike near the Port St. Lucie interchange. He took them to the nearby service plaza for questioning, and it was then that he found the pistol on the boy. It was unloaded.

After he had been handcuffed, Morviani somehow managed to free one hand from the cuffs. Then he fled. The boy was shot by the trooper as he was cursing a drainage ditch next to the Turnpike. He was shot once, in the back.

The boy's father has reportedly said that in spite of the grand jury decision, he intends to sue the trooper.

Putnam to be guest artist

Guest artist for the Fort Pierce Art Club at the meeting set for Jan. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Center will be Harold Putnam of Stonehill, Mass.

A special feature of the meeting will be honoring Helen Terry, well known local artist who originated the On the Green Show, as a lifetime member. Mrs. Terry is helping make plans for the eighth annual show which will be held Jan. 27 and 28 at the Gallery and on the grounds at the Community Center.

Putnam, whose paintings have become growingly popular in galleries throughout the country, is a native Bostonian, and has been a Massachusetts legislator, an assistant Attorney General, and regional director of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. He retired from his law practice to become a full-time artist.

He first became interested in the fine arts while working as a student in the Dartmouth College Art Library. He studied painting at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston, and privately with the late Alphonse J. Shelton and with George Dergalis and Roger W. Curtis.

He is famous for his New England landscapes and seascapes. Several galleries are now handling his works, and his first show in New England was held in 1978. He will be listed in the new edition of Who's Who in American Art.

He is president of the Copley Society of Boston, and a member of the Rockport, North Shore, Newton, Framingham and Concord art associations in New England. He recently joined the North Palm Beaches Art Society, and will be on their 1979 program.

All people interested in art are welcome.

Sandpiper Men Plan Father Time Tourney

Members of the Sandpiper Men's Golf Association will compete in the annual Father Time Championship with flights being broken into four age groups - 50 years and younger; sixty to sixty four; sixty five to sixty nine and those seventy and over.

Tournament chairman Tom Chapman indicated this year's event will attract a record number of entrants with more than 200 slated to participate.

Flight winners in Thursday's "match play-versus par" event attracted a record number in play which produced exceptionally low scores on the 18-hole Saints course.

Leaders in the First flight included Jack Early and Frank Blalock 79; Hank Small and Bill Jarrard, 80 and Sam Clinton, 82.

Second flights winners were Graydon Smith, Norm Krecke, Fred Schechterle, Will Ferrara and Bob Engelbert with the following sharing laurels among the third flighters: Russ Skinner, Oscar Rozett, Don Malcolm, Dr. Joe Monty and Ray Daigle.

Fourth flighters were led by John Ford, Jack Manry, Clete Kling, Tony Guarino and Bob Heller. Low score of the day was posted by Col. John Huncharek with 77 while Graydon Smith carded the best round against par. Other 70 shooters were: Blalock, Earl and Schechterle.

BIG CATCH--Michigander Ben Zahn, of Ann Arbor, took the limelight in the fishing circles last week, when he came back to the Snook Nook with this big baby. The bluefish weighed in at nine pounds fourteen ounces. While he was posing his prize for camera, two Michigan women came by, and said they weren't a bit surprised. "Of course he caught a big one," one lady commented. "Look at his license plate." (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

Fire Department begins annual appeal for funds

The annual appeal for community support for Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department goes in the mail this week, according to Fire Chief Joe Luciano. Some 1,100 letters are being sent, explaining the need and especially seeking "fresh blood" among donors.

"The older people of the community have always supported us, but many of them have died or moved away," the chief said Tuesday. "Now it's time for the new people to start carrying the ball."

He and department secretary Nick Flora have canvassed the area, in an attempt to get the addresses of new residents, he said, but he's sure many have been missed. He is making an appeal to those who haven't been reached to come forward with contributions to support the work of the department.

Thanks to the annual community, aid, the chief noted, the department has been able to provide excellent service to residents, both with men and equipment. The strong community backing has also saved the county taxpayers countless thousands of dollars since the department was founded 30 years ago.

Through donations, they have purchased six trucks, with an average cost of $20,000 each. The ingenuity of the volunteers has made even further savings possible. Two of the engines, which if bought new would have cost some $20,000 to $25,000, have been constructed on bare frames at a cost of less than $5,000 each.

Many local organizations and mobile home communities, appreciating the extent of service rendered by the fire department, make major projects of fund-raising for the annual drive. Civic organizations also are big supporters.

However, the gifts, big and small from individuals, are the barometer of the community's cooperation, Chief Luciano says.

"If the little guy who can't afford any more gives only a dollar," the chief commented, "it shows we have his backing and support."

All the money received in the annual drive goes for equipment and upkeep on the fire hall, Chief Luciano emphasized.

A welfare fund, which is used to help families burned out of their homes, is financed by white elephant sales staged by the department and auxiliary. Materials for one such sale to be held soon are now being accepted from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily at the department. Anyone with articles to donate but are unable to bring them to the station may call the department number, 334-2230, and arrangements will be made to pick them up.

THE BIG SEND-OFF--Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department secretary Nick Flora, who undoubtedly has a Charley-horse in his writing arm, hands Fire Chief Joe Luciano some of the 1,000 letters he's addressed in advance of the annual appeal for support from the community. The letters going into the mail this week make an especial appeal to newcomers in the area to get on the bandwagon. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

Courts are getting tougher on juvenile offenses

The juvenile delinquent in Florida is getting a keener lesson in the cost of breaking the law, under the new statutes written last year, Circuit Judge Dwight Geiger told the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club Monday at the Holiday Inn.

While not downgrading the importance of rehabilitation, the judge said "we've gone overboard" about it in the past.

"The new laws make him aware of the consequences of his act," Geiger said.

Introduced by program chairman Borran Major, Judge Geiger outlined the changes made by the courts which provide a fairer approach to dealing with young people running afoul of the law.

One of the aims, he told the Kiwanians, is to "strengthen the child in his home."

"Though we all know some juveniles who get in trouble with the law come from good homes," he said, "the probability of a child getting into trouble is much greater if he comes from a bad home."

Hence, the courts are making a greater effort to treat the parent as well as the child. Though children caught breaking the law are turned over to the Division of Youth Services, they are not sent off to correctional institutions as commonly as in the past.

"We no longer have probation, per se," Judge Geiger said. "Instead, we have a community control program. The youth stays home, he is not sent away but required to pay restitution of the cost of the damage he's done."

In other cases, curfews are imposed, to keep night-prowlers off the streets, and such restraints on personal liberties as revocation of the teen's driver's license are adeemed by the court.

"One of the best is to make him spend a weekend or two in the county jail," the jail said.

In case of the habitual repeater, the juvenile can be committed to confinement, but the sentence cannot exceed that mandated for an adult, "or until he reaches 19." In the past, the judge noted, the courts have occasionally imposed sentences more severe than those served on adults.

Judge Geiger agreed with most of the changes, except the one which rules that if a child can no longer be charged with delinquency if he is "incorrigible." In short, it is not against the law for a child to disobey his parents.

"I have some question about the wisdom of that," Geiger said.

One of the big outcries in past years has been against the juvenile of first time offender being imprisoned with hardened criminals, turning the prison cell into a "school for crime."

Now, the judge said, the ruling is that the juvenile cannot be placed in an adult jail unless he has been found guilty of an adult crime.

The young offenders, if imprisonment is required, are sent to training schools or to "youthful offender" facilities like the one in Vero, Judge Geiger said.

There are exceptions, he pointed out. In the past, if a juvenile was processed in the court for an adult crime, he might wind up back in juvenile court for another offense.

"Now the law provides that if a youth is once adjudicated for an adult crime, he can no longer come back into the juvenile system," the judge explained.

One protection that many juveniles have hidden behind as a shield against the public eye has now been removed, to some degree. In past years, it has been almost an unwritten rule that the names of juvenile offenders under 18 were not to be printed or released on the air.

This has not been entirely true, Judge Geiger said, and the new law spells it out: "Papers may print the names and they can be broadcast over the air, as long as they are not obtained from an official source.

Chamber to ask county for traffic light study

The Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, at Monday night's meeting, made a motion to ask the county commission for help in solving the burgeoning traffic build-up on Indian River Drive, a problem which seems to be getting worse every year.

The narrow two-lane throughway is three-laned for a short distance to the north and south at the intersection with Commercial Street, but the added lane doesn't accommodate all the heavy traffic flow that builds up, during the season. As a result, cars are often stacked up and stymied in a traffic jam as far south as Ocean Breeze Park.

The chamber, in hopes of solving the problem to some degree, is asking the county for a survey, with the possibility of putting a full stop traffic light at Ocean Breeze Park, now served only by a caution light, to be coordinated with the IRD-Commercial light.

The board also discussed the still-missing welcome sign which was to have been placed near the Chamber building, on Commercial Street. The sign has been pending for several months, but so far, nothing yet has materialized.

Jon Chicky, the new C of C president, gave out assignments to the board members for their various areas of study and responsibility.

Roosevelt Bridge north span is closed to boats and cars

As soon as a team of divers arrive (and they may be here by the time you read this), the Roosevelt Bridge in Stuart will be closed to all marine traffic for a period of several days until emergency repairs are made.

State Representative Chuck Nergard said Tuesday evening that he had just talked to state Department of Transportation official Bill Fowler and learned of Fowler's decision to halt marine traffic.

"Fowler said he wasn't sure when the divers would get to the bridge or how long the repairs would take, but he indicated they're to arrive soon and to work around the clock to make the repairs. He said he hoped the bridge would only be closed to boaters for a few days," Nergard said from his Tallahassee office.

Severe corrosion of steel supports of the drawspan was detected and a report on the inspection of the bridge recently reached Fowler. Nergard said when Fowler saw the report and read how dangerous the bridge had become, he ordered it closed for immediate repairs. The northbound lanes of the bridge were closed Tuesday morning, and the northbound traffic was diverted to one of two lanes normally used for southbound traffic. On Tuesday the north span was opened periodically for boat and traffic, but that will halt when the divers arrive. Traffic was reported backed up for miles on Tuesday.

Nergard said he understands "there is quite a bit of structural damage" to the bridge due to corrosion, and added, "I'm just glad no major accidents occurred."

The state representative said there is some question to when the report on the bad condition of the bridge was made, and he said he will check into that matter. However, he added that Fowler told him he acted to close the bridge as soon as he learned of its critical condition.

The northbound lanes of the bridge represent what was originally the entire Roosevelt Bridge when it was built in the 1930s. In 1963, another bridge was built parallel to the old bridge. Since that time it has been used for southbound traffic and the old portion has been used for northbound traffic.

Nergard said it is too bad that when the southbound portion of the bridge was built that it wasn't built as a high-span bridge. "Today, just about every major bridge built is built 65 to 70 feet above the water so you don't have to worry about boat traffic. But that's not what happened back then," he said.

Nergard said he is aware that the northbound drawspan has been closed for repairs on a fairly frequent basis over recent years and he said at an upcoming meeting of the legislative delegation, he'll support expected requests for a new, high-span bridge. "But, you have to realize everytime we talk to the DOT they're saying they're short on money."

Blues are biting, but other fish just can't read

BY SALLY LATHAM

Last week, the angling experts were saying a cold snap would improve the fishing.

This week, the cold snap has arrived, but the fish apparently failed to read the paper. They're still balking at the bait.

The cold weather, the reflection of those frigid northern climes that are sending snowbirds in our direction in record numbers, has been playing a yo-yo on-again-off-again game for the past several days. Last week at about this time, the temperatures were flirting with the freezing point, and the farmers and fruit-men had the smudge-pots on red alert. Fortunately, a stiff westerly breeze drove off Jack Frost, and the weekend was beautifully presentable.

High and low temperatures during the past week have been:

Monday night, when the mercury started a fast descent again, the predictors weren't quite so positive about what was going to happen, but the week's prospects again loomed on the cold side. Chances are, the Miami weatherman said, we can look for sweater and overcoat weather for the next few days.

The bluefish, those sought-after prized fish that make such tasty eating have been putting in appearances both in the surf and in the river, according to Tommy Stewart of the Snook Nook. Carl Mesder hauled 12 blues out of the surf, on mackerel, while Earl Russell bagged five blues totalling 35 pounds out of the Indian River south of the House of Refuge, on a Creek Chub Sleeper-Swiper lure.

Other surf catches for the past four days have been made by: Joe Ianieri, who caught seven blues and 10 whitefish on mackerel and shrimp; Tony Kublin, five blues on mullet; Fred Muller, two blues on ribbonfish; Frank Herpos, five blues on cut mackerel; Willie Cattlet, two blues up to four pounds, on mackerel; Armand Marcaurelle, four blues out of the surf on mackerel; Tom Hargrave, four blues and five weakfish, on mackerel; Toffy Battaglia, three blues on mullet; Freddy Hien, six blues on mullet, and Ben Zahn, a nine pound 14 ounce blue on mullet.

River fishermen have been doing well, when it's not been too windy, Stewart says. Ed Wagner and Pat Patterson bagged nine trout, wading, on Trout Touts; Lyo Ford, nine trout, on MirOLure; Roy Greenwald and Jack Prell, six trout, also on MirOLure; Oscar Dishman, four trout on Trout Touts; Bill and Ray Ditzel, 16 trout, two sheepshead and two weakfish on live shrimp.

Soroptimist plans awards

The Soroptimist International of Stuart will again present Youth Citizenship Awards to 2 students who will be graduating from public or private high schools. To be eligible, the students must not have reached their 21st birthday prior to July 1 of that year.

Criteria for the awards will be service, dependability, leadership and a clear sense of purpose. The Stuart organization will present 2 awards, $100 in cash for the First Prize winner and $50 cash for second place.

The application of the First Prize winner, however, will be forwarded to the Southern regional contest where the regional winner will receive $1,000. A regional winner will then become eligible for competing with 20 other winners for an additional finalist's award of $1,500. Application forms are available to Martin County High School seniors from the MCHS Guidance Department. The applications must be returned by January 15 to Mr. Cephas Gibson for MCHS students.

The awards have been established to encourage youth to develop the highest concepts of patriotism and cooperation in home, community, national and international office.

The local Soroptimist club will also give a $100 cash award to a Martin County High School business student judged outstanding by a committee of the club members. Business students who are interested in applying for this award should call Catherine Walter at 287-9391.

Letter to the editor

To The Editor:

In your Thursday, Jan. 4, 1979 edition, I noted with interest and marked personal emotion the touching story on David Hill II, a five-year-old victim of Spinal Bifida. In fact, his smile and your story motivated me toward my modest check book. But suddenly I stopped and thought for a brief moment about the announced $6,000 operation to enable little David to walk--and maybe even run--like every child should expect and enjoy.

The appeal to the public concern and conscience is commendable and understandable—but where is the conscience of the professional practitioners who demand such an enormous fee to direct their talents to this young man's physical problem!???

Has humanitarianism become an outcast word in the vocabulary and dialogue of our local medical community!??? I would like to think and hope that there is a dedicated humanitarian in our medical community, with the skill and talent granted him by God, who would perform such a personal service without primary concern for materialistic compensation.

In my own heart I know darn well that I would do it if I could--and I would--if only I had the professional skill and talent to do so.

Sincerely,
Ed Fessel

REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

QUESTION: I often hear about some of the great real estate bargains people have picked up. I've been looking for a bargain now for the past four years. I've been to about seven different real estate offices and looked at about 40 or 50 properties, but none of them is priced right for me. What happens? Do all the big owners buy the bargains?

ANSWER: There are really no steals or bargains in real estate. Income property buyers and sellers are a knowledgeable lot, and by using intelligent brokers just about all sales are made at fair market value.

I strongly urge you re reevaluate your investment criteria. Without a realistic approach to what can be acquired in the market, you might easily wait another several years. And by the time you adjust your investment demands, you will pay even more for your property due to continuing inflation. It's simply a matter of educating yourself to current prices and yields or forgetting about investing.

There are always sound business reasons for the exceptions you hear about. Often an investor will acquire a problem property and put it into shape. He creates value through courage and elbow grease. Upon looking back, his friends will say with great hindsight, "Charley really got a bargain." They forget that Charley stepped in where none of them were willing to tread.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-0747, or stop by:

The double-faced Tigers ...barely beat lowly Falcons

BY DONNIE WILKIE

WEST PALM BEACH "Basketball is a game of emotion," said Martin County High School basketball coach Don Wallen after watching his Tigers sleepwalk through a dull 73-61 victory at Forest Hill. "That's why so many upsets occur in this sport."

And one almost occurred in West Palm Beach Friday night, as the Tigers put themselves in a hole they could barely dig out of against one of the supposedly worst teams in the area.

"We knew when we came down here that we wouldn't have an easy game," said the always-praising Wallen. "They might be 2-8, but they played a lot better than that."

Indeed, said MCHS forward Moses Johnson, the Tigers were probably looking forward to their traditional grudge match with WPB-North Shore the next night.

It was Johnson who kept the Tigers from suffering a very embarrassing defeat. He and new arrival Wayne Wiley combined for 36 points and Wiley snagged down 15 rebounds to pace the Tigers to their fourth straight victory.

The upset-minded Falcons just kept coming, led by slippery guard Greg Jackson, who wiggled and weaved through the Tigers' zone defense for 28 points, leading his team in that department. But it was his leadership on the court and numerous assists which forced the Tigers to play as hard as they had to just stay in the game.

"Our play was rather lethargic," conceded the coach after the game. "But you have to remember that they have been through a very rough month and are very tired." Wallen also added that perhaps it was hard for his team "To come down" from the pressure-cookers in Orlando and St. Petersburg, where the Tigers played six overtimes in their five wins and one defeat. After all, Forest Hill is not the most respected team in the area this season.

In addition to Johnson's 20 markers and Wiley's 15, Charles Jones, the center, added 16 and Allan Raines, the weak side forward, punched in with 15.

Neither team, in fact, shot very well in the first half, but Forest Hill benefited tremendously from offensive rebounding underneath the basket.

Center Fay Hewitt scored eight points all after offensive rebounds in the first half, the reason for Forest Hill's 32-28 halftime lead. The Falcons shot 14-for-38 in the first half, while the Tigers managed just 15-for-35.

In all fairness, however, the Tigers got their act together in the second half, although it wasn't as visible on the court as it is in the statistics.

MCHS shot 50 percent in the third and fourth quarters, turning in identical seven-for-fourteen cards. The Falcons, meanwhile, although never shooting really well in the first half, did worse in the second, six-for-seventeen in the third period and six-for-22 in the last.

During this time, the Tigers outscored Forest Hill 20-14 in the third quarter to take their first solid lead of the night, 48-46. In the fourth quarter, the game remained tight until a Tiger eruption in the last four minutes.

Leading just 53-50 after four quick points from Hewitt and Jackson, the leaders took control of the game. Johnson hit a bucket and a free threw. Raines added a charity shot, and Jones and Eric Ankrom connected from the field with two more baskets. In between came two baskets by the Falcons, but now the score was 61-54.

Two free throws from Wiley. Baskets by Johnson and Raines. Two more free throws by Johnson and a basket by Wiley. Now the game was out of reach (finally), as the Tigers led 71-59 in the waning seconds.

There are two main ingredients that give a good team that extra little bit which enables them to go all the way, which by the way is the Tigers ambition.

The first is consistency, which the Tigers obviously haven't heard about yet, despite some good performances in Orlando and St. Petersburg.

The second is what they openly displayed Friday night. That is the ability to win when you don't play a good game. The Tigers did do this, and they might have destroyed a legendary saying as well.

If winning wasn't everything, but rather how you played the game, Martin County's corps might not have made it to Saturday night's game against North Shore.

...stop Mustangs

STUART How do you explain it?

On Friday night, the Martin County basketball Tigers looked as if they were suffering through a bad dream, barely managing a 73-61 victory over SPB-Forest Hill.

But Saturday, it was totally a different Martin County team-at least in the second and fourth quarters, when the Tigers did most of the damage that accounted for their 64-60 win over SPB-North Shore.

How could coach Don Wallen explain it? Very simple-he couldn't. This was an unexplained phenomenon, a boredom to stardom story. There was only one bright spot that was strong enough to shine on both games. In Wayne Wiley's performances on Friday and Saturday nights, he scored 22 points and led his team's Friday night rebounding effort with 15.

Wiley is a new member of the Tiger varsity, as he was academically ineligible through the first semester of school to compete in any sport. But immediately upon his joining the squad Friday night, Wallen inserted him into the lineup, an equivalent to giving a student a test on the first day of school.

Despite the suddenness of his arrival in the lineup, Wiley sparkled, "the only bright spot," said Wallen, in a weekend that otherwise was dismal except for the fact that they did defeat North Shore for the first time at home in many years.

The North Shore game started out just like the Forest Hill game the night before. Before Martin County's fans had settled down after a hectic pre-game build up of sound and a thrilling junior varsity victory, North Shore's "Mad Bombers" had taken a 10-2 lead and Wallen was calling a time out to try to stop the steamrolling Mustangs.

Nevertheless, the margin stayed pretty much the same throughout most of the first quarter. The Tigers could only manage seven buckets in twenty-one attempts from the field, as the score read 16-8, then 20-11 with just three minutes to play in the stanza.

But the Tigers started to narrow the lead as the quarter drew to a close. Baskets by Allan Raines, Wiley, and Moses Johnson closed the gap to 20-17, and after two baskets by North Shore ended the first and began the second periods, Johnson added two more baskets and Raines hit another to make it 24-23.

Later, after the teams traded buckets for most of the quarter, Raines made two free throws, the last of eight straight points for the Tigers from the foul line, and gave his team their first lead of the night, 31-30.

North Shore shot only six for nineteen from the field in the second quarter, and trailed 37-34 at the half. But after shooting just as bad in the third canto (6-18) the Mustangs found themselves ahead by three rather than down that much. Three for twelve third-quarter shooting for the Tigers helped the situation.

If there was a turning point in this Spartan-like battle, it came with 4:36 to play in the game. This is when North Shore's Derek Harper threw a pass to Martin County's Johnson, who in turn rifled it to Charles Jones, who made short work of the all-alone fast break. He nearly brough down the building,not to mention the basket, with a famed "in-your-face disgrace" slam dunk, narrowing the North Shore lead to just 52-52. Twenty seconds later, the Tigers ended their last reign as the trailing team, taking the lead with a Johnson jumper.

The Mustangs tied the score at 58-58 with 1:38 to play as Tim Allen hit a bomb from outside. But after Raines missed from the corner, Jones grabbed the rebound and on his second shot scored to put the Tigers back in front. He was also fouled on the play, and converted the free throw to make it 61-58. Harper made it 61-60 with 48 seconds left, and Wiley then turned the ball over to the Mustangs when he stepped out of bounds upcourt.

But despite the opportunity to regain the lead and perhaps to win the game, North Shore was not up to the task. Cedric Andrews brought the ball upcourt, then tried to drive the lane for the basket, but instead charged into Ernest McIntyre of the Tigers and drew a foul. Martin County then put the game away with three free throws as North Shore fouled in desperation.

The 64-61 win left the Tigers at 14-1 for the year, and placed them in the top spot among area teams. It also gave them a terrific bargaining point in the state's AAAA ratings. They are currently rated second, but could move up with the North Shore win and a victory in the Roy King-Sunshine Classic in St. Petersburg over the holidays.

But the Tigers, despite the ratings,do not yet have that possession of all champions-consistency. And that is what you need when you play in the state playoffs.

Licenses required for mini-bikes and riders

If it is a cycle, the operator must wear the proper helmet as well.

Any violation of the above is unlawful and both the operator of the vehicle as well as the parents can be prosecuted. The parents can be charged for allowing an unauthorized person to operate said vehicle. The operator could be charged with operating without a driver's license, no valid inspection sticker, unlicensed vehicle and no helmet if they failed to wear one.

The law also reads that no one under 15 years of age can be licensed to operate any motor vehicle in the State of Florida.

IRCC offers courses geared to children

Two courses geared toward the benefit of children are being offered this semester at Indian River Community College. One is a creative dramatics course for youngsters, and the second is an auxiliary Child Care Development Center on the Fort Pierce campus.

The dramatic class, which was begun last year, is entitled The Adolescent and the Older Child. An outcome of the training will be a play produced by the students, with adults as the actors and staff. The play will be performed at Indian River, St. Lucie and other nearby counties.

Assisting is Mrs. Charlotte Williamson, director of the Children's River Theatre in Vero Beach. She says actors, musicians, costumers and set builders will be needed for the production. Those interested may call Gerri Igoroshi, 562-7940 or Jaclyn Block, 567-2408 for further information.

The Child Care Development Center will be open to children of full-time students at IRCC on a first-come first-serve basis, for care of children two through five years old.

According to the center instructor, Mrs. Ethel Rosier, children must be potty-trained and free from colds or other communicable diseases. A fee of $20 per week, or $4 per day will be charged. For registration or further information, people may call the Educational Counseling Department, 464-2000, extensions 323 or 305.

FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS PRESENTS THE MARTIN COUNTY COLLECTION

Gilbert's Bar House of Refuge.

Perhaps our most famous local landmark, The House of Refuge has been a haven for seamen in distress, a defense post during the war, and now a museum and turtle sanctuary. With local and national support, the historic old house has been authentically restored.

As Martin County's oldest savings and loan and largest financial institution, we re proud of our roots. When you save at First Federal, your money is working not only for you but for the community, too.

This is the first in a series of sketches depicting our local landmarks. We hope the Martin County Collection will add to your knowledge and appreciation of the beautiful area in which we live.

'No Right' sign is up

Ocean Breeze

BY ERNIE CURWEN
Tel. 334-0756

The weather sure was varied last week, but it was 100 times better than shoveling snow in the bitter cold with winds howling, as pictured on TV; and 10 more snowbirds thought so too, making the total well over 700 for this season. They were: Roland & Mary Skillman; Tom & Rose Mazur; Ralph & Kathleen Rehm; Bill & Betty Cooley; Ethel Rafuse.

The "No Right Turn" sign is up. It is at the corner of Sixth and Pepper to prevent outgoing traffic from making narrow Fifth a main throughfare in order to avoid the Sixth Street "humps." Immediately, the folks living on Fifth were elated with the reduction of traffic. Now they are not crowded.

Last month some OBPers massed for free blood pressure check at the Martin County Health Dept. Clinic; many said they did not know about it until too late. So, to repeat, it is always on the third Friday of the month, Langford Field House, 9 to 11 a.m. Next, will be Fri., January 19.

It is a good idea to keep an eye on your tires. Mary Adrean found her car pulling to the right and brought it to the service station for examination. Nothing seemed to be mechanically defective, so they suggested a good tire examination. Mary then took her car to Firestone. The manager had the car put up on hoist, and after a quick look marked all the tires with a yellow slash. Oh, oh, thought Mary, "Now, I am in for it, I wonder what it will cost me." But, no. The manager turned to the mechanic and OK'd a complete new set of tires at no charge. So, it is a good idea to watch your tires, maybe you too are entitled to a new set.

Busch Garden bus trip, Feb. 19, see AARP column for details.

PARK EVENTS

The great annual Bake & Tag Sale for the benefit of the Jensen Area Samaritan Ambulance will be held Sunday, January 14, 1 p.m. in the Club House. Remember how each year there are a hundred or so lined up waiting for the doors to open, so they can be first at the baked goods table. There will also be a gigantic raffle for 6 baskets of groceries and a tv set, petit point painting, and three afghans. The committee is striving to make this year even greater than the $3,000 that was raised and donated last year.

Camera Club members, 76 of them, went to a bull fight, Thurs., Jan.4, when Hugh Garside showed them how it was done in Spain. It was very graphic, and Hugh said, "Very interesting, but once is enough." Next week, Sharon Kurgis will show her underwater marine life using the new projector. Jan. 18, Floyd Hastings will show New England Museums.

Shufflers are back on schedule according to reporter Fran Runyan, except the Buckaroos had an off-day because of New Year's. However, Petticoaters were busy with 8 or 9 courts going strong.

AMBULANCE HOSPITAL & OBITUARY

A generous donation to the Samaritan Ambulance fund was made by Ocean Breeze friends and neighbors in the memory of Axel Beck.

Irene Burgess, 26 S.W. Sixth St. is still in hospital for tests and examination. Also, Ruth Miles, 13 S.W. Sixth St. is in the hospital for a while longer, as she fell in the hospital bathroom and dislocated her hip. She will be there over her birthday, Jan.10, so send cards there.

Pearl Stiegman, of Bay Dr. reports that Mrs. Gertie Harris, mother of Mrs. Paul Barnhart, 25 Key Lime died last week in Sandasky, Ohio.

Fran Runyan, of Pepper St. reported that Loren Baker, ExOBPer died last week in Allegan, Michigan. Loren was very handy in the park for years, building many of the cabanas. He leaves his wife Opal at 218 Knapp St., Allegan, Mich. 49010.

RAMBLING AROUND

This year's newcomers probably are wondering about this columns, so it will be explained. It is written by Ernie Curwen, the guy with the rancher's hat riding the battered up old blue bike; from items picked up as he goes around the park on Saturday morning. So, if you have anything interesting to report, tell him about it as he goes around.

William & Florence Mausert, ExOBPers from North Adams are visiting Florence's sister Gladys Baier at 4 Bermuda. They lived on Sixth St. for years and now wish they had not sold-out, as they would like to stay here 3 months, but Gladys cannot put them up that long, as another sister is scheduled (need a small place for Feb. & Mar.).

90-year-old William has been a bus driver mluch of his life and well remembers driving a 32 passenger bus to Jacksonville from North Adams in 1915. It took only 21 days on old route 1, in second gear most of the way. William is just loaded with interestg stories, so drop by and ask him about the school teach who was sure pineapples grew on pine trees.

Sister M. Ambroseetee, now a retired consultant from Manitowoc, Wisc. convent is visiting her brothers, Earl & Irvin Sheehey of 11 Oak St. and staying with Loreta Wheaton on Banyan. Right now she is on a 2 year writing assignment, but in her work associated with the Federal H.E.W. programs, she has traveled all over Latin America. This is not her first visit here, as she likes to get out of the Wisconsin ice and snow, she finds OBP the best place to do it.

Joe & Ginny Jensen (will not take credit for naming the area) of 41 S.W. Fifth Ave., are new comers to the park. Their daughter, living on Linda Dr. (Skyline area) enticed them to come here and they are delighted. They come from Clementon, N.J., near Atlantic City. They took on 1 ack at the Casino and found it too frantic for them. Joe was with ITE Circuit Breaker Co. for years and everytime he sees a breaker, checks to see if it is one of his. Often it is. They have one son in Las Vegas another in Camphill, Pa., and the daughter right here-also 9 grandchildren and 1 great grandchild. So, sooner or later, they'll be having plenty of company, but right now they are going to take in the dances, bingo and shuffling.

Orval & Deedee Mertz of Almond St. were at the Figueiredo's Christmas dinner party, but before tht, they had some visitors. Oval's daughter Ruth and husband (Mr. and Mrs. Normand Goshert) of Fort Wayne, Ind., and their son Steve, who was at a telephone company convention in Tampa, came to visit.

This was the Gosherts' first trip to Florida, so in the two weeks they were here, they had to do it all: Disney World, Cypress Gardens, Lake Okeechobee, etc. They liked what they saw, and want to come back.

Again apologies, during this holiday time, there are more items than the column will hold, but keep them coming and they will be used.

THANK YOU

I wish to thank all my wonderful neighbors and friends of Ocean Breeze Park for their memorials, cards and kindnesses.

I also wish to thank the volunteer attendants with the Jensen Beach Samaritans and the nurses and aides with the Visiting Nurse Association for their excellent and courteous attention to my husband Axel during his illness.

Thank you all very much.

MOVIE MAKING seems to be getting popular around these parts. Last year scenes of a not-so-hightly-acclaimed flick titles "Empire of the Anta" were shot in Fort Pierce and at Seminole Shores on the south tip of Hutchinson Island. Several years before that, "Little Laura and Big John", starring Fabian and Karen Black, was shot in Stuart. Now, Port St. Lucie will be the locale for a James Bond film, "Moonraker", which is expected to do far better at the box office than the other two films. The photo above was taken at Seminole Shores as the camera crew was sitting up shop, for an "Empire of the Anta" scene. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

'Moonraker' river chase to be filmed here next week

BY BOB FRYER

If you've ever been pursued by a hulking, seven-foot, four-inch tall man with steel teeth, and survived, you have something in common with James Bond.

The hefty villian, nicknamed "Jaws," is just one member of a team of heavies that will pursue the 007 agent during a wild boat chase along the North Fork of the St. Lucie River.

A French-English movie production company will film the chase scene on the North Fork later this month, and will use it as a four-minute sequence in the upcoming movie, "Moonraker."

"Moonraker" is to be released by United Artists in July and will be the 11th James Bond spy movie made. But for freelance producer John Comfort, it will be his first Bond film.

Comfort met with local community leaders and the local press corps last week to outline plans for filming on the North Fork.

The chase scene, he said, will involve four jet boats. Bond will man the lead boat and will be pursued in the other three boats by "Jaws" and other villains. There will be boat jumps, and mock torpedo, mortar and machine gun fire. As Bond destroys two of the enemy boats, the chase will take him to the brink of a waterfall. Then, the spy who always has a gimmick up his sleeve will turn his boat into a motorized hang glider. He sails away as his last pursuer goes over the waterfall.

You say there are no waterfalls on the North Fork?

Comfort is well aware of that. Which is why the waterfall sequence is to be filmed on the Amazon River in Brazil.

But facilities along the Amazon didn't lend themselves to filming the chase sequence there, so Comfort decided to shoot that portion of the movie on a river resembling the Amazon. His film company, Lee Productions Artistes Associes, contacted the Florida Department of Commerce and were originally steered to the Loxahatchee River in the Jupiter area, back in October.

Reservations for the film crew, which at peak will number about 80 persons, were made at the Jupiter Hilton. However, when the firm began making final preparations for filming the chase scene on that river, state officials asked that they consider an alternative river. The Loxahatchee is a breeding ground for the manatee, an endangered species, during the months of January and February, Comfort explained.

So, noted conservationist and former assistant U.S.Secretary of the Interior, Nat Reed, suggested they film crew check out the North Fork. Comfort said the North Fork is an ideal place, that it's riverbank vegetation is similar to the Amazon, and that a host of state regulatory agencies gave their approval for use of the river.

Comfort's firm then negotiated with General Development Corporation for use of the North Fork Marina facilities. The moviemakers will bring in 17 to 20 boats, to be piloted by a team of British boatsmen who have vast experience in the movie business. The boats and film equipment will start arriving on Friday, Jan.12th, and the actual filming will be conducted on the river from Jan. 18th to the 31st. If weather conditions are bad, the crew may stay longer.

The star of the film is Roger Moore, who has played Bond in several movies, and who formerly played "The Saint" on television. His leading lady will be Lois Childs. "Jaws" will be played by Richard Keel. However, none of the stars will be here for the filming. Stand-ins will be used instead.

Most of the river sequences will be filmed within a mile north of the North Fork Marina. There may be some filming done a little south of the marina too, and it is likely that the filming of a boat blowing up will be made opposite the Sandpiper Bay Resort.

Though the crew will be headquartered at the Jupiter Hilton, much of the equipment will be kept at the marina. Security guards will be on duty at the marina 24 hours a day, and the public will not be allowed access to the marina grounds. Also, no local persons will be needed as extras in the movie.

Comfort and GDC officials stressed the point that numerous safety precautions will be taken to insure there will be no damage to the river. "There will be big fountains of water going up in the air during the explosions, but it's safer than it looks. We'll have a team of explosives experts from Miami who are used to this sort of work," Comfort said.

A team of para-medics and an ambulance will be standing by,and two state Marine Patrol officers will be on duty to make sure there is no damage to the riverbanks and to clear boaters and fishermen from the area before the chase sequences are filmed. Other than during the actual filming, boating traffic will be allowed to pass through the area, Comfort said.

As for disturbing nearby residents by the blasts from the explosions, Comfort said they should not be bothered too much. "It takes a long time to set these things up, but just a short time to film them. So, there should only be two or three bangs a day. It won't be a continuous sort of thing," he said.

The budget for the entire film is set at around $30 million, Comfort said, adding that he didn't know how much money would be spent on the river sequences, but that it would be "a lot."

In addition of the North Fork and the Amazon rivers, the film is also being shot in Paris, in Italy, and along the Argentine border. It is to be directed by Englishman Lewis Gilbert.

Two of the most recent films Comfort has produced are "Revenge of the Pink Panther" and "Tommy."

Fletcher urges public to attend and hear Simon

Everyone in the area who has a reason to be concerned about the pending renourishment of Martin County Beaches should attend the talk by authoress Ann Simon on Monday, Jan.15 at Florida Institute of Technology, according to Beach Renourishment Chairman Scott Fletcher.

Mrs. Simon, with whom Fletcher has been in frequent contact in advance of her pending visit, will discuss many facets of erosion problems relevant to the program in the planning phase by the U.S.Corps of Engineers, Fletcher said.

"Anyone interested in the renourishment program should make Mrs. Simon's talk a must," he commented.

Fletcher said the Corps has been slow in getting around to doing anything about the erosion problems in Martin County because they've been concentrating on the St. Lucie Inlet, which of course is "extremely important."

However, he said, he has recently received encouraging word from James Garland, Corps Chief of the Engineering Division, that the preliminary survey is expected to be completed "very soon."

Garland, in his communique, told Fletcher that a public workshop meeting will be held, to get input from concerned individuals and organizations prior to the beginning of the work.

No date was set, Fletcher said, but because of the wording of the letter, he is predicting it will be soon, either February or March.

Mrs. Simon, he noted, is extremely knowledgeable about erosion problems, having studied them all over the country. After the success of her first book, "No Island is an Island," she traveled the shoreline, on both the east and west coasts.

Her newest book, "The Thin Edge," could never have been written without "No Island is and Island," she told Fletcher.

Stevenson is featured at Art League meeting

The regular meeting of the Jensen Beach Art League will be Thursday Jan.11 at 10 a.m. at the First Federal Savings and Loan's Hoke Hall, Commerce Street. Members and guests are urged to attend. The meeting will feature a demonstration by Mr. Edward Stevenson. He will demonstrate the use of oils to capture various moods of the sea and sailing ships.

Mr. Stevenson began his pursuit of art at the age of 12 by attending the Washington School of Art. St. Louis and later privately with European trained masters. After World War I he pursured art studies at the Art Students League, New York. He carved a career in New York City where he spent 20 years. He spent 3 years cruising from New York to Cuba on his yacht Sea Eagle while on an art mission for a sports magazine. Then followed another navy assignment creating sea power presentations and portraits of 4 star admirals. Mr. Stevenson has painted through much of the Middle West and Eastern states and had military service during World Wars I and II as commander of 3 ships in the Caribbean and Asiatic Theater. He now resides in Rustic Hills with his wife Annabelle, an artist in her own right, and his favorite model.

Cooking Instructions:

There are several ways to cook spaghetti squash. We suggest boiling the whole squash for 45 minutes or steaming it for 35 minutes. You can also bake the squash whole along with your entree, or cook it quickly in a microwave oven. Place on a rimmed baking sheet and bake in a 350 degree oven for 1½ hours or until the shell gives to pressure: turn squash after 45 minutes. For microwave cooking, cook approximately 6 minutes per pound. Place on a paper towel and cook 15 minutes turning 4 times; let stand 3 minutes. If shell doesn't give to pressure, cook 2 to 3 minutes more.

NOTICE

A public hearing will be conducted before the City Council of the City of Port St. Lucie on Tuesday, January 30, 1979 at 7:30 P.M. in City Hall, Manigonda Boulevard, Port St. Lucie, Florida on the following proposed ordinance:

ORDINANCE 794

AN ORDINANCE REQUIRING PERMITS FOR EXCAVATION UPON ANY STREET, ALLEY, SIDEWALK, OR SWALE DITCH IN THE CITY OF PORT ST. LUCIE, FLORIDA, AND APPROVAL OF REPAIRS BY THE CITY ENGINEER; PROVIDING FOR CERTIFICATE OF INSURANCE; PROVIDING FOR PENALTIES; PROVIDING FOR AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

THE CITY OF PORT ST. LUCIE HEREBY ORDAINS:

Section 1. No officer or agent of the City, and no person whether operating under contract with the City or franchise, or indeterminately permit, or otherwise, shall make, or cause to be made any excavation in or under any street, alley, sidewalk, or swale ditch in the City of Port St. Lucie without first obtaining from the City Manager a written permit.

Section 2. The excavation permit shall be issued only upon a written application signed by the applicant, and shall describe the place where the excavation is proposed to be made with such certainty that the excavation site may at all times be readily located, and shall specify the purpose for which the excavation is to be made, and when the excavation is proposed to begin. In case the excavation is to be made by the City, or any of its departments, then the application shall be signed by the Superintendent of the department under whose direction the work is to be done. All such applications shall be numbered and filed with the City Clerk.

Section 3. If such excavation is and to be made by the City or one of its departments, the application shall contain an undertaking on the part of the person proposing to make the excavation that, in consideration of being permitted to make the excavation, the person will leave the street, sidewalk, alley or swale ditch in as good condition as it was in when the work was commenced, and that at all times the place where the excavation is made, will be properly guarded by day and lighted by night so as to sufficiently warn travelers, and will save the City harmless from any damages, costs, and charges that may accrue from the applicant's use of the street, sidewalk, alley or swale ditch.

Section 4. The person to whom the permit is issued shall be responsible for all defects in excavations occurring within two years from the completion of the work, and shall be liable for all damages resulting from any defects. The City shall maintain and repair all defective excavations during the two year period, of which it requires notice, and all permittees shall promptly notify the City of any defects occurring in excavations. The cost of maintenance and repair during the two year period shall be at the expense of the permittee.

Section 5. A record of all permits issued under the provisions of this Ordinance by the City Manager shall be kept in the office of the City Clerk, which record shall state the name of each applicant, the name of the person or Superintendent of the department of the City to whom the permit was issued, and shall also contain facts as to location, purpose of excavation and time when the work is to begin, which is required to be stated in the application, and this record shall be open to public inspection.

Section 6. When excavations are made in paved or unpaved streets and alleys, they shall be repaired in a manner as previously authorized and approved by the City Engineer. The City Engineer, before any work is commenced, shall have approved in writing the proposed method and manner of repair to be effectuated by the party authorized to make the excavation, unless otherwise specified by the City Manager who shall be the final authority. In case of any dispute as to the method of repair, the decision of the City Manager shall be final and binding upon the parties affected.

Section 7. Excavations in paved streets shall be made and filled in the following manner:

Prior to any such excavation being made, the City Engineer shall specify how such work shall be performed, as well as how repairs shall be made. Such specifications by the City Engineer shall be in writing. All materials used shall comply with the City regulations and specifications.

Section 8. Restoration of the surface of a paved or unpaved street, swale or ditch shall be done under the direction of the City Manager. The cost of replacing the surfaces shall be as determined by the City Manager in accordance with the schedule of charges on file in his office, and shall be paid by the person to whom the street excavation permit was issued upon completion of the work. The person to whom the permit was issued upon application to the City Manager may receive a written consent from the City Manager to replace the surfaces under City supervision. Notice must be given to the City Manager to replace the surfaces under City supervision. Notice must be given to the City Manager twenty-four (24) hours in advance of the time of the replacing of the surfaces and in no case shall the surface be replaced without an inspection on the job or the written consent of the City Manager being on file. Upon completion of the work and acceptance by the City Manager, the City's cost of the work shall be determined by the City Manager and charged to the person doing the work. The person who does the restoration shall be responsible for it for two years from the date of the completion of the work and shall file a written guarantee or surety bond to that effect with the City Clerk.

Section 9. Whenever the City Manager shall find that any work has become defective during the two year period, he shall give written notice to the contractor, or to his surety, stating the defect, the work to be done, the cost of it, and the period of time deemed by the City Manager to be reasonably necessary to complete the work. After receipt of the notice, the contractor or the surety must within the time specified repair the defect or indemnify the City for the cost of doing the work as set forth in the notice.

Section 10. Any person receiving a permit under this Section must have the permit at the place where the work is being done during working hours, and shall exhibit said permit to any Police or other officer of said City on demand.

Section 11. Prior to the commencement of any work by the applicant seeking the permit, the applicant shall provide a certificate of insurance to the City of Port St. Lucie at its own expense, for public liability with limits of not less than $1,000,000 and for property damage with limit of not less than $100,000 and for property damage with limit of not less than $100,000 and shall cover any accident in or on any portion of the area to be excavated.

The certificate of insurance shall be current and shall evidence policies issued from a company or companies duly licensed by the State of Florida and acceptable to the City of Port St. Lucie. In the event of the failure of the applicant to provide such current certificate of insurance, the applicant shall not proceed with any excavation and the permit, if previously issued, shall be revoked and if not already issued, shall be denied.

Section 12. Violation of any part or section of this Ordinance by any firm, corporation, person, or association shall be punishable upon conviction by a fine of not more than $500.00 or a maximum of sixty (60) days in the County Jail, or both, in the discretion of the Court.

Section 13. This Ordinance shall take effect ten (10) days after its final adoption.

Social Security Questions & Answers

QUESTION:

Social Security Questions & Answers

QUESTION: I heard that as long as ve worked some under social curity you'll get something when u retire. I'll be 62 this year and I've rked under social security for the st two years. Will I get any benefits?

ANSWER: No, you will not draw any nefits when you retire this year ecause you have only worked under cial security for two years. In order draw social security benefits you ed to have worked a certain amount time in social security covered ployment, the exact amount being pendent upon your age. If you had rked long enough then you would be titled to receive benefits. With your e of birth you would have to have rked a total of six and a quarter ars under social security to reveive irement benefits.

QUESTION: In order to get verage do I need to work steady with layoffs?

ANSWER: Benefits are not paid pply on the basis of years worked. order to get benefits you must earn certain number of what are called quarters of coverage". The maxium number of quarters of coverage at can be earned in a year is four, so for example, you were age 62 in 1978 u will need twenty seven quarters of verage. The quarters referred to are alendar quarters, January through arch, April through June and so on. ese quarters need not be consec- ve. They can have occurred over veral years. In your case, if they al 27 or more you're covered. For calendar quarter of social urity covered employment you rked through 1977 during which ir earnings totaled $50 or more, you rned a quarter of coverage. arters of coverage were earned rently beginning in 1978. It took of earnings to get one quarter of 978 in 1978 and for each $250 of rnings you got a quarter of coverage to four in the year. In 1978 you will ive one quarter of coverage for h $260 in earnings.

QUESTION: Does everybody have work under social security the same ount to get retirement benefits?

ANSWER: No. The quarters of verage needed depend on when a rker was born. Thus someone born 1940 or later will have to have forty arters of coverage to be insured for irement benefits. The formula s like this: One quarter of verage is required for each year er 1956 or after the years a worker ned twenty-one (whichever is the er year) until the time the worker aches age sixty-two or dies, chever occurs first. Of course, in er for a spouse to draw a irement benefit on the worker's rd, the worker himself or herself st have insured status and also be titled to a benefit. Being insured in o way is called "fully insured."

QUESTION: So, the more recent r date of birth the more quarters of rage you need for insured status?

ANSWER: Yes, generally speaking t is true. But no one ever needs re than forty quarters of coverage rder to be insured for retirement nefits. If you have forty quarters of rage you will always be fully ured.

Awesome turnout raises $3,631 for Samaritans fund

BY SALLY LATHAM

It had to be seen to be believed.

Without being there, no one would ever be convinced that hundreds of people would take a very large hunk of their Sunday to stand in long lines for nearly a half an hour to be jostled, pushed, trod upon and elbowed, all for the sake of a crack at someone else's unwanted closet-gleanings.

Yet this is what happened Sunday at Ocean Breeze Park. And perhaps it becomes a little more understandable when the extra ingredient is added–the fact that they were all doing it in the spirit of helping the Jensen Area Samaritans.

The gigantic rummage sale, which completely filled the big social hall at the incorporated mobile home village, went on from 1 p.m., the hour at which the hordes waiting outside every door were let in, until the tables were nearly bare.

When the dust had settled, and Mayor and Mrs. Gene Hoke had supervised counting the money, the Samaritans were on the verge of being richer by $3,631, some $500 more than the event netted last year.

The enormous sale of white elephants is probably unique in this part of the country, because of the nature of Ocean Breeze Park. The people of the incorporated community, most of whom live here six months and spend the balance of the warm months in the north, are for the most part veteran winter residents,and appreciate the value of the volunteer ambulance service. Hardly a week goes by without at least one, and usually several of its residents being taken to the hospital for varying degrees of illness.

And the service is free. Unlike other areas where ambulances charge anywhere from $40 to $75 per run, the Samaritans do it without cost to the person needing the transportation. They are able to do so because of community support by organizations, individuals and communities like Ocean Breeze.

Maxine Bailey, president of the Samaritans, called the windfall from Ocean Breeze "fantastic." She and her cohorts are hoping it will prove a precedent-setter for other communities in the area to follow.

Sewall's Point pays high for more River Road Land

The Sewall's Point Town Commission, trying to move as quickly as possible toward completion of South River Road, voted last week to pay $8,328 to pave and improve a 180-foot strip of the throughway in the area of Ridgeland and Amarita.

Engineer Richard Heilstrom, in announcing the bid by Dickerson Inc., commented that the cost was exorbitant, but "I'm not sure you'll get a break if you hold up any longer."

All the commissioners agreed the price tag was "fearfully expensive," but they saw no alternative.

"Let's get it done," said Commissioner Clinton Towl. "It won't be any cheaper a year from now."

The long narror peninsula on which Sewall's Point is located is now served by only one through street, South Sewall's Point Road. Since the town was incorporated nearly 20 years ago, planners have been pressuring the commission to complete South River Road, which is considerably higher than Sewall's Point Road, as an escape hatch in the event of hurricane or other disaster.

The hold-up, according to Commissioner Robert Russell whose bailiwick he town's streets fall under "e big problem has been in obtaining ights-of-way.

"It's about 75 percent through," Russell said this week. "We're negotiating for another quarter-mile ow, but it's still a prickly issue. For ome of it we may have to go to court nd condemn."

The stretch, a total of 1.8 miles from High Point to A-1-A on the north, has been recommended by county planners as a must to the peninsula. In case of flood or hurricane Russell commented, the point would be "completely out of business" without it.

In other matters, the developers of the near-complete Harbor Bay Shopping Plaza were taken to task for not complying with the town's edict of installing adequate outfall drainage for the center, as had been requested several months ago.

Attorney James Knight read a communique from developer David Gibson's engineer that they were "going to obtain a permit" from the Department of Transportation to correct the drainage, but the work still hadn't been done.

Mayor Ed Gluckler, irked by the lack of necessary action on the part of the builder, contended that the work should have been done months ago. No certificates of occupancy, he said,will be issued until the requirements are met. He called a special meeting for this week, edicting that Gibson should show up "with his attorney, his engineer and everybody else."

On the subject of the planned bike path, Gluckler asked the rest of the commission for permission to send out letters to the owners of land along the proposed route, seeking their cooperation in giving easements for the project.

The path, it was evident, is still a bone of contention among the commissioners. Commissioner Clinton Towl, who has been outspoken in his objection to spending "so much for the benefit of so few," agreed to the letter, seeing it as a way to "get reactions quickly from the people."

Commissioner John Guenther, who in the past has been cautious in expressing his opinion on the project for which the town has already budgeted $10,000, said last week "we need to know more about the costs, otherwise I'm for it."

Commissioner Earl Crawford, also on the cautious side, said he felt it important to get an engineering drawing of the project as the first imperative.

"But we must sound out the people on the rights of way," he commented, "and then get a price tag."

Letters of query were to go into the mail this week.

MMH eases crush with 5th floor

BY SALLY LATHAM

The red light in Martin Memorial Hospital's admitting office turned off at 1 p.m. Monday, less than two hours after the newly finished fifth floor was opened with due ceremony in the presence of delighted dignitaries from throughout the Stuart-Jensen-Port St. Lucie area.

The occasion was actually a double-header, beginning with honors extended by board chairman E.C.Wareheim and his cohorts to the hospital auxiliary in thanks for the new furniture gracing the facility's lobby.

Marian (Mrs. Vaughn) Monroe, president of the auxiliary accepted the expression of thanks in behalf of the auxiliary. The $10,000 for the furniture, she said, was raised by the auxiliary, not just by the group during her tenure, but "by two or three chairmen before me."

The auxiliary's next goal, she said, is to raise $5,000 for new drapes for the hospital waiting areas.

Hospital administrator Guy Cromwell interjected that the auxiliary's contributions also include an additional $35,000 in other current renovations.

Following the ground-floor ceremonies, the party proceeded to the fifth floor, where ribbon cutting was staged for the newly-completed 50-bed addition. While the fifth and sixth floors have been shelled in for some time, the overflowing hospial has had to make do with a complement of less than 200 beds until federal funding was available.

Wareheim, officiating at the ribbon-cutting, commended the many people responsible for their share in the project, with special thanks to R.C.Stevens, whose Orlando construction company engineered and architected the whole addition.

"For the first time," Wareheim said, "we have gotten a project completed on time."

The chairman introduced Mrs. W.A.C.Miller, veteran member of the hospital board and chairman of the planning committee for the fifth floor addition.

"There have been many crises," Wareheim said, "and Mrs. Miller has been the crisee."

The new floor, fully staffed, went into service at 1 p.m. Monday, raising the bed capacity from less than 200 to 252. When work is completed on the third floor, there will be 260.

Built at a cost of $1.5 million, the addition has two nursing stations, one serving 24 beds and the other 26 beds.

Cromwell guesstimated that half of it will be filled and in use by the end of the week, and the other half shortly thereafter. Although admissions during the holiday season were lower than anticipated, the hospital has been so full in the past week that only extreme emergency cases had been accepted.

Evinrude gives $10,000 to U.W.

The United Way of Martin County was given a considerable boost toward its goal of $125,000 recently, by a gift of $10,000 from the Evinrude Foundation.

The check was presented to Frank Walton, General Campaign Chairman, by Ginny Scranton. The generous gift brought the amount raised to date to $106,000.

Walton, assistant to the vice president and general manager of Grumman Aerospace Corporation, emphasizes the broad scope of the county helped by United Way money. It provides funds for the American Red Cross, Girl Scouts, the Association for Crippled Children and Adults, the Children's Home Society, Jensen Area Samaritans, Martin County Association for Mental Health, Indian River Mental Health Center, Martin County Branch), Tri-County Rehabilitation Center, the United Service Organization (USO), Visiting Nurse Association, and the Gertrude Walden Child Care Center Inc.

The annual drive began on Nov. 28, and will wind up its campaign efforts on Jan. 30. People wishing to contribute may mail them to United Way of Martin County Inc., P.O. Box 362, Stuart, Fla. 33494.

Author against destruction

BY SALLY LATHAM

Ann Simon, a soft-spoken professor's wife, is a keg of dynamite with a fuse set in the direction of the depredators of the world's coastal waters.

The New York author, whose most recent book "The Thin Edge" has caught the attention of ecology-minded people throughout the country, was speaker at a Monday evening seminar held at Florida Institute of Technology. She drew a nearly full house at the FIT Chapel, and left behind her a full complement of conservationists determined to join her crusade in doing something forceful to halt the rape of our shores.

Mrs. Simon's appearance here was sparked by Scott Fletcher, one of Martin County's more vocal conservationists. Fletcher recruited the backing of 12 conservation organizations as sponsors for her appearance, and they turned out in full force to hear what the author had to propose as the answer to the seemingly endless destruction of that "thin edge" which constitutes Florida's most valuable asset.

The author, who began her writing career on quite another track, told the audience she wrote her first book on the subject of the toll that industry, tourism and just plain overpopulation of our country's shorelines has taken when she and her husband took a summer home on Martha's Vinyard.

The resultant book, "No Island is an Island," sent her in search of corroborative evidence all over this country, and to other countries. Her most recent book, she said, couldn't have been written without the 1973 opus and the research it engendered.

Without being over-dramatic, she looked into her crystal ball to three alternative "scenarios" that American can expect for 1983, dependent on what action is taken now to formulate them.

The third alternative, she said,can be a coast held at bay against the onslaught of man.

"Most of the damage already done is irreversible," she said, "but with a concerted effort, it can be kept from getting worse."

Her major complaint is against offshore drilling for oil.

"Geologists have said that off-shore oil can provide the country with only a year's supply," she said. "Is that small amount worth the destruction of our coastline?"

Mrs. Simon's crusade, which is already working, is for a moratorium on all shoreline development. Already, she said, one central group is lobbying for government to halt off-shore drilling and further beach development.

She lauded the Martin County organizations for their actions to save the beaches. But, she said, no one organization can be effective without wholesale coordination.

"No single organization, no one country or one state can do it," she said.

The already-formed central organization welcomes the help and cooperation of all concerned areas, she said. She urged all of the Martin County groups to contact it, to help organize and coordinate the effort so it may have a significant impact on the congress. The address is:

Money coming for fire department

With the annual drive for funds on the part of the Jensen Beach Fire Department just a week off the ground, the public is already beginning to respond generously, Fire Chief Joe Luciano said Tuesday.

"Money began coming in the day after we mailed the appeal letters," Luciano said. "I don't know how they got their mail so fast."

"Some of them say 'thanks for doing a good job,' or similar messages of gratitude," he said. "It makes the men feel great to know they're appreciated."

This year, the chief is making a special appeal to the younger residents and the newcomers to the area for their support.

"The older residents have been carrying the ball for years," Chief Luciano said last week. "We want to hear from the younger ones, the newcomers to let us know they're aware of the service we provide."

improvements and equipment to make the fire fighting units more efficient whose lives and property are protected by the department. All the donated monies received go for

Chief Luciano emphasized that the letters were prepared in November, and many people came in to make their annual donations in December or earlier this month before the missives were mailed out.

"If people got their letters after they'd sent in their gifts, I want them to understand we weren't ignoring the donation. We don't want them to be offended," the chief said.

Many of the checks already received have been accompanied by heart-warming notes of thanks, Luciano commented.

Grant to expand Marine training at FIT

Florida Institute of Technology will be expanding its Marine training program in the near future, thanks to a grant of $68,000.

The money is coming from the Florida Sea Grant, according to FIT executive director Ernest "Tim" Tealey. The sum is being matched by local marine interests and large donations from marine engine manufacturers. The matching funds, supplemented by FIT, now total $64,000.

Tealey, in announcing the gift, lauded Larry Booth, head of the department of Industrial Technology, and Johnny Burns, instructor, for their part in following through on the initial concept of funding for the first year.

The money will establish a Marine Propulsion Systems training program, which will prepare young men and women for employment as marine engine mechanics, an area in which trained personnel are greatly needed, especially in south Florida.

"We will draw potential students from South Florida and also place these students in jobs within the marine industry in this same area," Tealey said. "We would also like to thank the many friends of FJT who supported us through out Technical Advisory Committee for their generous donations of both cash and equipment."

Voices sway Perry turndown

Perry Cablevision, in its attempt "decentralize" itself from its sister of public utility and to set its rates independently of the Martin County Commission, got shot down last week by a barrage emanating mainly from Jensen Beach.

The big boom came from Pine Lake Village, where members of the P.L. Men's Club staged a community-wide sweep to get up petitions against it.

Gareth Nesbitt, who appeared before the commission with petitions from Pine Lake, said the community only learned about Perry's attempt to get independently the weekend before the issue was to come before the commission.

"Between noon Saturday and Sunday afternoon, members of the Men's Club went out and got 355 names on petitions," he said. "It turned out that 201 of them were registered voters."

The men, "just a group of neighbors," had copies of the petition ready for each of the commissioners at the Tuesday official session. The contention included in the petition was that, as a monopoly, the cable service should be categorized as a public utility and should be governed as such.

The vote was unanimous against Perry's request.

"Jensen Beach had a lot to do with the decision of the commission," according to County Commission Chairman Frank Wacha. "Everyone who voiced an opinion was against it."

Wacha noted that Perry had been allowed an increase in rates only three months ago.

Another turndown was that of the Underwood Mortgage Company's request for docking facilities for River Club on the St. Lucie River west of Warner Creek. The request, Wacha said, was for 88 docks.

The commission also heard a request for a zoning change at Joe's Point, where a concern is seeking to develop a residential project on Hutchinson Island. The final public hearing on the subject is set for Feb. 27.

Freeholders to hear about Midport

The Indian River Drive Freeholders Association will hear a report from General Development Corporation officials Thursday night on GDC's planned Midport project.

The presentation is slated to begin at 7:30 p.m., with a pot luck dinner scheduled for 6:30 p.m. at the Walton Community Center.

In addition to the GDC report, the election of officers for the upcoming year is to be held.

GDC hopes to develop a 1,250 acre tract east of U.S.1 to the north and south of Walton Road. A total of 2,201 housing units are planned by 1987, yielding a population of 5,503. A large shopping center, and school and park sites are also in the plans.

Indian River Drive residents are expected to be affected by an increase in the traffic flow along the twisting, narrow road.

Rev. Brown is guest speaker

Rev. Dellwood Brown will be the guest speaker when the Men's Brotherhood group meets January 19 at the Jensen Beach Community Church. The dinner meeting will start at 6 p.m.

The topic of Rev. Brown's lecture will be "Characters I have met in the Bible that changed my life". Brown has been pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Ft. Pierce for several years coming to this area from Rockford, Ill. He also served in the Philadelphia area.

Women's Ass'n Events Told

The Jensen Beach Women's Association has cancelled the chicken dinner originally scheduled for Jan 19, but plans are full ahead for the Soup-Sandwich-dessert party set for Jan. 29 at the clubhouse on Sugar Hill.

The affair will begin at noon. The event will include an "I Made It Myself" fashion show and an afternoon of cards.

Reservations should be made by Jan. 26 by calling Irene Hunter, 334-0859.

Church Women United Meet at Prince of Peace

Beta Zeta to Sponsor Fish Fry and Fashion Show

The Beta Zeta Chapter of Phi Beta Psi Sorority is making plans for their annual Fish Fry and Fashion Show. These two events help the chapter raise money for their cancer projects throughout Martin County.

The Fish Fry will be January 20 at Langford Park, Jensen Beach, from 12 noon till 7 p.m. Tickets are $2.50, all you can eat, and will include fish, hushpuppies,cole slaw, baked beans, tea or coffee. Cakes and baked goods will be available. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from any Phi Beta member by calling 287-1903 evenings. MORE INCOME FROM REAL ESTATE

QUESTION: I am 35 years old. About two years ago my husband "disappeared" and left me with two young children. We are now divorced, and my income is limited to an at-home typing job. I do have $40,000 coming to me from an inheritance which I will be able to invest. I would be willing to live in an apartment. Could a real estate investment give me some additional income?

ANSWER: Without complete information about your personal finances, I will assume that the $40,000 will be the bulk of your assets.

First, I would suggest that you put your life insurance and savings program in order. Let's assume that you set aside $10,000 for savings and decide to invest $30,000. A conservative investment in an apartment house could provide you with some additional current income.

You might investigate a well-located guest house as a potential investment, since guest houses usually provide a higher return than apartment houses. You could generate this higher income and also be provided with a free apartment if you choose to live in the building and take care of it yourself.

In this way, you will have produced a high return on your investment dollar, a "built in" job, and shelter for yourself and your children.

Be sure to check with your lawyer to avoid any legal difficulties over the title of whatever property you buy—otherwise, you may find that your wandering husband may return for "his share." Good luck.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-4147, or stop by:

Welcome Center Real Estate, Inc., Port St. Lucie Blvd. & U.S.1 2600 E. Ocean Blvd., Jensen Beach, Fl.

I look forward to working with you.

FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS PRESENTS THE MARTIN COUNTY COLLECTION

Gilbert's Bar House of Refuge.

Perhaps our most famous local landmark. The House of Refuge has been a haven for seamen in distress, a defense post during the war, and now a museum and turtle sanctuary. With local and national support, the historic old house has been authentically restored.

As Martin County's oldest savings and loan and largest financial institution, we're proud of our roots. When you save at First Federal, your money is working not only for you but for the community, too.

This is the first in a series of sketches depicting our local landmarks. We hope the Martin County Collection will add to your knowledge and appreciation of the beautiful area in which we live.

Wright runs into numero uno

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Martin County 77 Fort Pierce Central 69.

But the score was not the important thing.

What mattered was that the Fort Pierce Central High School basketball Cobras had finally attained the level of respectability they have sought throughout the first month and a half of the 1978-79 basketball season. Under new coach Bill Wright, the Cobras have turned around completely after a shabby 2-6 start, and had won four games in a row until they ran into the number one team in the state's AAAA poll, Martin County.

Wright's partially rebuild crew stood at 6-6 overall and 3-3 in Suncoast Conference Eastern Division play as they took the court against the Tigers (15-1), but the St. Lucians fell just short of knocking off their top-ranked, cross-river rivals from Stuart.

But in losing by only eight points, and in fact leading for much of the game, the Cobras showed that Wright's plan for the program is working, and in a relatively short time perhaps even this season, they could become a Suncoast East power.

Next year will tell the story," said Wright before the Martin County game last week. "It will depend on whether the kids come out (for basketball), and whether or not the St. Lucie County School Administration will allow me to bring in the necessary assistant coaches I need to build a first class program. I think they will."

The Cobras suffered some early disappointments, including a one point setback against Glades Central. Palm Beach Gardens, riding in third place in the Suncoast East as last week began, also has beaten FPC, but Wright felt as if "we should have won that game. I think we're a better club than Palm Beach Gardens, but we'll just have to prove that the next time we play them."

Injuries and various other ailments virtually crippled the Cobras during their first eight games. After opening the season with a relatively easy tournament victory against Fort Pierce-John Carroll, the Cobras were struck down by an ankle injury suffered by big man Andy Chapman. During the next few weeks, almost all the starting players suffered from one type of illness or nagging injury.

Andy had torn ligaments in his right ankle," said Wright. Wilbur (Washington) got very sick before the Gardens game, (Luther) Sandifer missed two games and (Wayne) Titus missed three. I'm not trying to make excuses but it's hard to play when you're almost always missing at least two starters." But Wright added that Chapman's injury "might have been a blessing in disguise because we were forced to play without him, and we know now that we can play without him."

Wright is especially pleased with the play of guard Arthur Robinson. "Arthur has impressed me very much," continued the coach. "I didn't know if he would be able to change his game to fit what I needed from him, but he has."

Wright, who came to Fort Pierce after serving as an assistant coach at DeLand High School, said what has surprised him the most about the Suncoast Conference is "the number of real good young players. We should have the outstanding sophomore in the area in Wilbur Washington, but there are two or three others who have really impressed me," said the FPC mentor, citing Johnny Jones of Twin Lakes, Japeth Daniels of John I. Leonard and Bob Burden of Martin County.

With three losses already in conference play and teams like Martin County and Leonard ruling the area, it would seem hard for Central to think about anything other than the District 11 Championships in March, but Wright says his ambition "is to go out and win every one of our remaining games."

"But I'm real pleased with our progress so far," added Wright, saying that "the only big problem is attitude. We've had a few problems on the team with attitude, but we fired those players (dropped them from the team) and hopefully we won't have any more problems with it. We've got five or six players on the junior varsity team that I think could really be good ones. Some of them never even played organized ball before this season, so they've made good progress."

The people of Fort Pierce often use victory as an indicator, but there are other things, too. The kids we have now have done well in class and they've become good people outside of the school. Again, it goes right back to the attitude, and I think we've gotten rid of most of the problems."

If so, Wright found a few new ones against the Tigers. He found out just moments before the tip-off that guard Titus would not be playing due to illness, and after the tip, found that although the Tigers were flat after clubbing down North Shore three nights earlier, they still had another win in them.

The Cobras (6-7) got the hot hand once again from Robinson, who controlled the game in the second quarter and shot it out with the Tigers' Allan Raines. Both players scored twelve points, as Central maintained a slim lead at the half, 40-37.

Robinson finished with 26 points to lead all scorers on the night, and Sandifer pumped in 20, but the Cobras made just 12 of 35 shots from the field in the second half, and Chapman missed his last nine shots en route to a dismal 4-for-16 performance. For the Tigers, Ernest McIntyre contributed 20 markers, including 16 in the second half. Charles Jones had 18, Moses Johnson threw in 13, Allen Raines had 12 (all in the second quarter), Wayne Wiley scored 8 and Mike Meyer posted six.

"We just didn't get the ball inside," offered Wright after the game. "And when we did, we didn't get the kind of shot we should be getting. We need power shots, going up strong to the basket, no hooks or fancy stuff. Andy (Chapman) has been able to get inside in the past few games. That's why we won four in a row."

"We're going to find out just how mature we are tomorrow in practice."

And if the Cobras continue to improve as much as they have since the beginning of the year, the other teams in the Suncoast East will also find out how mature they are--all too soon.

Bond-Tilton to enter 24 hours of Daytona

One of the very best International fields of drivers, including Jensen Beach racers Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton, are set to take the green flag for the 24 Hour Pepsi Challenge at Daytona International Speedway on Saturday, Feb. 3.

After a disappointing season last year, when blown engines kept the Jensen team out of contention, Bond and Tilton are hoping for a good showing at the famous marathon race. The local racers drive a Porsche 911 in the GTU (small engine) class. In 1975 Bond finished first in the GTU class at the 24 Hours of Daytona, and in 1977 he and Tilton teamed up to take first place in the GTU division at a 250-mile Daytona race.

Other entries at Daytona have usually resulted in a finish in the top five for the Jensen team.

A new sponsor has been found for the Bond-Tilton Porsche, and details about that and the team's preparation for Daytona will appear soon in The Mirror.

Drivers from 12 countries and 23 states have entered the $100,000 classic in their efforts to win the first round in the World Challenge for Endurance Drivers.

Leading the list of entries is a two-car team of Ferrari 512BB's for JMS Racing Pozzi out of Paris.

These new design cars represent the first serious Ferrari sports car racing challenge since the legendary Italian company became a subsidiary of the giant Fiat complex.

Frenchman Jean-Marc Smadja has assembled a first rank team of his compatriots to drive the cars including Michael Leclere and Claude Ballot-Lena.

Japan's Mazda works has picked Daytona as the site for hte competition debut of their new Mazda RX-7.

Leading their effort for GTU honors is the reigning Japanese Endurance Champion Yoshimi Katayama and his younger brother Takashi Yorino.

One of the most exciting entries for this 18 th running of the nation's only 24 hour test of auto racing endurance is the Zurich, Switzerland based Lubrifilm Team.

The contender for GTO honors will see Angelo Pallavicini, Enzo Calerari and Marco Beanoli share a Porsche 938 in its Daytona competition debut.

More than seventy cars are expected to start this opening round of America's more prestigious road racing series, the Winston GT Challenge.

Included in the total is a near overwhelming group of turbo-Porsche 935's from Germany's Kremer Racing and Loos Racing; Italy's Jolly Club and his country's Barbour Racing. Interscope Racing, The Whittington Brothers, Sebring Promotions and JLP Racing.

The 24 Hour Pepsi Challenge is set for a 4:30 p.m. start.

Democrats Meet Thursday Evening

The Martin County Democratic Executive Committee and Democratic Club will have a "Neighborhood" meeting at the First Federal Savings and Loan, meeting room, in Jensen Beach at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, January 25.

This will cover voters in precincts 14-19 and 21. There will be a planned agenda.

Refreshments will be served. For more information, call Mardee St. Clair, state committeewoman, at 287-2411 days.

Jensen runners have different views of Orange Bowl Marathon

BY BOB FRYER

When asked how long the Orange Bowl Marathon in Miami was, Jim Shearer replied without hesitation, "Twenty-six miles and 385 yards."

Shearer also had another answer to how long it was: four hours and nine minutes.

From both answers, it was apparent that Shearer wasn't about to soon forget a single foot or second of that marathon.

For Shearer, who lives in Jensen Beach, it was his first marathon and was a day of great satisfaction.

But for another Jensen Beach resident, David Cameron, one gets the impression last Saturday could have just as well as never happened. He too ran the Orange Bowl Marathon. And, compared to Shearer's 679th-place-finish, his finish was much better. Cameron came in 247th.

But Cameron's expectations were higher than Shearer's. To Cameron, who last year ran the Boston Marathon, a 247th "wouldn't have brought you a 3,000th in a top marathon."

For Shearer, just finishing the event was enough. "My only goal was to finish and to be running at the end, and I did that, so I'm satisfied," he commented.

Both men agreed the heat and humidity were very tough on the 1,836 persons who started the marathon run through the streets of Miami. The temperature was at 90 about an hour after the start of the race, and the humidity was reported at 94 percent. More than 500 persons dropped out due to the heat and humidity combination. Cameron was nearly one of them.

"I ran a great race for 20 miles and then just died," Cameron said, adding, "I got hot. What else can I say, it was just extremely hot. There were people dropping out from the heat. Falling down. They had ambulances carrying them away."

Cameron says around the 20th mile, he felt himself weaving. Until that time he'd been running his normal pace. But the heat got so bad he stopped to pack his face in ice awhile. At first, he says, he couldn't even feel the ice.

After the ice break, Cameron went on to finish the race.

For Shearer, the pain didn't come until about the 23rd mile. "I ran with restraint the first 18 miles and felt good. I didn't feel bad until the 23rd mile. By then, I was just about out of energy, but I knew I was close enough that I was going to finish," he said.

Shearer's pace apparently didn't dehydrate him as much as Cameron's faster pace. "There were aid stations every three miles, but the spectators passed out water and ice cubes all along the way. When I finished, I didn't even need water." Shearer says he had a few sore muscles, but suffered no blisters.

Though the Orange Bowl Marathon was Shearer's first marathon, he says it won't be his last. "There are some short races coming up soon: a 3.5 mile run on the beach at Jupiter next Saturday, a nine mile run in West Palm, and I hear the Fort Pierce Lions Club will have a nine mile run in February. I plan to enter those and others within a reasonable distance," he said. However, he said he had no dreams of running in the Boston Marathon. "It would cost too much to go up there and enter it," he said.

Shearer has only been running regularly for the past 10 months, but says he's become addicted to jogging and feels bad if he misses a day of running. For the Orange Bowl Marathon, Shearer tuned up by running about 50 miles a week for the last month and a half before Saturday's event. He said on one Sunday, he ran from Indiantown to Stuart, a distance of about 20 miles. His wife took their car along for the trip, stopping at intervals to supply her husband with water.

When asked why he ran, the 32-year-old doctor's assistant, who works at the Indiantown Community Health Center, said a hefty friend in his 40's got him started. "This friend of mine in the National Guard was in his 40's and looked heavy, but he could run five or six miles. I couldn't go 200 yards without tiring. I decided if he could do it, I could, so I started running. Once you get the bug, you don't stop," Shearer said.

Shearer frequently runs from his Leilani Heights home to the beach and back. He gave some advice to local persons interested in running. That is: Be careful. Shearer says running in Jensen Beach isn't always a safe sport. "The roads are too narrow, the shoulders of the roads are too soft, and sometimes drivers won't move over. Indian River Drive is the worst," he said.

Shearer and Cameron didn't know each other when they entered the marathon. But when Cameron was contacted for results on how he fared in the race, he was told about Shearer's entry. "Maybe we'll have to get together for some running," Cameron said.

JIM SHEARER came in 679th among more than 1,800 persons who competed in the 26 mile, 385 yard Orange Bowl Marathon through Miami streets last Saturday. Shearer, a Jensen resident, said he wasn't concerned with the position he finished the race in, just the fact that he finished. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Major cultural events set for Elliott

Music lovers in the Jensen-Rio-Hutchinson Island area will have the opportunity to enjoy an olio of opera on Feb. 11, when members of the Treasure Coast Opera Society, Inc., will present a varied program at Elliott Museum.

Star of the performance, which will begin at 7:30 p.m., will be Carlos Barnena, opera society director who has soloed in opera halls across Europe and through the United States. With him will be several other top-quality singers from throughout the Treasure Coast area.

Early reservations are recommended, according to Elliott Museum director Janet Hutchinson, because seating space is limited. They may be made by calling 287-4266.

Also on the spring schedule of entertainment is a performance of London's "Touring Company of Two," with Sylvia Read and William Fry as the "Two." They will do an adaptation of Jane Austin's "Pride and Prejudice."

The show is scheduled for Friday, March 16. Early reservations are recommended.

F.I.T. investigates whale beaching

A dead, 10-foot-long pygmy sperm whale was found on the beach near the Martin-St. Lucie County line recently.

Dr. Randall Hogg of F.I.T. was notified by Dr. Dan O'Dell of the NOAA marine mammal program in Miami. F.I.T. is participating in the program and is responsible for reporting whale, dolphin and manatee beachings in Martin County. The animal was examined on the beach and then transported by truck to F.I.T.'s Jensen Beach campus where an autopsy was performed by Drs. Hilton and Hogg and several F.I.T. students.

The animal was determined to be a young adult male freshly dead of unknown causes. No wounds were apparent on the body with exception of superficial abrasions resulting from the beaching.

The heaviest concentration of skin abrasions was on the head and fore parts of the body. A large number of parasites were found in the blowhole and mouth as well as the interior of the head.

Parasitic infections of the balance organs of the ears are thought to be the cause of mass strandings of whales such as are commonly reported in Florida.

Classes in marine ecology and parasitology at F.I.T. will be examining the remains of the whale for any further clues as to the reason for death. Tissue samples will be sent to the NOAA Miami labs for analysis. The carcas was buried on the F.I.T. campus and after a period of time will be dug up so that students can assemble the skeleton for a display.

IRP's Men's Tennis Team Opens Season with a Win

Indian River Plantation's men's tennis team opened the 1979 Treasure Coast League season with a 5-3 win over Jupiter Ocean Racquet Club Saturday at the Hutchinson Island resort.

Visiting Jupiter took the opening match on a 6-1, 3-6, 6-3 victory by Rick Hutchenson and Lon Thompson over Bill Oughterson and Steve Wiulich, but IRP evened the eight-match series when Mike McBride and Charley Church topped Bill Exeter and Len Sugel, 6-0, 6-4. IRP's Bill Dunne and Val Considine downed Pete Charon and Ernie Kuonen, 6-4, 6-3, while, on the next court, Dick Banaszak and Uppy Moorehead stopped Tomburns and George Stanislaw of the Plantation, 6-3, 6-4.

Fred Hill and Brownie Young scored Jupiter's third victory by beating Cyrus Duvall and Bill Pate, 6-2, 6-2.

The Plantation's match-clinching victories came when Rawdon Myers and Evan Sax defeated Romeo Giroux and Doug Blocksma, 6-4, 6-3; Ed Wiulich and Lee Caroll outlasted Jim Barlow and Bill Dawson by identical 7-5 scores; and Ralph Briggs and Franz Lushas downed Ty Matlack and Gerry Rossow in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4.

Ocean Village sponsoring second annual art festival

The natural beauty of Hutchinson Island will be the subject again this year of a March outdoor art festival sponsored by Ocean Village, the island's 120-acre oceanfront community just south of Ft. Pierce.

Joel L. Krchnak, general manager of Ocean Village, has announced plans for the art competition and show to include categories in both amateur and professional photography and painting.

The event is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, March 17 and 18. Cash prizes in each category and a $250 best-of-show award will be given to winners selected by an independent panel of judges. No fees will be charged for entry to the competition.

To enter the competition, artists and photographers must depict a scene on location at Ocean Village in at least one of their entries. According to Krchnak, the native birds, animals and ocean breakers found along the 3,000 foot dune line should provide an interesting array of subject matter for local artists.

All work will be on display for public viewing and sale, offering a special interest to those wishing to purchase original art highlighting the area in which they live.

Over fifty artists displayed creative photographs and both oil and watercolor paintings at last year's event - several of which were purchased for Ocean Village's private collection.

Ocean Village, a joint-venture community of Gulf Oil Real Estate Company, is announcing plans at this time to provide contestants sufficient time for preparation. Interested persons should contact Karen Dye at The Impact Group, which is handling the event for Ocean Village. The telephone number is 287-1990 during the day or 464-9295 evenings and weekends.

We didn't want to talk about it.

It was only after we realized that our greatest satisfactions in life have come as a result of advance planning that we decided to plan for the inevitable . . . our own funerals. And what we found was quite interesting.

YOU CAN ELIMINATE INFLATIONARY EXPENSES

Having met rigid state requirements the Aycock Funeral Homes are among a very select group permitted to offer a service known as the "Pre-need Trust Plan." This unique service provides you the opportunity to preplan the funeral of your choice eliminating any cost increases due to inflation.

ALL PRE-NEED TRUST PLAN PAYMENTS ARE 100% REFUNDABLE

You may choose to prepay the full cost of the funeral now or arrange for convenient, affordable installment payments without any finance charges. Either way, should you move to another area or change your mind for any reason every cent you have invested in the Aycock Pre-need Trust Plan will be refunded.

OTHER COST SAVING SERVICES FROM AYCOCK FUNERAL HOME

Burial or Cremation . . .?

This is a question that, in most cases, is best left to the family. We will gladly discuss the features of both at your request. If your final decision favors cremation, we are the only funeral home in Martin County which has its own crematory. This too represents a savings for you in that it eliminates the expense of transportation to and from an out of town crematory.

CASKET RENTAL

No longer is there the need to purchase a casket for temporary use in the case of a cremation following the viewing and funeral service. The Aycock Funeral Homes' casket rental plan provides the use of a top quality casket at a fraction of its purchase price.

YOUR RIGHT TO KNOW

Eventually we are all affected by the planning or lack of planning of funeral requirements. You are entitled to know all the facts before the need arises. We welcome the opportunity to answer your questions. Please call for an appointment.

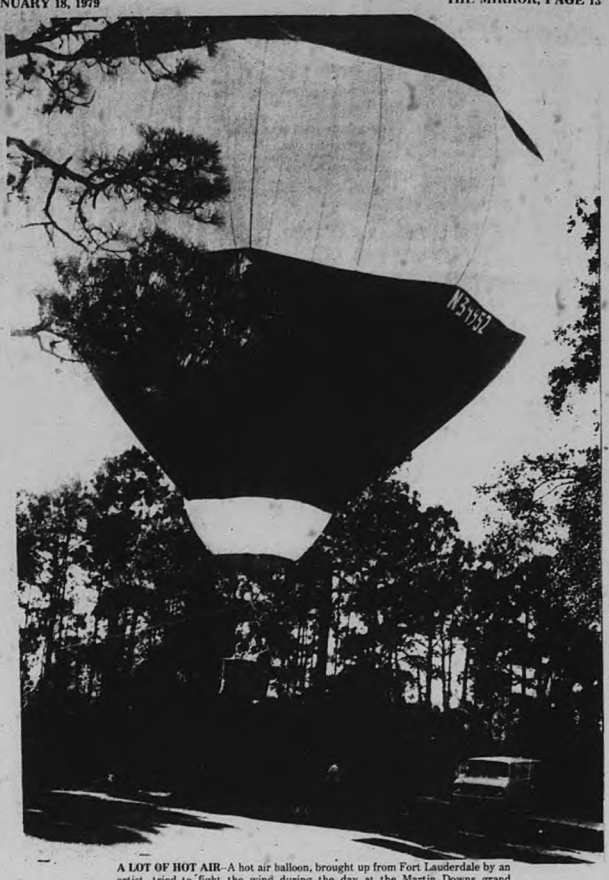
That vast acreage west of Palm City across from the Turnpike entrance combined all the elements of a county fair, a carnival and high-level sales pitch Saturday, when Martin Downs, the county's newest and largest residential development center, showed off its wares to the public.

The highlight of the day was the official dedication of a beautiful, boulevarded section of highway to the county. The 2.9 mile stretch, built at a cost of $3 million by developers First Southern Holdings of Palm Beach, is the arterial center of what is planned to become a vast community of luxury homes. The first phase, Crane Creek, was the prototype show-off for the hundreds of visitors who turned out for the gala promotion.

NOT TOONERVILLE BUT LOLLY–Lolly the Trolley, an attraction imported from Fort Lauderdale, was the most popular conveyance on Saturday, at the grand opening of Martin Downs, luxury housing development west of Palm City. The trackless trolley took visitors to all parts of the sprawling country club complex.



A LOT OF HOT AIR–A hot air balloon, brought up from Fort Lauderdale by an artist, tried to fight the wind during the day at the Martin Downs grand opening, but made it off the ground only a couple of times. Here it was caught by camera doing its thing with a basket-full of eager boys, in mid-afternoon. The big bag of wind collapsed shortly thereafter, but it was fun while it lasted.

MUSICAL AGGREGATE–Jensen Beach and Port St. Lucie were well-represented at Saturday's gala opening of Martin Downs, new country-club housing development west of Palm City. They are, from left, Musician Gene Hoover of Port St. Lucie, who just finished an engagement at the Hilltop in Fort Pierce, Herb Wamnes of Jensen Beach, a familiar entertainment figure at area spots including the Outrigger, Mrs. Wamnes, their son Ralph with their granddaughter Sandra Field in his arms. They were caught enjoying the good sounds of Andy Bartha and his group.

DIXIELAND WINS OUT–One of the most popular spots in Saturday's entertainment tent parade at the Martin Downs opening was the pavilion where Fort Lauderdale's Andy Bariha band performed. Andy (at right, back to camera,) kept the joint jumping with favorites from the Thirties and Forties.

POPULAR CAROUSEL–Another of the many attractions at the Saturday grand opening of Martin Downs, luxury housing development opening up west of Palm City, was the merry-go-round, which after its delay in starting, packed aboard adults as well as children. As can be seen, it was as much fun to watch as it was to ride.

Story and photos by Sally Latham

The visitor coming into the remote scene, isolated from metropolitanism by occasional farms and fields of grazing cattle, got a pleasant surprise on arrival. Activities were centering around five gaily striped tents containing all sorts of food and fun, including hot dog stands,ice cream vendors, popcorn and cotton candy machines, and even real live Dixieland bands.

Andy Bartha, well-known Dixielander from Fort Lauderdale and pompano Beach, held sway with his sextet in one tent, while Billy Butterfield, classic great who is now traveling with his combo all over the world, was the center of attention under a tent by the sales office.

For the kids, a merry-go-round piped its carousel, and over at the country club, a Fort Lauderdale artist was abortively trying to take the kids up in a big hot-air balloon. The latter made only one or two ascents, then gave up because of the winds. But the kids loved it while it lasted.

With the adults, the hit was "Lolly the Trolley," a trolley-without-rails which carried passengers on sight-seeing jaunts around the development.

Lolly and the balloon were among the attractions of the day which cost the developers at least $25,000, one of the owners estimated.

The day also gave the public a chance to rub elbows with the wheels involved in the 2,250-acre development. Thomas E. Lewis, co-owner with Peter D. Cummings in First Southern Holdings, was there, as were Don Killoren, project coordinator,Don Ricci, sales director, and Phillip Fisher, director of the building program.

Crane Creek, which already has a golf course and a clubhouse, is the first phase of the overall project, Lewis told The Mirror. When it is complete, phase two will get underway, then followed by phase three. Each home built, he said will be on a minimum of one acre.

Stresau, Smith and Stresau of Palm City are the landscaping architects. Charles Ankrom of Stuart is the Crane Creek golf course architect, and Fenton, Hoon and White of Stuart is racquet club architectural firm.

British Ryder Cup player, John Garner took third with a 73 and George Will, who has had 3 victories over Arnold Palmer in Ryder Cup games, shared fourth with Scot David Huish, shooting a 74.

Hedley Muscroft, who with his team of amateurs won the Pro-Am held earlier this week at Sanpiper Bay, was unable to play due to breaking a bone in his right foot. Said Muscroft, "No pun intended, this is a bad break, as I was really playing well and thought I had a good chance of coming in first."

The Wilderness course was so wet due to the constant rain, that at the last minute, electric carts were not allowed due to the damage they might do to the fairways. However, the amateur players came to the rescue and gladly took on the role of caddy for their professional countrymen.

Official recorder of the tournament was Colin Snape, secretary of the British P.G.A. Said Snape, "We hope to make this an annual event at Sandpiper Bay. The courses are superb and the people and the facilities are tops." Everyone agree, that even with the rain, it was still much better than being in the cold weather they left back home in England.

G-S cookies

The girls in green are about to be knocking on your door again. It's Girl Scout Cookie time.

The Palm Glades Girl Scout Council will kick off its 1979 annual cookie sale on Feb. 1, and will continue through Feb. 12. The sale provides the girls with a learning experience, at the same time helping provide the necessary funds for the council to improve and expand the program and facilities.

The seven varieties of cookies this year include a new Country Oats and Nut Crisps. The local troops may be contacted by calling Miriam Harris, 286-3746, or Peggy Lyon, 286-0776.

Famous chaplain will be God, Country Day speaker

Again this year, the God and Country Day committee has secured a highly noted guest speaker for the community event which will take place Feb.25 at Florida Institute of Technology.

The speaker will be the Rev. James David Ford, chaplain for the U.S.House of Representatives. Virgil Rathbone, spokesman for the committee, said the confirmation came this week. The Rev. and Mrs. Rathbone will fly in on Feb 23 and will be here for the weekend, Rathbone said.

The annual patriotic celebration has been sponsored for the past five years by All Saints Episcopal Church and the American Legion Post 126. It has become increasingly important in scope, embracing nearly all the service organizations in the area--the Veterans of Foreign Wars, World War I veterans, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and several others.

Again this year, Rathbone said this week, the U.S.Navy Band from Orlando will be here to perform a concert, and nationally-known country music star Bobby Lord will sing.

FIT received grant for Marine Center

Ernest E. Tealey, executive director of Florida Institute of Technology's Jensen Beach Campus announced today the receipt of a grant of $50,000 from the William G. Selby and Marie Selby Foundation.

Marvin F. Vordenburg, of the Board of Trustees of the Foundation notified Tealey of the grant which will be used for the completion of the Marine Science Center at the Jensen Beach Campus.

In making the announcement, Tealey noted that this grand was the latest of a series of grants from the Foundation dating back to 1972.

"The completion of the Marine Science Center will enable us to carry on our mission of educating young men and women for careers in marine science," he said. "We would like to acknowledge the support of the William G. Selby and Marie Selby Foundation as being instrumental in the success of our marine science programs."

Sewall's Point gives go-ahead to Harbor Bay Plaza developer

BY SALLY LATHAM

A meeting called as somewhat of an impatient show-down on the part of Sewall's Point town fathers last week became a peaceable kingdom giving the go-ahead to the developers of the nearly-completed Harbor Bay Shopping Plaza.

The initially-apparent thorn in the flesh of the town commission was storm drainage, which was supposed to have been worked out and completed months ago with the cooperation of the Department of Transportation. The drainage ditch, located on the state road right of way at A-1-A and Sewall's Point Road, had been delayed by lack of communication between the project engineers and DOT, which earlier had hedged on the responsibility of maintaining the necessary project.

At the regular January meeting two weeks ago, Mayor Ed Gluckler edicted that developer David Gibson and his team be present at last Wednesday's meeting.

Harbor Bay architect Franz Joseph Shropp, engineer Ken Ferrari, and attorney George Ord, were all present, along with Gibson and soon set the commission's mind at rest that the project was under control.

Town Engineer Richard Hellstrom, examining the plan as presented by Ferrari, grudgingly accepted it.

"It will be a nuisance to maintain," Hellstrom said, "but considering what we have to work with today, I doubt if I could do better myself."

The outcome of the meeting was the granting of the Certificate of Occupancy for the center to Developer Gibson, after the latter assured the Mayor and building commissioner John Guenther that the signs and lighting for the center would be aesthetically acceptable.

Gibson said some of the shops which have contracted for occupancy in the center are shooting for a February opening date. Thus far, 16 different concerns have signed up in the 30-shop capacity center.

The biggest, and most exciting to most people eager for it to open, is a Foxfire Restaurant, which will have a large dining capacity, and a cocktail lounge with entertainment. Its manager, Jim Neff of Lakeland, has indicated he wants to open in March, Gibson said.

Others under contract are: The Baker's Rack, a kitchen accessory shop with headquarters in Juno; the Optical Showcase, a fashion eyewear shop now located in Oakbrook Square; Harold Grant, a men's and women's apparel store out of North Palm Beach; The London Shop, an import gift establishment;

Also Lilly Pulitzer, womens sportswear; Murphy's of Vero Beach, men's wear; The Thimble Boutique, young women's and men's wear; Worrell's Interiors, homebases in Michigan; Shades of Yogurt, a health food shop combined with a sandwich, wine and beer emporium; The Gate, a gift shop; Gattles, bath and linen shop out of Fort Lauderdale; Andre's Hairstyling; Lars Ltd, fine china out of Royal Poinciana Plaza, Palm Beach; Stuart Art Gallery, and the Biscayne Federal Savings and Loan Association of Miami.

Gibson chose not to comment on other possibilities that might be coming in. Although the commission has finitely banned any "fast food" shops, several of the Sewall's Point residents have expressed hope that among them might be a small grocery of some nature.

Said one, following the meeting, "We need one. Now, we have to either drive all the way up to Jensen or cross the bridges to get a loaf of bread."

TRIMMING FOR PAINTING--The final touches were being put on the Jensen Beach welcome arch Tuesday, in advance of the final coats of paint which will finish the repair job that has been two years in the doing. 'Shangri La' building for Hospital Ball

The Invitation Committee area chairmen for the Martin Memorial Hospital Ball swung into action at a coffee meeting held earlier this month at the home of Mrs. Thomas H. Thurlow, Sr., co chairman of the ball.

The group is part of the overall hospital fund drive which is climaxed each year by the Hospital Ball. This year's event, with a Shangrila theme, will be held on March 10 at Sandpiper Bay Resort.

Mrs. Thurlow was assisted in distributing invitations by Mrs. Vaughn Monroe, Hospital Auxiliary president; Mrs. Dale Hudson, secretary of the ball committee and Mrs. Thomas H. Thurlow, Jr.

Invitations will be mailed at the end of January by the area chairmen. In the event that anyone wishing to attend the ball doesn't receive an invitation, tickets may be procured by calling Mrs. Thurlow at 287-1544 or the Hospital Auxiliary office at 287-5200.

Contributions in any amount from the general public will be gratefully received by the Hospital Fund 1979, P.O. Box 627, Stuart. All funds raised will be used for construction, expansion and equipment at the hospital and are tax deductible.

Protrusion confusion is nipped by commission; grey remains

The much-talked-about Jensen Beach welcome arch, this week in its final stages of repair after two years of hiatus following the fatal accident which destroyed one side, suddenly became a veritable school for scandal on Tuesday.

First, an irate contingent of residents began complaining indignantly that its new colors weren't true to the Jensen Beach tradition. The Jensen colors, they complained, are blue and white, and the painters were about to coat it with gray and white.

Then, at the last moment, a Victorian-minded resident shocked by what appeared to be an unseemly resemblance to intimate parts of the female anatomy, demanded that the points atop the domes be removed for propriety's sake.

The county commission, while not given to prudery, quickly changed the Tuesday work orders to include removal of the up-thrusting dome points.

"We performed a slight mastectomy on the domes," County Commission chairman Frank Wacha observed with tongue in cheek.

But on the matter of colors, the commission held its ground.

"We've used mostly tan and brown on the causeway," Wacha told the Mirror. "The neutral colors hold up better under the sun. The blue fades."

Hence, when the arch is complete, which it should be at this reading, it is to be demure in both hue and form--grey-white and blueless--and pointless.

Jensen boy critically wounded by shotgun

Nine-year-old Gary Lambie of Tahatti Street in Tropical Acres was reported in critical condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami Tuesday following a shooting accident around 6 p.m. Monday, Jan. 21.

Martin County Sheriff's officials report Lambie and a 12-year-old companion were walking through woods next to Tropical Acres when the older boy, who was carrying a loaded 1410 shotgun, stumbled over a root. The gun went off, striking Lambie in his face.

The boy was rushed to Martin Memorial Hospital, then transferred by helicopter to Jackson in Miami late Monday evening. A spokesman at the Sheriff's Department said it is feared the boy may be blind if he survives.

PSL man foils robbery try at Jensen Beach

Two armed robbery attempts were reported at Jensen Public Beach over the weekend, and in both cases, they didn't go as the robbers planned.

A Port St. Lucie man, Clark Matthews, 33, of 325 N.W. Curtis Street was the intended victim of the most recent robbery attempt. Around 3 a.m. Sunday he was in the public rest room at the beach when a man with a 9 mm Colt revolver approached him, and ordered Matthews to throw his wallet on the floor.

Matthews told the robber that his wallet was in his car. As the robber and another man, believed to be an accomplice of the robber, turned to head for the car, Matthews grabbed the gun. The would be robbers fled on foot.

Sheriff's officials say the gun, which Matthews wrestled away from the robber, was unloaded. They also report that it had been reported stolen in St. Lucie County.

The first armed robbery of the weekend occurred around 3:45 a.m. Saturday when Gary Blakesley returned from the rest room to find a man standing next to his car. The man asked for a ride to Stuart, but when he got in the car, he pulled a gun on Blakesley and asked for his money.

Blakesley said he didn't have any money, and after Blakesley emptied his pockets and showed him an empty wallet on the sun visor, the man pointed the gun at Blakesley's head and again demanded money. Blakesley pushed the gun away, jumped out of his car and fled.

If you get short weighted in stores, 'Scream'

BY SALLY LATHAM

If you feel you have a legitimate complaint against the grocer, the banker, the hospital or the dry-cleaner, scream.

This was the advice of Jane Wilson Robinson, head of the state's "newest, smallest and noisiest" agency. She gave it to some 150 members of the Port St. Lucie Woman's Club, at a luncheon meeting held at the Sandpiper Bay.

Mrs. Robinson, a former news paperwoman and wife of a retired career army man, is Director of Consumer Services,a position established by Commissioner of Agriculture Doyle Conner in 1978.

Unlike so many government bureaus in Tallahassee that close ears, telephones and doors to the voting public, her department welcomes gripes of every nature. In fact, she has a hot line number she passes out to consumers willingly. It's a toll-free number: 1-800-342-2176.

"You may have to wait a long time," she said. "It is busy at all hours of the day--we get 2,000 to 3,000 calls a month."

No consumer product is sacrosanct in her department, from automobiles to a pound of sugar on the supermarket shelf. Some of her comments on various products included:

Automobiles: "No one is happy with their automobiles--new cars are the most common cause of complaint."

Construction: "There are more scams and con games going on in Florida than any other state...with the possible exception of California..... Quality (of work) is a gray area...make sure you get it on paper. Stand by your guns and get it in writing. The only person with a memory is the consumer."

Health spas: "Many of them have been clipping people with lifetime contracts. We've now got it down to three years, and they can't sell to a customer before they open. The law now says if they sell memberships in advance, they must post a $10,000 bond. If they fail, we have the cash to return to the consumer."

Mrs. Robinson praised the state food labs for their thorough testing of all foods going on the retail market. "Everything you purchase in the supermarket has gone through that lab," she said. "With milk, you can walk in and buy and know it's pure."

The state policing of the animal industry is another point in Florida's favor, she said. This state's agriculture is its best asset, and the state is doing everything possible to keep its good name.

"Agriculture is the most stable thing we've got," she said. "It is the one thing the U.S. continues to export more than it imports. It is the one single plus factor in our balance of trade."

When her department receives what sounds like a legitimate gripe, she goes into action, whether the product under fire comes from Florida or out of state.

"We fight battles for people," she said. "We do recover a great deal of money for people."

But, she added, only if the complainant has the necessary evidence.

"The lack of written statements or written receipts ruins your case. Get it in writing."

Mrs. Robinson, who served in the Florida House of Representatives from 1970 to 1976, worked on newspapers in New York, Colorado and Washington before coming to Florida. A licensed pilot, she is a former editor of a flying magazine. She was also with the Girl Scout Council in Europe, on the National Rape Prevention Control Advisory Committee, and was one of the founders of Hacienda Girls Ranch at Melbourne.

Samaritans got record $3,631

There are some good days and some bad, but we take them as they come, as the worst can't compare with the terrible blizzards of the north country, for that is what the last batch of snowbirds tell us. They were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Diehl and Clem and Edna Neily.

There is some new blook in the town council this year, as at the January meeting, Mon. Jan. 15, Ruth Bowden and Bill Jones were sworn in as Aldermen, along with re-elected Mayor Gene Hoke and Alderman, Betty MacNab.

RAMBLING AROUND

See AARP column for information on Busch Gardens-Kapek Bus trip scheduled for Feb. 19.

Lorreta Wheaton, 10 Banyan St. (summers at Larsen, Wisc.) had her daughter Betty Nigl of Keukaune, Wisc. visiting for a week. It was Betty's first trip to Florida although she makes frequent trips to Europe, as her daughter Mary Nigl is at the University of Bonn, Germany. Mrs. Nigl is here for a lot of R&R. She is a high school counsellor and has to deal with many problems. She likes it here but says it is a little warm after braving Wisc. winter weather.

Ray and Nellie Sutton, 12 NE 7th, are back from a nine month stay in Detroit, Mich, where Ray is very busy with his Odd Fellows activities, including a May trip to Washington with the Uniform Branch of the Lodge to lay a wreath on grave of unknown soldier. Nellie says it was a beautiful warm summer and they enjoyed their son, daughter, and two grandchildren, but they are glad to get back here to resume pinochle club games and so Ray can eat and play some golf.

John and Audrey Mackey of 29 SW 7th and Kingston, Ont., are back for the winter. Kingston area is very historic, going back over 300 years and Kingston was once the Capital of Canada, but war of 1812 proved it to be too close to USA border. John manages Rideau Acres Trailer Park in the summer, while Audrey teaches craft work to 6-10 year olds in a summer school. Now, for some R&R with some shuffling and bridge playing to pass the winter.

Louis and Lillian Dodge, 6 Mango Dr., had daughter Jerry Bobcheck and granddaughter Christian Moyer (2 months old) from Vienna, Va. visiting for a week. Lillian says the whole bunch including 2 month old Chris had a delightful time at Disney World, and enjoyed the not too perfect Florida weather that was a hundred times better than up north.

Walter and Elsa Lindell, 4 Circle Dr., celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last Dec. 15 with a quiet dinner at Hilltop and they enjoyed the beautiful bouquet of yellow roses from their boys. They had a big 50th affair up north before they came down this year. They are contented and ready for another 50.

Leta Keith remarked awhile ago that the ladies often complain, "I have not a thing to wear and new clothes are so expensive". Well, Leta found a solution. Rumaging around one day, she came across a blouse made of pure Irish linen, white with blue and green figures. It was just the thing and right in style. It was the blouse to her 1929 bathing suit that she wore before she was married, proving that if you wait 7 years, your clothes will be right back in style, even if it is 7 times 7 years.

Bill Young of 13 Visita Dr. had a project going not too long ago, that never could have been completed satisfactorily, if it hadn't had the constant supervision of neighbor Fred Tyler. Bill put in a new cement walk with a novel pebbly surface to make it non-skid, and in spite of supervision, it has been pronounced a huge success.

Nina Zugelhofer of Pine Ln. reports that her son Glen & wife Marie Roudebush have gone to Fort Meyer for a week to visit friends from their hometown, Wooster, Ohio. Also, Ken and Ilea Beyer have gone visiting to Clearwater to Ken's mother who had a stroke recently.

Bernie and Mina D'Arcy of 13 Bay Drive have Mina's cousin Louis and Eleanore Piersink, EXHIBers of Cypress, now located in Plainville, Conn., visiting them for two weeks. They hope all their OBP friends will stop by and say hello.

Winnie Cook of 14 10th St. writes that she and Winnie Cook were at OBP over the holidays with their daughter, Pamela who flew in from Australia. Dr. Carolyn Cook another daughter is in Mexico and still another daughter, Miss Diane Cook will spend winter at home in Dayton, O.

TAX-FREE EXCHANGES

QUESTION: An investment group has approached me and offered to buy my small shopping center. The price that they have agreed to pay is quite attractive, but my accountant tells me that my capital gains tax will be staggering. Is there any way that I can work a tax-free exchange and keep from paying the big tax?

ANSWER: A lot of people think that in order to qualify for a tax-deferred exchange there can be only two parties to the transaction. This is not true, and by overlooking a relatively simple and completely legal technique, they either miss their opportunity or end up paying taxes they could have saved. The technique is called an exchange-cash-out, and it works like this:

Have your broker find the large property you want. Have the investment group that wants your property contract to buy the larger property. Simultaneously, have the group execute an agreement to exchange that property for your shopping center.

When the transaction is closed, the following will take place: 1) Mr. Larger Property Owner will deed his property to the investment group, 2) the investment group will deed the larger property to you, and 3) you will deed your property to the investment group. You will have conformed to the requirements of Article 1031 of the IRS Code in that you will have exchanged, not sold, your property.

As long as the transaction is properly conceived and documented and as long as the deeding is in the proper order, you can defer the payment of a capital gains tax. Keep in mind that it is important to use a broker who is experienced in handling tax-deferred exchanges.

Let's discuss your investment program.

Leonard ends Tigers supremacy

BY DONNIE WILKIE

For years and years, it seems, the Martin County basketball Tigers have dominated play in the Suncoast Conference. Even a switch from the Western Division (AAA and AA schools) to the East (AAAA) did not seem to affect Doff Wallen's 13-year dynasty.

But there is a new kid on the block. In fact, after a 72-66 upset victory over the Tigers Friday night, the John I. Leonard Lancers sat on a block of their own. With seven conference wins in a row and 17 victories in 19 appearances overall, Ernie Bell's Lancers sat atop the Eastern Division, a staggering two full games ahead of Martin County and surprising Twin Lakes.

Alvin Washington scored 26 points to lead the Lancers to their win over Martin County, while defensively, they effectively shut down the four "other men" in the Tiger lineup. While allowing Charles Jones, the MCHS big man at 6'8", 28 points, Bell realized that good defense on the other Tigers would produce a Leonard win.

The formula worked even better than Bell had dreamed it could in the first half, as the Lancers raced out to a big lead. But it nearly fell flat on its face in the storm created by a Martin County comeback. However, some clutch shooting and a neat three-point play by Jon Gwin eased the Tiger dust and started an outburst of happiness in the Leonard gym that has not been equalled in quite a while.

The Tigers (16-4) pulled to within two points six times in the final period, but they never led in the battle for first place in the division.

The Tigers' never-quit attitude was what Wallen stressed after the game. "We had several chances to fold the tent, but we kept coming back," said the coach. "A lot appointing loss, yes, but still a great effort."

Leading 40-28 in the early stages of the third period, Leonard seemed to be safely ahead. But when Wallen ordered his tems into a full-court press, the Lancers reacted poorly, making crucial turnovers and allowing the Tigers to score 11 unanswered points, closing the margin to just one, 40-39 with four minutes to play in the quarter.

"We weren't worried about their press too much," said Bell after the game. "In a sense it worked to our advantage. The key was getting the ball deep. Once we did that, it was either that they stole the ball or we scored."

"If he likes it tonight, he'll love it next time," commented Wallen when informed of Bell's remarks. The two teams meet again February 18 in the Tigers' final game of the regular season, in Stuart.

"Everything they do is oriented around their size (Leonard is the tallest team in South Florida). They like to jam it down the boards at you. We were a little concerned with our slow start but I thought the press turned it around. We have to shoot well and hit the boards to be effective, and we did that in the second half." MCHS turned around the rebounding race in the final 16 minutes, out-grabbing the Lancers 20-13. The final tally was 33-29, Leonard.

Three consecutive baskets from somewhere east of Lake Worth (at least it seemed that way) by Moses Johnson, who had 19 points, kept MCHS within two points until there remained only 19 seconds. With Wallen desperately trying to tell Mike Meyer to foul Gwin, Meyer misunderstood and turned to the referee to call a time-out. Knowing you cannot call time when you do not have possession of the ball, Gwin raced past the Tiger guard, scored, and was fouled. The free throw made it a 70-65 game, and Washington's layup at the buzzer was the coup de grace.

"They were a team that hit in spurts," added Bell. "So we tried to slow them down a bit. Johnson shot very well late in the game, so we needed a little something extra near the end and we got it with the last five points... I wasn't surprised they came back, though, because their tough schedule helps them become a better team."

Asked whether he thought the home crowd in Stuart would change the scoreboard, Bell said, "we like to think of it as just another game. They're a hell of a ball club, but we're going to go down there and fill their gym with enough Leonard fans to balance it out."

Overall, it was a classic confrontation of Suncoast powers. Peter Tierney, an assistant coach at Fairleigh-Dickinson University near Piscataway, N.J., was at the game looking mainly at Gwin of Leonard. But the play of Jones and Johnson impressed him as well.

"I'm amazed at the competition in this state," said a surprised Tierney. "A game like this would be good enough to be the state championship game in N.J. The defense is absolutely fierce. They would probably score 80 points in a game like this in N.J. because they play much looser defense up there."

Meanwhile, the junior varsity Baby Tigers extended their winning streak to 20 (but just barely-- with a last-second layup by Fabian Butler that gave them a 63-62 win.

The big Tigers were scheduled to host Lake Worth Tuesday night, before their much discussed rematch with North Shore Friday in West Palm Beach.

Pioneers are looking ahead

FORT PIERCE++The Indian River College Pioneer basketball team, ranked ninth in the state of Florida, host Webber College of Lake Wales tonight (Thursday) in the IRCC gym

The Pioneers (9-9) have been led by high-scoring Dennis Ross and Mike Mills. In the latest Florida JC statistics, Mills ranks ninth in scoring at a 19.2 ppg clip, while Ross is 14th at 18.8. Ross is the 15th leading rebounder with ten per game, while guard George Ramsey is eighth in assists with 82 on the year.

Webber is a member of the Florida Junior College organization and therefore, coach Mike Leatherwood did not know anything about the team at press time.

The Pioneers are averaging 88 points per game while allowing 83, a figure that illustrates the explosiveness of the team.

Brevard Community College heads the state poll, at 12-0, while following the front-runners are Gulf Coast, Lake City, Hillsborough, Manatee, Miami Dade-South, Miami Dade-North, Florida College, IRCC and Seminole. The Pioneers were highly-regarded in that they received a first place vote.

IRCC travels to Broward-Central for a game Saturday night, plays Miami Dade-South in Fort Pierce Monday night, then travels to Miami to play Dade-North Wednesday.

We didn't want to talk about it.

It was only after we realized that our greatest satisfactions in life have come as a result of advance planning that we decided to plan for the inevitable . . . our own funerals. And what we found was quite interesting.

YOU CAN ELIMINATE INFLATIONARY EXPENSES

Having met rigid state requirements the Aycock Funeral Homes are among a very select group permitted to offer a service known as the "Pre-need Trust Plan." This unique service provides you the opportunity to preplan the funeral of your choice eliminating any cost increases due to inflation.

ALL PRE-NEED TRUST PLAN PAYMENTS ARE 100% REFUNDABLE

You may choose to prepay the full cost of the funeral now or arrange for convenient, affordable installment payments without any finance charges. Either way, should you move to another area or change your mind for any reason every cent you have invested in the Aycock Pre-need Trust Plan will be refunded.

OTHER COST SAVING SERVICES FROM AYCOCK FUNERAL HOME

Burial or Cremation . . .?

This is a question that, in most cases, is best left to the family. We will gladly discuss the features of both at your request. If your final decision favors cremation, we are the only funeral home in Martin County which has its own crematory. This too represents a savings for you in that it eliminates the expense of transportation to and from an out of town crematory.

CASKET RENTAL

No longer is there the need to purchase a casket for temporary use in the case of a cremation following the viewing and funeral service. The Aycock Funeral Homes' casket rental plan provides the use of a top quality casket at a fraction of its purchase price.

YOUR RIGHT TO KNOW

Eventually we are all affected by the planning or lack of planning of funeral requirements. You are entitled to know all the facts before the need arises. We welcome the opportunity to answer your questions. Please call for an appointment.

Thank you

I wish to thank all my wonderful friends and neighbors here in Ocean Breeze park for their cards of sympathy and generous donations to the Jensen Beach Samaritan Ambulance fund in the memory of my father Napolian Bonapart Dean who died recently in Pennsylvania. Thank you all very much.

North River Shores whips IRP in tennis

A fired up North River Shores ladies' team stormed Indian River Plantation Thursday and came away with a 7-1 victory in first division play in the Treasure Coast Tennis League.

The Plantation's lead team of Connie Falkenburg and June LaVigne averted a whitewash by beating Timmy Socker and Muriel Berg, 6-3, 6-3, but the rest of the play was all North River Shores.

Gerry Areni and Sooky Shields stopped Audrey Schad and Barbara Garramone. IRP's team captain, 6-1, 6-1, and Gloria Blackhead and Sherry Plymale hung a straight set defeat on Marge Miles and Sandy Thurlow, 6-2, 6-4.

North River's Inge Voges and Mary Rae Evans were extended to three sets before topping Sally Snow and Mary Hudson, 6-4, 6-7, 6-3, but Carol Newman and Bev Meer returned to the straight set routine by beating Audrey Sax and Lindi Rinaldi, 6-2, 6-1. Maureen Schraff and Jody Bohd kept it going with a 7-6, 6-1 decision over Terry Godsey and Nancy Dillard and Connie Thofner and Bertie Travis.

SANDPIPER BAY LADIES GOLF SCORES

When the ladies of the Sandpiper Bay Association met Jan. 16, the play of the day was a Pick-a partner Relay.

First place winners with a 67 were Mary Kuhn, Ginny Hickman; second place, 69, Blanche Kaufman Dorothy Giesey and Helene Collins and Kitty Carlisle; third place with 71 were Addie Hannum, Edna Fickingqr, and Jane Lewis, Lola Jelnick; and in fourth place with 72 were Inez Bowman, Dorothy Naughton and Kay Scott, Audrey Docos.

Those in fifth place with 73 were Doris Mayer, Vi Remington, Mildred Cosentino, Mae Scott, Phil Healy, Roz Vroman, Emily Griffin, Lorraine Swift.

followed by stopping Jean Schafer and Gerry Wagner, 7-5, 6-3.

Indian River Plantation won its second set of the day in the final match, but it wasn't enough as North River's Marie Roberts and Bev Wolf downed Sally McCarthy and Emily O'Keefe, 6-1, 1-6, 6-2.

Plantation coach Tom Falkenburg said his girls "played hard, but were just out gunned by a team that came ready to play. Our number two team wasn't able to play," Falkenburg explained, "and that forced a change in the lineup. But it's not an excuse. We'll make some changes in our pairings before the next outing and we'll just have to work a little harder."

Garden Mausoleum and Niches

the ultimate means at perpetuating the memory of a loved one

at Pre Construction Cost

Selection of a final resting place is a sacred family duty which, sooner or later, we must all face. How much better to do it now — while members of the family are able to consult together, discuss calmly, and decide sensibly on what would be best for all. Here caskets rest permanently, always dry and sheltered from the elements. Always cared for and protected in an atmosphere of inspiring beauty.

Please Consider Now

- There would be no graves, vaults or monuments to buy
- This desired method of burial is no more expensive than comparable underground burial.
- Budget terms suitable for any family.
- A mausoleum endowment care trust assures continued maintenance and beauty.
- Stops inflation.....perhaps saving hundreds of dollars in the future.

Joe Elko: a 'regular Joe' who happens to have CP

Joe Elko, a 30 year young man who drives his own car and has a college education background, wants to start a social and recreational organization for the physically handicapped in the Jensen area.

He is well-qualified, having at one time been assistant scoutmaster to a Boy Scout Troop in the New York area, and having taught a class in Human Education for handicapped adults at the Staten Island Cerebral Palsy Center.

Joe knows all too well the need for the physically handicapped to get out and do things just for fun as well as for training and education. He should know, because he is himself a Cerebral Palsy victim, a lot he and his parents have been challenged with since his birth.

Cerebral Palsy, doctors will tell you, is always congenital. The theory is that it is caused by brain damage either at the time of birth or before, shutting off or limiting the supply of oxygen to the brain.

In some extreme cases, the brain motor is severely impared, causing mental retardation. But for people like Joe, the intellect is there, inhibited -- as coming out by loss of control of the muscles and nerves which are the "telephone wires" to speech and action.

There is no cure for CP -- it may only be overcome to some degree by re-training the nerves and muscles to compensate for the loss of the ones destroyed by the disease. In this, Joe was one of the lucky victims -- his parents, from Joe's childhood, were determined to bring out the best the palsied child had within him.

And Joe had plenty. This was proven to the world three years ago when, while still in college, he was chosen to star in a 30-minute documentary about the disease, narrated by the famed actor Theodore Bikel.

The show made plenty of waves. As a result of it, Joe was chosen as the subject of articles in newspapers and magazines in the New York area and across the country. One full-page photo feature on him appeared in the Staten Island Sunday Advocate in January of 1976, telling about the young man's "typical day," and emphasizing the place of the handicapped person in society.

Though sometimes hard to understand, Joe comes through loud and clear in the humor department.

"With so much trouble going on in the world, personal and otherwise," Joe is quoted in one article as saying, "if you don't have a sense of humor, you might as well stay in bed."

The main thrust of the film was to de-emphasize the "pretty little poster child," and to put the stress on the reality of growing up to adulthood as a handicapped person complete with the problems and prejudices engendered by society.

In the film's narration, Bikel says: "Joe Elko has a distinct advantage over people who see him for the first time. He knows how cerebral palsy looks to someone who doesn't understand it. Sometimes that helps him to like people, even when he's not at all sure they like, or understand, him."

The Mirror, in an interview with Joe and his mother in their attractive South Street home, discovered exactly what Bikel meant by the statement. His coordination is far from great, and he knows it. Every controlled effort is a Herculean task -- one the approximate equivalent of this flabby reporter trying to chin herself -- yet this determined young man achieves it, whether expressing an idea or creating a handsome macrame hanging basket.

"One of our problems is speech," he said. "People tend to talk to us as if we have a vocabulary of 50 words, when we might have one of 500 or more."

Another source of disbelief from those "normal people," he recalls, is his ability to pass the driver's test. In one of the stories written about him, he tells of being asked how he got his license.

"I had to certify that I am Joe Elko and that I wasn't acting," Joe replied with a broad laugh.

Joe's apparent mission in life is to help educate handicapped adults, and to educate others about them and their place in an adult society. He recently sought and received permission from the Community Church to hold social meetings there, for handicapped people in the 16-to-40 age bracket.

As a result of an article in The Jensen Mirror two weeks ago, a few handicapped people have responded, but not enough.

"People are reluctant to come forward," Mrs. Elko said. "But we feel they will when they know about Joe."

Such an organization, for purely social and recreational purposes, will not only be therapeutic, but just plain fun, both mother and son concur.

If you are handicapped and want to join, call Joe at his home number, 334 3602. He'll welcome your call.

DETERMINED ARTIST--Joe Ecko, a victim of cerebral palsy, puts "normal" people to shame with his handsome macrame hanging baskets which he makes as a hobby. Joe, now 30, is trying to organize a social club for handicapped young people. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

Planning to go to Busch Gardens

The seniors are on the move, holidays are over, so they are anxious to go places and do things, and here are a few of them.

A short while ago a bus trip to Busch Gardens and Kopak Tree House for dinner was mentioned. It was kind-of, "Ho, hum" at first indicating that is "old hat". It caught on as some newcomers who had not been there signed up and some old timers decided they wanted to do it again. To tell the truth, it was thoughts of the marvelous dinner at Kapok Tree House that did the trick. Anyway, in no time there were 2 bus loads paid-up and a dozen on a waiting list.

Jensen Beach Travel Service says the deadline on reservations is Monday, Feb. 5 so if another 2 dozen get on the waiting list, a third bus is fare, admission to Busch Garden, dinner at Kapok Tree House, axes and tips. It will leave Stuart 6:45 a.m. Feb. 19 and return about 11 p.m. Call Marion Curwen 334-0756 for details.

Then a record crowd turned out for the Martin County Health Dept. Clinic Fri. Jan 19, to get FREE blood pressure checks and nutrition counselling. A total 106 were there topping the precious figure of 80 by 32 percent and it took the 3 nurses until 11:40 to quickly and smoothly handle the seniors who took advantage of this free service.

There is an ever increasing number of seniors wanting to volunteer for part time community service work. Working with school children is interesting and rewarding, according to Mary Coughlin who works with first graders, Ruth Pilkington, the second graders and Ade Baum who helps out on Environmental Center Field trips. For details on this type of volenteer service, call Annette Hatten 286-2147.

Many Seniors are taking an interest in the Grey Panther movement and attended the meeting of the Martin-St. Lucia Council held in the library, 10:30 a.m. Jan. 20.

Cochairman Gerald Simon called the meeting to order with 20 seniors in attendance (6 or more AARPERS) He announced that they were just getting started locally and had already enrolled 10 members (dues $3). Said the group would go to the Grey Panther state conference in Sarasota on Jan 24 & 25. The next meeting will be Feb. 17 at the Indian River College in Ft. Pierces.

Irvin Dvorin, Ex-trade Union official, then explained the different types of National Health Insurance Plans that might be considered by the 96th Congress. Remarking that the "Ontario Hospital Plan", while not perfect was reported as working out very satisfactorily.

Dvorin quoted many sources of information justifying in general the National Health Insurance concept, but admitted passage in this session of Congress quite doubtful, as very strong: AMA's Hospital Institute, Insurance Industry & Pharmaceutical lobbies will bring enormous pressure to bear on the politicians, and the only way to counteract this lobby, is by personal letters to Congressmen, one after the other. For Grey Panther information call Gloria Durgee at 287-2287.

The seniors had something to get teed off about as there was a lot of chewing about the Presidents new budget and proposed cuts in social security. One senior remarked a cut in social security was a devastating cut since at the retirement age, living at minimum income level, there is no chance to economize and worst of all there is no time to work harder and recover any losses. They have just simply 'had it'.

Another senior noted that on such television programs as Washington Week there is always someone that is fighting for the rights of their group, but, never anyone for aging Americans. Wonder what National AARP is doing for its 13 million members.

CHAPTER EVENTS

President "CMAC" MacIntyre opened the meeting at 1:30 and kept it moving right along to an "on schedule" adjournment at 3:15. First there was invocation by Ethel Tucker, Pledge to Flag lead by Lloyd Ensley and singing by members and accompaniment by Betty Taylor.

Twenty out of state visitors were introduced before committee chairpersons gave their reports. Charles Mason reported much information on Santo Domingo tour for April received...next month final plans will be made; Ernie Curwen reported on Bulletin, HCCC and Busch trip (details reported previously in column); Ken O'Dell 546-6566, says he has 16 counsellors ready for tax aid sessions at Stuart National Bank 9 - 1, Mon - Fri, starting Feb. 5; Pearl Wyse, 334-5806, reported that the Denture Clinic in Ft. Pierce is still giving satisfactory service.

Then it was a standing stretch and a "hello neighbor" before Leslie Fox of Robert McRoberts Attorneys talked on wills and estates. Fox discussed many interesting points and the long question and answer period showed the members found it beneficial. Answers to general questions are difficult since each case has features requiring special handling. It was pointed out that estate and inheritance taxes are changing every year, so it is advisable to have wills checked every few years and when you move to Florida.

After another break, "CMac" reported on the new swimming class schedule, Monday 1 to 3 p.m. at Living Center; Wed. 1 to 3 p.m. at Living Center; Fri. 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at Living Center and on Sat. 10 to 12 a.m. at high school pool. More information, call 283-7639.

The Defensive Driving classes are finally off and running with Nella Orofino, instructor, graduating the first class of 25 on Jan. 20. Other classes will start Feb. 3 and Feb. 17, both at 10 a.m. at the Environmental Center. Register with Colleen Watts, 287-5400, ext. 181.

There was a clammering for building blocks and there wasn't a block in sight (setting up new committees, it was left for George to do). Please note however, there will be plenty at all meetings and picnics from here on out. The Senior Center building fund didn't make its goal for first year, but didn't miss by much as the total was $4,816. Need new idea for the 1979 campaign....all your suggestions appreciated.....maybe a contest for the best idea??

Here is what goes on at some senior centers...sent in by a travelling senior. City of Yuma, Arizona gives all visiting seniors an area map showing where all senior activities are held. It is called, Senior Adult Happenings and it lists such things as snack lunches at senior center; cards and games; bridge and pinochle classes; jam sessions bring your musical instrument; Spanish; oil painting; ballroom and square dancing and slide shows...all at Senior Center. There are shuffle courts, pool tables, ceramic kilns, sing-a-longs, picnics and much more with Street Sales, anniversary parties and Indio Date Festival (Most of these activities will be available right here as soon as we have a senior center).

By-the-way, your reporter Ernie Curwen will be taking off late spring with his travel trailer for a tour of the country to investigate senior center and how they came about so we can do likewise. Therefore, it would be appreciated if the folks going north for the summer would leave him your address so he would have contacts in different parts of the country to facilitate the investigation. Thanks.

Lydia Circle to Meet Feb. 21

The next meeting of the Lydia Circle of the Jensen Beach Christian Church is to be held Wednesday, Feb. 21. Members and friends are invited.

The Lydia Circle had their monthly meeting Wednesday, Jan. 17. There was a good attendance proving that the snow birds have returned. Two guests were welcomed-Ellie Jones and Benetta Ells.

The meeting was presided by President Dorothy Geeben. The Devotional hour was charged by Bessie Thieleg. Her topic was "Faith" and learning to pray.

The closing prayer was done by Elsie Fronsee. After closing the business meeting, refreshments were served.

Holiday Outlines

BY RUTH BOWES 334-4946

Assisted by Elizabeth O'Donnell and Peg Ray

Rain and wind reduced attendance

A bad rainy and windy day kept many away Sunday, from the Pavilion Church. The attendance was 145. But a beautiful service was enjoyed. The Hobe Sound Bible School Choir, directed by Mrs. Rice, was the best we ever heard. They did the entire Worship. Next week the guests will be "The Lestick Family" who are very talented. Everyone is welcome.

I would like to correct an item of last week. The Annual Anniversary Dance on Jan. 11 was enjoyed by 99 persons. The committee of Harry and Vergual Smith, Zoo and Pinney Bennett, Clancy and Peg Guteil, Frank and Anne Houghton, and Ike and Thelma Gingrich, greeted the guests with yellow corsages for the ladies and white boutonnieres for the men. During the band recess, general chairman of all of our dances Roy and Bea Leonard were among those who attended. Bill and Mable Henrichsen who were the oldest owners and David and Jean Riley, the newest owners, received a bottle of champagne.

More than 200 attended the Social Hour between 4 & 6 p.m. Sat. evening. The crowd was much larger than expected. Many were unable to share in the Arena's specialty snack trays. We are promised the next time there will be more of everything! Music was provided by Bill Carpezza, Harriet Price and George Saras. The committee people were Eunice Cevitz, Marie Gramstorff, Lil Bares, Evelyn Star and the chairpeople were genial Joe and Josie Arena. Was a grand party.

During the bingo session, Wilma Anderson woon the prize for the first half and Millie Picz in the second half. Frank Picz was the caller.

Seventy five attended the Sing along. Music was excellent with George Bares on the accordion; Bill Henrichsen, trumpet; and the "Culligan Man" from N.Y. on the banjo; Ken Schonfeld of Spanish Lakes played the saxophone and playing the organ was Bill Carpezza for N.J. A big thanks to Charlie Ullmann and his brother Les who made it all possible. The next Sing-along will be held at the Rec hall on Jan. 29.

Sophia Holler has 38 enjoying here morning exercise class in the rec. hall. Aside from the exercises, Sophie has been pitching in a dance lesson or two at the end of the class.

Auction and Bazaar coming up soon....Contact Lee Foote for a table for the bazaar.

More interest generated in the Monday night cards. Nine tables were filled with winners being L. Storck, 6700; Mary Sumner, 5340 and V. Veitch 5230. Bridge Lessons started Wednesday at 10 a.m. at the rec hall. Irma Barton says everyone is welcome. Learn and have fun!

Shuffle Notes: Stuart Club were guests at H. Out recently. Lena Black and Bettie Lally were the hostesses. Players were Jim & Martha Lewis, Ike Gingrich, E. Dobson, C. Ullmann, Ed Frost, Roy Lamon, Lesbee Smith. Results: H.Out won 4! ! !

So n so Club met with 42 present. Marie Gramstorff and Jane McQuird were the hostesses. All are working hard on individual projects.

Bowling for Fun: Bea Leonare high game 156; Bert Schloeers high, 3 games 417. Tom O'Mara had High 3 and singles of 194 and 517.

More voices are needed for the Choral Group which held its first meeting last Tuesday.

Pansy and Avon Cleary have been visiting Herby and Pauline Rough here in the park.

Bea Smith of Niles, Mich is a three-month visitor of Mary Kubiak.

Alice Perrault certainly enjoyed a real old fashion New England baked bean dinner at the Bartons.

To celebrate Al Rays return for the hospital, Carrie and Charlie Ullmann had a delicious dinner for the Rays Monday evening.

Beryle & Cecil Roy have been informed there grandson is going into the meat processing business...makes the third generation.

Millie and Frank Picz are touring the west coast of the state in their travel trailer. Expect to be gone one week.

We are all glad to see Bud Hudson back from the hospital. Offer him diet cola from now on! ! !

Betty & Bob Ray drove up from Miami to visit Bob's father who is improving after his stay in the hospital. They were both delighted with his progress.

Welcome to new owners, Jean and Colombe Des Posiers....lot 285.

Greetings are also extended to the latest arrivals, R. Lobdell, H. Butler, Fogg, Rocker, Palumbo, Howard, Weddle, Danglemeier, Well Colaner, Dewhurst, J. May and Rhodes.

Anniversaries to be celebrated this week include: Margaret and James McAuliffe, and Isabel and Wellington Kennedy, all on January 27.

Happy Birthday Wishes to Evelyn Sehan, Jan. 24; Ruth Schenk, Jan 26;, Lillie McConnell, and J.C. Freeman, Jan 27; Horace Taylor, Jan. 28; Irma Barton, Lucille Borecki and Louise Magrino, Jan. 29.

Reg and Peg Turner are pleased as punch to have their two daughters visiting here for two weeks. Louise "Widget" is from Berkeley, California and Anne is a forester stationed in the Grand Tetons, Jackson, Wyoming. Both are enjoying the sun, ocean and friendly folks here at the park.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Leibold, Ann Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. A. Browne, and Eleanor Greenough all joined in to help Elsa Heins celebrate here birthday, January 14, at the Wayside Inn.

Kate and Rich Leibold have returned for their fifth season here at the park. Say they have enjoyed every single minute spent here.

Imes, Stalls and Aslines went to the dog races at West Palm Beach. Didn't hear who was the big winner, but they all had a good time.

Rosalie Bryson and Tom Murphy helped Eloise and Johnm Frisbee Celebrate the Frisbee's 49th wedding anniversary Jan. 16 with dinner at LaFonda. Following dinner they returned to Frisbees trailer where there was a surprise birthday cake awaiting Rosalie, whose birthday was on Jan. 13.

Our sincere sympathy is extended to Hester Landis Hunt, Harold and Donald Landis on the death of their brother, Vernon, who died in Warsaw, Indiana last Friday. Esther and Harold flew out of West Palm Beach Saturday morning. Their plane was unable to land in Ft. Wayne because of bad weather. Had to complete journey by bus from Indianapolis.

Lorriane and Ed Stark invited Mildred and Lee Stall and the Don Hogans for a delightful cruise down the Indian River to Jupiter, Tequesta on their boats. They anchored in a quiet cove midway to enjoy a picnic lunch.

Theatre will stage 'Cabaret'

While most Stuart residents struggled with the Christmas holidays, a group of area people readied themselves and the Barn Theater for the Feb.2 premier of "Cabaret."

Although the musical first appeared on Broadway in 1966, "Cabaret" is best remembered on the movie screen through the parts played by Liza Minelli and Michael York.

Show dates at the Barn Theater on East Ocean Boulevard are Feb. 2, 3, 9-11, 16-18, 23-25, March 2 and 3. People may contact the Barn Theater at 287-4884 for ticket information and reservations.

Lonnie (Keates) Poorman, whose first time as a Barn Theater director was "Fantastics," is now working with the cast of "Cabaret." Past appearances in the community theater include Eleanor in "Lion in Winter."

Before moving to Stuart, Poorman acted at the Goodyear Musical Theater in Akron, Ohio. She is a biology teacher at Martin County High School where she has advised several student plays.

This past summer she conducted a theater workshop for the Barn.

One of the participants in that workshop, Prudy Martesino has a leading role in the current production. Martesino, a senior at Martin County High School, debuts as the bizarre Master of Ceremonies.

He has sung and danced in various talent shows, but never acted on stage.

The emcee of the Kit Kat cabaret emphasizes through theatrics an all knowing vision of the pressures on ordinary people entering a decade of extraordinary politics in Germany.

"Cabaret" takes its name from the honky tonk Kit Kat Club in which most of the events of the play evolve. On the eve of 1930, the club outwardly tries to stay neutral to the controversial political persuasions that brewed in Berlin at that time.

Clifford Bradshaw, a cool but intelligent American, meets one of the club's entertainers, Sally Bowles on New Year's Eve.

Sally Bowles, a pretty London born sophisticate, is child like when it comes to every day living and love.

Bradshaw who has tried to write the Great American novel in every major European city has just arrived in Berlin. His dreams far outweigh his diligence at the typewriter and his procrastination increases after meeting Sally.

On the train to Berlin, Clifford Bradshaw shares a compartment with Ernst Ludwig, a young German who has embraced the Nazi viewpoint and smuggles money into Germany for his cause.

On the advice of Ludwig, Bradshaw rents a room from Fraulein Schneider, an elderly single woman used to taking care of herself.

Fraulein Schneider's practicality does leave room for a romance with one of her tenants. Herr Schultz's warm, giving nature involves the couple in one of the poignant subplots of the play.

The main actors in the musical "Cabaret" include Walter R. Donnelly as Clifford Bradshaw. Donnelly has done a wide range of work for the Public Broadcasting Service.

He appeared in the recent novel for television "Centennial" for NBC Studios and "Death of Richie" for Universal Studios in Hollywood, Calif.

His acting experience which includes leading roles and production of plays stems from his study at the New York Academy and Yankton College.

His first role for the Barn Theater was Axel Magee, the bungling son of the American ambassador in "Don't Drink the Water."

Pamela Clark, an English and theater teacher at Martin County High School, is Fraulein Schneider. Clark's past credits include several major roles in productions in and outside of the Barn.

Bill Shook is Herr Schultz, the German born Jew about to feel the effects of the doctrines of Adolf Hitler in his private world.

Shook is a veteran member of the Barn Theater having worked as an actor, director and with production of numerous past plays. These credits also extend to Vero Beach and Port St. Lucie.

He is the district representative for Florida Theater Conference which includes Vero Beach, Port St. Lucie and Stuart. The organization promotes theater throughout the state.

Sally Bowles will be played by Theresa Gallagher. She is a sophomore at Martin County High School and the youngest member of the cast.

Gallagher has appeared in "Fiddler on the Roof" and "The Boyfriend" at the Barn Theater. She has studied dance and was also a participant in the Barn's summer workshop.

Ernst Ludwig will be played by Tom Wash, a relatively new performer at the community theater. Wash has had two minor roles in recent productions, but has done much work on set constructions and renovations of the playhouse.

Trip Planned

The Martin County and Port St. Lucie Chapters of American Association of Retired Persons is planning a trip to Santo Domingo in April. Persons interested in joining may contact Charles Mooney at 334-4547

First Federal announces almost $8 million interest

First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Martin County paid $7,900,940 in interest to its savings depositors–and made 983 mortgage loans during 1978, William T. Wallis, president, said today.

"Our customers had a good year," Wallis said, "and so did First Federal Savings of Martin County."

According to Wallis, First Federal Savings loaned a total of $38,828,204 to local borrowers last year. The great majority of those loans, of course, were home financing loans.

Savings gains at First Federal Savings totaled $17,209,970 in 1978, Wallis said. Altogether, savers had $131,862,924 on deposit at First Federal Savings of Martin County at year-end 1978.

Wallis predicted that both the savings and mortgage lending departments at First Federal Savings would continue to be busy through the first half of 1979. He cautioned, however, that interest rates were expected to continue to rise during early 1979 and that this trend will have an adverse impact on home lending.

"As a result," Wallis said, "we expect mortgage money to be somewhat tighter than last year–and fairly expensive."

Post office complaints tied to disgruntled employees

BY DICK CAMPBELL

Sleepy Jensen Beach awakened Saturday morning to find its morning Miami Herald with a page one story about poor service in the Jensen post office. The story was a better awakening than the morning coffee.

Soon the town was abuzz over whether or not the postal officer in charge, Don Sivyer, was bucking for a promotion, cutting back on employees to the expense of not getting mail out, sending mail from up north back north without delivery, or letting social security checks sit in boxes for several weeks without being delivered.

One rumor on Monday morning had Jensen losing its first-class status due to poor service.

Sivyer came to Jensen Beach in September as an interim officer in charge following the resignation of Postmaster Harold Salzler, who resigned due to pressures of his post. He is to serve in the post for six months, unless the postmaster general extends his appointment while the search goes on for a new postmaster to replace Salzler.

The selection process is now under way, with applications having been received for the post, and officials trimming the applicants down to the final five that will receive close scrutiny from the post office. It is not known if the search will be ended by the March deadline of Sivyer's appointment.

In an interview with The Mirror, Sivyer said that the post office is operating with the complement of employees that the volume demands.

He is backed up in his claim by Walt Smith, acting customer service manager in West Palm Beach, who said that Sivyer stepped into a difficult position, with the Christmas rush ahead of him when he accepted the temporary post.

As for seeking a promotion, as claimed in the Herald article, Sivyer said that as officer in charge he couldn't be considered for the postmaster's slot. He added that he was in Jensen Beach on a six month appointment, and when that was completed, he would be moved elsewhere, which is the nature of the job.

Smith said he had worked with Sivyer in Miami, and found him to be a postal employee with dedication "far above the usual line of duty."

Sivyer said that most of the mail was being cleared each day at the post office. His schedule even moved back to have Stuart mail for Jensen Beach picked up by an employee at 5 a.m. so that it can be distributed before the "Star" truck brings the regular morning delivery of mail from West Palm Beach at 7:30 a.m.

As for Jensen Beach losing its first class status, Smith said that Jensen is a growing area, "is on solid ground," and if anything, would be enlarged as the growth demands.

Asked if Port St. Lucie mail might be moved through the Jensen Beach post office, which is closer to the General Development community than the present Ft. Pierce post office, Smith said that was strictly conjecture

"This is just in the discussion stage now. It is a matter of logistics and delivery. There is nothing definite, and much study will have to go into such a change," Smith said.

Sivyer had commented that if such a move was made, a new post office building would have to be built, as the present post office building is about at capacity.

Increased growth of the area and the resultant increase in the volume of mail was given as reasons for later mail delivery.

However, Sivyer did suggest that the Herald article was the result of disgruntled employees trying to create problems.

"If there was one problem when I came here it was in discipline," Sivyer said. "I believe that things should be done in a certain way, and I'm sure I've stepped on a few toes since coming here."

The veteran postal official said he had cited four employees for their excellence, writing letters that are kept in employee files.

"It doesn't mean an increase in pay, but it does show that the employee is dedicated and working for the post office," he said.

Sivyer suggested that persons with complaints about post office service make those complaints to him so that he can follow up on them. He would not comment on who the "disgruntled employees" were, but added that "many of the employees in our post office are hard-working people."

Garden Club plants Laurel Oak on FIT marking Arbor Day

This year, more and more individuals and organizations are responding to the plea of naturalists and conservationists by planting trees to mark the annual celebration of Arbor Day, a tradition begun in the mid-1800's.

One such organization is the Garden Club of Stuart, which on Friday held a ceremony for the planting of a Laurel Oak on the Florida Institute of Technology campus near the library.

Mrs. Charles Bishop, president of the Garden Club, officiated. She explained that, while the observance of Arbor Day is comparatively young in this country, the roots go back into antiquity. Legend has it, she said, that the custom harks back to the ancient Aztecs of Central America, centuries before Columbus. The Central American Indians are said to have planted a tree every time a child was born.

In the United States, she said, the tree planting crusade was initiated in 1872 in Nebraska, by a farsighted citizen J.Sterling Morton. He suggested that a day be set aside each year to plant trees across the "Great American Desert."

The idea soon spread, and it is now observed in nearly every state. The tree-planting time in the north is in April, but January was chosen as the time in Florida, because weather conditions are generally most favorable at this time of year for the trees' survival.

The ceremony was planned by Mrs. Bishop and by FIT Librarian Elenore Harris. Several school, city and county officials participated.

Garden Club salute

The Jensen Beach Garden Club celebrated 29 years of service to the community last week, and deserves a special salute for that service.

The usually low-profile club has affected the community in many ways over the years, offering constructive suggestions to the businessmen and the county on how to make Jensen Beach more beautiful.

In one project, the garden club decorated the area surrounding the Arch, and in another, planted the small triangular island at Commercial Street and Sunview Road. Those are just two of many community projects that come to mind.

But the greatest service to the community by the garden club comes from the knowledge gained by its members in how to plant beautiful yards. This education is the reason that the lawns and shrubs in Jensen Beach are so beautiful.

We thank the Garden Club of Jensen Beach for their effort and their beautification of our community, and wish them another 29 years of success.

Up With People will hold two concerts here

There's good news acomin', music lovers. That lively and listenable young musical aggregate, Up with People, will be winging their songs at area audiences in two concerts next weekend, at Martin County High School.

Dates for the performances are Sunday, Feb.11, at 2 p.m., and Monday, Feb.12, at 8 p.m. Tickets are on sale at all Stuart National Bank branches and at Jensen Beach Bank.

In case you're one of those rare humans who haven't been exposed to Up with People casts, you're missing a psychological as well as a musical treat. Up with People, born in Tucson, Ariz. in 1968, has become a globe-sweeper with its tuneful messages of love, brotherhood and simple sheer joy. Bright costumes, brilliant choreography and the excitement emanating from 100 happy, college-age faces combines for a truly "up" experience, as all who have seen and heard them can attest.

As in past years, the central office sends an advance team in every target area, opens up an office, lines up its sponsors and places tickets in strategic spots in the surrounding neighborhoods.

The advance emissaries for the cast coming here are two attractive young people, both in their early 20s. One is Karla Tracy, who lived most of her life and attained her schooling in Honolulu. The other is Wayne Guthals, who is proud of the fact he was born in Colorado Springs, Colo.

However proud of home place or homeland any member of the tuneful troupe might be, there is no such as isolationism among them.

"Our kids are from all over the world," Wayne told The Mirror.

The young people, indeed, are international both in scope and flavor. Wherever they go, they attract recruits with like philosophies of life.

"We screen them on everything--voice, personality, attitude--everything," Karla said.

Karla and Wayne are also trying to line up homes in which the young singers may stay during their visit. If you have extra rooms in your home, and would like to share it with a cast member of two, you may contact the "Harbingers" at the office on U.S.1.

Wherever they go, the Up with People cast finds sponsorship from some local organization--churches, civic clubs or service groups. Here, they are under the sponsorship of the Kiwanis Club of Stuart.

And don't be surprised if these enthusiastic kids give your own college age kid an itchy foot. Up with People is a whole way of life, and they will happily admit they hope they will set fires of love and home and friendship burning, around the world.

ADVANCE 'MEN'--The two young people here to set the stage for two Up With People performances at Martin County High School are Karla Tracy and Wayne Guthals. They have established an office where people may both order tickets and register as host families for the 100 young performers. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

ON THE SPOT--County Commission Chairman Frank Wacha and Florida Power and Light District Manager Gene van Curen go over the plans for widening and re-structuring the Savanna Road-Commercial Street intersection, as the big FPL trucks move in with utility poles. The bottleneck should be cured by mid-summer. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

FPL poles moving back for Commercial-Savanna

BY SALLY LATHAM

The intersection of Commercial Street and Savanna Road, the most cussed and discussed bottleneck this side of Stuart's Confusion Corner, began to show signs of promise Tuesday, when the big orange trucks of Florida Power and Light rolled in and started positioning four big sturdy cement utility poles.

The installation, which is expected to take about two weeks, will be the first visible step toward the planned widening and redesigning of the long overdue project.

The cost to Florida Power and Light for moving existing poles and installing new ones will be in the range of $6,000-$7,000, FPL District Manager Gene van Curen estimated.

"We'll be moving out some of them (the old wooden poles) for the aesthetics involved," van Curen said.

County Commission Chairman Wacha, also on the site for the opening guns of the project, said all the easements needed for widening the street in both directions have been acquired by the county. With the poles moved back, the road department will have clear sailing for the job, which has already been included in the county budget.

The pole-moving portion of the project will take until mid-February, at least, van Curen said.

"We'll be working with existing hot conductors," van Curen said, "and we don't want to inconvenience our customers."

But even when the poles are all moved, don't get your hopes up about being able t make an easy left turn either way, any time soon. The county plans to delay beginning of construction until the tourists have thinned out, sometime in April or May.

"Beginning too soon would just make it worse," Wacha said. "We don't need more than one Confusion Corner in Martin County."

Hurricane exercise Saturday

The area short wave radio operators, in cooperation with the Martin County Chapter of the American Red Cross, will stage a simulated hurricane emergency on Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon, according to spokesman Al Tomazewski.

Centerin in Stuart, the test will involve all licensed short wave operators, who will have units at Turtle Cove, on the Jensen Causeway and at other spots through the area.

Tomazewski warns motorists that they may be stopped along the causeway as part of the exercise.

Registration for Tennis Begins

Herb Seaver, Martin County Recreation Coordinator, announces resumption of registration for spring semester Tennis classes starting February 6 at Palm City Courts, with the only charge being a can of 3 new balls per student.

A class for beginners will be taught at 9 a.m. with an Advance Beginners class being taught at 10 a.m. each Tuesday through April 10. Possibility of an afternoon class exists.

Classes will be taught by Dave Twitchell, Physical Education teacher and coach from Ohio.

Registration may be made by calling Dave at 287-0099 preferably between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. daily.

Nuke plant is back in service

The Florida Power and Light nuclear power plant No.1 on Hutchinson Island was shut down for several days last week, but is now back in service with little or no impact on customers, district manager Gene van Curen said Tuesday.

The outage was staged initially to change a gasket in the water pressure system. However, while the plant was shut down, workmen discovered a misalignment in the control rod which goes down into the radioactive core, van Curen said. The facility remained shut down until both deficiencies could be corrected.

The shut-down had nothing to do with an edict issued by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to seven other plants almost concurrently with Hutchinson Island plant outage, van Curen said. He said he wasn't aware of the latter occurrence, which received national attention over the weekend.

The local manager, in fact, was elated by the high efficiency of operation generated from Nuke No.1.

"I just got the word that Turkey Point plants 3 and 4 and Hutchinson Island Plant No.1 supplied 33 percent of the state's total power for the last year," he told The Mirror.

911 refinements paying off

BY DICK CAMPBELL

The people of Martin County are learning more and more how to use the "911" emergency number. This was indicated in the three-month-old service by the increase in emergency calls.

For example, in December there were 3,500 calls to 911, and thus far in January, 5,000 persons have used the number.

Sheriff Jim Holt told the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club of the progress of 911 emergency telephone system in the county Monday, assisted by Sgt. Bill Sprague, county communications coordinator.

The only problem area seems to be the transferring of calls from southern Hutchinson Island and South Port St. Lucie.

Residents of the southern part of the island prefer Martin County fire and ambulance service, as it is twenty miles for St. Lucie County emergency personnel to drive to answer a call. But if they dial 911, they are hooked up to St. Lucie County 911, not Martin County.

Concern brought about a decision to have those residents call the Martin County emergency Civil Defense number, 287-5575. The same would be true for people living in the southern part of Port St. Lucie.

Holt said that there are problems with the switchover of 334 lines, with the division being at the county lines. However, Hutchinson Island residents will soon have a portion of that problem removed when Southern Bell installs new exchanges in May.

The new exchange numbers will be 229 for the St. Lucie County section and 225 for the Martin County part of the island. It will not, however, change the division of 911 calls coming from St. Lucie County, according to Glenn Sutton, Southern Bell manager in Stuart.

The Martin County 911 center is housed in a building on Snake Road in Salerno. The sheriff's department is handling the calls through there for 911, replacing fourteen different emergency telephone numbers, Sprague said.

Also, in seconds, the 911 circuit can refer callers to any emergency number in the United States. Calls for such things as poison, chemicals, snake bite, would have centers to give "the right answer to a particular problem."

By the end of February, all Martin County emergency services will be in the building. Fire, ambulance, civil defense and law enforcement will be joined in the building to service the emergency calls of the people, Sprague added.

There is also a "trap" system on line. In it, if a patient should call 911 for help, and collapse before giving his telephone number or address, the call is trapped, Southern Bell is called, and in moments the emergency service has the address of the caller and the telephone numbers of neighbors on each side.

The "trap" will be improved soon so that the push of a button will immediately reveal the address of the caller. Holt said this will discourage "prank calls".

He added that there is no need for a quarter to make the call from a pay phone.

The 911 number can be used to reach any service. If the call is of an emergency nature, the caller will be switched to the proper service. If not, the caller will be given a proper number to call, or the 911 operator will call the person back on another number to free the 15 lines available to 911.

Holt said that six persons will be on duty through the day, and four through the night at all times.

Want to be a weatherman?

REFINANCE NOW OR WAIT?

Question: My brother and I own a small office building that has an eight-year-old mortgage loan. We could use some cash for another venture. By refinancing we could increase the mortgage from $90,000 to $100,000. This would give us $20,000. We hesitate to refinance because of the current high interest rates. We expect to receive about $20,000 in a year from another source but can't wait. Should we refinance?

ANSWER: Assuming that your current loan is at about 7 percent interest and that the interest on a new loan might cost somewhere around 10 percent, the effective cost of refinancing would be $4,000 in additional interest to raise $20,000 (this is about 22 percent).

You might be better off arranging a short-term (two years, for example) second mortgage to raise the capital you need. By doing this you will have preserved your low-interest loan, and you can pay off the second mortgage with the capital you expect to receive.

I realize, of course, that there may be many other considerations, but at first glance it appears that you can afford to pay up to 22 percent interest on a second mortgage and still come out ahead of the game.

Let's discuss your investment program.

Ever have a yen to be a weatherman?

Not the professional kind who is cussed and vilified by everyone, no matter what he says, but just your average run-of-the-mill amateur kind who takes pleasure out of telling other people how hot, cold or wet they've been.

Now you have the chance, according to Candy Brown, Perry Cable's pretty little weather girl. Candy is looking for meteorological buffs who live in strategic spots throughout the county, to keep data on rainfall, high and low temperatures and other pertinent facts like fog, cloud cover, of if you happen to see any--snow. If you spot the latter, don't call us. The fish and I will have just left for Curacao.

Unless you've kept scientific records, you can't begin to realize how divergent weather statistics can be, in one given area like Martin County. The temperature along the coast may be 70 degrees while it's 60 in Palm City and 50 west of the Turnpike. The same goes for rainfall--it can be teeming and spawning tornadoes in Port St. Lucie while the sun is shining serenely in Port Salerno. These are the factors Perry people are trying to pinpoint, and The Mirror is going to cooperate in the project.

Hence, if you live in Hobe Sound, Stuart, Jensen Beach, Port St. Lucie, Palm City, Port Salerno or on Hutchinson Island, and are interested in helping play weather detective, give Candy a call at 334-7400, or this writer at The Mirror, 334-4333. When the program is put together, it should be fun, and informative, for everyone concerned.

Meanwhile, back at that big fish ranch, the Indian River and surrounds. The cold weather (and how cold was it?) sent the sissies indoors, but the fishermen were out there with their mufflers on over the weekend, and their hardiness paid off.

Johnny Crawford, at the Snook Nook, says the blues are up in the surf, the mackerel are running outside, while trout and small snook are nibbling their way around the river. Some of the better catches were:

Herb Campbell, 15 blues out of the surf, on Krokodil; Ed Weeks, ten blues in the surf, on cut bait; Tony Battaglia, 13 blues, also on cut bait; Andy Jorgensen, 41 whiting and one fluke, on ribbonfish and shrimp;

Earl Wilson, 18 whiting in the surf, on shrimp; Bill Ditzel, four snook out of the river, on cut bait; Skip Lanker, 15 trout out of the river on MirrOlure; Bob Evans, 10 trout on Trout Touts; S.Scoggins, 11 blues in the surf, on mackerel, and Johnny (himself) Crawford, four snook out of the river, on shrimp.

Dave Lamb, over at Jensen Bait and Tackle, came up with the cute fishing story of the week. Seems that Mark Dieffenbach, 10 years old, loves to fish, so much so that he and a buddy had asked for permission to do a little casting while they were waiting for the school bus in the morning.

Permission denied.

But boys will be boys will be fishermen. Mark sneaked an old line his dad had thrown away and an old discarded bolt which he covered with bucktail. The other morning, the perseverence paid off--a seven pound snook took the line.

"The kid ran home with the fish, and missed the bus," Dave said. "His dad brought him right down here. Pop said he couldn't give son hell--they were going to eat that snook for supper."

Other hauls reported to Dave included: Ed Killing and Bill Dorgan, 30 whiting, and 13 blues, out of the mudhole on cut mackerel and shrimp; Jim Bengan and wife Dot, 20 whiting and two pompano on shrimp, out of bte surf; John Danisch, two Pompano from the surf off Windmill Village, on shrimp; Art Drohelm, seven blues on cut mackerel, at Park and Fish; Bill Axcharias, 15 pound snook, on live shrimp off Evans Crary Bridge; Dave Smid, 20 blues out of the surf on cut bunker; Henry and Mary Boyer, 21 whiting in the surf, on shrimp; Charles Kessler, and Bob Duncan, four snook, and a channel bass out of the river on cut bait; Brank Silvent and wife Evelyn, 21 blues out of the surf on cut mackerel.

High and low temperatures of the past week have been:

He noted that 1978 marks the fifth straight year American Express has sponsored the series which continues through late 1979 in nine other cities around the country.

The Plantation pro said the USTA-sanctioned event is expected to draw a mixture of veterans of world class tournament competition and young players who may be the tennis stars of tomorrow.

"In a way," he explained, "it will be like the Women's Tennis Association tournament we had at Indian River last spring which drew established players from half a dozen countries and served as a stepping stone for such youngsters as Regina Marsikova, Sylvia Hanika, Caroline Stoll and others."

Kristian Cee, American Express general manager for the Challengers Series, said Indian River Plantation was chosen over several other Florida sites because of its proximity to cities where tennis is booming, and its facilities for handling a major tournament.

Falkenburg said players for the American Express-Indian River Plantation Classic will be selected by the Association of Tennis Professionals international ranking system. He said five places in the main draw for singles would be reserved for survivors of the qualifying rounds in which there will be vacancies for local or area "wild card" players who want to enter.

Last year, though, they were hungry for the national drivers' title. Bond's yearly rise in the drivers' standings, and a victory at Daytona in the final race of the 1977 season gave them reason for high hopes. And, they'd just spent a bundle redoing the car's chassis and suspension, so they figured to run as fast as anyone else in the GTU class (for cars with engines displacing less than 2.5 liters). They were hoping they'd be able to afford a trip to California, so they could make a serious bid for the title.

But nothing seemed to go right last season. They "only" finished fifth at last year's 24 Hours of Daytona. Most folks would have been pleased with a fifth, but in 1975 Bond had finished first in the GTU class at the endurance race, and in 1976 and 1977, he and Tilton finished fourth in class.

Things got worse. At the 12 Hours of Sebring the next month, the Jensen team finished eighth in class.

Then Lady Luck and Mr. Goodwrench really frowned on the team. The next few races cost them two blown engines. For Bond and Tilton, whose earlier successes had been built around their ability to build strong, dependable engines, it was a sore disappointment.

Engines are very costly in the world of motor sports. "I paid $7,500 for the entire car when I bought it in 1974," Bond said of his Porsche, "but today you can't hardly buy an engine for that much."

The team's racing budget was blown with the engines. California was canceled, and Bond and Tilton began talking about getting out of racing.

When the final race of last year's season was held at Daytona last November, Bond and Tilton didn't even enter it. Bond finished the season ranked ninth in the GTU drivers' standings. Tilton was out of the top 10.

"But it was not going to that race that probably made it possible for us to enter the 24 Hours of Daytona this year," Bond said. He explained that the team has finally landed a sponsor, E.J.Pruitt of West Palm Beach.

"He (Pruitt) used to sponsor a car in IMSA's radial sedan series. A friend of mine in West Palm told him about us and tried talking him into sponsoring us. I don't think he really thought we needed help that much until we didn't show up at the Daytona finals in November," Bond said.

Bond indicated the sponsorship is small compared to the factory sponsorships the Mazda RX-7 teams in the GTU class will get. "But, it's enough to cover the expenses of the first two races, Daytona and Sebring, and that's a big help," Bond said.

He added that if he and Tilton finish well in the first few races this season, there may be enough cash to make the California races.

The strategy for this year's 24 hour event is the same it's been for Bond and Tilton every year: To run a steady pace without straining the engine and wait for faster competitors to fall out of the race.

They'll be taking their two engines, rebuilt from last year. And, though Bond said he thinks they've figured out what caused gearbox failures in previous long-distance races, they'll be taking three along, just in case.

Their car is white, with brown and gold striping this year. In previous years, it's been orange. The number 60 remains the same, but the rear air foil has been reshaped to more closely resemble the factory Porsche foil.

Unlike previous years, when a third driver was brought in to share duties at the wheel, Bond and Tilton will do all the driving in the 24 hour event. The pit crew will consist of a number of Jensen Beach residents.

The race begins at Daytona International Speedway at 4 p.m. Saturday, Feb.3, and ends at 4 p.m. Sunday.

Once again, it's the beginning of a new season. And, once again, Bond and Tilton are looking forward to a good year. That's something they didn't think they'd be doing two months ago.

New track gets debut Friday

BY DONNIE WILKIE

STUART–For years, track coaches and officials at Martin County High School have maintained that in order to have a successful track program, they had to have a track, an argument which basically, made a lot of sense.

But the problem was not easily solved. It took a long campaign by the Civitans to produce the necessary funds for a new football stadium and a track.

The track gets its first test this Friday afternoon, when the "new-look Tigers" host Jupiter and Palm Beach Gardens in a tri-meet at Tiger Stadium, beginning at 1 p.m. The entire student body of the high school will be released from classes for the last hour of school (1-2 p.m.) in order to view the event.

But one glance around the facility during a Tiger track practice reveals a startling fact. Despite years of competing with other Suncoast Conference schools on their tracks, the Tigers are really starting from scratch in efforts to join Twin Lakes, John I. Leonard and Fort Pierce Central on the list of the elite.

"It's like starting a whole new track program," said assistant track coach John O'Connor, of Jensen Beach. "All the pits (for the pole vault, long jump and high jump) are new, most of the hurdles are new; even the track is new. And it had to be painted."

Head Coach Bruce Wells thinks this year's team will be improved over his first team a year ago.

About the most talented of the Tigers is junior distance man John Moffo, who turned in a 4:40 mile and a school record of 10:17 in the two-mile run last spring. Joining him is senior Clyde Price, who ran a 4:54, but has improved consistently since he ran as a freshman.

The girls will provide a candidate for Suncoast and District 11 honors, as Carolyn Knott turned in some of the best performances in the area in just her first year. She's probably a little bit stronger in the shot put than she is in the discus, but it'll take a mighty effort from her conference opponents to keep her out of the top three or four in either event.

A year ago, Diane Elwer qualified for the regional meet in both the girls' low hurdles and the high jump. This year, she hopes to make the trip to the state championships in Winter Park May 11-12.

The only other likely candidates for conference honors are Greg Wright (boys' shot and discus) and Heather Flinn (girls' sprints).

But Wells has several other competitors who could help the team, especially in two and three team meets such as this Friday's season-opener. Under coach Fred Harrison, Henry Harriel has improved and looks much better in the 220 yard dash, while on the girls' side, Laura Flinn, senior and Heather's older sister by two years, is a steady performer. In the boys' half mile, look for David Barnes to take charge, while in the girls' mile, it'll be Sherry Kessler if it was questionable at press time whether she would run this year) and-or Helen Staggs. In the girls' two-mile, Jennifer Burdick is the Tigers' best.

"We've got a lot of new kids in the distances," added O'Connor, who also said a couple are promising runners. "When you add all the cross country boldovers, you've got a pretty big team."

But that makes sense. A big team for a big track, and a lot of new kids for a new track.

Legion Post to meet

The American Legion Post 126 and its auxiliary will hold concurrent meetings on Monday, Feb.12, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the post home. The Post Commander, Thomas W. Flanagan, reminds members that those whose dues are unpaid as of Feb.4 will be dropped.

The auxiliary will hold an intitiation for new members and old ones who have not yet initiated, according to auxiliary president Eleanor Diffendal. Past Department president Mrs. Lorrain Middleton will conduct the ceremony.

The second Fish Fry meeting will be a covered dish dinner on Feb.26, beginning at 6 p.m.

Respiratory Program Offered at Library

The American Lung Association will hold a free program for adults with respiratory problems Friday, February 2, 1:30 p.m. at the Martin County Public Library, Stokes Memorial Room, 701 East Ocean Blvd., Stuart.

Dave Baker of the American Lung Association will lead the discussion on what you should know about asthma.

Anyone interested in learning about respiratory problems is invited to attend.

Golden South is airborne

BY BOB FRYER

Fort Pierce now has its own airline.

Golden South Airlines is beginning regularly scheduled flight service from Fort Pierce to West Palm Beach, Melbourne and Orlando today. (Thursday, Feb. 1)

The new airline, whose board of directors reads like a who's who among St. Lucie County movers and shakers, conducted an inaugural flight to West Palm Beach last Friday for local dignitaries and members of the press. On Monday, conformation came that state Public Service Commission officials had signed the proper documents for regular flights to begin. A spokeswoman for the airline said the first flight for paying customers was made Tuesday morning from Fort Pierce to West Palm Beach, and she said by today, the airline would be geared up for its full schedule.

There was some question on Monday as to when flights planned to Orlando would begin. However, a problem in finding a place for Golden South's ticket counter in the Orlando airport was resolved when a portion of Braniff's counter space was apportioned to the new airline.

The airline offers three flights a day from Fort Pierce to West Palm Beach, three a day from Fort Pierce to Orlando, and one a day from Fort Pierce to Melbourne. From West Palm Beach, the new airline has three flights to Fort Pierce, three to Orlando, and one to Melbourne. Form Orlando, it's three daily flights to Fort Pierce, three to West Palm Beach, and one to Melbourne.

Additionally, from Melbourne, there is one flight a day to each of the other three cities.

Rates vary from a low of $11 for the senior citizen fare from Fort Pierce to West Palm Beach to a high of $33 from West Palm to Orlando.

'Gazebo' an olio of gasps and giggles

BY SALLY LATHAM

If your drama dish is a potage of sophistication, suspense, and tension liberally laced with titters and an occasional guffaw, you'll love "The Gazebo" now on stage at Indian River Community College in Fort Pierce, through Saturday.

The play, written by Alex Coppel, is a happy adventure for the St. Lucie Community Theatre, taking it off the frequently monotonous track of "safe" repertory vehicles of which playgoers tire, year after year. You can sit through Barefoot in the Park and Plaza Suite just so many times without, as Dorothy Parker coyly put it, frowning up.

Gazebo, as interpreted by SCLT, is refreshing from several standpoints. Not only does it flash with occasional sparkling dialogue, it gives the now-seasoned drama group, going into its eighth year, a chance to showcase some bright new talent along with its backbone corps of veterans who've been the reason for the troupe's steadily successful growth over the years.

As to the plot: in brief, Gazebo is a murder tale, though with little mystery from the onset. The main characters are Elliot Nash, a TV writer, his glamorpuss actress wife Nell, and a suave lawman named Harlow Edison, neighbor of the talented couple who turns out to be a pain in the plot.

These main roles are capably filled by the ever-enchanting Renee Skripak as Nell, Charles Redd, newcomer to SLCT but a veteran of the Barn Theatre, as Elliott, and another Barn alumnus, John Cook of Stuart, as the assistant DA and neighbor. The stage experience of the latter two shines through the present opus to make it one of the bright spots on the season's theatrical horizon.

This production is a melding of talent from all over-including Jensen Beach. Bob Mayer, who has played some very large SLCT roles in the past, is taking time out from managing his new Tiger Touch gift shop on Commercial Street to fill the minor-but-fun role of the handyman, Mr. Thorpe. Bob's main contribution to the current play is consistently mispronouncing "Gazebo," which is indeed above-and-beyond for this proper Princetonian.

Other "old pros" peopling the cast are Bob Tabor, John Procino and Fred Ferrara, all practically founding fathers of the little theatre structure. Fred, daddy of the group's "foundling fathers" Fritz and Cindy Ferrara, should be given a medal for above and-beyond-the-call showmanship. He practically arose from a real hospital bed to become a stage corpse for Gazebo.

New and fresh talent in the play includes Terri Horenstein as the maid, Harold Brooks as a very tough gangster with great taste in shoes, John Polson as Dr.Wyner, Jeff Karoy as Potts and Dorothy Chandler as the real estate agent. For Dorothy, incidentally, its a first-ever on stage, and with her smooth handling of the role, she's an addition not to be overlooked.

Joanne Carlton, pretty blonde star who surprised everyone with her great performance as the Charlie of Goodbye Charlie a couple of seasons back, is on the directing end this time, and capably so. She's being assisted by Anna Wilson. Joanne, I understand, also did the stage setting, which is excellent for the mood and tone of the play.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. tonight through Saturday. Tickets are available at the box office, with special prices for students and senior citizens.

We didn't want to talk about it.

It was only after we realized that our greatest satisfactions in life have come as a result of advance planning that we decided to plan for the inevitable... our own funerals. And what we found was quite interesting.

YOU CAN ELIMINATE INFLATIONARY EXPENSES

Having met rigid state requirements the Aycock Funeral Homes are among a very select group permitted to offer a service known as the "Pre-need Trust Plan." This unique service provides you the opportunity to preplan the funeral of your choice eliminating any cost increases due to inflation.

ALL PRE-NEED TRUST PLAN PAYMENTS ARE 100% REFUNDABLE

You may choose to prepay the full cost of the funeral now or arrange for convenient, affordable installment payments without any finance charges. Either way, should you move to another area or change your mind for any reason every cent you have invested in the Aycock Pre-need Trust Plan will be refunded.

OTHER COST SAVING SERVICES FROM AYCOCK FUNERAL HOME

Burial or Cremation...?

This is a question that, in most cases, is best left to the family. We will gladly discuss the features of both at your request. If your final decision favors cremation, we are the only funeral home in Martin County which has its own crematory. This too represents a savings for you in that it eliminates the expense of transportation to and from an out of town crematory.

CASKET RENTAL

No longer is there the need to purchase a casket for temporary use in the case of a cremation following the viewing and funeral service. The Aycock Funeral Homes' casket rental plan provides the use of a top quality casket at a fraction of its purchase price.

YOUR RIGHT TO KNOW

Eventually we are all affected by the planning or lack of planning of funeral requirements. You are entitled to know all the facts before the need arises. We welcome the opportunity to answer your questions. Please call for an appointment.

JOHNNY PINESEEDS?–Kindergarteners really put their heart into their work, when it comes to planting trees for Arbor Day. These two are Jason Steele and Dustin Henderson, members of Ken Rickson's class at Jensen Beach Elementary. Two classes joined to plant a full hedgerow of slash pines contributed by the Department of Forestry. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

YOUR PIT'S BETTER–Some kids dig other kids digs best. Joel Burgess, right, decides to try the hold dug for Christine Cornell's pine tree on for size, before planting it in his own pit. The project, on the part of two kindergarten classes at Jensen Beach Elementary School, was part of the school's Arbor Day observance. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

PASS THE PLANTS–Kindergarten teacher Ken Rickson carefully doles out slips of slash pine to the children, in advance of the mass planting in observance of Arbor Day, along the recreation area fence. The tiny trees, donated by the Department of Forestry, are being tended daily by their individual young woodsmen. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

GOLD, MAYBE? When a Jensen Beach kindergartener digs, he doesn't fool around. Little Matthew Shearer got so deep with his pit dug for planting his slash pine he came up with some unexpected prizes. Who knows? Maybe pirate's gold? (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

Community Representative Named to Indian River Cuisine Recipe Committee

Mrs. Thomas D. Wagers has joined five other members of the "Indian River Cuisine" Recipe Committee. The cookbook is a project of the non-profit Indian River Community College Foundation. Mrs. Wagers, a native of Huntington, West Virginia, is a member of the Capron Trail Garden Club and the Women's Dorcas Circle of the First Presbyterian Church. She has lived in Fort Pierce for twenty years.

A nutrition buff, Mrs. Wagers expressed eagerness to join the cookbook committee because, as author Phillip Wylie observed a few years ago, "Science is spoiling our supper." That is, this age of processed, pre-packaged food has led us away from the enjoyment of good, solid, old-fashioned cooking.

Are postal problems being whitewashed?

BY SALLY LATHAM

Internal dissension at the Jensen Beach Post Office seemed to take a new turn this week, as West Palm Beach officials slammed the door on the case and announced "It is under control."

Postal officials refused to consider an investigation of the matter, called for by a Mirror editorial last week.

Queried on the alleged internal dissension which was brought to public attention nearly two weeks ago by an article in the Miami Herald, Walt Smith, director of customer service, told the Mirror he'd compiled information about the matter, and that his correspondence was "ten to one in favor of the Post Office."

"I feel it's a closed case," Smith said. "If anything of a similar nature reappears later, I could consider looking into it, but under the circumstances, I feel it is under control."

He said he had read a follow-up article appearing in the Mirror, which called for bringing in a postal inspector to determine what, if anything, there was to the problem, which apparently has been stemming from dissatisfaction on the part of some employes in the local office. Charges have arisen of hold-ups on mail delivery, delays in sorting incoming mail, and arbitrary return of incoming letters without attempts to deliver it.

"I don't feel the need for bringing in an inspector," Smith replied to the Mirror. "They are sent in only when there is evidence of theft or financial problems, and there is no question of that."

The issue was brought to light by the complaints of disgruntled employes who claimed that morale in the local post office was being destroyed by poor management. The problem, however, evidently goes deeper and farther back than the present regime of Officer in Charge Don Sivyer, who was imported from the Homestead area after former postmaster Harold Salzler stepped down to the level of mail carrier, also reportedly because of internal dissention. Salzler's predecessor also quit under similar circumstances.

There is apparently more to the inner turmoil than postal officials are admitting, if the inside sources are correct. One former employe informed the Mirror that hearings are being held this week on the matter.

An attempt to confirm the claim, however, led into a dead end, as far up as Washington. This reporter, on the information that the hearings were being staged by the National Labor Relations Board, contacted the NLRB office in Boynton Beach. The official there would neither confirm or deny the rumor, but said only that such hearings "would involve the Tampa office."

The Tampa office, in turn, referred the Mirror to the American Arbitration Association in Miami, which gave the information that its authority does not extend this far north. That official referred this reporter to the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service of the Department of Labor in Washington.

"If such hearings are being held," the spokesman said, "they will not be made public until a decision is made. And unless you have the file number, I cannot help you anyway. Jensen Beach means nothing to us. You are only a number."

Medal of honor winner dead at 84

Reidar Waaler, 84, of 1088 N.E. Greenlawn Drive, Jensen Beach, died Monday, February 5, 1979 at Martin Memorial Hospital.

A native of Oslo, Norway, he had resided in Jensen Beach for the past 19 years, coming from Amenia, New York.

Prior to retirement in 1960, he was Vice President with Remington Rand Corporation as manager of their foreign offices in Europe for 15 years.

Mr. Waaler was recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor, the highest military honor the United States of America can bestow for individual bravery. This presentation was made by General John "Blackjack" Pershing just weeks following his heroic action above and beyond the call of duty. While serving in the U.S. Army with the 105th Machine Gun Battalion near Ronssoy, France, Sgt. Waaler crawled to a burning tank four times, under heavy fire, to rescue four crew members. He was awarded the French, English, and American War Crosses and numerous medals and citations including the Legion on Honor, from France and the Distinguished Service Medal from England. Also, he was presented to His Majesty the King of Norway.

In June 1975 he was presented the "Loyal Service" plaque of the Supreme Lodge of the Sons of Norway by Grant Shaffer, president of the local Gulfstream Lodge No. 514.

He is survived by his wife, Gladys, of Jensen Beach.

Funeral services will be held at 5 p.m. Thursday at the Aycock Funeral Home Chapel in Stuart with the Reverend John Wardle, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Palm City, officiating.

Friends may call Thursday from 4 to 5 p.m. at the Aycock Funeral Home in Stuart.

Speedy firemen, ambulance rescue Riverside woman

The lightning-swift response of the Jensen Beach Fire Department and the Jensen Area Samaritans to an emergency call in Riverside Village Saturday morning is credited with saving the life of a woman severely burned in a gas fire in a single-wide mobile home.

The victim was Mrs. Charles F. Rundlet of 504 5th St., Riverside Village. The call came in to the fire department headquarters on Palmetto Drive at 9:22 a.m. Three trucks and nine men were on the scene at 9:34 a.m., and the Samaritans' ambulance arrived seconds later, according to Fire Chief Joe Luciano.

Luciano said the woman had apparently attempted to light a gas heater, and the match had gone out. When she lit the second match, the gas buildup in the few seconds of delay flashed out, and set her nightgown on fire.

She apparently ran from the scene in an attempt to extinguish the fire. She was unconscious on the floor in the next room when the firemen arrived. The heat was so intense that it melted the indoor-outdoor carpet, Luciano said.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Rundlet were taken to Martin County Hospital, since he appeared to be suffering from respiratory difficulties. Mrs. Rundlet has since been transferred to the Tampa Burn Center for treatment. Mr. Rundlet is with her there.

Chief Luciano, concerned about the hazards of gas heaters in mobile homes, said "they should be outlawed," or at least designed so they can't open unless coordinated with the pilot light.

"People should be extra careful," he warned. "If the gas doesn't ignite immediately, they should wait five minutes before trying again."

Sally Latham illness forces missed deadline

Sally Latham, veteran news editor with The Mirror, missed her first Tuesday deadline this week. A lingering illness had kept her in and out of the office for several weeks.

But, Tuesday morning the plucky writer announced that she had reserved space at Martin Memorial Hospital "to find out what the hell is wrong." She added, "But I'll hang in there tonight. I'm not going to miss the deadline."

Tuesday afternoon, weakness forced Sally to give up and her doctor admitted her to the hospital for tests and a rest.

Mirror editor Dick Campbell announces that there are several news stories that won't make the paper this week, because he can't read Sally's notes, or can't find them on her desk. However, he did announce that he planned to make the desk well while Sally was in the hospital getting well, and not able to defend the desk.

More on Sally in her column next week.

Chiles to visit Sewall's Point - OBP

Sen. Lawton Chiles and his South Florida assistant Tom Hayes will be in the Jensen Stuart area on Monday, Feb. 12 to discuss problems related to federal government, and to seek the public views on pending legislation.

They will be at the Stuart City Hall from 9 to 10 a.m.; at Sewall's Point Town Hall from 10:15 to 11 a.m., and at Devan Breeze Park community Hall from 11:15 a.m. to noon.

Anyone seeking further information, or with questions in need of answering, may call Chiles' south Florida office, Room 931, Federal Building, Miami, 33130, telephone 350-5201.

Bank might be acquired by Southeast

The possibility that the Jensen Beach Bank might be acquired by Southeast Banking Corporation was announced Tuesday by officials of the major Florida bank holding company. Also included in the preliminary understanding for acquisition was First National Bank of Ft. Pierce and Vero Beach National Bank.

Six banks are on the acquisition list. Others include the First National Bank and Trust of Riviera Beach, Citizens Bank of Palm Beach County and First National Bank of Palm Beach County.

The announcement was made by Charles J. Zwick, president of Southeast Banking Corporation, and Roy B. Fleming, chairman of the board of First Bankshares of Florida, the holding company.

Under the understanding, it is intended that shareholders of First Bankshares would receive on a tax-free basis a new issue of 505,000 shares of Southeast convertible cumulative preferred stock. Southeast would also acquire two parcels of real estate from First Bankshares for cash at fair market value.

The remaining 12 banking offices of First Bankshares in Broward and Palm Beach Counties, including banks in Ft. Lauderdale, Boca Raton and Boynton Beach, would not be affected by the proposed transaction.

Preliminary understanding is subject to negotiation of a "definitive agreement" and the approval of shareholders of First Bankshares. It is also subject to regulatory and tax approval.

The newly issued preferred stock would be convertible into 1,515,000 to 1,704,375 shares of Southeast common stock, dependant upon conditions and date of conversion, and would bear a cumulative dividend rate of 7.5 percent. The preferred shares would be redeemable after five years at $55 a share.

This would represent the initial entry of Southeast into important markets along the Florida Atlantic Coast, and provide the markets with comprehensive banking services for customers, according to a Southeast spokesman.

As of December 31, 1978, Southeast Banking Corp had assets of $4.1 billion, deposits of $3.1 billion and 98 banking center locations around the state.

Taping studio finds a new home in Jensen

The Martin County Taping Studio for the visually handicapped is moving from its Stuart location to a new and larger headquarters in Jensen Beach.

Wally Gootanovich, a volunteer for the taping studio, said he hopes the new studio will be ready for an open house by March 2. It is located in Highlands Plaza along Commercial Street in Jensen Beach.

The old studio location, at 500 East Ocean Boulevard, is being vacated because "in the past it's been something of a donation from the Martin County school system, but now they need the room. We've counted on getting our own building eventually anyway."

The taping studio, which is supported by local contributions, provides the services of taping persons who read books and magazines so the tapes can later be listened to by the visually handicapped. The Library of Congress provides the tapes and the books and magazines, but all else is made possible by contributions and volunteer work.

Gootanovich says the studio sends master tapes of the books and magazines recorded here to the Library of Congress, and makes two other copies to keep at the studio. Visually handicapped persons can borrow tapes from the studio or by placing an order with the Library of Congress.

"We'll have much more room here than in the old building," he said. He and several other retired life members of the Telephone Pioneers Club, based in Stuart, are volunteering their time to assemble two new and roomy recording booths at the new and roomy Jensen headquarters.

He said at the old office, things were cramped, and he said since the air conditioning duct was common to both booths at the old office, recordings could only be made in one booth at a time. "Here, we can record in both booths at the same time," Gootanovich said.

The Library of Congress makes the tapes available to visually handicapped persons throughout the nation.

INSTALLING a heavy metal door to a new recording booth are, from the left, Bill Bell, Lou Bechtle, Dick Kupp, and Wally Gootanovich. The men volunteered their time to assemble two new booths at the new Martin County Taping Studio headquarters in Jensen Beach. Located at Highlands Plaza, the studio is expected to have an open house on March 2. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

We're closed until Monday

Blessing of the fleet planning is beginning

At a meeting of representatives of area yacht clubs and boating organizations, plans were initiated for the 9th annual Blessing of the Fleet and Marine Parade. This year's event is scheduled for Saturday, March 31 with the award banquet on April 1.

The parade location will be the same as last year, south of the Evans Crary Bridge on the St. Lucie River and in the bay west of the main channel. The blessings by representatives of the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths will be offered from the reviewing boat, the yacht "Chanticleer", owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Evinrude.

This maritime event has increased in support each year with 296 boats participating in 1978. Trophies for the best decorated and most originally decorated boats in the event will be awarded at the banquet, the decision of judges as yet to be selected.

All boat owners not affiliated with any boating organization, as well as club members, are welcome. Details of the parade procedure will be available at all marinas, marine supply stores and the Stuart-Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce offices.

For additional information call 287-8155 or 287-9122.

Optimists sell candy bars for youth programs

The Optimist Club of Jensen Beach, in an effort to raise funds for its youth projects, is concentrating this month on the sale of "The World's Finest Chocolate Bar."

The club supports youth football games in the fall, basketball and soccer, during the winter months, girls' softball, and baseball. They also sponsor such events as a cheerleading clinic, a bike safety program and summer activities.

The candy bar sale is one of several fund raising events held by the members to support these programs.

During the past year, more than 200 boys and girls benefitted from the efforts.

Vince Bocchino is candy-bar sale chairman. He says that on Feb.25, the participating young people will make the rounds of the community selling the bars. They will be garbed in their uniforms for identification purposes.

Business people are encouraged to buy 30-bar cases of the candy, either to give away to special customers or to sell, in order to recoupe the investment. All proceeds will go to the youth programs.

Kiwanis chicken cancelled

Due to a conflict in the use of the field house at Langford Park, the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club has cancelled the annual chicken fry, it was announced this week by Neil MacMillan, president.

The conflict arose when the Kiwanis Club registered the event with the Chamber of Commerce, but did not clear the use of the field house with park officials. Coincidentally, the Stuart Rotary Club reserved the field house for its own chicken fry on the same date, but did not register it with the Chamber office.

MacMillan said the chicken dinner will be moved to March 16.

Letters to the Editor

To the editor:

I read with interest the page 1 article by Dick Campbell regarding Post Office problems at Jensen Beach. It upset me as I read further into the article, because I thought it was poor reporting, ineptly handled, unresearched, and biased. In itself, this one item was not enough to cause this reply, but then on page 4 there was an Editorial on the same subject, which further emphasized poor knowledge of the subject material, and that nostalgic piece under the insulting cartoon, was just a little too much. I hope therefore that Dick will permit a reply that may present a different picture, or help him to find the truth.

Referring to the Editorial first, has Mr. Campbell any actual evidence of the "slowdown" to which he refers? Does he know the number of pieces of mail that come into the Post Office daily through January and February? Does he know the number of pieces that come in during July and August? Is there any increase in personnel during the "season" and is this in proportion to the increase in mail? Does he have the number of Manhours used in July and August to compare to January and February? Did Mr. Campbell question any Postal employees to get their side of the picture, or just settle for the Postal spokesman, because it was an easier assignment that way? Or was he reluctant to contact any Postal employees at home because he did not wish to offer them the protection of keeping their names out of their possible viewpoint.

It was indeed nice of Mr. Sivyer to stay until 6 o'clock awaiting Mr. Campbell's mailings. But were there ever any orders given to an employee to open the door on those days when Mr. Sivyer left earlier, or didn't Mr. Campbell bother to ask that question? Did Mr. Campbell find out how many complaints were filed about poor mail service in the past several weeks? Did he then ascertain by phoning some of the complainants, if their particular situation had been corrected, how long it took, and if they were now satisfied? Were there more complaints in January than in July? Were any of these complaints "tabled" in a wastebasket or did he confirm that every one had been properly handled?

How does the amount of mail increase in the winter months compare with that of the Stuart Post Office? Was there extra personnel put on in Stuart? How do overtime hours compare at the two locations?

The last question: would old Charlie Blanton, if he were still around, say: "Dick Campbell, that was a good job of reporting?" After 30 years with the Postal Service, I think not.

Sincerely,
Charles Moscoy
Retired Postal Supervisor

Editor's note: Some present and former employees of the post office were interviewed. All asked that their names not be used. On Thursday, half The Mirror subscribers received their newspapers in Holiday Out. On Friday, most of the others received theirs. One subscriber in Ocean Breeze Park did not receive a newspaper two weeks ago, asked about it in the post office, and found an employee there reading it. Last week the subscriber did not receive his newspaper again. All reported incidents are being recorded for postal inspectors. It is a violation of federal law to delay delivery of mail, either by reading someone else's mail in the post office, or holding such mail back from delivery.

To the editor:

Your nomination of the Jensen Beach postal employees to be the culprits in the poor service we are getting is, in my opinion, a rather simple response to a very complex problem. It is, also, not likely to improve the morale of the postal employees so accused.

All postal service in the United States is in a steep decline. As the cost to the public goes up, the quality of the service goes down. This is a direct responsibility of the bubble-heads at the top who are running the show.

If you are unhappy with the post office, complain to Congress and the President. They're the ones responsible. It's their system, their direction, which is making it run so badly and, for them it's par for the course. Our postal service is so fouled up with bureaucratic red tape and misdirection, it's a wonder it operates at an and, as a matter of fact, any day it might very well bog down and never move again. Until some horse sense replaces the nonsense we now have, it can only get worse.

You write that you have seen postal employees "hiding" to avoid working the front counter. I have no doubt they were instructed to "hide." They're all working under strict orders. You say the postmaster will open the door after hours for you but, when he is absent, his employees will not. I have no doubt they are instructed not to. That's part of the rules, that's the regulations, and that's holy.

Let me give you a personal example. For years, I have supplied the post office with a rubber stamp with my summer, North Carolina address on it. This makes it easy for the postal employees to forward my mail. This year, the postmaster refused to accept the stamp. New regulations require that mail to be forwarded must go to West Palm Beach, where a computer automatically scans it, determines its destination, prints a forwarding address stamp, pastes it on the envelope, and then sends it on its way. Oh, yeah! I knew better, but what choice did I have?

Some of my mail was lost forever, some came back to Jensen Beach, some was addressed wrong, some was sent to a town in North Carolina that doesn't exist, but that part that made it through the maze took 21 days to reach me in the mountains. The rubber stamp did that same job without error in 2 days.

This was not the postmaster or his employees' fault--it's the nutty system. The United States Postal Service is an open scandal, a swindle, not worth 15 cents a stamp, an embarrassment, and it's not the fault of a few disgruntled employees--it's the fault of a system gone haywire, out of control. You want relief? write a letter to President Carter. I did.

Sincerely,
Charles D. Schilling

Real Estate Investing by Paul G. Zinter, Realtor GRI
Graduate Realtors Institute

FREEING UP INVESTMENT CAPITAL

Question: My wife and I own a modest portfolio of excellent stocks now worth about $80,000 and are interested in acquiring some real estate to round out our investments. I knew that the amount I can borrow using my stock as collateral to buy more stock is limited because of margin requirements. How can I invest some of the money I have tied up in stocks in real estate without selling my stock? Is there a way, or am I completely limited by margin requirements?

Answer: Surprisingly enough, the margin requirements apply only when you borrow on stock to buy more stock. Regulations permit you to arrange a nonpurpose loan in the range of 75 percent of the value of your stocks and to use the proceeds as a down payment on real estate.

In your situation, for example, you could borrow up to $45,000 against your stocks for real estate investment. By assuming that you will obtain the 70 percent financing on the real estate, you will be able to own and enjoy the benefits of a real estate investment worth about $150,000 without reaching into your savings and without selling any of your stock.

Let's discuss your investment program.

Funeral Facts
by G. Wade Aycock

DO YOU FEEL FUNERAL DIRECTORS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF BEREAVED FAMILIES?

A. I could offer rhetoric about the "bad apple in the barrel" syndrome and although there is some legitimacy to that line of thinking, it really doesn't satisfy me.

Generally speaking, funeral directors consider themselves among the care-giving professionals. They are sensitive people, dedicated to helping others in a very specialized way. The great majority of funeral directors succeed or fail by their (ethical) reputation.

ra to your specific questions, write G. Wade Aycock, eral Highway, Stuart, FL 33494.

Mason dies in causeway accident

Long time local resident John Daniel Mason, 69, died Tuesday night after being struck by a car on the Jensen Beach Causeway.

Florida Highway Patrol Troopers W.R. Stringham and Steele Ritter report that Mason had been fishing on the walkway under the bridge, and was crossing the causeway on the way to his car when he stepped into the path of a car shortly after 9:30 p.m.

The driver of the car, a 1976 Plymouth, was identified as Edward Tracey, 55, of Poppleton Creek, Stuart. The troopers say Tracey was headed west on the Causeway and that Mason was crossing from the south to the north side of the road. Charges are pending against the driver, an FHP spokesman said.

An autopsy on Mason was to have been performed Wednesday morning.

Mason has a daughter living in this area, but efforts to contact her for details on funeral arrangements were unsuccessful.

Long time friend and neighbor, Jane Wyatt, said Mason was a very avid fisherman who often fished from the causeway. She said he usually parked his car on the same side of the bridge that he fished from.

Mason lived at 2231 N.E. Sunny Acres Way in Jensen Beach. Troopers say he died at Martin Memorial Hospital about 30 minutes after the accident.

He was a member of Trinity Methodist Church and of the Jensen Beach Moose Lodge. He came to Jensen Beach about 15 years ago and worked for Grumman and Tri-County Gas before retiring.

Mason's death marks the fourth fatal accident on Martin County roadways so far this year.

SL River PB Squads observe Founders' Day

A Founders Day dinner dance, jointly sponsored by the St. Lucie River (Stuart) and Palm Beach Power Squadrons, was held Saturday, Feb.3, at the Jupiter Hilton. The occasion celebrated the 65th anniversary of the founding of the United States Power Squadrons, parent organization of the local groups and world's largest boating fraternity.

Among the 132 members, wives and guests attending were District 7 Commander and Mrs. William B. McChesney of Port St. Lucie and District Lt. Commander and Mrs. Robert A. Nichols of Hollywood. McChesney heads District Eight of U.S.P.S. and Nichols serves as his Executive Officer. The District comprises more than 3,000 members in 17 squadrons along the southeast Florida coast from Vero Beach to Key West.

Early spring of 1912 found a group in the Boston Yacht Club, realizing that a serious lack of knowledge of proper motor boat handling existed, determined to improve conditions by instituting special activities for motor craft and conducting instruction classes. On Feb.2, 1914, at the New York Yacht Club, representatives of 70 yacht clubs and associations from Maine to Chesapeake Bay met and incorporated the United States Power Squadrons.

As the squadrons spread first along the nation's coastal waters then inland where pleasure boating thrives on rivers, lakes and reservoirs - squadrons were formed in many communities on Florida's coastline. Palm Beach and St. Lucie River squadrons, chartered in 1944 and 1970 respectively, are among 445 squadrons with over 64,000 members of a fraternal boating club dedicated to self education and civic service."

The October 1978 Safe Boating Course, conducted by the local squadron, enrolled over 230 Stuart area residents setting a new attendance record. "Enrolling in the course was one of the smartest moves I ever made" comments Commander Gerald E. McMaken, St. Lucie River Power Squadron, who now hold the highest grade offered, that of Navigator.

Boat examinations offered

The United States Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 59, is again reminding boaters of the availability of the free examinations made regularly for the promotion of boating safety.

The exams, called "Boating's Biggest Bargain," are given specifically for the benefit of the boat owner, according to Ted Hupper, Flotilla Public Relations Officer.

The exam covers all legal equipment on the boat plus items not required by law but recommended by the Coast Guard. Each boat passing the exam is awarded a 1979 CME safety decal to show its status.

No record is made of any boat failing the exam -- it will be noted only to the owner to aid him in making corrections.

The decal is a fringe benefit to the owner as it generally exempts him from routine inspections by the Coast Guard. (With or without a decal, however, all boats are subject to boarding for operational violations.)

Examiners of Flotilla 59 may examine boats at any location in the area. Boat owners may request their services by calling W. Scheffler at 283-1738.

William J. Carty, a verteran of 20 years in hotel management, has been appointed front office manager at Indian River Plantation, oceanfront resort on Hutchinson Island.

He comes to Indian River Plantation from the Hotel Peace and Plenty in Georgetown, Exuma in the Bahamas where he served as manager for two and one-half years. Prior to that, he was with the Roberts Harbour Club in Spanish Wells and the Hatchet Bay Yacht Club in Eleuthera.

A native of Pittsfield, Mass., Carty attended Syracuse University, the hotel management school at Cornell and the University of Miami, before starting his career in the hotel business.

Howey enrollment high

Howey Academy opened its second semester January 30 with the largest reported enrollment for the Central Florida coeducational college preparatory school in the last three years.

Late applications for both boarding and day students should be made as soon as possible for the spring term because of limited dormitory and classroom space, the Academy's director of admissions said.

It was emphasized as much lead time as possible is needed to transfer and process student records and credits.

Crisis Line getting vast variety of calls for help

The Crisis Line, which entered its second year of operation in November, has toted up more than 7,000 hours of service without interruption, according to its director Bill Satterlee.

In his annual report, Satterlee told the board of directors that some two dozen "people problems" have emerged and have been counseled during the first full year of operation. Among them have been alcohol, drugs and addiction, family problems, marital problems, sex, pregnancy, financial problems, mental depression, emotional stress, venereal disease, contemplated suicide.

Many of the callers, Satterlee said, just need to talk to someone.

"It is quite shocking," he said, "to learn that there are so many people who just have nobody to talk to or listen to them."

Some callers, he added, are merely seeking information, which are easily handled by a referral index. Others with more personal problems require skill, patience and special training to handle.

"A call is never rushed," the director commented. "We must earn the confidence of the caller to have him (or her) know he or she can trust the Crisis Line as to confidentiality."

There have been more than 1,400 calls thus far, Satterlee said. The phones are manned by some 55 paraprofessional counselor-operators, who man the phones 16 hours daily, seven days a week, from 10 a.m. to 1 a.m. All are non-paid volunteers.

A new Crisis Line (telephone 286-1121) training class will begin on Monday, Jan. 29, at Stuart Middle School, beginning at 7:15 p.m. The class is primarily for those wishing to become volunteer operators, but anyone wishing to absorb the training for self-enrichment may attend.

Dr. Robert Absfrom, well known TV psychologist, will conduct several of the lectures. Other professional people will also participate. Classes will continue for 14 sessions on Monday, and Thursdays from 7:30 to 10:15 p.m. until mid-March. The fee of $20 covers books and class materials. Those interested may call the Crisis Line business phone, 286-1126 for further information.

YCC accepting applications

The Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) program in Florida is now accepting applications from young people between 15 and 18 years old for summer employment. This year about 856 young Floridians will participate in the work-learn environment of Florida's national forests, national parks, national wildlife refuges, and other public areas. There will be both residential (live-in) and non-residential opportunities.

The Youth Conservation Corps, administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture-Forest Service, U.S. Department of Interior, and state government is a nationwide program and is a work, learn, and earn program. Work projects vary as to the agency and area, but projects undertaken are ones that accomplish needed conservation work that might not otherwise get done and help develop an understanding and appreciation of Florida's natural environment and heritage.

Don Percival, Forest Supervisor for the National Forests in Florida, says camps will be coeducational and last six to eight weeks. Participant pay will be minimum wage, $2.90 per hour.

Applications for the UCC program are available from local schools, the U.S. Forest Service, or Office of Environmental Education, Department of Education, Tallahassee, Fl. 32304. Applications must be completed and mailed no later than March 15 to the yec Selection Office, P.O Box 800, Falls Church, Va. 22046. Selection of participants will be made by a random process using computers. This way, every person making an application has an equal chance for selection.

Jensen women plan events

The Jensen Beach Women's Association will start off their February activities with a business meeting to be followed by dessert and cards at the clubhouse on February 5 beginning at 1 p.m.

A business meeting followed by the usual dessert and card playing will be held on February 19.

Plans are currently underway for the Bazaar which has been tentatively scheduled for March 10.

Dog obedience course to begin

A class in Beginner's Obedience will be given by the Jupiter-Tequesta Dog Club starting on February 12, at 7 p.m. in the parking lot of Pantry Pride, Tequesta. The Obedience Course is for mixed breeds and pure bred dogs 6 months of age or older, and runs for eight weeks.

Hotchkiss, speaker for Friday, Feb.8, at the Martin County Audubon Film Series program seems to have achieved in the unusual photo made during his camera explorations of the Rio Grande. That trip will be the topic of his film, which will begin at 8 p.m. at the Stuart Woman's Club. Tickets will be available at the door. Further information may be obtained by calling Prof.A.V.Des Forges, 283-2458 or Dr.G.W.Snook, 283-1456.

THAT'S A TAKE–Just as you would expect a real movie company to have, the outfit filming "Moonraker" on the North Fork had a chalkboard watchamacallit for indicating which scene of the movie is being shot. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Finish 7th overall

Nearly flawless race is still not good enough for victory

BY BOB FRYER

A pair of Japanese Mazdas that were supposed to break down--but didn't -- spoiled a golden opportunity for Jensen Beach racers Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton to visit victory lane.

Before the 24 Hours of Daytona got underway last weekend, Bond was asked what sort of competition he expected against his Porsche 911 in the GTU (small engine) class. First, he rattled off the names of several top Porsche teams who consistently run at the head of the GTU class. Then, almost as an afterthought, he mentioned that three brand-new, factory sponsored Mazda RX-7s would be entered in the race.

"I imagine they'll be faster than us -- any of the other Porsches, but we're just counting on them to break down," Bond said.

Two of the three factory Mazdas didn't break down, and wound up grabbing first and second place in the GTU class. In the process, they finished in fifth and sixth place in overall competition.

Bond and Tilton ran an amazingly trouble-free race themselves, keeping constant pressure on the Mazdas. During the entire race, the Bond-Tilton number 60 Porsche was never more than 20 minutes behind the lead Mazda, and for most of the race, the margin was more like ten minutes.

When the checkered flag fell at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, Bond and Tilton were still about 10 minutes behind the leader, finishing third in the GTU class and seventh overall.

"Nothing to speak of broke, and we ran as fast as we wanted, but we just couldn't catch them (the Mazdas)," Ren Tilton said after the race.

The only things that slowed the Jensen team down were quick stops to fix a broken header pipe a few times, and stops to put on, then take off, rain tires.

Around 9 a.m. Sunday, a light rain began to fall. Bond and Tilton gambled that the rain could continue and get harder, so they pitted for rain tires. The rain was short-lived though, and the team had to stop to put regular racing tires back on.

If the 1979 version of the 24 Hours of Daytona had followed traditional patterns, a seventh place ranking in overall competition would have been more than ample to insure a class victory for a GTU car. When Bond finished first in the GTU class at the 24 Hours of Daytona in 1975--his first attempt at the endurance race-- he placed 10th in overall competition. Last year's GTU class winner at Daytona was ranked 11th overall.

However, last weekend's race was like no other 24 Hours of Daytona in quite a few years. The big difference is that this year, a few cracks began to develop in the Porsche dominance of the event.

Not since the late 1960s, when Ferrari gave factory support to several teams, has a list of top finishers included so many non-porsches.

When a Ferrari Daytona finished 8th in overall competition last year, it was something of a moral victory just to penetrate the top 10 in something besides a Porsche. This year, the same car finished second. Granted, it was 49 laps off the pace of the Porsche 935 turbo that Ted Field, Danny Ongais and Hurley Haywood piloted to victory. Still, it was miles ahead of about a dozen other Porsche turbos.

At one point in the race, the scoreboard showed Porsche didn't even have a majority of cars in the top five spots. That was when the two Mazdas briefly enjoyed fourth and fifth places, just behind the Ferrari.

The first-in-class Mazda was driven by the Japanese team of Yoshimi Katayama, Yojiro Terada, and Takashi Yorino. Americans Walt Bohren, Jim Downing, and Roger Mandeville drove the second-place Mazda.

The first and second place Mazdas started in first and second in their class and held onto those positions for all but a very brief time in the race, when a Porsche 911 team of Jacksonville grabbed the lead.

Bond and Tilton started the race in 50th position among the 69-car field, and were in 18th place among GTU cars.

By the third hour, the Jensen Beach team had worked its way up to third place in GTU and 19th overall. They held onto 3-0 position for all but two brief occasions, when they slipped to fourth.

As the Mazdas marched up the standings, Bond and Tilton stayed right on their heels. All three cars were turning laps in a little more than two minutes, and the greatest distance that ever separated the Jensen racers from the lead Mazda was only nine laps, at the nine-hour mark. With just three hours of racing left, the number 60 Porsche was only one lap out of second place and two laps out of first. But the Mazdas prevailed, winding up with three-lap and five-lap margins over the local team when the checkered flag fell.

"We feel pretty good about the race, though we would like to have beaten them," Tilton commented, adding that he and Bond are looking forward to the next event on the International Motor Sports Association calendar, the 12 Hours of Sebring in March. E.J. Pruitt and Sons will continue to sponsor the Jensen team for that race.

ON THE MOVE--A nearly flawless race by Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton of Jensen Beach should have, under normal circumstances, guaranteed a class victory in the 24 Hours of Daytona. But last weekend's edition of the marathon race was an exception to the rule, and in spite of a very good run, the Jensen team finished third in their class and seventh in overall competition. Their number 60 Porsche 911 sported a new look at the race, painted white instead of orange, and bearing the name of a new sponsor, E.J. Pruitt and Sons.

A HUGE BALLOON made in the shape of a blimp hovered over the Daytona International Speedway during the 24 hour endurance race last weekend, but a manned, hot-air balloon found conditions a bit windy and spent most of its time on the ground.

THE ROW at the 24 Hours of Daytona was a busy place for many of the 69 cars entered in the endurance race last weekend. But Jensen racers Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton spent a minimum amount of time there and, as a consequence, finished very well. They placed third in class and seventh overall. Only 22 of the cars starting the race were running at the finish.

Plantation ladies shut out Hobe Sound

Indian River Plantation's ladies A team whitewashed Hobe Sound, 8-0, Thursday in Treasure Coast Tennis League action at Mariner Sands, but the scores do not reflect the closeness of the competition.

Five of the matches went to three sets and both coaches Mario Obando of Hobe Sound and Tom Falkenburg of IRP, who shivered on the sidelines, agreed a handful of differently placed shots could have changed the final outcome.

Terry Meinhold and Jean Schafer had the easiest going of the day, whipping Elsie Bertolini and Muriel Jennings, 6-1, 6-0. The other Plantation straight set winners were Gerry Wagner and Audrey Sax who beat Ann Munson and Barbara Romano, 6-3, 6-3, and Audrey Schad and Barbara Garramore who downed Louise Sciama and Sue Shetl, 6-3, 6-4

IRP's lead team of Connie Falkenburg and June LaVigne had their hands full before stopping Kathy Breeden and Danny Geisler, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5, while IRP's Mary Hudson and Sally Show were involved in two tie breakers before edging Joanne Wammes and Josepha Lund, 6-3, 6-7 (3-5) and 7-6 (5-0).

In the other matches Suzy Fox and Kathy DeWindt tripped Georgette Sweat and Helen Sibley, 6-3, 5-7,6-4; Nancy Dillard and Sandy Thurlow outlasted Joan Williams and Jean Law 6-3, 3-6, 6-2; and Lindi Rinaldi and Marge Miles, in the longest match of the day, defeated Jennifer Scutari and Grace Christensen, 6-3, 4-6, 7-6.

British tennis pro sets clinic at IRP

Fred Perry, England's greatest tennis player and the last man to win three consecutive Wimbledon titles until Bjorn Borg did it last year, will conduct a series of tennis clinics and speak at a dinner at Indian River Plantation Saturday, Feb. 10.

Perry, who won Wimbledon in 1934, '35 and '36, will hold a clinic for men from 10 a.m. until 11:30, followed by a session for junior boys and girls between 1:30 p.m. and 3 and concluded with a clinic for women from 3:30 until 5 p.m.

Well known as a teacher and story teller, Perry will be the guest speaker at a 7 p.m. dinner in the Plantation's Hutchinson Island Room. For additional information call Tom Falkenburg at 286-3700.

Traffic surveys continue

Remember the gorgeous petunias Ralph Kramer had at the park entrance for the last two years? Well after a discouraging struggle with some strange fungus, he finally has a lot of plants at the blooming stage. Let's hope they will again be the talk of the town.

The much needed traffic light at the park entrance gets a second chance at "DOT" made another traffic survey last week. Previous surveys made in July and December failed to show enough traffic to qualify. "DOT" officials should try to cross or enter during Indian River Drive traffic during the rush hours, then they would know that regardless of counters, there was a very hazardous situation.

A 'Do Not Enter' sign has been put up at corner of Pepper and Sixth to further reduce traffic flow on SW Fifth. The two 'No Turn' signs on Sixth were such a big help in relieving the congestion, that it was felt this last step should restore peace and quiet to that neighborhood.

PARK EVENTS

Don't forget the Golden Wedding Reception will be Sunday, Feb. 25. It will be from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Clubhouse and the following couples have signed up: Arnold and Margret Sherman, Irwin and Leta Keith, Ray and Verna Jo Bradley, Henry and Dive Donaldson, Clyde and Lila Sedinger, Tom and Dorothy Elliott, Ward and Flossie King, George and Betty Ryder, Bob and Mary Strohm, Henry and Bertha Edris, Richard and Julia Aumiller. All others celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary in 1979, please sign-up at once at the park office.

COSTUME DANCE. Saturday, Feb 10 at 8 p.m. in the clubhouse will be a Rags to-Riches affair with prizes for best, funniest, etc. costumes. It is a party, so there will be all kinds of dancing.

CAMERA CLUB is having a great season with over 100 at every meeting. Last week, Thurs. Feb. 1, Dan and Marion Knop showed their beautiful slide of Quaint Ol England. Next week Mrs. Gum of 11th St. will show Alaska and on Feb. 15 Sharon Kurgis will show the second installment of her beautiful undersea marine life.

Plans are now being made for the annual Camera Club dinner and it will follow the pattern that has been so successful for the past few years of supplying the meat and having the members bring the rest of the fixings. There will be a charge of $1 for the meat course and only Camera Club members can attend as the clubhouse can only handle 140 comfortably.

SHUFFLE COURTS were deserted until 9 a.m. last Saturday.....maybe that is a first. But reporter Fran Runyan says there was so much doing last week, they may have been resting up a bit.

OBP did well at Whispering Creed tournament with Ted Witmer and Anna Fair winning first place and Ralph & Inez Bailets third in the main event.

The league teams wound up the week with these standings, Indian River League: OBP 71, Ft. Pierce, 60; Stuart, 57; Vero, 49. Central League: Causeway, 34, OBP and Orchid Acres tied Holiday Out, 26; Stuart and Spanish Lakes, 20.

Coming events. Hoke Memorial, Feb. 8,9,10. Central East Coast at Ft. Pierce (M&L singles) Feb. 16,17,18. Battle of Sexes, Feb. 26 and 27.

RAMBLING AROUND

Fifty or more were at the Anchorage Sunday to bid Bon Voyage to Keith and Robin Creager as they left in their 32 foot Golden Hind yacht "Rebel" on the second leg of their voyage around the world, retracing the path taken by Sir Francis Drake, 400 years ago.

Fobins's grandparents, Ruel and Buelah Mertz through this column will keep the OPBers informed of their adventures.

Dot Snyder, Oak St. and New Jersey went to Lantana last weekend to help her mother, Mrs. Florence Walter celebrate her 84th birthday, on Feb 5. There she will be joined by her other sister Florence Ersek and husband when they take the mother out for a party dinner.

Mary Adrean of SW Fifth Street has her son and his wife, Frank and Hazel Adrean, who have recently returned from South Africa where Union Carbide built a new plant. Frank has worked for them for over 27 years. They have children, so Mary has 4 grandchildren and one great, and 2 of the grandchildren are finishing college.

Art and Sue Byrd of Skipper have had visitors recently...niece Sandy from White Bear, Minn., who took advantage of her husbands trouble-shooting trip to service a computer in Orlando. Also, Grand nephew, Larry Sirateck, and wife, and wife's sister who stayed on the Black Top while making their second visit here.

Charles & Louisa Martin, the folks that live in the 14 wide at 24 SW Sixth St., came down here last year from Greenwoods Hills, Pa. and plan to spend from Nov. to April here, as they find OBPers very nice folks for neighbors.

Charles was a pattern maker for 47 years while Louisa was a bookkeeper. They have one daughter, two sons and five grandchildren. They can expect plenty of visitors. Charles is very busy with his Christian work conducting services and funerals, but they hope to soon get time for a little fishing and shuffling.

Paul and Peg Feltoe, 1 NE Ninth St. are from Pittsburg where they spend about nine months each year. They have 2 sons and 4 grandchildren but that does not stop them from traveling all around.

Last year, it was to Alaska they went and found it great. Paul calls his taped slide show, "Alaska, Land of Superlatives", it covers cruise to Juneau, Mt. MacKinley, the Pipe Line and the Old Railroad ride to White Horse. Now they are preparing to go to the high Andes of South America and Galapagos Islands.

Ernest and Martha Cummings, 19 SW Seventh St are here for the winter. They have been coming to the Stuart-Jensen area for 18 years. They have a sports shop in Dennisport, Mass, that can take care of itself during the winter, so they can come here for the great fishing and often go out with Walter Lindell of Circle Drive to get snook.

Venture III elects officers

On last Thursday morning a few of our V-3 ladies attended the Stretch and Sew fashion show-luncheon at Holiday Out. Mary Spisak, Winnie Widlake and Mary Ahearne won door prizes. A box lunch and home-made cupcakes were served and all enjoyed the sewing fashion show. There is a list posted on the V-3 Rec. Hall board to see if there is enough interest to hold such an affair at V-3. So if you would like, sign up now.

Bunco was well attended on Sat. night. Six winners shared the prize money. Refreshments of coffee and home made cookies were served during the fun evening.

VENTURE HARBOUR

Thelma and Max Dickey have arrived in V.H. They hope the beautiful weather will continue so Thelma can play some golf.

Catherine and Hank Higgins spent the week-end in Disney World with sister Margaret Connelly and all had a good time.

INDIAN RIVER NEWS BY R. Curth

Welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Crist, lot 835, who arrived last week with one of the smallest dogs .....the cutest too.

Evelyn Sterling's sister and brother in-law, Ann and Steve Saghy, came for a short visit. Sorry they had to leave so soon.

After many trials and tribulations, Lucille and Steve Balowski are finally settled in their beautiful new Heritage trailer. They were surprised at 3 a.m. Jan. 28, when their daughter, Luann and husband Louie Polik, knocked on their door. They had flown down from Garden City, Mich. to celebrate Steve's birthday. A further surprise was the arrival of ten other relatives from Bradenton. Luann and Louie spent the week here, and regretfully left for the snow and cold of home on Saturday.

Marvin and Lu Russel had gone to Tampa last week, to bring back the furniture, to complete their trailer.

Dr. Asline is another patient of our street. He is laid up with a problem with his knee, but we hope he will be able to get around as soon as the weather gets a little warmer.

Lu is just shaking off the flu. Evelyn Sterling and Scotti Hiner also were down with it, and are doing fine.

Frank and Gail Lawson have acquired a 31 foot Airstream; they want to go in style and comfort for their summer vacation.

The election results for Indian River section are as follows: Frank Lawson, 842, president; Casper Uldriks, 893, secretary; Robert Wilson, 881, assistant secretary; Frank Myers, 912, treasurer.

Birthdays for February are George Sterling, 7; Evelyn Terry, 13; and Rose Curth, 20.

VENTURE OUT ST LUCIE

A warm welcome to some very nice people, Hettie and Al Hartman with children, Veronica and Wayne, who arrived from Canada for their annual visit; Millie and Roy DeWees left cold Long Beach Island, N.J. for our lovely spot; Helen and Don Eaton, friends of Betty Davis, arrived from Erie, Pa this week.

Kay and Ray Killeen are very happy at the anticipated visit of their son Bob and his wife Sara with their children Nancy, Mary Ann and David. Kay and Ray's trailer has been rocking with activities in preparation for the "Clan".

Charlie made it Galley that is. Wife Florence took him to Martin Memorial on Tuesday for a hernia operation, he was home on Sandune Lane Saturday walking, talking and laughting. Fit as a fiddle...Good boy, Charlie Brown!

We hear Emmie and George Carpenter took off for the Bahamas. Come back soon, we've warmed up.

May and Earl Eisenhard have fun and luck going to the dogs. May was a lucky winner last week and took her neighbors to breakfast at the Admirals Table. These generous kind of people should win all the time!

Goloria and Derwood Dickinson are enjoying their firends, Mr. and Mrs. Dodge, and Mr. and Mrs. Redman from Okenos, Mich. They have rented a trailer for two weeks in the Indian River section. Gloria and Derwood are looking forward to the visit of their son Richard and wife June, who will arrive this week for 10 days.

Results of the St. Lucie election of officers are as follows: Derwood Dickinson, president; Al Phillips, vice president; Harold Seeley, secretary; Doris Day, treasurer. Directors are Wayne Barrett, Jim Gibson, George Carpenter and Floyd Reynolds.

Famed chaplain is set for God and Country

Rev. James David Ford, chaplain of the U.S. House of Representatives, and former West Point chaplain, will be the featured speaker at the annual God and Country Day celebration February 25 at Florida Institute of Technology.

Ford, 47, is responsible for opening each session of the house with prayer and is in charge of religious activities of the Congress.

He is an active sportsman, having sailed competitively, and is a state ski champion. During the bicentennial, he and two others sailed a 31-foot sailboat from Plymouth, England to West Point.

God and Country Day is sponsored by the American Legion Post 126 and All Saints Episcopal Church. The program this year will be dedicated to Richard Neesas, one of the founders of the event, who died last year.

Bobby Lord, well known country-western singer, will be featured on the program.

Area churches, service and veteran organizations will participate in the program. The annual massing of colors is an impressive sight to see.

Bafalis is looking into Jensen post office problems

Congressman Skip Bafalis assured The Mirror Tuesday that his office is looking into problems of morale and mail delivery in Jensen Beach Post Office.

"We have asked officials of the post office here to look into the problems reflected by your newspaper," Bafalis said. "If there is a problem of not getting mail delivered or morale of postal service employees we want those problems corrected."

Local officials denied there was a problem and "closed" the books on the matter to The Mirror last week, following a newspaper confrontation between employees of the post office and the local agent in charge, run in stories in the Miami Herald and The Mirror.

Dissident employees attacked work rules, the amount of help, the backlog of mail, the sending of forwarded mail back to the sending station, delay of Social Security checks and a breakdown in morale due to improper training or no training at all.

The officer in charge, backed by his superiors in West Palm Beach, called the charges the result of a few disgruntled employees in the post office. He, and his superiors, said that the work force in the post office was on a par with the mail handled, that mail was not being held up, and that mail was not being delayed.

Officer in Charge Don Sivyer, running the post office following the resignation of Postmaster Harold Salzler, said he felt that the matter was just that of any office, with complaints being a part of the job.

"It could rain out and there would be a grievance filed," Sivyer said to The Mirror.

Following the explanation of charges and counter-charges by management and labor, Walt Smith, director of customer service in West Palm Beach, told The Mirror, "I feel it is a closed case. If anything of a similar nature happens again, I would consider looking into it, but under the circumstances, I feel it is under control."

Smith denied the need for a postal inspector, saying only theft or financial problems would warrant it.

But the post office continues in a turmoil, with customer complaints being phoned into The Mirror office in increasing numbers. All are referred to the local officer in charge, who has promised that all complaints would be looked into.

Bafalis promised an update on his efforts when he gets an answer from the postal authorities in Washington.

DNR crawls on turtles; will there be a watch?

The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce is having its own turtle watch, waiting for the Department of Natural Resources to make up its mind whether or not the Chamber can hold its annual turtle watch.

Chamber officials have received a "negative report" from the marine patrol. According to Fred Meeker, chairman of the popular turtle watches, the marine patrol does not like to see that many people on the beach, cites crowd control, and the distrubance of the prehistoric turtle egg-laying ritual as reasons that the turtle watches should be abandoned.

However, if the DNR allows the turtle watch, "we will have it," Meeker said. He added that the DNR has said the watches are educational and should continue, but is withholding permission.

Meeker said he plans to contact State Representative Churck Nergard on the subject this week.

In other business before the Chamber Monday night, it was reported the Spring art festival has already drawn over 100 applications from artists. John Heyburn reported that the Department of Transportation had not yet installed a directional Jensen Beach sign at Sewall's Point Road and Ocean Boulevard, and that a bike path from Leilani Heights to Pinelake Village was under consideration.

Dr. Stephen Allison announced that the beautification committee was seeking projects, and suggested the possibility of an arch being constructed on Commercial Street similar to the arch on SR 707.

President Jon Chickey reported that $1,000 had been sent to the fireworks company as the first payment of $4,000 for the July 4 Independence Day show, and predicted a spectacular finale in the show this year.

Fred Nataire, public relations chairman, announced that a media file was being compiled, and promotion publicity would be planned well in advance of events.

Helen Richardson, Chamber manager, reported that in the past month the Chamber handled 139 letters asking information, sent out 183 letters, sent 3,210 resort guides to welcome stations, delivered 5,063 guides to members, sold 158 maps, had 793 visitors to the office, and had 259 telephone calls.

She also reported that there are 214 sustaining members and 64 contributing members in the Chamber.

Editor is in panic; Sally to be out soon

Mirror editor Dick Campbell covered his first Chamber of Commerce meeting in several years Monday night as Sally Latham rested comfortably on her rump in Martin Memorial Hospital following surgery Monday morning.

The editor's desk piled up with work as Sally called from the hospital to say, "Well, Boss, I didn't promise you a rose garden."

Latham was operated on for a breast lesion and is expected to be released shortly.

The Martin Memorial Hospital switchboard, meanwhile, said that the extra load of telephone calls and mail was not a burden, and insisted that Ms. Latham's room was not a repository for all floral shops in the area.

"My desk is starting to look like Sally's," Campbell complained. "I hope she gets back to work soon."

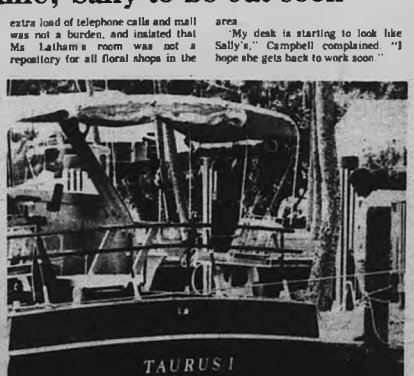
Fire destroys home on Savanna Road

Ruth Williams left her home to put her eight-year-old daughter on the school bus, and returned to find the house ablaze.

The Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department got the fire call at 8:20 a.m. Tuesday, and arrived at the scene at 8:24 to find the wood shack at 319 North Savanna Road engulfed in flames.

"I don't understand how it went so fast," Fire Chief Joe Luckam said. "There wasn't a thing in sight except flames."

The firemen from Jensen Beach and Rio worked through the morning to contain the blaze to the structure, and keep an LP gas tank from exploding. The house was a complete loss.



Ft. Pierce man died aboard this boat last week

Ft. Lauderdale myth just ticks Wacha off

BY DICK CAMPBELL

"If there is one thing that ticks me off, it's the people who say we don't want to make this another Ft. Lauderdale," Frank Wacha told Jensen Kiwanians Monday.

The county commission chairman compared growth restrictions in Martin and Broward Counties, saying there was "no way we can become like them."

Wacha said that Galt Ocean Mile has a density of 100 units per acre and buildings 32 stories high. Points of America there has two buildings, 25 and 31 stories high with 600 units on six acres, or 100 units per acre.

He added that until recently, Singer Island in Palm Beach County had 150 units per acre until recently.

Our maximum is 15 units per acre. We are a long way from what Ft. Lauderdale has become, and we will keep a low density here," he said.

He said that the Holiday Inn on Hutchinson Island is four stories high with a garage under the first floor.

"It is the tallest building on the island, and has units comparable to 11 units per acre. Sailfish Point has 1.5 units per acre in its plans, Indian River Plantation has six units per acre and Hulchinson House East has 14 units to the acre."

Wacha moved quickly from subject to subject, in his report on county government to the Kiwanis Club.

In Jensen Beach topics, the commissioner listed the intersection of Savanna Road and Commercial Street as "our worst corner." He said the telephone and electric lines have been moved back by Florida Power and Light Company, and the plans for improving the corner were due to be submitted to contractors for bids the following day (Tuesday).

He projected a late April-early May start of construction.

This summer the U.S. Corps of Engineers will remove Australian pines from the Jensen Beach Causeway and begin installing various types of erosion control elements that range from natural vegetation to construction materials. The effort is part of a study of the effectiveness of erosion control methods.

Wacha praised the work of volunteers at Langford Park, and said the success of the continuous programming there pointed to the need for another park.

"We have the welcome sign out there, and the 20 acres right in the middle of town is over used. The programs move through baseball, softball, football, soccer and back to baseball. The grass doesn't have time to grow."

He said the county is attempting to get a 100 acre park west of Savanna Road and south of Commercial Street for a sports complex and park-use. It would also be the well field center for the future north Martin County water system, something Wacha said was needed.

"You can't use the yard for a cesspool and drink water from a well next to it," Wacha said, referring to septic tanks that proliferate in Jensen Beach.

The county had already sunk one well that is producing an excellent quantity in the area of the proposed park.

On other topics, Wacha said that the Department of Transportation was planning to acquire property on the southeast corner of Indian River Drive and the Jensen Causeway for construction of a continuous right turn lane, make north and south-bound traffic stop, and swing the west-bound lane in a curve to allow continuous travel into town.

Government red tape is bad," Wacha said, citing delays in getting the intersection completed. He said that it wasn't elected officials as much as the "regulation markers who give us quite a hassle," in getting the job done.

He mentioned that the first phase of the St. Lucie Inlet construction would be bid on February 21.

On marinas, Wacha said more are needed, but that they should be located to the south of the Stuart Bridge on the Indian River to keep bridges from being tied up, and keep road traffic moving across the bridges.

BY DICK CAMPBELL

He walked out to center court, dressed in white slacks and blue blazer. The label on his coat and shirt and slacks read "Fred Perry."

He was introduced by Tom Falkenburg, Indian River Plantation Tennis professional, as "a man who is a legend in his own time, one of two who have won Wimbledon three years in a row."

He took charge of his clinic, and dispelled many myths of tennis in a few moments.

At 69, Perry's hands were quick, his body athletic, and he moved like a cat. His comments were as quick as he moved through his nostalgic comments on tennis.

"Nothing is new. They were using a two-handed backhand in 1925," he said.

He looked down his nose at a metal racquet offered to him, choosing a wooden racquet, "because the control is in the wood."

However, Perry said that there were metal racquets back in the 20s, strung with metal strings.

"When you hit the ball it played Dixie. The ball would go anywhere."

He told the 25 participants that conditioning was the key to good tennis. One year he lost four tournaments in five, and returned to England to train with a football team. After a summer he returned to the court in better condition than his opponents and lost only one match in three years.

Perry won his three Wimbledon tournaments in 1934-35 and 36. He also won the U.S. Open, and the Australian and French Opens.

"Don't try to blast the ball out of the ball," Perry said, opting instead for control. He suggested training by hitting the ball with a companion at half speed.

He suggested a formidable philosophy for tennis.

"When you get someone down, step on them and keep them down. Don't let them up."

Perry told of how he was defeating an Australian by hitting balls to his backhand. He had the person down so bad his coach suggested hitting some to the forehand so that the opponent's home town crowd could stop booing.

"I did it, he passed me, and it took until 15-13 before I won the set. Don't let them up. Step on them when you have them down."

In those days, Perry added, the players played three out of five sets, with no limit to the number of games. For that reason, pace was necessary so that a player wouldn't tire.

"I would try to win the first set, but if I couldn't, I'd make certain that it was a long set," he said, pointing to his conditioning allowing him to outlast his opponent.

Perry moved to the court, where he demonstrated serving. He closed his eyes and hit three balls quickly, pointing out that the ball and racquet should be at the same place at the same time so that anyone could serve with their eyes closed to prove to themselves that they have the proper toss and racquet position.

The tennis great gave Saturday clinics to the men in the morning, the boys and girls in the early afternoon and the women in the late afternoon.

That evening Perry was feted at a cocktail party and dinner. The party began at seve, dinner was served at eight, and Perry began his talk. He reminisced of the old days of tennis to an audience that ranged in age from twelve to seventy.

He bemoaned the lack of discipline in tennis today, saying that if a player stepped out of line in the twenties or thirties he would be sent home.

He told how young tennis players copy the stars of their country, with two-handed backhands of Jimmy Conners and Chris Evert in the U.S., the top-spin of Bjorn Borg in Sweden, and the antics of Ille Nastase in Rumania.

His experiences through the founding days of tennis, his annection of the many greats of his day, and his humorous anecdotes rambled on through the evening.

It was almost midnight when he finished speaking. Not one person had left the room.

GIANTS–Two giants of tennis, Fred Perry, right, and Tom Falkenburg, tennis director at Indian River Plantation, talked before Perry's clinic last week at IRP. Perry was winner of Wimbledon in the early thirties three times in a row, a record that held until Bjorn Borg recently matched him.

Ft. Pierce man dies aboard boat on river

A Fort Pierce man died of apparent carbon monoxide poisoning last Thursday while on a boating trip through the area on the Indian River.

Dead is 19-year old Fred Cotton of Fort Pierce.

Martin County Sheriff's officials report Cotton was on a 42-foot boat, the Taurus II of Jacksonville, Fla. when Cotton's brother, John Gloria, discovered him in a cabin, apparently overcome by carbon monoxide gasses that lawmen believe came from a leak in the craft's exhaust system. The boat was near the Evans Crary Bridge at the Stuart Causeway, so Cotton's father, E. Yearick, called for assistance and tied up to the bridge, near the bridgetender's office. A Jensen Area Samaritan ambulance crew went to the bridge, but when it was decided they could not lift Cotton to the bridge, two attendants got on the boat and began attempts to revive him while the boat headed for Frances Langford's Outrigger marina. The ambulance met the boat there and rushed Cotton to Martin Memorial Hospital, but he was pronounced dead there.

Cotton's father and brother were apparently down from New Jersey. They and Cotton reportedly left Fort Pierce for a diving trip early Thursday morning. Cotton apparently went below to sleep and was overcome by the fumes before his brother discovered him. The call to the Civil Defense department for help came in at 7:56 a.m. Thursday.

On Friday, Sheriff's officials had a diver at the Outrigger to check for the suspected exhaust system leak.

...and, at Ocean Breeze Park, the ...ers were over the possibility of ...ed gasoline sales and over the ... for welfare reform.

Hearing the complaints, the concerns and the congratulations were two assistants to Florida's U.S. Senator Lawton Chiles, Tom Hayes and Damon Smith.

Earlier in the day, the men were in Stuart and on Monday night, they were in Fort Pierce. It was all part of a Chiles campaign pledge to have his assistants visit every city in the state at least twice a year to hear the comments and concerns of citizens.

City councilmen Merle Anderson and Schuyler Sharpe, as well as council candidate Joseph Schwartz put in the plug for a full-service Post Office in Port St. Lucie, and council candidate Gerald Girard spoke of the need for more federal health care funds to be spent in the Port St. Lucie area.

For the last four and a half years, Hayes said, he's been coming to the cities in this area. But, he added, he will soon take a job in Washington, D.C., and Smith will be handling the route that, in this circuit, includes 177 cities.

Halyes and Smith commented that Sen. Chiles has made inquiries in the past about getting a Post Office for Port St. Lucie and will continue to press for such a facility in the future. When told of the recent rapid growth in the area, and the consequential rise in the city's population, they said new data on how many persons live here may help in getting a Post Office.

Anderson joined Girard in voicing a need for more health care facilities in Port St. Lucie and they got a pledge from Hayes to check on what Health, Education and Welfare Department funding programs may be available for rapidly growing communities.

Schwartz said he'd spoken with General Development Corporation officials about the possibility of locating the Post Office in the future Village Green Shopping Center along U.S.1 at Walton Road, and said GDC officials said land near the center might be a good place for the facility.

At Ocean Breez Park, Hayes said one person voiced fear over the possibility of gas shortages, one person complained of the need for welfare reform, and another asked for information on a career education funding program.

At Sewall's Point, a woman came to relay her thanks to the senator for help in resolving a dispute she had with the federal government. Her land near a federal highway in Pennsylvania was in a state of limbo for years, as she waited for a decision on whether or not part of it would be used for highway improvements. For 13 years, Hayes said, the woman paid taxes on the land, but was hindered in trying to sell it because the highway plans were uncertain. Hayes said she got a runaround for 13 years, but got a resolution to the problem within six months after asking Chiles for help.

A Sewall's Point man complained of the IRS dragging its feet in paying him money the agency owed him, and another Sewall's Point man complained he was having trouble getting a copy of a new energy efficiency building code Hayes said he would track down a copy for him.

SENATOR CHILES' ASSISTANTS Tom Hayes, left, and Damon Smith, right, made a visit to a number of area cities Monday to gather comments from citizens and pass along to their boss. They heard complaints about federal governmental agencies, a compliment for the work Chiles did to solve one woman's 13-year-old problem with the government, and requests for a full-service Post Office in Port St. Lucie. Hayes will soon be leaving his job and Smith is taking it over. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Watch the driver try to see around the corner to know whether or not he can turn left from the Causeway. Watch the cars overheat.

The DOT has a plan there, too. County Commission Chairman Frank Wacha explained that the plan is to acquire the land to the southeast, then make one sweeping lane that would allow cars to have continuous traffic flow on and off the causeway, with the low-traffic count north and south bound having a stop sign to deal with.

Unfortunately, Wacha says that the delay in getting the job done is caused by bureaucratic red tape of appointed officials who make regulations that delay, delay, delay.

There must be some way to improve the answer time on DOT projects. It might start with having the delayers justify why they are doing all the things that delay projects.

Overstated enthusiasm

Don't ever say I don't throw myself into my work.

A few weeks back, I came over here to cover the opening of the new fifth floor of Martin Memorial Hospital, a happy occasion which temporarily turned off the redlight in the overcrowded facility's admitting office by adding a much-needed 50 extra beds and making life a lot easier for nursing staff and ailing public alike.

I didn't realize it at the time, but I must have overstated my enthusiasm, because last week all of a sudden I found myself ensconced as a paying guest, right up here in the part over which I'd lavished such enthusiastic admiration.

I do recall saying, somewhere along the line that I'd love living in that beautiful soothing color scheme of blue touched with cheerful multi-colored accessories.

There must be a lesson in there somewhere, like don't admire something too much: You might wind up getting it.

But then, I haven't changed my mind about the hospital. It is everything it appears to be from the casual visitor's eye, only more so. I've been in several hospitals, down the years of my checkered health career, and each one has had a personality of its own. But primarily, they can be divided into two categories-the ones in which you are a number and a disease a "case" and the other in which you're a real live human being.

In Martin Memorial, you are a human being, and a very lucky one. Everyone from the doctors to the maids, and from the nursing supervisors to the Pink Ladies, seems to have a genuine concern for your comfort, well-being and peace of mind.

Ah, the Pink Ladies! These are the gals with my greatest admiration and gratitude. They are the hospital's yes-women, in the nicest possible sense of the word. If they can't serve your needs in person, they'll run their legs off to find someone who can. I've never been in a hospital where I wasn't Number One in their admiration society, but here in Martin Memorial, they seem to be even a step above and beyond most in their dedication to be of service. Some of the beautiful souls who have been running my errands during the past few days I know could easily be spending their time sailing around the world or flying off to Vail for skiing weekends instead of running their legs off for us pampered patients, some of whom must be more than a little trying to deal with. The fact that they are here is a true mark of their greatness.

And I'm sure that much of the inspiration emanates from the top. It takes a person like Marian Monroe, who heads the MMH auxiliary, to recruit, channel and utilitize such a well-spring of humanity. She's a crackerjack at the art.

The benign genie who put me in here on this beautiful fifth floor, in a room with a million dollar view of the St. Lucie River, was also looking out for me in the area of roommates. Five minutes after I was settled in my comfortable hospital bed, I knew Dee Ellsworth was my kind of gal. She was just recovering from surgery she had undergone that morning, yet even in her doped up discomfort, her chuckle shined through. Before that first evening was over, we'd established our identical tastes in TV programs, reading material, people and our matching dirty senses of humor. An attractive young divorcee with three small children, Dee does a man's job for Lone Star cement company, but under the veneer of efficiency is an external pixie as crazy as I am. Frankly, after a couple of evenings with visitors, I'm a bit surprised we both weren't thrown out on the street. The girls on the fifth floor are amazingly tolerant of good natured screwballery.

It had been so long since my last sojourn in a hospital I'd forgotten some of my personal fraideries, including the fact that I have extremely obstinate veins, that resist all efforts of invasion. Which introduced me to a local genius of no mean calibre.

One of the first things they do to patients like me is lure you up to the intravenous monster. I don't know exactly why, unless it's to keep me from chasing the good looking doctors up and down the halls. Whatever, getting wired up was one of the worst orders of the day.

The first time around, the nurse whose lot it was to plug me in managed to tap the keg without more than minor torture. But the poor benighted gal who got the job the second time was less fortunate. She jabbed. I screamed. She missed. A second time, and another bulky vein uttered another rude yelp.

She gave up. Soon, in came yet another angel of mercy - one about two minutes tall and wearing a big smile. She took one exploratory look of arm - plunked in the needle with no more sting than a timorous mosquito, and voila - dead was done.

I learned later she is Alice Clary, known far and wide, as the master sticker of them all. If I need another IV, wherever I am, I'm sending for her.

For the past few days, I've been learning more about the latest equipment for getting the inside dope down in x-ray, from the barium barroom to the amazing sonar scan operated by a petite brunette with the fascinating name of Renata Figaro. I asked her to sing me an aria or two, but she politely declined.

They're not done with me yet, but I'm convinced that from here on I'll be in good hands. MMH is a pleasant place to be sick in.

The weekend was a gasser

They were cleaning out the refrigerator, filling the garbage can with butter, rolls of film, vermouth, instant frozen french toast, five jars of pickles, two half filled bottles of catsup, half a roll of rye and half a loaf of white bread, coffee creamer, mustard, mayonnaise, tartar sauce and the package of 12 fish sticks.

I was to take all of it to the boat as the workmen began pulling the giant sheets of canvas over the two story Mirror building.

The girls were taking their typewriters, notebooks, ledgers, and advertising books home to work out of their kitchen tables, and Rick was loading extra newspapers, boxes of film and photo paper, and other goodies in the van for storage there.

All telephone lines were busy as call after call came in. The hands on the clock reached two minutes to noon, when we were to walk out of the building, leaving it to the exterminators and their gas.

We were yelling up and down the place. It looked like the British leaving Dunkirk.

A man in a grey suit with a briefcase walked through the door. He was a pro. Looking neither to the left or the right, he said, "Hello, I'm from Waterway Guide."

"Grab a box and put it in the trunk of the car, we'll talk on the way," I said. We loaded the food and my typewriter in the car. Then we came back for more, and several final calls.

Sally Latham had already copped out by getting ill and going in the hospital.

I had a long lunch at the Outrigger (he bought) Later, I went to Bill Meisaner's slide show at Cedar Point, and crawled into bed early.

On Friday, I was in Ft. Lauderdale, planning the 100th anniversary convention of the Florida Press Association, hoping that no one sneaked under the gas filled tent I got back in time for a showing of the new Outrigger commercials at Perry Cable, and sprung my back lifting a box out of the car. Then we went over to see Latham, who was holding court in her hospital bed.

My sprained back forced me to miss the Saturday tennis clinic by Fred Perry at Indian River Plantation, taking pictures and watching instead of playing some of the bulge off my middle. That night we went to his dinner, and heard a great speech that lasted until midnight.

I aired out the building on Sunday, and began the cleanup project.

Except for a slight smell when I opened the building, there was no sign of residue from the gas. The smell was gone as soon as I aired the place out.

Then I went to Nick Masi to try to save my back and he worked on it for awhile.

"Take it easy and rest," he said.

I went back to work, moving all the things in the building. To take a break, I called Joe Luciano, our fire chief, and asked if I could burn some of the tree clippings we had on the lot. He gave the okay and I got out in the air, burned a couple piles, and Jeanne Ackley arrived to help.

We did the dishes and cleaned up the refrigerator, put the food back in and headed back to the old grind; me at my typewriter and her setting type on the computer.

I made some instant coffee. Someone had the pot, so I had to heat water in a Pyrex pot, hoping it wouldn't break on the burner. It didn't.

The day was complete when Latham called to tell me that she would have surgery on Monday. She had, however, finished her column and would give me notes on stories for the week.

"Does that mean you'll miss Tuesday night?" I asked.

"I'm afraid so, boss. But I'll be there in spirit."

Looking out the window at the Indian River, I decided that I had just about had enough for the week. The nice breeze, and warming trend of Sunday afternoon, and the sun shining, made me realize that the three days had been a gasser, and not just for the building.

"I'm going to finish my column, and go sit on the boat and look at the water," I said to myself.

And, that's just what I did.

Port St. Lucie's peculiar

There's a certain peculiarity about Port St. Lucie that becomes elusive when you try to name it in a word.

Port St. Lucie has no downtown section, unless you cassider a convenience store, restaurant, pharmacy, bank and real estate office as downtown. "We're essentially a bedroom community," Mayor William McChesney once commented.

For years, Port St. Lucie has been a retirement community. But it isn't one anymore. Today, 1040 first through fifth grade students are enrolled at Port St. Lucie elementary. It's so crowded it's the only school in the county on double sessions. And, with an average of more than 100 new housing starts in the city per month for the past year, Port St. Lucie can be characterized as a boom town.

It's a large city, physically. At 66 square miles, it matches the size of Cleveland.

Yet, it's only got somewhere between 5,500 and 11,000 residents, depending on how optimistic your source is.

Especially west of the Turnpike, once you pass Windmill Point, you can drive for miles without seeing homes telephone poles, or people. Some of the roads are so infrequently used that weeks, two to three feet high, are growing through the pavement. And, it's not unusual to find a few cows on the roads.

But boom town, retirement-city-turned young, and bedroom community are all inadequate terms to define Port St. Lucie.

It's tempting to call Port St. Lucie a company town, for surely one firm, General Development Corporation, has played a dominant part making Port St. Lucie what it is today. In fact, when the city was incorporated in the early 1960s, its first five councilmen were GDC employees.

But in the traditional sense, a company town is one in which one company employs a great majority of the town's residents.

GDC has its share of employees in Port St. Lucie, but there are a great many persons who don't work for GDC. The breadwinners of a lot of the younger families are in the construction business, but work for one of the many non-GDC contractors that do business here, or they drive to the nuclear plant, Fort Pierce, Jensen Beach, or Stuart for employment. Though GDC owns an awful lot of land in the city and is still a company with clout when it comes to shaping the future, its power is diminishing with each new lot and home it sells.

Demographically, I imagine the city would come out abnormal if its population were charted. I suspect the chart would show a lot of young children, a fair sized population of parents of those children, and a lot of senior citizens. But there would be gaps in the age brackets showing few persons in their late teens and early 20s, and few persons in their 40s and 50s. In other words, the city has a lot of young couples, who have been out of school five or 10 years, and are just starting families and lot of retirees. We have few persons who have gone straight from high school or college into jobs around here and we have few persons who are nearing retirement.

I don't know if it's good or bad that Port St. Lucie has gaps in its population brackets, or that it's a bedroom community, a company town, and a boom town. But those characteristics certainly make it unique, and indicate that it's a city that's growing and changing daily.

It's a good city, with an opportunity to become a great city-provided that its residents supply the care and input to make it so.

To the Editor:

Many of your readers might welcome more information on "SEXAT". Sorry, that's TAXES spelled backwards. BUT, you say, there is nothing backward about my tax bills. They're going higher and higher. A revoltin' situation, to be sure. Howard Jarvis, one of the principals and architects of Proposition 13 that surprised the nation in the California vote, said, and I quote, "while death and taxes are inevitable, being taxed to death is not."

Well, here's a new tax for you to start thinking about. There is a lot of Ivory Tower discussion at the home office located at the Capital in Washington, D.C. Senate Finance Committee Chairman Russell Long (Dem. Louisiana) and House and Ways & Means Chairman Al Ullman (Dem. Oregon) are contemplating a national value-added tax (VAT), to replace part of the Social Security payroll tax that increased with the New Year. VAT has been used in the socialist countries [illegible]

There are so many "hidden" taxes that all of us pay for today from the loaf of bread you eat...to the last ride you'll take to the cemetery. It behooves all of us to write immediately to Senator Long and Congressman Ullman and state your particular views on any more "hidden" taxes. Naturally, you'll want to write our own Congressman "Skip" Rafalia, as well as our 2 Senators Stone & Chiles.

To the editor:

The battle and fight for the Panama Canal is not over yet. So many people have been led to believe that, thru the antics of Pres Carter's mid-summer trip to Panama and his further rhetoric on the subject, the Panama Canal issue is now a closed one.

Not so, by any means. Under the terms of the Senate's action last spring, the U.S. House of Representatives has until March 31, 1979 to use its Constitutional authority to stop final approval of the Canal surrender agreement between Pres. Carter and Gen. Omar Torrijos. Before March 31, if the House exercises its power under Article IV, Section Three, Clause 2 of the Constitution, the transfer of American territory and property to the Marxist Panamanian dictatorship WILL BE BLOCKED.

The Carter Administration has continuously bypassed the House of Representatives on the Panama Canal issue. First, the Pres. blocked a House vote on the Panama Canal Treaties. The House has a constitutional duty to vote on the disposition of American property. Secondly, the House was again bypassed by never receiving from the Pres. any of the implementing legislation for the treaties. Thirdly, now Pres. Carter is spending money without approval of the House. He has recently authorized the Defense Dept., thru Deputy Sec'y of Defense, Charles W. Duncan, Jr., to spend over $10 million for construction in the Canal Zone in preparation for Panama's takeover next year.

Rep. George Hansen (R-Idaho) charged that the Defense Dept. had committed "an apparent illegal act" and called for either an end to Defense's "defiance" of the Congress or the resignations of the officials involved.

WE, THE PEOPLE, must get the House to act against these Canal Treaties. Then, WE, THE PEOPLE, will have dramatically slowed the Castroite Communist takeover of Latin America and we will be spared the prospective loss of many lives and

To the editor,

Only now and then do I have a chance to run through the issued of the Port St. Lucie Mirror being sent to me. This one is so long ago its possibly forgotten in your mind - "Bonds or Millage" of June 22, 1978.

The residents of Port St. Lucie would have done well to have weighed carefully your thoughts and followed your recommendation and that of the far-seeing Board of Education, for a one-shot levy to pay for the new schools! Such taxpayer cost could have been for a year or two and for the future the set reasonable tax rate could continue to provide for the school system reasonable operating costs. It was unfortunate, very unfortunate, that the proposal was voted down!

Those residents who were negative could well take heed of the Long Island, N.Y. example where school boards in district after district took up the "so easy and presently so digestible" bond issue course to placate the residents on high costs of school building construction. Thoughtful citizens here were similarly voted down, very unfortunately.

With bond issues making construction so easy, over building resulted and many school buildings are now vacant causing a continued needless maintenance cost for the taxpayers. At this time the results of the ill-advised bond issued and the prohibitive interest costs are all too apparent. People who carefully paid off their home mortgages with a view to retirement, can no longer support the heavy tax burden. Residents are leaving Long Island in droves because of the confiscatory school tax rate. Houses for sale are glutting the market. Banks are glad to sell on a foreclosure namely for the residue of the mortgage.

The school Boards of Education in rather a cavalier manner classify the tremendous bond and interest costs merely as now "mandated costs" OVER WHICH THEY HAVE, NO CONTROL OR RESPONSIBILITY and are not now to be considered as part of their present level of operating costs. However, in so many cases the same original board members are the ones mouthing this excuse - as the annual tax rates here continue to soar.

It would be good if the residents of Port St. Lucie reflected on so vivid an example of violating the "pay as you go" principle which is the only insurance of continuing a reasonable tax rate, holding the current boards responsible, and most important, allowing an American family to retain their paid up home.

Heavy involvements kept me from seeing your editorial before but I think your correct recommendation favoring the one-time school tax assessment should have been supported by the voters in their own interest.

I can only hope the residents of Port St. Lucie reevaluate and reconsider.

In closing, the clear thinking in your editorials is pleasing the see and we hope they do become effective as we will soon be Port St. Lucie residents, also.

Come to think of it, if you do have such an arrangement, what would be the cost now of a life-time subscription?

Sincerely,
John S. Persek

This was a state wide program which included Red Cross Shelters and other emergency units for which the local amateur radio group took the full responsibility of conducting. All units were controlled by short wave radio and the local operators who used their own equipment.

In behalf of all those who participated in this program, I express our sincere appreciation to the Mirror for the front page announcement of the event in the Feb. 1 issue. The public was well informed through your newspaper circulation.

SHOULD YOUNG CHILDREN BE EXPOSED TO A BODY?

A. Yes, definitely. If a child is old enough to form an attachment to another person and that attachment is severed by death, then the child has the same rights and privileges as any adult. Over-protection is commonplace and has probably done more to harm than help children when a family member dies.

We often make the mistake of treating children as if they have no feelings to express. We tell them not to cry when they hurt, either physically or emotionally, because we hurt when they cry.

So I say yes, please include children of all ages. Don't say, "You don't want to go, do you?" in a foreboding tone. Let them share with you . . . let them cry with you.

For answers to your specific questions, write G. Wade Aycock, 505 S. Federal Highway, Stuart, FL 33494.

Costume dance was outstanding

This is the third week in a row with no snowbird arrivals, so they must all be here, along with many guests. They are just in time for maximum park activities and there are plenty, as follows.

Ocean Breeze

BY ERNIE CURWEN
Tel. 234-9734

John Layback will put on a "Hi-Fi" concert of ol' favorites at the shuffle courts, 7 p.m. Sunday, February 18. Remember, his Christmas carol concert collided with a downpour; better luck this time.

The Avon lady is busy these days, as she has divided her territory; Mae Langto, 31 S.E. Fifth Ave. will continue to serve the old section, Helen McCall, 10 Bay Dr. will take care of the new section.

Ocean Breezers as usual can get a free blood pressure check at Langford Field, Fri. Feb. 16, 9 to 11 a.m. Also, there will be nutrition consuling for those on special diets.

Park Events

The Costume Dance was again an outstanding event, with the folks coming early to be sure of a good seat, in the clubhouse decked out gaily with Mexican sombreros. There was all kinds of dancing, then came the grand march for the judging of costumes, with these winners.

Most representative of the theme, Bert and Evelyn Dandy as "Rags to Riches"; the most original, Ann Feller, 90 yrs (Dorothea Barr's mother) as "The Absent Minded Professor"; ,he funniest, Jim and Ellen Nixon as ragged Jim and elegant Ellen; best overall, Bernie and Alma O'Neil, as two very complete clowns.

Then, and again as usual, Jos and Ida Wisser prepared the coffee and served the cookie refreshments. After talking it over and a few more dances, the crowd drifted away, remarking, "We do have lots of fun here at Ocean Breeze Park."

Camera Club had another "sell out" crowd of 126 at the meeting, Thurs. Feb.8, when Mrs. Gum showed beautiful slides of Alaska made last sumer, when she visited her son.

Next week, there will be part two of "Underwater Marine Life" by Eleanor Kurgis (part one was novel and excellent). Then, on Thurs., Feb.22, Frank McDonough will have slides of the recent trip to New Zealand, Australia and Fiji Islands.

Annual dinner is coming up on March 22 and tickets will go on sale next week (see committee). However, there is a "catch", one must be a C.C. member to get a ticket. But, that is easy. See Freda Petterkin, at the door for membership card at a minimal fee.

Shufflers had some weather problems last week, but they did manage to win a few more than their share as usual.

Central League team is now in third place; Indian League standings, OBF 81; Ft. Pierce 66; Stuart, 59.

Ambulance, Hospital & Obituary

Ruth Miles, 14 S.W. 6th St., was taken to hospital by ambulance, 7:30 p.m., Sat. Feb.10, for treatment and returned home later that night.

Cliff Ogle, 14 Bay Dr. returned home to recuperate Thurs., Feb.8. Iva Gill, 18 S.W. 3rd St., and Bill Lesterman, 14 Banyan, are still in hospital. John Gartner, 8 N.E. 10th St., went into hospital for surgery last week.

Ruth Ward, formerly 7 Arbervitae, died at Amherst, Massachusetts, Sunday, February 4, 1979.

Golden Wedding

The Ocean Breeze Golden Wedding reception is a tradition of long standing. It started back when Harry and Queena Hoke, founders of OBP were given a 50th wedding reception and felt that such a beautiful affair should be shared by all residents when they reached their Golden Wedding Day. This year it will be Sunday, Feb.25, in the clubhouse from 2 to 4 p.m.

Dick and Julia Aumiller, 1 Indian River Drive, are from Port Royal, Pa., and have been here since the early 60's. Their daughter Mary Lou Longenacker from Port Royal will be their hostess. Also, coming down is their son Mark and long standing "string band" friends, Mr. and Mrs. Morris West.

Ray and Jo Bradley, 20 Indian River Drive, came down here from Springfield, Mo. Ray worked for G.E. and was much involved with NASA at Cape Canaveral and Jo was a real estate broker. They have 2 children and 10 grandchildren to help them celebrate back home in August.

Henry and Olive Donaldson, 24 Key Lime Drive have reside here since 1960. They were married Feb.16, 1929, in Chanton, Iowa. They have a daughter and 2 grandchildren, with granddaughter Candy coming down for the reception. Henry was with the Bell Telephone for 36 years and Olive was in the restaurant business.

Henry and Bertha Edri, 5 N.E. 3rd Ave., were married in Detroit, May 21, 1929. They have one daughter, Elizabeth Ann Russell, who will be their hostess, arriving here from Roseville, Calif., Feb.22. They also have 2 grandchildren. They met back in high school days in Bluffton, Indiana. Henry was with Ford Motors for 35 years.

Irvin and Leta Keith, 6 Vista Drive, were married in the Robinson, Ohio, Methodist Church, Aug.31, 1929. They have one son living, 4 grandchildren and 4 greats. Granddaughter Debie Carder will fly down from Robinson to be their hostess and they hope the others can come too. Irvin was a Shell service station owner for years, while Leta was teaching school.

Ward and Flossie King, 28 Bay Drive, came down here in 63 from York, Neb. They were married, June 12, 1929, in Hiawatha, Kansas. Ward and Flossie have one daughter, one grandson and 2 granddaughters, all in Iowa, so they may not be able to get down here. Ward had a L.P. gas business for 16 years while Flossie took care of domestic engineering chores. They do a little bridge fishing here, and do a lot of boat fishing up north.

Clyde and Lila Redinger of 5 Areca came down here from New York, by the way of Mich., Iowa, Oregon and wayside stops. They have a son Tom, who was born in the park, and a daughter and son-in-law living in Livermore, Calif. Clyde is a photographer of renown, putting on great slide shows for the Camera Club he helped start.

Rambling Around

Some folks have their 50th wedding anniversary and keep right on adding to them. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Birchfiel, 4 S.E. 5th Ave., Mr and Mrs. Larry Brammer, 30 S.W. 5th Ave., Mr. and Mrs. Lester Warnes, 28 Key Lime, all celebrated their 63rd with a dinner party at Wayside Inn on Feb.4. ...Morocco, they sailed to the ...land. The next leg of the ...as their longest time at sea. ...them 35 days to sail to ... and the five days of calm ... occurred during that time.

After Barbados, the Creagers departed from Drake's route and sailed to Jensen Beach, arriving last May. What brought the Creagers here is Barbara's parents, Ruell and Beulah Mertz, who live in Ocean Breeze Park. Barbara is a nurse, and is working at Martin Memorial Hospital. She is staying here while her husband and their 22-year-old son, Robbin, continue the voyage along Drake's route. Keith and Robbin sailed out of the Anchorage Marina last Sunday. Barbara plans to see them again in seven months, when they're due in San Francisco, and then plans to be in Plymouth for Keith and Robbin's arrival in 1980.

The reason for the delay between last May and now is we've been waiting for Robbin to get out of the Marines. He was discharged on Jan.13th," Keith said last week.

Until he and Keith left last Sunday, Robbin had never sailed in the ocean and had only very limited experience in a river.

Keith isn't in the least bit concerned that his crew member doesn't have sailing experience. Afterall, when he and Barbara sailed out of Plymouth, they'd never sailed before either, except for a shakedown venture around the sound at Plymouth.

What's the motivation for the epic journey?

Keith says it's an idea that just grew on him. It started just as a desire to go sailing. He and his wife picked out the type boat they wanted and placed their order to have it built. It is a Golden Hind, made by Thomas Erskine of Plymouth, England.

Keith learned that the Golden Hind was the name of Drake's flagship, so he began reading about Drake. Before long, he found himself wanting to retrace Drake's route around the world.

"I became completely taken by him (Drake). He was a tremendous personality of his time, and made lasting social changes in the codes of the sea," Keith said.

He explained that by today's standards, Drake would be considered a pirate, but he said capturing ships of foreign countries in Drake's time was accepted practice.

Whereas other captains who captured ships were cruel and often tortured and killed their prisoners, Drake "was probably the first humane commander," Keith said.

"He treated his prisoners as well as his own men, and had the enemy officers sit at his table for dinner. Some of the best reports on Drake are from captured Spanish officers," he said.

"Being socially unique, he was a rebel, and I've always thought of myself as something of a rebel by trying to get people in corporations to behave differently. I considered the people in a corporation more important than the profit and loss statement," he said. Not surprisingly, Creager named his boat "The Rebe."

From Stuart, Keith and Robbin plan to sail around the tip of South Auzerica, then up to San Francisco. He said he expects the passage around the Cape Horn to be the most arduous part of the trip. "We'll be going through there in the winter, and we'll be going from east to west. That's against the prevailing winds and the current, so it should be quite a chore. It took Drake two months to do it," Keith said.

After a reunion with Barbara in San Francisco, Keith and Robbin plan to cross the Pacific and stop in Indonesia. After that, they'll continue eastward, sail around Cape Hope, and head north to England.

CHECKING THE CHART–Before embarking on the second leg of a sailboat voyage that is to follow Sire Frances Drake's 1577-80 circumnavigation of the world, the charts are checked. Robbin Creager, left, and his father, Keith, right, left last Sunday to continue the journey Keith and his wife Barbara, center, began in England in 1977, on the 400th anniversary of the beginning of Drake's historic voyage. Barbara is staying here, working at Martin Memorial Hospital, but plans to meet her husband and son seven months from now in San Francisco. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

WHOSE VALENTINE IS SHE? Port St. Lucie Elementary School kindergarten student Rhonda Phillips, center, is apparently a very popular young lady. As she and other students in Vanessa Tillman's class were busy making Valentine cards for their parents, two young boys were asked who their Valentine sweetheart was. Both Chris Chesnard, left, and Jeff Johnson, right, claimed Rhonda as their Valentine girl. Though Chris has his arm around her shoulder, Jeff has her hand. And, she admitted, maybe he has her heart too. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Council seeks expansion of U.S. 1 corridor study

Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council members voted last week to endorse a proposed state Department of Transportation study of U.S. 1 through St. Lucie and portions of Martin and Indian River counties.

After requests from St. Lucie County and Port St. Lucie city governments, the DOT recently agreed to conduct a study of the U.S. 1 corridor through St. Lucie County. Last week, when the Treasure Coast council was asked for input on the forthcoming study, the council voted to seek an expansion of the study to include portions of U.S.1 from the south St. Lucie County line to Salerno Road and from the north St. Lucie County line to Vero Beach.

The study is to be phased, with the Fort Pierce to Stuart portion coming under scrutiny first. It is to begin in about six months and may take two years to complete all phases. The state is footing the bill for the study, which could run as high as $100,000.

The area to be studied is from U.S. 1 east to the Indian River and from U.S. 1 west to the Florida Turnpike or I-95, whichever comes closer. Widening the highway, providing frontage access roads, and traffic lights could be recommended for the busy highway as a result of the study. It is expected that the federal government would pay 70 per cent of improvements that may result from the study, and that it could take five to 10 years for the improvements to be made.

Expect higher bills in March

General Development Utilities water and sewer customers in the Port St. Lucie area can expect higher bills for those services in March.

In last week's Port St. Lucie Mirror, a story appeared stating that as far as Public Service Commission attorney Harold McLean was concerned, GDC could implement higher rates for those services whenever the firm wanted to, provided GDC posted a bond with the PSC.

McLean said the utility firm could either implement rate hikes that GDU originally asked for in December, 1977, or could implement rate increases that the state PSC staff had recommended, because the PSC had failed to act on the rate hike request before an eight month deadline.

GDU currently charges its typical residential customer $6.15 a month for 6,000 gallons of water a month and charges $8.57 a month for sewer service. GDU asked the PSC for permission to implement a phase one rate hike in August, 1978, that would have brought the monthly water bill to $10.60 and to raise the monthly charge for sewer service to $6.90. The state PSC staff recommendations would set the monthly water rate at $10.21 and the sewer rate at $6.90. McLean says GDU could opt to implement either set of rates because the PSC didn't decide the case on time, but added a bond would have to be posted to cover the amount of expected increased revenues from the water and sewer rate hikes for a year.

GDU vice president Gerry Moxian was asked last week for a reaction to McLean's comments, but Moxian's reply came too late to be included in last week's story. Moxian said "We're still reviewing the situation," when asked what set of rates the firm would implement. However, he added that "it's a fairly good assumption" that whatever higher rates are selected, they'll start showing up in March billings.

St. Andrew Society meets February 16

14 seek jobs on PSL city council

The deadline for filing as a candidate for a Port St. Lucie city council seat ended Friday, and the field of hopefuls stands at 14.

The last person to declare himself a candidate was councilman Schuyler Sharpe, who decided to make it a three way race for the mayor's job. Sharpe, Mayor William McChesney and Robert Schweiger are all vying for that job.

A primary election will be held on Tuesday, March 6, and the top two candidates in the mayor's race, as well as in races for two council seats, will be on that ballot. According to the city's charter, even if one man gets more than 50 per cent of the votes in the primary, he'll still face a general election opposition on March 20th from the second highest vote getter.

The District Two race drew the most candidates. In that one, incumbent A. Merle Anderson is opposed by Frank Alexander, John Gandy and Eugene Petris. In the District Three race, where a change in district boundaries means there is no incumbent, the contest is between Gerald Girard, Sal Patti and Joseph Schwartz.

The District One contest, between incumbent Mike Reeb and Frank Allaint, and the District Four race, between Hugh "Pat" Kelly and Ray Neighbours, will be on the March 20 general election ballot.

A sample ballot for the primary election is now at the printers and should be published in area newspapers soon.

Though candidates for each of the district seats must live within the district, all council seat contents and the mayor's race, where candidates can live in any district, are to be decided by a citywide vote. "Some folks seem to think they can only vote for the candidates in their district, but no matter where you live, you can vote in all the races," commented councilman Anderson.

Due to a change in the city charter, all five posts are open at the same time this year. Once the elections are over, straws will be drawn to see who gets two-year terms and who gets four-year terms. Then, in future years, elections for the council positions will be held on a staggered basis, with no more than three terms expiring at the same time.

Today's issue of The Port St. Lucie Mirror carries stories on four of the 14 candidates. The other 10 have been covered in precious issues.

Schilling writes on Tarpon fishing

"You are exhausted, struggling for footing on a shallow ocean bar somewhere in the South.

"Already up to your armpits, you hold the spinning rod high, high as you can reach. The big fish continues to pull you slowly offshore.

"You must stop it. You apply more pressure. Finally, the fish slows, begins to turn. Tangling with a Sumo wrestler would be easier."

These reflections from Chuck Schilling of Jensen Beach, veteran outdoors writer and tarpon expert, are included in the Special Fishing and Spring Recreation issue of Southern Outdoors Magazine, scheduled for distribution in March.

Schilling joins other tarpon experts in reflecting on his experiences with the "big silver king" in an article entitled "Big Eye is Watching."

Want a tax break today on your retirement savings for tomorrow?

Retirement may seem a long way off. It's never too soon to save for years when you'll be able to enjoy all the things you never had time for.

If your employer doesn't have a pension plan, a Community Federal Individual Retirement Account (I.R.A.) permits you to save $1,500 or 15% of your annual earnings, whichever is less. And this money is tax deductible.

If your spouse is not a wage earner, you can assure your family's future security by depositing an additional $250 per year in your I.R.A. and deduct it from your taxable income.

If you're self-employed, you can contribute to a Community Federal KEOGH plan. This will enable you to save and deduct up to 15% or $7,500 of your annual net earnings, whichever is less.

Your savings build up fast at Community Federal. We pay top interest, up to 8% per year on I.R.A. and KEOGH accounts, then compound interest daily to increase your earnings even more. And you'll pay no taxes on your savings or earnings until retirement — when you're likely to be in a lower tax bracket.

Start today to increase your savings for tomorrow. The sooner you get started, the easier it will be to save the maximum amount and take your full 1978 tax deduction. Visit a convenient Community Federal Savings office for further information.

SOONER OR LATER, you or your family must select a cemetery estate. If you put it off until "later", which means when needed, you know it must be done hastily, unwillingly, unhappily and alone. If you do it "sooner", which means now, you know you can do it carefully, calmly, pleasantly and together.

This week head your shopping cart toward Africa and the Middle East for some exotic but easy meal ideas. And money-saving specials to get you started.

EGYPTIAN FROZEN HONEY MOUSSE

Put in top part of double boiler over hot water and cook, beating with wire whisk, until thickened. Cool, then chill. Beat egg whites until stiff. Whip cream and fold with egg whites into mixture. Put in shallow 1½ quart glass or other dish, cover and freeze several hours or overnight. Spoon into serving dishes, drizzle with honey and sprinkle with nuts. Makes 6 servings.

AFRICAN BAKED BANANAS WITH HONEY

Peel bananas and cut into halves lengthwise. Arrange in a shallow baking dish. Sprinkle 1 tablespoon honey mixed with 1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice over each banana. Bake in preheated hot oven (400° F) for 10 to 15 minutes. Serve as a meat accompaniment or for dessert.

Any decision of the board may be appealed to the City Council within fifteen (15) days of the date of the board's decision; provided, however, that written notice of such appeal shall be filed with the City Clerk within such period of time. The Office of Community Medical Facilities, Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, State of Florida, has established the sum of $109,813.00 as the level of uncompensated services to be made available by Martin Memorial Hospital in the period of October 1, 1978 to September 30, 1979.

This determination has been made pursuant to the requirements of the regulations of the Public Health Service, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (42 CFR, 53.111) and the applicable provisions of Florida Medical Facilities Construction Plan.

"Uncompensated services" means services available in the facility which are made available to persons unable to pay therefor without charge or at a charge which is less than the reasonable cost of such services. Opera Society attracts full house at Elliott

A spellbound audience was delighted to receive an encore from the quartet of polished performers Sunday evening at the Elliott Museum. Carlos Barrena, Anne Abood, Pat Hawke and Bill Fennell sang excerpts from Madam Butterfly, and arias from popular operas, finishing with the famous quartet from LaTraviata.

Accompanied expertly by Margaret Hunter-Brown of Fort Pierce, the performers were most enthusiastic received by a full house of opera enthusiasts.

The performance was scheduled to attract interest in and membership to the Treasure Coast Opera Society, a four-county group based in Fort Pierce, which now numbers over 100 members.

The Society invited participation in the membership....which expects to bring performances to the area, like Madam Butterfly, scheduled for Sunday, March 3, at 3 p.m. in the Westwood High School Auditorium in Fort Pierce.

Carlos Barrena, an internationally distinguished operatic tenor, is now a resident of Fort Pierce. Under his direction, an Operal Workshop is already in rehearsal, preparing highlights from a number of favorite operas. Until the membership drive is closed, the rehearsals are open to the public. Interested parties are requested to call Blanche Rosenau at 461-8119.

The Opera Guild is an organization that is seeking members for participation in the opera society. It is open to men and women who would support the society with production, hospitality, set dressing, costuming, publicity and fund raising. For information, interested persons can write to the Treasure Coast Opera Society, 900 Easter Avenue, Ft. Pierce, Fl. 33450.

DREDGING a new channel got underway recently to provide boat access to a 650-foot-long dock that's planned at the Jensen Beach Florida Institute of Technology campus. The sand removed from the channel is to be pumped into a catch basin, thereby creating a five-foot raise in the elevation of land next to the school's marine center buildings. FIT's Dean Earnest Tesley says he hopes the entire project will be finished in May or June.

God and Country Day is Sunday at FIT

Rev. James David Ford, chaplain of the U.S. House of Representatives, will be the featured speaker at the 5th annual God and Country Day, set for 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the chapel of Florida Institute of Technology on Indian River Drive.

Under a theme "We dare to care," the celebration of God and Country Day is sponsored by All Saints Episcopal Church and American Legion Post 126, Jensen Beach.

It features a massive display of American flags combined with the flags of veterans, service and church organizations from throughout the area.

The U.S. Navy Band from Orlando will play in concert for a half hour before the program begins.

Bobby Lord, well known country-western singer, will sing two selections, including "The Lord's Prayer," and "The Whole World in His Hands." Mrs. Harold Whalen will also sing, and both will be accompanied by Rev. Thoma Zehnder, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church of Stuart. The Redeemer junior choir will also sing a selection.

The master of ceremonies will be County Commission Chairman Frank Wachs, who will read a proclamation naming February 25 as God and Country Day in Martin County.

An estimated 700 to 1,000 persons are expected to attend, according to Virgil Rathbone, chairman. The public is invited.

FIT channel to bring home fleet

Work is underway to build a 650-foot long dock at Florida Institute of Technology and to dredge an eight-foot-deep channel from the dock to the Frances Langford Outrigger Resort channel.

FIT Dean Earnest E. Tesley said this week that he hopes the project will be completed by May or June.

What once was a low-lying field used by students for frisbee and soccer games, at the southern tip of the college land, is now a huge catch basin. Workers recently dug that basin in preparation for dredging of the channel. Dean Tesley says 10,000 to 15,000 cubic yards of sand will be pumped from the river into the catch basin. This will accomplish two things at one time: the channel will be dug and the basin will be filled to a level even with the two new Marine Center buildings that have been built just north of the catch basin. Also, the catch basin will help keep the river from being muddied up while the channel is being excavated.

Tesley said the dock will allow the college to keep its five large research boats, plus a few smaller boats for river research, at the Jensen Beach campus. Currently, the larger boats are docked in Fort Pierce, and students have to be bussed there for trips to the ocean.

The dock will be L shaped. Dean Tesley said the reason for the length of the dock is to clear the weak line, which extends 500-feet into the river at the school.

The entire Marine Center project, including the dock, catch basin, some bulkheading, the two new buildings and a road to the buildings, will cost about $375,000. Funding is coming primarily from donations. The dock, channel and basin portion of the job should run about $150,000.

Post office and Bafalis ask customers for complaints

Postal inspectors from Washington, D.C. investigaged the management-labor situation in Jensen Beach last week, and returned to Washington convinced that the local mail was being handled properly.

This was the report given to Congressman Skip Bafalis on Friday by high postal officials.

The post office department gave Officer in Charge Don Sivyer, who is temporarily on assignment in Jensen Beach, high praise for his handling of the situation, and asked that postal patrons with complaints give them to Sivyer for action.

Bafalis asked that such complaints also be sent to him so that he can stay on top of the situation from Washington.

The problem of low morale didn't seem to matter to postal officials, Jack McDavitt, press assistant to Bafalis, said, "as long as the mail is being delivered, and quotas are being met, the post office doesn't seem to care if the employees do it with a smile or a frown."

Complaints will be handled on an individual basis, according to Washington officials.

Sivyer is in his fifth month of a six month appointment while applications are processed for a new postmaster for Jensen Beach. The appointment will be made within the system, with persons seeking the post applying from throughout the South Florida area.

It is not known if the new postmaster will be selected before the six month term of Sivyer is up. If the selection is not made, either a new officer in charge will be appointed, or Sivyer's term will be extended by appointment of the postmaster general.

The investigation of the labor relations team in Jensen Beach was not announced, nor was the number of visits to the post office. It is possible that the investigation was made by checking the projection lists of the post office in comparison to the production goals set by the central office in West Palm Beach.

Bafalis urged residents to give complaints to Sivyer for processing, and to advise his office in Ft. Pierce (465-3710) of the complaint or write him in Washington.

SPECIAL GIRL--Sandya Ramachandran, from India, was invested into Girl Scout Troop 84 last week during a special ceremony. Sandya is the daughter of Mr and Mrs K Ramachandran of Jensen Beach. Her mother, Meera, attended the ceremony and told the girls in the troop about Indian customs, languages, and currency. She prepared Indian bread and curry vegetables for the girls, who are earning their "World Neighbor" badges. Their new member from a foreign land is helping them meet their badge requirements. VALEDICTORIAN--Sydna Budnick, right, was named Martin County High School valedictorian for the class of 1979 last week. The Jensen Beach teenager has also been selected as a candidate for a Presidential Scholarship. MCHS Principal Clara Fulton, left, says selection as a candidate means Sydna is one of the top 20 students in the state. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Motel owners report a super season

BY DICK CAMPBELL

The season is here, and it is looking like another great season. So say the motel owners contacted Monday in a survey of occupancy in the area.

Helen Richardson, manager of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, reported that the motels in the area are "pretty well filled." She said that the influx of visitors came this year at about the same time as last year.

At Sandpiper Bay, Bill Pullen, manager, said the season was "Super! Very good. His anticipated capacity for the next few days, and said, "It is the best February on record." Last February, Sandpiper Bay had a 78 percent occupancy. This February should be between 90 and 92 percent, according to Pullen.

At Holiday Inn Oceanside, Linda Jordan, assistant innkeeper, reported that February and March look "very good. And, they are staying longer." Jordan added that where in 1978 the visitors stayed two or three days, they are staying for one or two weeks in February this year.

At Frances Langford's Outrigger Resort, Alan Holley, general manager, reported that the season was, "Coo, coo! Fabulous!" Holley said the Outrigger villas will be full through April, with only one or two spotted availabilities.

The Anchorage Boatel reported that business for the season thus far was 18 percent above last year, with a packed house through the middle of March, and more early reservations than ever before for April.

The Dolphin Motor Lodge has all efficiencies filled for March and April, a few regular rooms available on a spotty basis, but the "No Vacancy" sign is up for the present.

At the Ebb Tide Motel and Apartments, Helene Vogel said the place "is jumping. We are filled up through February. There are still a few left for March." She indicated that reservations were slow coming in this year.

Jack Snyder, general manager of Indian River Plantation reported rental occupancy was "excellent, hitting 100 percent occasionally." With an excellent March, and April shaping up well, Snyder looks for an excellent remainder of the season.

Jensen Beach girl is MCHS valedictorian

BY BOB FRYER

Things are adding up right for Jensen Beach teenager Sydna Budnick.

Last week, the Martin County High School senior was named class valedictorian.

When asked what her grade point average was, Sydna replied, "It's 4.4 something. I don't remember the exact decimals."

She explained that in some of the advanced classes, an A brings a 4.5. But in other classes, such as physical education, an A is only worth a 3.0. So, when you average in some of the non-advanced courses that students are required to take, a 4.4-something is about as good as you'll ever get.

Sydna's specialities are math and science. She's a member of the school's math team and is a member of the school's Math Club. Additionally, she's a member of the National Honor Society.

Following graduation from MCHS, Sydna says she plans to attend Brown University, where she'll major in math and science. She says she'd like to make her career in the fields of medicine or genetic research.

In addition to being selected valedictorian, she has been named as a candidate for a Presidential Scholarship. MCHS Principal Clara Fulton says just to become a candidate means Sydna is one of the top 20 students in the state. She should know in a few months whether or not she will win the scholarship.

"We're very proud of Sydna and wish her well in the future," Mrs. Fulton said.

When asked what she would say to her class on graduation day, Sydna commented, "I haven't given much thought to it, but I think the biggest thing is that we are tomorrow's future. I know that sounds trite, but it's true. And, our ideas are the most important things we have to offer."

She added "The way to change things that need changing is through involvement."

Sydna is the daughter of Mrs. Joan Capewell of Jensen Beach and Dr. Jack Budnick of Clifton, N.J.

Salutatorian is Janelle Boger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.S. Boger Jr. of Stuart.

Others named as honor students of the Class of 1979, for earning a grade point average of 3.5 or better, are:

Judy Lee Allen, Rochelle Marie Babb, Hilary Becker, Patricia Bowers, Lisa Bright, Elizabeth Carr, Hugh Coyert, Ellen Deci, Denise Dickins, Diane Elwer, Laurie Epstein, Mike Fulford, Jay Gabler, Eric Gardner, Coleen Geraghty, Martha Granneman, Lori Higbee, Scott Humphreys, Robert Jacobus, Sandra Johnson, Bethann Johnston, James Knott and Brent Laycock.

Primitive paintings by Rose Labrie at Elliott

BY RAYMON OWEN

If you are one of the 30,000 people who annually browse the Elliott Museum Country Store you will feel compelled to see Rose Labrie's exhibit of primitive paintings during March. The simple lines of the primitive art form bring back recollections of kerosene lamps, big coffee mills, foot treadle sewing machines, hand clothes wringers, pocket key-winding watches and apothecary shops that sold only medicines and an ice cream parlor. You may recall the eight mile an hour road sign. It is this era that Mrs. Labrie's primitives illustrate.

We discovered Rose three years ago at a writer's conference in New Hampshire. She not only graced the conference with her children's stories illustrated by primitives but projected her sparkling personality at the luncheon table. The story of her success as a painter is fantastic.

In 1918 when she was eighteen months old her warm and loving Irish family - she was born a Cushing in Boston - moved to Vermont and she grew up in the environment of early picture New England farm life. She liked art classes in school but was told to transfer to music because her middle-, high color sketches did not conform with traditional standards. She didn't give up her fun painting and many, many years later an illustration she made for a neighbor was seen by an eminent artist from out of state who praised her work and declared, "Your painting has character. You are drawing excellent primitives." Her neighbors began buying the "childlike" paintings and bring her worthwhile commissions. Today her primitives may command a five figure price and her work is spoken of as Grandma Moses creations having the "natural approach of an imaginative child with efficenter houses hugging the horizon, impossible posies along the garden path." The "Red Sleigh" is typical:

farm buildings and a church, the horse with a sleighbell girth strap, the kids in kid-like attitudes on the little skating pond. Rose draws on her memories of early New England farm life with her family and friends.

A few years ago a neighbor commissioned her to do a memorial painting of a local ship tragedy; the government in considering her imaginative sketch for a United States postage stamp. She has been shown in several galleries (twice in Palm Beach), is listed in the principal art Who's Who catalogues on the world, has illustrated a Television film and you may find her in your Needlepoint kit.

During the years of her rise in popularity, a sensational event involving a Shetland pony occured in her neighborhood. A local boy discovered the pony in a ramshakle shed, tied in his stall and unattended for months. The odors from the shed when opened were staggering. The pony had been deserted for fourteen months and was near death. Rose and her neighbors enlisted the skills of the University of New Hampshire veterinarians whose great patience restored the King. Local press coverage of the progress was quoted world wide and letters came from 22 countries.

This near tragedy to a pony inspired Rose to write and illustrate a children's story, "King, The Leprechaun Pony," an unbelievable tale of a little pony who survived months of isolation when he hooves turned up to his knees like Turkish sandals. The story is now in its second printing and a Japanese publisher is negotiating with Mrs. Labrie's New York agent to bring the story to his native children.

Two years ago officials of the Martin County Historical Society saw Mrs. Labrie's exhibit at the James Hunt Barker Galleries on Palm Beach's Worth Ave. Negotiations that began then will bring her to Stuart. We are so fortunate to have the distinguished Mrs. Rose Labrie and her primitives in the Elliott Museum for the month of March, starting on the 5th.

SOUTHEASTERN MARKETING COMMUNICATIONS, INC.—an aggressive advertising agency based in Stuart, Florida, swept the 18th annual Addy Awards sponsored by the Palm Beach Ad Club. Of a possible 26 first place awards, Southeastern Marketing walked away with a total of 8, including the best of show. They also received two certificates of merit and a certificate of distinction for a grand total of 11 awards.

For an agency from Stuart to "steal" the show is quite a feat, as there are a registered total of 71 advertising agencies in this district.

The secret of their success? According to Frank Wolfe, president and owner of Southeastern Marketing, it's because he's developed a marketing firm, not just an advertising agency.

Included in the list of Addy Awards presented to Southeastern Marketing are Best Package Design, Best Brochure, Best Letterhead-Logo-Trademark, Best Regional/National Direct Mail Piece, Best Color, Less Than Full Page Magazine Ad, Best Full Page Color Ad, and the Best 30 Second TV Commercial which also won the Best of Show Award deeming it the most outstanding of all entries.

At the moment, Southeastern Marketing is handling 30 land development projects. In 1978 alone, the firm's clients represented more than $200 million in property throughout the Southeastern United States.

Wolfe is now looking to expand his business. He's established a branch office in Jacksonville, Florida and is looking to acquire other agencies throughout the state.

Wolfe and his staff will vacate their now cramped quarters on East Ocean Boulevard, Stuart, in March 1979. The firm recently bought a sprawling two story mansion and cottage on the Indian River and is renovating it into a showplace office.

home office. He has no authority to answer for what the company does.

The company officials in Miami really have no time for the little community of Sewall's Point, or the problems with Hutchinson Island. It took an appeal to the Public Service Commission to get the company to provide minimal water service to island customers.

Martin County is studying buying the Southern Gulf water system. Its value of $624,578 is for the system, not the equipment, much of which is antiquated.

While negotiations continue, it might help if the Town of Sewall's Point protests such water cutoffs to the Public Service Commission.

we will have lost a great thing

It is a shame that the post office is the beginning of that loss.

There must be an answer to the problems of the Jensen Beach Post Office. Management says that it has no problem. Labor says that mail delays are due to management.

Has anyone ever sat down with both groups and suggested that both work together? Has anyone ever decided to fire those who sit on their duffs all day complaining about everything, while work piles up?

Has anyone placed full responsibility on management's ignoring of the problem?

Is anyone in charge?

The only loser in this problem is the public, and the businesses of Jensen Beach. The postal workers still get paid, no matter how low their morale, or their service.

The public still pays, for less and less service, and later and later mail.

The once proud post office department in Jensen Beach reminds us of the Confederate Army in rout before Sherman.

Remember, folks. There will always be Tara...and the United Parcel Service.

Everything's real George

Everything, this week, is coming up real George.

And how else? The postal employes, banks and a few others, began it with an extra day off, the weather obliged with February-type climes, and all hell busted loose on the other side of the earth to remind us of Papa George Washington's early and all-too-often unheeded admonition to "avoid entangling alliances."

Look closely at the present administration, and you'll find the germs sown in violation of George's precepts have been the ones putting us in the global weedpatch now entangling us.

H.G. Wells, wise historian that he was, remarked:

"For a full century the united colonies of Great Britain in North America, liberated and independent of the United States of America, stood apart altogether from the bloodstained intrigues and conflicts of the European offices. Soon after, [1801 to 1823] they were able to extend their detachment to the rest of the continent, and to make all the New World "out of bounds" for the scheming expansions of the world."

If we'd listened to George, to our fifth president James Monroe, and to others with the same philosophy, we wouldn't now have to be stretching our diplomatic and economic pants wide enough to sit on fences half way around this orb--straining the seams so tight we don't know where the stitches are going to split first. And split they will, leaving us with more than our bare face hanging out.

srl srl srl

But enough of the raking over George Washington's dried, silted and whitewashed bones. Too much have done this, leaving us with only a depersonalized mixture of myth and maxim. I like the approach of biographers Irving Wallace and his son-in-law David Wallechinsky, who have taken the time and the compassionate introspect to allow the Father of our Country to be the real human being that he was--bright, strong, zealousy patriotic, dedicated to the cause of independance, yes, but also personally ambitious, egocentric and more than a bit of a ham.

Everyone who got more than a C in American History knows, of course, that George Washington was born Feb. 22, 1732, in his family's homestead in Westmoreland County, Va., and died Dec. 14, 1799 at Mount Vernon, from a quick k-o from pneumonia.

When he was a young man, he got into the swing of things as a surveyor, starting out at $7 a day [which wasn't hay in those days]. He had his first taste of glory as a special messenger for the governor of Virginia. He tasted his first flush of glory when he was commissioned as a lieutenant colonel in what proved to be the opening guns of the French and Indian Wars. His popularity with the top brass blossomed with his being named to the Virginia House of Burgesses in 1758 and even more so at his election as one of seven Virginial representatives to the Continental Congress in 1774.

These data, and others equally significant are inscribed on the back of every high school kid's crib-book. And so, probably, are the facts and rumors surrounding his unrequited [or was it?] love affair with the famous Virginia married lady Sally Fairfax. It has never been made perfectly clear who was the chaser and who the chasee, but history spells out that our George was a practical man, when two years later, he married the plain but wealthy widow, Martha Custis. In Martha, he had a good thing and he knew it. By the time George died, he and Martha were among the richest couples in Virginia.

Yet George, practical as he was, held the widow Fairfax in his heart all his life. Among his letters is one to her, stating that "not all the glories of the Revolution have been able to eradicate from my mind those happy moments, the happiest of my life, which I have enjoyed in your company."

He also took devious routes to pick his own way.

"When the Capital was moved from New York to Philadelphia," Wallace and Wallechinsky write," Washington, who had been disappointed in the food he had been eating as President brought his black slave Hercules from Mount Vernon to serve as cook. Pennsylvania law provided that slaves be given their freedom after six months residence in the state. To avoid the possibility of losing the services of his master chef, Washington would send Hercules back to Mount Vernon just before the six months were up. Then, several weeks later, he would be returned to the capitol.

We'll grant Washington was a great boon in the birth of our country, but he was a sneaky old conniver nonetheless.

Of muck, moss, hammocks

The people in Georgia stole the name Georgia "Crackers." The name really belongs to Floridians. People from Georgia should be known as "Goober Grabbers," not "Crackers."

During the war between the states, passers-by would look in the fields of Georgia and see the people digging goobers (peanuts), and say, "Look at those Georgia Boys grabbin' goobers." That's how the identification started.

In North Florida, during a battle, a company of Florida men known as crack shots entered the fray. Someone said, "Here comes that company of Florida Crackers." That is how the name started and stuck.

The above, and much more is included in a small booklet by Tom Gaskins of Palmdale, Florida. Gaskins is an old-timer who operates the Cypress Knee Museum in Palmdale. He is 70 now, and is the founder of the cypress knee factory, and the originator of the use of the beautiful wood in decorative furnishings and art.

Gaskins calls himself "a woodsman, hunter, fisherman, woodcarver, physical culturist who jogged eleven miles on his 69th birthday, member of the John Birch Society, said-to-be wit and philosopher and would-be perfectionist."

His tales in the booklet are folksy, entertaining, and a delight.

He tells what he believes to be the truth, depending on tales handed down over the years to him, and based on his experiences in what has seemed to be a full life in Florida.

Spanish moss is not Spanish, nor is it moss. It is a member of the pineapple family. It is an air plant, living off the air and what is in it. The moss began disappearing when the ditches drained the moisture from the land, and from the air.

Once it was used for mattress stuffing commercially. The first Model T reportedly had Spanish Moss in its upholstery.

The topsoil in the Everglades is called "muck." It is so rich it will burn. It runs from three to ten feet deep. A muck fire will burn below the surface for months.

If Gaskins doesn't know something, he'll admit it, but will entertain with all the wild stories he has kept notes on over the years.

Hurricanes blow limbs and fruit off trees and mess up the yard. They blow down signs and some old buildings that are ready to go.

Hurricanes are entertaining and exhilerating, generally speaking, except where water enters the picture. Hurricanes and water don't mix good. Most people with good sense near the water head for tall timber when they learn a blow is coming.

People with two good eyes and half a brain should have no trouble with rattlesnakes. They won't bother you if you don't bother them.

Take a deep breath often when reading the $5 page booklet, for you'll be laughing, questioning and nodding in amazement through the pages.

In his wrapup of miscellaneous facts, Gaskin writes of a friend who shot a big bass with a rifle. Gaskin jumped in the water to fetch the bass and found an alligator in its mouth. He pulled it out and they kept it on a string at camp for a week.

Florida's state tree is the Sabal Palm. For years it was called the Cabbage Palm. When people cut the palm to eat the bud (heart) it is known as swamp cabbage. Some people have worn themselves out cutting one cabbage. I cut 105 cabbages in one day for sixty-five cents each. Frank Jones cut 305 in one day to feed his hogs.

The booklet is a great piece of early and present Florida. It doesn't have a price on the cover, but I'm sure he'll let you know if you want one. Write to Tom Gaskins, Palmdale, Florida 33944. Or, if you promise to return it, drop by my office and borrow mine.

Letter to the editor

To the editor:

I'm certain that the "power of advertising" comes as no big surprise to you, but I just experienced a classic example of its "ripple effect" that may interest you.

The last ad on Fuller Brush Company home care products that appeared in The Mirror produced a response from a young mother in Port St. Lucie. She asked me to stop by to show her and her mother-in-law the product catalog. I did. While there a friend of hers (another young mother) dropped in. Then, a neighbor lady knocked at the door. When she learned that the Fuller Brush Man was there she asked that I stop over to see her. I did. While demonstrating one of our products to her one of her friends from Spanish Lakes came in.

Score: One response, five orders, five new customers.

Thank you Mirror Publications, you're fabulous!

Sincerely,
Cy Edward

To the editor,

Once again the Fort Pierce Art Club wishes to extend sincere thanks for your help in publicizing our annual "On The Green" Art Festival. After eight years, our show is really becoming a local tradition, anticipated by more and more people each year. In addition, the more well-known the event becomes, the greater the numbers of requests the Art Club received for excellent artists wishing to enter the show.

We are very much aware of the important role the news media has played in creating this local tradition, and we are very much indebted to dedicated newspersons such as you are for your enthusiastic support.

Many thanks from all of us,
The Fort Pierce Art Club

Fire claims marina building

When the Sheriff's Department dispatcher woke me from a sound sleep with a call around 2 a.m. a few Sundays ago, I ...ared the deputies were after marijuana smugglers again.

Nearly a year ago, the dispatcher had called me about half a dozen times, covering an 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. time span, to ask if I'd please open the gate to Seminole Shores for the deputies.

I lived at the old marina building in Seminole Shores at the time, and it turned out the deputies were trying to track down some smugglers who abandoned their boats at the inlet and jumped ashore to elude a marine patrol officer.

The deputies kept locking themselves in and out, and I spent a pretty sleepless night serving as gateman. They didn't find anybody on the island, but came up with paydirt when an aerial check for other pot-boats turned up a freighter with more than 50 tons on it.

Last October, Mobil Oil Estates started getting its development of Seminole Shores cranked up. Mobil calls it Sailfish Point, the little community of residents at The Shores had to move out.

We all hated to go, and I've sorely missed the old place since then. I've been back to jog on the mile-long stretch of beach from Rand's Pier to the inlet a number of times. But each time I'd looked through the gate to the interior land, are new signs of "progress". Hundreds of acres of australian pines have been cleared off, and the salvage crews have picked over the apartments for windows, doors, and most anything else of conceivable value.

The view from the gate looks like a battle zone. Holes are where beautiful palms once stood. Huge seagrape limbs, pruned from their trunks scattered along the edge of the road. Giant earth movers can usually be seen in the distance, creating a new lake and shaping a future golf course. And the windows of the apartments by the gate are all missing.

After the good fortune of getting to live at Seminole Shores for six years, and having come to love that place, it's been hard to view the changes that are going on to turn the land into what they say will be the most luxurious development on the Florida east coast. I know it has to be so, and am grateful I got my time in in paradise before it began happening. But it is still hard to watch it happen and feel like a tourist locked out of what was once my home.

That's why I'm glad I wasn't out there to watch the fire when the Sheriff's Department dispatcher woke me with her call a few weeks ago. I was apparently still listed as a Seminole Shores resident, so she called to get me to open the gate. I groggily told her I didn't live there anymore, and told her who to call for a gate key. Then I dozed off, intending to check the next morning to see if it was smugglers again.

I got too busy to check, and when I didn't see anything in the other papers, I forgot about the call.

Then, a few days ago, I saw Bob Fenton, who had lived next door to me at the Seminole Shores marina. He told me the upstairs portion of the marina building, where our apartments had been, burned down several weeks ago, early on a Sunday morning. I concluded that's what the call must have been about.

Like I said, I'm glad I wasn't there to see it.

If it hadn't been flames, the ball and chain would soon be claiming the old building.

IRP plans $5.6 million construction in 1979

Indian River Plantation Company today announced a $5.6 million program to build townhouses and single family homes along the Indian River on its 135-acre Hutchinson Island residential and resort community in 1979.

W. Fred Taylor, sales vice president for the company, said a limited number of luxury two and three bedroom waterfront homes would be built to sell for $305,000 to $350,000. Taylor also announced plans to construct four riverfront townhouses, each containing four two and three bedroom apartments to be priced between $190,000 and $250,000.

Taylor said the single family homes will be built in a newly opened part of Indian River Plantation to be called Island Colony and will feature vaulted ceilings, raised hearth fireplaces, marble baths and other amenities generally found in dwellings in this price range. He said the homes are designed by Stuart architects Fenton, Hoon & White, A.I.A. and will recreate the old plantation lifestyle once associated with this area.

Taylor, whose company owns and operates the Indian River Plantation golf and tennis resort and has built numerous ocean and riverfront condominiums as well as golf and tennis villas on the property, said the decision to offer single family homes was made about six months ago.

"Single family homes were not in the original plans for the Plantation," Taylor explained, "but in the last year we have received a number of inquiries from people interested in owning such dwellings on our riverfront. As the inquiries increased we began to take the idea seriously and, after conducting some feasibility studies, decided to go ahead."

Taylor said only seven single family homes are presently planned for Island Colony, but he added "those plans are subject to change."

Island Colony will be an integral part of the Indian River Plantation community, Taylor said, and will have a private tennis court and swimming pool for Island Colony residents.

Funeral Facts

by G. Wade Aycock

WHAT IS YOUR OPINION OF CREMATION?

A. First, let me define cremation. Cremation is the reduction of the body to its elements by fire, or heat, and is an alternate form of final disposition to burial after the funeral ceremony.

Cremation, earth burial, entombment or burial at sea obviously cannot meet the needs of all. The manner of final disposition of a dead human body must meet the needs of those who mourn. Cremation meets those needs for many. Personally, I would prefer earth burial for myself and my family. This is what I am comfortable with. For another it may be a horrible thought to bury the body of a loved one. Each person must deal with his feelings realistically. Do not, however, impose or mandate a final disposition of your own body that would be in conflict with your spouse's feelings. Let those decisions be for the living.

answers to your specific questions, write G. Wade Aycock, S. Federal Highway, Stuart, FL 33494.

FPC's claim: 'We're in this too'

Read The Mirror for all the news

BY DONNIE WILKIE

FORT PIERCE -Amidst all the anticipation and newly-acquired confidence by their rivals to the south, Martin County, it would be quite easy to overlook a team that has spent most of the hoop campaign hovering near the .500 level--winning two, losing two; winning one, losing one; in all, adding up to a 13-14 Sear standoff heading into this week's District 11-AAAA playoffs at Stuart.

Bill Wright's Fort Pierce Central have proven they can play to the level of any of their opponents, but so far, they have yet to get the necessary bounce of the ball, clutch shot or big play that can produce consistent victory against the area's top squads.

"I've just got to feel that something good is going to happen for us," said Wright last Saturday night after his hard luck team dropped a 69-61 decision to the state's number one AAA Cocoa Tigers. Central held the lead for most of three quarters, but a streak of eight straight Cocoa points broke the game open in the final stanza.

"We've done this all year," continued Wright. "We just don't recover well from adversity. We get a bad call or we make a bad play, and we just don't play the same."

Center Andy Chapman, who gave Central added height and a true "big man" inside, has had nothing but troubles over the course of the season, playing in only six games. He will also miss the playoffs.

Finding replacements for Chapman was a near-impossible task, but the surprise performance of Wilbert Washington down low has given Central a hope for the future. Washington is only a sophomore, but has played with the intensity of a senior through the Cobras' slate.

"I can't imagine where we would have been without Wilbert this year," adds Wright, who came to Central from DeLand High School, where he was an assistant. "I'm amazed he was able to rebound with the people he rebounded with."

The loss to Cocoa was typical of FPC's near-miss season. They were able to finish fourth in the Suncoast Eastern Division, behind front-runners Leonard, Martin County and Twin Lakes, and get the fourth seed in the districts, playing Lake Worth in the first round.

"By now we're playing about as well as can be expected," remarked the coach. "At this point in the season, it's a mental thing. We've got to make sure we're prepared for every game. That has been a problem during the season. We have no trouble getting fired up for the good teams-the Leonards, the Cocoas or the Martin Countys--but it's the teams we should beat that give us problems. We lost twice to Lake Worth and twice to Vero Beach, and I have to wonder why."

So it was typical of Central's luck this year that they drew Lake Worth as its first round opponent, by far the toughest of the four non-seeds. The Cobras were scheduled to meet the Trojans at 7 p.m. last night (Wednesday) in the MCHS Tiger Den in Stuart. If successful there, they would meet either top-seeded John I. Leonard or Palm Beach Gardens.

"I wouldn't completely rule out Gardens in that game," said Wright after the Cocoa game. "They're a good, young team with a very good motive for winning the districts."

They are also the defending Suncoast Eastern Division champions, although they fell in last year's semi-finals to Forest Hill.

"At DeLand, we played with state tournament intensity in every game, but here we do that in only a few games. The teams that wait until the tournament ot play well have their problems. The ones that are successful always realize that the game they're playing that night might be their last."

Guard Arthur Robinson, along with wingmen Luther Sandifer and Wayne Tirus have eased the pain suffered over the loss of Chapman, and Michael Toomer has combined with Washington to give the Cobras a formidable front-line attack. Together, this seems to be a strong team, although Wright has little or no bench strength.

"This is where the lack of experience comes in," added Wright. "We have no feeder system yet. These guys have never had any kind of organized basketball experience. If you let my guys play street ball, they would whip a lot of teams around here. But we've got to get these guys interested in basketball in seventh and eighth grade, and get an effective feeder system going."

But at the moment, Central's main focus is concentrated on the district tournament at Martin County. Wright thinks he can catch Leonard off guard in the semi-finals, perhaps looking ahead to Martin County. "If we find ourselves in the final against Martin County, I'd just be happy to be there and let the chips fall where they may."

Maybe that's because so far, all Central's chips have turned up stale. If there ever was a potential Hollywood team of no-names who clawed their way to the top, with all the luck going the other way, this is the team. If they do it, may all the disbelievers stand in silence forever. If they don't, well, there's always next year.

In second place with 194 was the combo of Frank Blalock, Jack Maney, Vin Metzger and AL VanNostrand.

Maggy says cost of services to escalate

BY BOB FRYER

The cost of services provided to citizens by the Martin County Commission has mushroomed in the last 10 years, and will probably escalate even more in the future.

That was the message from county commissioner Maggy Hurchalla when she addressed the annual meeting of the Martin County Taxpayers Association last week.

Mrs. Hurchalla said in the last 10 years, the county has been making a transition from a rural to an urban community. As a result, she said, the folks living here today are demanding more services than residents deemed necessary a decade ago.

"The outlook is grim," she told the taxpayers as she compared the county budget of 10 years ago with today's budget. She said the Sheriff's Department budget has jumped by 9.5 times and the circuit court clerk's budget by six times in those 10 years, and said other constitutional officers have had similar hikes in their budgets.

"The people who are moving into the county today are coming from urban centers up north, and they're used to more services being provided for them than the folks who lived here when we were a rural county expected. They want more patrols of their beaches, street lights, better animal control, and better roads," she said, adding that salaries and the county population has doubled in the last 10 years "and they'll double again in 10 years."

"Where are we going? I don't know. Urban populations demand much more in services that a rural population demands. Will we be a nicer Fort Lauderdale, with shorter building? I can't say," commented Mrs. Hurchalla.

She discounted reports that she and several other community leaders have said if they had their way, another nail wouldn't be driven in the county. "That's just not so," she said.

"I'm concerned that there are choices we can make though. There's a better way to go (about growth) than south Florida has gone," she commented, adding that there are four things that need to be done to insure orderly growth.

"The first thing, if we are to control our destiny and our pocketbooks, is to adopt a master plan. In 1972 we accepted, but didn't adopt, a very expensive plan. It was called a guideline. We don't need to call our current plan a guideline, we need to adopt it," she said.

Part of the master plan (comprehensive plan) is a land use plan. Mrs. Hurchalla said the land use plan needs adoption, "so we can plan our land use and roads and services for areas where we can afford them."

MAGGY HURCHALLA, Martin County Commissioner, told members of the Martin County Taxpayers Association that we're in for increasing demands for more services as the county's population mushrooms. She said choices on how the county will be allowed to develop are critical in determining how much those services will cost. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

She disputed the claim that increased development brings about enough of an expanded tax base to pay for the increased need in services. "Hutchinson Island has the same assessed value as North River Shores, and I'll leave it up to you to decide which area is least expensive to provide services to," she said.

The second point the county commissioner stressed is the need to adopt a road plan to go with the land use plan. "We've done little to expand the capacity of our roads. Our roads are full, and we'll need to double their capacity in 10 years," she said.

The third point she made was "we need to make development meet basic standards and to pay its way," Mrs. Hurchalla noted. She commented that 30 to 60 percent of the county staff's time is "spent on old foul-ups. "If we'd enforced our codes 10 years ago, 80 per cent of the calls that come in to me wouldn't be necessary."

"If developers pay their share, you'll get lower taxes and development where it should be. But as it is, the developer buys low land in places distant from available services, then seeks zoning changes for development.

"If developers pay their share, you'll get lower taxes and development where it should be. But as it is, the developer buys low land in places distant from available services, then seeks zoning changes for development. He recoups his investment because he paid a lower price for the land than he would have had to pay for land already zoned for development that's high and dry and close to existing services," she said.

Mrs. Hurchalla said she'd favor an impact fee, but said the fee ought to be paid by those developing in low-lying, far-away tracts and not by the developers who pay more at the outset for "more sensibly developable land."

The fourth point the commissioner stressed is that the county needs to remain a volunteer county. She listed a number of volunteer services now available and said if the county takes over those services "it costs more and government cares less than the volunteers."

E.C. Wareheim, president of the association, gave a brief annual report, saying the organization supported St. Lucie Inlet improvements, pushed for a decision on the route for I-95, opposed to one cent gas tax, and supported the school bond issue that was passed last year.

Ed Glueckler said the association now has 1,003 members and speculated that when spouses of members are counted, the organization has a voting power of about 1,850 persons.

DO IT NOW OR IT COULD COST YOU THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS.

The Pension Consultants of Citizens Federal give you some Citizens ideas on IRA and KEOGH Accounts.

Q. How can waiting to open an IRA or Keogh Account make such a big difference!
A. Two ways. First, every year you put money in your IRA or Keogh Account it earns interest. As the money in the account grows, the interest accrued becomes greater each year. The money can easily accumulate to more than $200,000 before you retire. So over the years, interest becomes a large figure. Delaying can cost you thousands later. Second, IRA Accounts can be opened until April 15, 1979 and deposits can still be deducted from your 1978 taxes if a Keogh Account was opened by Dec. 31, 1978, deposits you make up to April 15, 1979 can still be deducted from your 1978 taxes.

Q. An IRA or Keogh Account accumulating over $100,000!
A. Yes. Sometimes a lot more than that. For example, if you began a Keogh Account at Citizens Federal when you're thirty five, and deposit, say, $3,000 a year and continue adding to it year after year, at age sixty you'll have over $234,000.

Q. What if I wait just one year—till age 36—before starting!
A. Then you'll have around $213,000. One year means a $21,000 difference at retirement.

Q. Let's get back to basics. What exactly is an IRA Account!
A. IRA stands for Individual Retirement Account. It's designed for people who work for a company that doesn't have a retirement plan. You can set aside up to 15% of your salary, not to exceed $1,500 a year, in your IRA Account.

Q. What makes this different from any other kind of savings plan!
A. It's a plan that is authorized by the U.S. Government and can save on taxes.

Q. How does that work!
A. You pay no income tax on the money you've deposited in your IRA Account, and no income tax on the interest it earns, until you withdraw. This of course can save you quite a bit on taxes every year. You may withdraw the money beginning at age 59½. You have to pay taxes on it then, but you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket and pay less.

Q. How is Keogh different from IRA!
A. Keogh is for self employed people who don't have a retirement plan. Its rules are similar to IRA's except the yearly deposit limit is higher, up to 15% of earned income, not to exceed $7,500.

Q. The example you cited before was $3,000 a year for a Keogh Account. Can I also get a substantial retirement from the lower deposits in an IRA Account?
A. Yes, but the age you start and stop the account is critical. Say you began an IRA Account at age thirty and continue to deposit $1,500 a year in the Account until you reach age sixty. Then you stop making deposits into the Account, but continue to let the interest accrue until you collect at age sixty-five. You'll have over $276,000 then.

Q. That's amazing. What rate of interest are you using for your calculations!
A. All of the illustrations given are based on annual interest of 8%, compounded daily. That's the rate we now offer on our 8-year savings certificates. Of course, we cannot guarantee the rate beyond maturity; and you should remember that there are substantial penalties for premature withdrawals.

Q. Anything else you'd like to add?
A. Yes. IRA and Keogh are effective ways to save money on taxes and build a comfortable retirement income. And these accounts are now insured by the F.S.L.I.C. up to $100,000. But the time to start one is now. A year's delay on that IRA Account we gave as an example would cost you over $20,000. We urge everyone who is eligible—those without retirement plans—to stop by Citizens Federal, see one of our pension specialists, and begin an IRA or Keogh Account now.

Ocean Village passes $50 million mark in sales

On February 18 Ocean Village recorded its 771st sale, bringing the total dollar volume at the development to $50 million, according to James R. Ottesen, director of marketing and sales.

Ocean Village, which is a joint venture of Gulf Oil Real Estate Development Company and Harrison Land Development Company, began work on the 120-acre oceanfront development in 1974.

Major recreational facilities and amenities at the project were constructed during the first year, including a golf course, tennis complex, and an 80,000 square-foot beach and health club. Due to the recession, only two clusters, Capstan and Coral, were constructed in 1973-76. During this period, Ocean Village recorded sales of only $7 million.

Early in 1977, sales started to gain momentum and by the year's end, had resulted in 220 units begin sold at a dollar volume of $12.5 million.

In 1978, 365 units were sold at a dollar volume of $28.8 million. By late 1978, Ocean Village had developed a substantial number of potential buyers waiting for new residences to be offered.

50 units in Catamaran II were sold in one weekend, mostly to those who had put down good faith deposits in order to have a right of first refusal when pricing was established for Catamaran II. Beachtree II, when it was released recently for sale, also enjoyed brisk sales to those on the waiting list.

The average sales price of units at Ocean Village has jumped from approximately $45,000 when the development was launched, to a current average sales price of approximately $70,000.

Martin Memorial is below state average in bill

A survey of hospital charges in comparison of Blue Cross in Florida and in Martin County reveals that Martin Memorial Hospital's average billing was slightly below that of the entire state, it was announced Monday night at a meeting of the hospital advisory board.

In only one area was the hospital above the average. That was in the circulatory medicine division, where state average billing was $1,502.31 and Martin Memorial was $1,906.78.

In all other divisions, the average bill was lower.

The hospital even produced a lower average length of stay, having 4.93 days per patient to 5.54 for the state. While the average bill per day of $251.90 was higher than the state average of $240.28, the lower number of days of patients made the total bill in Martin Memorial of $1,242.20 lower than the state average of $1,274.97.

In the obstetrician division, Martin Memorial showed an average bill of $615.77, compared to state average of $903.18. The total of all surgical divisions averaged at $1,372.91 for Martin Memorial, compared to the state average of $1,560. In the medical division, Martin Memorial indicated an average total of $1,021.59 to $1,115.50 for the state.

The advisory board members received a presentation of long range planning in health care facilities by the administration, headed by Guy Cromwell.

In an election of officers for the coming advisory board year, Gen. Jack Merrell was elected chairman, Roscoe Philbrick was elected vice-chairman, James Rowe, secretary and Gerald Melich, treasurer.

A WHOPPER—This 2 45 pound Speckled Perch is said to be the largest fish of its kind caught in waters near Lake Okeechobee in years. James Hines of Jensen Beach landed the fish using a popper on a fly rod. He caught the fish in canal C-23 and has entered it in the Okeechobee Speckled Perch Festival competition. Hines is an avid fisherman and plans to have his catch mounted. Showing the prize catch is Mrs. Hines, who is keeping the fish frozen until it can be mounted. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

OUR SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY celebration is the next day, April 22. Those great Lundin Hall volunteers of Ralph Huffman are putting on the barbecue and we'll honor them as a group and individually at the 4:30 p.m. ceremony when the big door prizes will be awarded and those who have done so much to make the Center what it is today recognized. Mark this date on your calendar. If those volunteers are half as good at barbecuing as they are at construction it should be super!

APRIL has one more big event at the Center. That's a Sweet Adeline concert on April 28. If you've heard the Sweet Adelines, you'll make plans to be there. If you haven't, you're in for a real treat. Those lassies are something else and have a repertoire that really pleases. We're so fortunate that they are honoring us with a concert. Let's show them how much we appreciate the honor by attending in force on the big day.

DR. JACK WEBB, our Port St. Lucie chiropractor, has always been a strong supporter of the Center. He has bought something every year recently, like a filing cabinet last year. This year, he has generously agreed to pay for a 30-inch, two-speed pedestal fan for our new Lundin Hall. Not knowing just when we'll get our air conditioning equipment installed, a big fan that can move air vigorously is almost a must. Having just bought 200 folding chairs and 21 30x72 folding tables, we just didn't know which way to turn for a fan, but Jack came to the rescue once more. It takes a lot of friends to make a Center go and he is one of them.

ON THAT SUBJECT, let's not forget the many trustees who dug into their pockets for $25 to $50 to help pay for those beautiful new tables. If all chip in, we'll be able to add 8 or 10 48-inch round tables as well, something the Center women have long desired. A few trustees didn't respond, but it was ever thus. We're just grateful that so many saw the need and chipped in.

OUR LOW KEY BOND DRIVE is moving along slowly but surely. If you would like to help your community become a better place to live in, how about stopping in for a prospectus telling about the $500 denomination, interest-bearing, non-negotiable bonds we are offering. It's a solid investment and we need your help!

AARP-Colonial Penn members befuddled

CHAPTER 60 AARP — INDEPENDENCE DIGNITY PURPOSE

HUGH JENCKS, 878-3856

Another tour possibility for AARP members in Port St. Lucie was aired at the February meeting by Charles Mosony of the Martin county chapter. He announced a seven-night, eight-day tour to the Dominical Republic and invited PSL chapter members to join the Martin county group on the trip. The price will be $344 per person on a two-in-the-room basis.

The word about the separation between AARP and Colonial Penn apparently has not seeped down to the lower strata of the gigantic national AARP bureaucratic mechanism. On Feb. 15, one week after the story broke about the division, divorce, or whatever it may be, members received the February issue of the AARP News Bulletin, with the usual ads for Colonial Penn group health insurance and for auto insurance, plus a regular Colonial Penn mailing in an envelope bearing the AARP letterhead and an AARP-O-Gram plugging Colonial Penn's "Day-One in Hospital Plan." This was the sort of thing that press reports said was going to stop after the separation. Apparently, all that a befuddled AARP member can do is wait and see what happens next.

Two of our prominent members who were hospitalized are now back at home and, we trust, on the road to recovery. Paul Perington, who suffered a heart attack and was in Martin Memorial hospital, has returned home, but will have to take it easy for some time. Consequently, Paul had to resign as treasurer, and his place has been taken by Berniece Alexander. Fred Wiggin was in Lawnwood Medical Center for a week, undergoing tests on his innards. The medicos decided there was nothing further to do at this time and sent Fred home, with instructions to keep taking his medicine. Fred is back on the job running things at Port St. Lucie Medical Center, but he also will have to slow his pace a bit in the immediate future.

The new set-up on the 50-50 worked very well at last week's meeting, thanks to John Smith, who volunteered to take over this task. John was seated at a table near the door at the Community Center lounge and was able to provide members with tickets as they came in. Winners in the 50-50, at $4 a win, were Mary Rocha, Ruth Cummings, Emma Davidson and Max Weiner.

§An update on the services provided by the Home Health agency was given by Marian L. McNally. She said the agency hopes to establish an office in St. Lucie county next year; at present its office is in Stuart. She reiterated the main points of the program presented in previous meetings by other representatives of the agency, stressing that it is not necessary to have been hospitalized in order to receive the service–the basic requiresite is that a physician should stipulate that the service is needed by the patient.

§A refresher course was also given on the defensive driving program by Nella Orofino, a chapter member who has been conducting these classes at the Environmental Studies Center in Jensen Beach, under the egis of the Martin County adult Education office. She said her favorite description of the program is the phrase: "How to Stay Alive." Many of our members have taken the course [President Maurie Arluck has taken it twice, by request], and all have found it beneficial. Those who are interested in taking the course should call Mrs. Carline Watts at 287-6400, extension 131.

§Legislative Chairman Frank Alexander urged members to become active in making their opinions known to the decision-makers in Tallahassee and Washington. "One hears a great deal about what "they' are doing," Frank said. "The fact is 'they' is we—we are the ones who have the votes, and the vote is what counts in the legislature and in Congress. Make your feelings known, and you may be surprixed at the result."

§In this connection, the February meeting was marked by comments from several members. This is a very encouraging development, one that changed the deadly still reaction that has characterized the audience at some of our past meetings.

Tamara Ellison gets one year sentence

Port St. Lucie businesswoman Tamara Ellison was sentenced to a year in jail last Friday for the fatal shooting of her husband last March.

Mrs. Ellison, 39, of 10205 S. Indian River Dr., was tried on a charge of manslaughter last month, and was convicted by a six-member jury on a lesser charge of aggravated assault. Judge Royce Lewis issued the sentence.

The shooting of her 42-year-old husband, Robert, occurred at their Florida Patioland store in the St. Lucie Plaza the morning of March 13, 1978, after the couple had argued.

Mrs. Ellison maintained that she didn't intend to shoot her husband and that the fun went off accidentally.

Since a short time after her arrest last year, Mrs. Ellison has remained free on bond. Following a brief time in jail after she was sentenced last Friday, an appeal was filed and she was again released on bond.

G.O. Team to greet Japanese ship

The G.O. Team annual meeting and the grand opening of the refurbished Indian River Terminal will be combined with the arrival of the first Japanese citrus ship, February 24 at the Port of Fort Pierce.

Lt.Governor Wayne Mixon will be the speaker for the event which will include a seafood buffet luncheon for the G.O. Team and their guests at noon and the grand opening ceremony at 2:30 p.m. The general public is invited to the ceremony at 2:30 p.m. and tours of the terminal and warehouse will be conducted from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The new Japanese ship "Royal Lilly" is making its maiden voyage from Tokyo to Fort Pierce, arriving on Feb. 22. Bernard Eagan, terminal owner, and his wife Betty, christened the "Royal Lilly" in Japan in November. They will have about 40 Japanese officials on hand for the festivities in Fort Pierce as well as numerous citrus business leaders.

"The G.O. Team is coordinating the activities to emphasize the importance of the Port to our area", stated President Jim Sheehan.

"We established the top community priorities two years ago of getting new jobs and developing our Port. The splendid redevelopment of shipping facilities by the Egan companies has done both. We have 150 new jobs and substantial commercial water traffic for the first time in nearl 25 years."

Prominent area and local officials will be on hand. Music will be provided by Doc Grober and the "Mudcats". Marvin DeBolt is chairman of the arrangements.

The St. Lucie County G.O. Team, Inc. enlarged its elected board of directors this week by electing four new members for three year terms.

Those named include Douglas Kerr, John Jetson, Dixon McCain, and Rick Minton, Jr.

G.O. Team directors re-elected James H. Sheehan as president for the third year and named Ernest Settle as president-elect. Also re-elected were Marvin DeBolt, secretary, and Dan Darling, treasurer.

Directors continuing on the board include Alto 'Bud' Adams, Jr., Arnold Baslow, Ben L. Bryan, Jr., Thomas Mundy, Robert Seeley, K.C. Sloan, and Tom Sloan. Ex-officio members are Mayor Buell Brown, Ft. Pierce; Mayor William McChesney, Port St. Lucie; W.R. McCain, St. Lucie County Commission and Chamber of Commerce president, Michael Brown.

"The new members were elect ed to widen membership participation in G.O. Team activities", said Sheehan. "We want every member to have an active part in our program and this is the first step".

Sheehan is expected to name several new committees shortly to assist new and local business with their problems. Members are being asked to express areas of interest in a membership poll.

Several more trips are planned this year to seek new businesses. Delegations went to Tallahassee and Washington in January to ask for prospecting assistance.

Committee objects to 2

The North Fork Conservation Committee has sent a letter to the state Department of Environmental Regulations to object to two proposed projects along the North Fork of the St. Lucie River and asking for a public hearing on both matters before consideration is given to issuing permits for the work.

The letter, sent to Ron Brooks of the DER Tallahassee office, states the committee considers the two projects "inimical to efforts to preserve the environment and natural beauty of the river."

One of the projects is an application by Vistory Construction Company to cut a slew from the North Fork to a lot at the Viking's Landing development so that lot can be a waterfront lot, commented NFCC member Hugh Jencks.

The second project is an application by Beatrice Russo, who requests a permit to install a 300-foot-long seawall on her land along the river, just north of Britt Road. The letter states that the county commission has reviewed the seawall application and entered an objection "because the proposed installation would require the removal of vegetation and would result in a vertical seawall which, if continued, would eventually seawall the entire North Fork.

SIXTEENTH ANNIVERSARY–The Wimodausis Club of Port St. Lucie celebrated its 16th anniversary last week, and also installed new officers and directors. Shown above are, from left: Jo Barnett, director; Matoira Westermark, secretary; Gertrude White, director; Ada Haines, vice president; Ruth Rose, director; Dorothea Chamberlin, president; Helen Aitken, director; Florence Dabney, treasurer; and Dorothy Brunton, past president and director. God and Country Day

Rev. James David Ford, chaplain of the U.S. House of Representatives, will be the featured speaker at the 5th annual God and Country Day, set for 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the chapel of Florida Institute of Technology on Indian River Drive.

Under a theme "We dare to care," the celebration of God and Country Day is sponsored by All Saints Episcopal Church and American Legion Post 126, Jensen Beach.

It features a massive display of American flags combined with the flags of veterans, service and church organizations from throughout the area.

The U.S. Navy Band from Orlando will play in concert for a half hour before the program begins.

Bobby Lord, well known country-western singer, will sing two selections, including "The Lord's Prayer," and "The Whole World in His Hands." Mrs. Harold Whalen will also sing, and both will be accompanied by Rev. Thoms Zehnder, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church of Stuart. The Redeemer junior choir will also sing a selection.

The master of ceremonies will be County Commission Chairman Frank Wacha, who will read a proclamation naming February 25 as God and Country Day in Martin County.

An estimated 700 to 1,000 persons are expected to attend, according to Virgil Rathbone, chairman. The public is invited.

LOOKS LIKE A TICKET is being issued to little Dita Young by Florida Highway Patrol trooper J.Burnham. But it's not a ticket the officer is writing out for the eight year old Port St. Lucie girl. He's scoring her test during a bicycle safety rodeo held at the PSL Elementary School last Saturday.

Safety and skill are tested at bicycle rodeo

Ask any law enforcement officer, and he'll tell you he'd rather see an accident prevented than have to be there when one happens.

The accidents that do happen are the ones that get the publicity, but last Saturday at Port St. Lucie Elementary School law officers were busy trying to prevent accidents.

Florida Highway Patrol trooper J. Burnham, a number of members of the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department, and Port St. Lucie Public Safety Director Douglas Stout all worked together, as they have done in previous years, to organize a bicycle safety rodeo.

Trooper Burnham designed a series of intersections to test children on their knowledge of safety and traffic rules. And peddling a figure eight and a path through pylons were required in tests of riding skills. Additionally, the bicycles themselves were checked to see if they were safe, and, when requested, registered with the city.

For the kids, it was a combination of fun and education. And if just one accident is prevented by the lessons learned at the rodeo, it was more than worth the time the lawmen put in on the event.

Trophies were awarded to the top three competitors in four age brackets.

In the 6 and 7 year old age bracket, Scott Gaskill of 698 Prineville Rd., was the winner, followed by Kerrie Martin of 499 Calmoso and Todd Wallace of 392 S.W. Lakehurst Dr.

In the 8 and 9 year old age bracket, Mike Gray of 1203 Country GArden Lane came in first. Frand Mazzella of 758 Goodrich St. was second, and Jamie Shadowen of 701 S.W. Curry Rd. was third.

Christine Hess of 759 Harborview Dr. placed first in the 10 and 11 year old age bracket, followed by Maria Rivaldo of 401 S.W. Prado and Ricky Young of 104 E. Prima Vista Blvd.

Joe Sessa of 196 Bracken Rd. took top honors in the 12-13 year old age group. Matt White of 777 S.E. Fallon Dr. finished second and Bill Gray of 1203 Country Garden Lane was third.

Story and photos by Bob Fryer

MOM AND DAUGHTER participated in the bicycle safety rodeo at Port St. Lucie Elementary School last Saturday. School crossing guard Joyce Rivaldo fills ot papers for her daughter, Michelle, before the seven-year-old girl trys her luck as a bicycle riding skill test.

GIVING A TURN SIGNAL at the proper place and time is one of the things law officers were looking for when they tested youngsters in Port St. Lucie on their bicycle safety skills. James Shadowen, shown in foreground, was one of many children who participated in the bicycle safety rodeo at the PSL Elementary School last week. Waiting his turn in the background is Frank Mazzella.

Causeway overloads jus' keep on truckin'

Heavily-laden trucks that far surpass the eight ton limit of the Jensen Beach causeway highway are continuing to break down the road and create stress on the bridge, without government interference, according to complaints this week to The Mirror.

The trucks are loaded with fill bound for Hutchinson Island projects.

Enforcement of the eight ton limit on the highway, designated Alternate A-1-A, is difficult, as there are no weight scales available to determine if the trucks are overweight, according to Frank Wacha.

Environmental Center to benefit

An educational hammock will be constructed on the grounds of the Environmental Center in Jensen Beach with the proceeds of the 14th annual "Fishnic," sponsored by the Men's Garden Club of Martin County.

The fish fry will be this Friday from 4 to 8 p.m. at the Youth Center in Stuart.

The menu will consist of fish, slaw, hush puppies, baked beans, coffee or soft drinks, bread and butter, and a "mystery dessert."

Commercial fishermen of Martin County are donating the 3,000 pounds of mackerel to the fund-raising event.

Vero Beach defeats IRP in ladies tennis

Visiting Vero Bch. held on to second lane in the A Division of the Treasure Coast Ladies Tennis League with a 5-3 win over Indian River Plantation Thursday at the seaside resort.

IRP's unbeaten lead team of June LaVigne and Connie Falkenbury kept their record spotless by beating Ann Stubbs and Gloria Bleck, 6-2,3-6,6-4, and Sally Show and Mary Hudson topped Doris Walton and Meep Rose, 6-4, 1-6,6-3, for another Plantation victory. The home team's last win came when Terry Meinhold and Jean Schafer disposed of Nancy Christy and Mary Kincaid, 6-4, 6-0.

One of Vero Beach's victories came on a default as IRP's Gerri Wagner and Audrey Sax withdrew while trailing Ceil Thompson and Janet Daughty, 4-5, in the first set and didn't play the second. Eggery and hand painted china on display at Library

Decorated eggs are no longer restricted to the Easter season or any other specific time of the year. Betty Jones of Venture Harbour is the creator of the examples of the art of eggery now on display at the Martin County Public Library.

The beautiful Cinderella's Coach, winter wonderland scenes, as well as a large egg mounted on a music box that revolves and sparkles with tweinkling lights when in operation, are only a few of the delicate creations to be seen.

Louise Aiston Chamberlain is exhibiting hand painted china from her collection in the glass case in the main room of the Library.

DOT nixes traffic light

Ocean Breeze

BY ERNIE CURWEN

The petunias are again in blossum, 2 months later than last year, as Ralph Kramer had a struggle to lick a provoking fungus problem. They are not as gorgeous as last year yet. But, with the constant care Ralph gives them they will be, soon.

"DOT" (Department of Transportation) has again turned down the request for a traffic signal at park entrance. Leta Keith, AARP Legislative Committee Chairman, is going to discuss this with Chuck Nergard, our State Representative, as she knows only too well of the hazardous condition. Last year, trying to use crosswalk as instructed by "DOT", she was chased back into the bushes in confusion, bicycle and all, as a speeding car failed to observe her right of way. Leta hopes Chuck can do something before a serious accident makes it an "I told you so" case.

FIND THE BARGAINS in the Mirror

The annual golden wedding reception will be held in the clubhouse Sunday, Feb 25 from 2 to 4 p.m with these twelve couples celebrating their 50th this year: Aumillers, Bradleys, Donaldsons, Edris, Keiths, Kings, Redingers, Ryders, Shermans, Strohms and added this week Leo and Tony Heber (for years Toni has taken care of flowers and corsages for this reception). Now, to continue with sketch of the couples.

Tom and Dorothy Elliot, 13 Cypress Dr. came from Northwest Terrace and Surrey England by the way of Winnepeg to OBP in 1966. They were married June 5, 1929 in Winnepeg and have son with wife in Winnepeg, who will be down for the reception and another daughter who was here last year with her family. Tom was an auditor for T.Eaton Co. for 40 years, Dorothy likes to paint and has had many exhibits in this area. They will have Irma Fair for hostess.

George and Betty Ryder, 43 S.W. 5th Ave., came here from Marcella, N.Y. in the early 60's. They are always on a jaunt to some far away place, in their Airstream T.T. or by plane. Right now, they are in Hawaii, so this sketch is abbreviated, but they will be back in time for the reception.

Arnold and Margret Sherman, 13 Arborvitae Dr. came to OBP in 1968 from Union Lake, Mich. They have 2 sons, 7 grandchildren and 2 greats, all living in Michigan. Arnold and Margret owned and operated a grocery store during those exciting years of 1938 to 1954, then after selling their business, Arnold returned to the building trades as a journeyman stone mason, until retiring in 1972. They will have Mrs. Jessie White of Melaleuca Dr. for their hostess.

Bob and Mary Strohm, 4 Pine Ln., came down from Kansas City, Mo., to now make their home here in OB P. They have 4 sons; 13 grandchildren and 4 greats. Bob has driven street cars and buses for years, sat back 40 days of mule drawn vehicles. Mary, for 35 years was a PBX instructor. Now, Bob fishes if he gets a chance and Mary has her two leather classes.

RAMBLING AROUND

Again apologies to all those nice folks who have given me items recently, but due to the many park events, some have to be withheld for a week or so, however, all will be used very soon.

They stopped off for a three day visit while on their way to Miami and "did" the Flea Markets, the Museums and saw the ocean. It was Barbar's FIRST Florida visit, and she was delighted to see the sun, day after day, as they have had six weeks of constant rain at home.

Sam & Helen Bono, 3 Mango Street came down here from Detroit, after visit to home town neighbors, the Leuffger on Banyan, convinced them that this was better than the 7 below weather of Detroit. They have 3 childre, 8 grandchildren all living around Detroit, so for now they will spend 8 months north with them and 4 months here in balmy Florida. Sam was in an air conditioner, sheet metal business and Helen was the mainstay of the family, a domestic engineer. It's now golf and fishing for Sam and Pinochle for Helen.

Marj and Gordon McIntyre have been enjoying their visit with daughter Bonnele and family in Rio deJaneiro. Marj said they drove to the top of the mountain which overlooks the city to see the statue of Christ the Redeemer. The road to the summit is very narrow and almost perpendicular and most of the way you are driving through the clouds. Said it was scary coming down as it was going up! After visiting the peak they had lunch at a swanky polo club and watched the matches. They have been on the go practically every minute since their arrival in Brazil; out to lunch and dinner almost every day. Carnival time starts this week and will be most exciting.

Jack Yousey is setting some kind of record for a speedy recovery after a difficult operation on his knee last Thursday. He was walking the day after surgery and started therapy then too. It goes to prove, "you can't keep a good man down."

Al Criscoci was disconcerted when he returned from a barefoot stroll on the beach to find one missing shoe. A lady nearby, who observed the information that a playful dog had grabbed Al's shoe, presented it to his master, who, thinking it had been discarded, tossed it in the ocean!

In case you wondered what the helicopter circling the park was doing the other day, he was searching for a boat which was reported missing in the area. At this writing, still no trace of the craft.

HCCC off the ground

One of the top items of interest to the Senior Citizens, this week, was the second meeting of the HCCC (Health Cost Containment Committee). It was held in the library, Tues. Feb.13, with the following present: from AARP, Ernie Curwen and Peral Wyse; AIM, Bob Tyson, chairman; Gray Panthers, Irvin and Sylvia Shulman; HRS, Cindy Hays, secretary and Sussan Rolle; MCAA, Russ Conser and Leta Williams; MCHD, Dr. Archie MacCallister; SAC, Leon LaRoche.

It now looks as though the project is "off the ground," but it was quite a struggle for over one year to determine how to organize. This group is able and willing, so after a few minutes of general discussion about medical hardship cases that had been brought to their attention, Dr. MacCallister pointed out, although there were many areas demanding relief, we had best confine our attentions to local problems that might be alleviated by committee action.

Then, it was pointed out by Bob Tyson, that one of the first things, would be to determine the health needs of the community and Dick Warfield of Five County Health Planning Council will be asked to help with the survey. Russ Conser, of MCCA remarked that funding could be obtained for a sound program.

Next, a general discussion led to developing the following idea, of using retired physicians, to a non profit "store front" clinic to screen the ill, so that corrective steps can be taken by local doctors, if necessary and before it because of a very expensive medical problem. Still it's quite nebulous, but at least it's a starting point.

Secretary Cindy Hays with chairman Bob Tyson, will draw up agenda for the next meeting, March 13, and take care of mailing along with along with the minutes of the February meeting, so the third meeting can be productive and the start of definite action.

The pending AARP-Colonial Penn split up has given the seniors plenty to talk about, leaving some unanswered questions. "CMac" MacIntyre, pres. of local AARP chapter says, "Health and life insurance are group policies, contracted for through June 1981; the Auto and homeowners insurance are individual policies that will remain in effect regardless of any split up. The 3000 mile, 70 years old restriction discussed recently has been referred to the AARP insurance consultant, and he hints there may be some changes.

However, whatever you may decide, heed the warning of an ex-insurance broker. Before you switch insurances, read the fine print exclusions, as often a new policy will leave some items uncovered for a period. Bettery carry the old one as well as the new until you are sure all items are completely covered.

Now that National AARP will not have to spend so much time selling insurance, maybe it can more aggressively use the power of 13 million members toward getting legislation to curtail inflation and contain health costs, making things a little easier for the 1960 retiree. How about writing National and telling them so?

Chapter Events

Pres. "CMac" MacIntyre started the Gen. AARP meeting at 1:30 p.m. Thurs. Feb.15, at the First Presbyterian Church and moved the meeting right along to an on-time adjournment at 3:30 p.m. There was a good sized crowd including 24 guests from Seattle to Boston.

Being the day after Valentine's, Joe Forsberg's Senior Swingers played some soft and dreamy tunes along twith the Ol' Time Favorites. The swingers were: Connie Betch, piano; Alta Russell, Hawaiian guitar; Ev Bushman, Sax and Joe, violin. They were great and soon had the members singing loud and clear. It was foot tapping music.

Before and after the entertainment, committees reported and here's some of it.

Charlie Masony say his Santo Domingo tour is all lined up, eight days and seven nights, leaving Stuart at 10 a.m. Sunday, April 1. For complete details and prices call Charlie, 334-4547.

Leta Keith is adding to her leg. com. so that she will be able to assist other committees with their legisla tive problems (such as HCCC).

Pearl Wyse reminded the members that if they are outpatients at hospital and have paid their $60 deductable, the hospital can only charge them 20 percent of the bill. The hospital has to be reminded of this.

Ken O'Dell reports that the tax aid counselors have been busy helping 100 in the first eight days. Help is available at Stuart National Bank, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. every banking day. For information, call Ken at 546-6656.

Wendy Morris has the fair booth material all lined up for the fair, the week of March 5-10. Doris Cass at 283-4847 is handling the scheduling of the booth attendants. More volunteers are needed.

Al Tucker has mailed out receipts and cards to all paid up 1979 members, but cannot keep up as he is getting 20 new ones each meeting, a total now of 825.

Herb Hiers, chairman of Senior Center building committee remarks that Kitty Ferryman, Cele Berky and Helen Lauchley have been busy before meetings selling "Shleks" making the total sold around 1350, bringing the fund total to $4900.

Colleen Watts,adult Education (287-6400, ext. 131) announces that there are some openings for the March classes. Call her for registration. Remember, your certificate has to be renewed every three years to continue the 10 percent premium reductions.

Virginia Malone won the door prize and the Buy-A-Block drawing was number 0348. Frank Malocsay for a gift certificate.

Agnes Berg and her committee served home-made cookies and coffee to a hungry bunch after the meeting. Agnes says, don't forget the kitty, for in these inflation times, they have to buy coffee, worth its weight in gold and supply the cookie makers with $1.00 per batch.

This was another great meeting and the members were planning on the next one as they filed out, when Carl Wahlquist (or ass.'t) will come up from Hollywood to answer questions on Colonial Penn Ins.

Attend hearings for comprehensive plan Wacha urges people

Fear that interpretation of the county-wide comprehensive plan might be different from the intended has necessitated the calling of more public hearings on the state-mandated plan, according to Frank Wacha, chairman of the Martin County Commission.

Wacha said that previous public hearings indicated that a proposed map be a guideline for future zoning. However, when the map was prepared, it was learned that the map itself might be the actual zoning, bringing about changes that upset property owners.

Wacha urged all residents interested in the plan to attend the future public hearings.

Mr. Richard E. Campbell
Mirror Newspapers, Inc.
Jensen Beach, Florida 33457

Dear Dick,

Talk about the power of advertising! This, I think you will find hard to believe...but it should back up your theory of "It pays to advertise."

I ran an ad for a beautiful pool home for $55,000.00 in the Mirror, and within three days, received a call from a Mrs. Lewis in Rhode Island, wanting a photo and additional information. To make a long story short...Mr. and Mrs. Lewis purchased this beautiful home BY MAIL!

I have found that this office receives more response from out of state people through Mirror ads than any other advertising media I have used.

Keep up the good work...we are ready, willing, able and happy to handle all responses from out of state inquiries.

Sincerely,

James Love

P.S. Please renew Mrs. Lewis' subscription and bill to A to Z Realty, Inc.

LET PASSAGE--For years, only big charter fishing boats ch as this one have had fairly easy going in trying to gate the St. Lucie Inlet--and sometimes even the big ones have run into troubled waters. But a long-awaited contract for permanent inlet improvements was recently a let, so it should be smooth sailing for the big and little boats before too long (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Commission allows FIT to continue dock

BY DICK CAMPBELL

The Martin County Commission turned back efforts to block construction of the 750-foot dock at Florida Institute of Technology Tuesday.

The project, which includes the dock and a marina facility, is considered the "capping crown on our whole marine science operation," according to Gene Greenwood, associate director of the college.

FIT has been four years in seeking proper permits for the marina and dock.

Work began recently to dredge the channel and turning basins needed for the marina. A dike was constructed on low ground at the campus, and the dregging materials are being pumped into the impoundment area, raising the level of the ground to usable height.

The first application for a 200-foot dock received an objection from the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation that it would be deliterious to the shallow grasslands. FIT agreed, and reapplied for the 750-foot dock to move out to deeper water and avoid damaging the ecology.

FIT also received permission from Frances Langford's Outrigger Resort to use the Outrigger channel to reach the Intercoastal Waterway, thus reducing the amount of channel needed.

FIT has permits to build a seawall, launching ramp and pier from Martin County. The Florida Department of Natural Resources issued a lease to FIT on the submerged lands. The Department of Environmental Regulation issued a permit to dredge the channel and construct a pier, and the Corps of Engineers duplicated that permit.

The county did vote to ask the Corps of Engineers and the DER to notify the commission of any changes of planning in future cases, and set a one year update requirement on all letters of no objections on permits to both groups.

However, the FIT project was not affected, and work will proceed.

Opposition to the dock, citing "fraud", came from John Heyburn, spokesman for the Organized Fishermen of Florida, in articles in metropolitan newspapers serving the area. At the commission meeting, however, Heyburn did not pursue his promised plans to "block" the construction of the dock. OFF opposes any dock construction on the basis that it makes it difficult to net fish around the docks.

The dock will enable FIT to base its fleet of four to seven boats in Jensen Beach. They are now docked in Ft. Pierce, and the cost of dockage, busing students, maintenance personnel and instructors is estimated at $100,000 a year. Buses make six trips a day, five times a week to the Ft. Pierce marina.

The dock will also add several hours a day to education, rather than having to spend the time on a bus for both educators and students.

HELPING HANDS--Members of the Congregate Meals Program at Langford Park, where about 70 persons are fed daily, pitched in last week to help make signs for the Optimist Club's upcoming candy sale. The signs will be posted at the Martin County Fair and the candy sale is to help youngsters acquire playing equipment. Trinity Methodist makes move to new building Sunday

o the Sunday to come, the joyous asion for Trinity United Methodist rch will be the first service in the church. It will include the dication of the Furnishings of ship at the new altar, a Children's mon. Consecration of the church ers, the senior sermon, "Riches in Desert," hymn and benediction.

e past week has been a bridge to gress for the church. Last Sunday, 18 year-old congregation held its worship service in the church ding on Arch Street, prior to the e to the handsome new church ture at 2221 N.E. Savanna Road. e occasion also brought an end to ng interlude of interdenomina- cooperation with the Seventh- Adventa of Stuart-Jensen Beach, whom the Methodist congrega- has been sharing the Arch Street h home for several years.

Rev. D. Clark Thompson, pastor nity Methodists, officiated at the 25 service. He turned the keys to church over to Pastor Gary Tolbert and First Elder Lawrence Vogt, representing the new owners of the church building.

Trinity United of Jensen, which organized in 1960, with 33 charter members, began construction of the Arch Street church in 1961.

The Adventist work began here in 1965, with one retired couple. Sabbath School was first held in private homes. Worship services were added. In 1974, the group took on the status of a church, and rented the Trinity church facilities until its recent purchase of the building.

During the Sunday services, Willard McCabe and John Lord participated in the presentation of the colors, and McCabe, on behalf of the American Legion Jensen Post 126, gave the congregation an American Flag to be used in the new church. Mrs. Lorraine Middleton, president of the United Methodist Women, presented a Christian Flag in the memory of her husband.

During the recessional, the Symbols of Methodist Worship were carried from the church, with the Rev. Mr. Thompson reminding the congregation of the significance of each: the Cross, symbol of the church's central purpose; the lights on the altar, symbols of God's presence; the colors, the dedication to God and Country; candles, symbols of worship, study and service; flowers, signifying joy and thanksgiving; the memorial plaques, what has gone before; the Bible and Choir, proclamation of God's word.

Cindy Dunman, an acolyte, led the recessional with the Cross, followed by acolytes Erik Thompson and Michael Leonardo with the Light. The colors were brought out by McCabe and Lord, followed by acolytes Kari Thompson and Gwen Thompson with the altar candles. Mrs. Esther Jiran and Mrs. Ruth Tomasik carried out the flowers and Mrs. Elizabeth Bibbee held the Memorial Plaque for gifts in past years.

Waaler to be honored at memorial

A four-foot tall bronze eagle, with a five-foot wingspan will be unveiled during memorial ceremonies for Congressional Medal of Honor winner Reider Waaler of Jensen Beach at 11 a.m. Saturday, March 3, at Forest Hills Memorial Park in Palm City.

Waaler's remains will be inurned under the eagle, and a special memorial program is planned for the 84-year-old war veteran who recently died. Local veterans and Sons of Norway will conduct the ceremony for the Oslo, Norway native, and both American and Norwegian flags will be flown at half-mast. A color guard and firing squad are to be on hand.

Kenny Taft, local veterans service officer, has made a plaque for the monument, which is a limited edition bronze figure.

The public is invited to the ceremony, and there will be coffee, punch and cake served.

The Congressional Medal of Honor is the highest honor the nation can bestow for individual bravery. The presentation to Waaler was made by General John "Blackjack" Pershing just weeks following Waaler's heroic action above and beyond the call of duty. While serving in the U.S.Army with the 105th Machine Gun Ratallion near Rorassoy, France, Sgt. Waaler crawled to a burning tank four times under heavy fire to rescue four crew members.

Chamber to host art festival

The Jensen Beach Outdoor Art Festival sponsored by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce will be held Saturday and Sunday, March 3 and 4 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Langford Park in Jensen Beach.

The Jensen Beach Festival, for both amateur and professional artists is devoted to painters - oil, acrylic, pastels and water colors. Paintings by seventy-five artists from six states will be exhibited and many will be offered for sale.

Admission is free and the public is invited.

No shortage of gas in area

BY DICK CAMPBELL

About the only thing that the people have to fear is fear itself, for the present gasoline crisis is not a crisis at all, according to distributors and station managers.

One said that the so-called crisis is the result of "the media, newspapers, radio and television, blowing the gasoline thing all out of proportion."

X. O. Lyle, owner of Martin County Oil, said no Gulf stations were on allocation.

"We have no shortfall of gasoline as long as the public does not panic. The people can create a shortage if everyone lines up at a station with a three-quarter tank of gas to top the tank off. We can work ourselves out of this. It's no worse than last year," Lyle said.

Most of the Texaco stations are operating with no problem, according to Jack Hartmae, local distributor. They are, however, basing their gallonage on last year's figures for March, April and May, which is a kind of allocation system.

"Shortage? I don't know. No one has told me we have run out of product," Hartman said. "We did have two one-cent price increases this month. I foresee gasoline at one dollar a gallon by the end of the year."

Bill Crook, owner of Skyline Standard Station, said, "We have no problem. I order it and they send it." He added that his station pumped 2,000 gallons of gas last February, and projected that he would pump 40,000 gallons this year.

Ed Earle, owner of the Amoco station in Stuart, said there is no allotment on his station, adding, "We get as much as we need. We might be short in March, because it is the biggest month of the year." Other than that, Earle said, "I'm living it day by day." He did say that sales were up about ten percent over the same month last year.

HTW breaks ground on new office complex

The successful insurance firm that had its start in Jensen Beach 58 years ago will be returning here this summer. Official ground breaking ceremonies took place yesterday for the new Hartman, Tilton & Wilson main office building at 3405 N.W. Federal Highway, just half a block north of the U.S.1 and Commercial St. intersection.

In recent years, the company's main office has been located in the Beseemer Building at Sewall's Point. Hartman, Tilton & Wilson will occupy 3,200 square feet in their new building.

The office complex represents a $500,000 investment by the insurance firm for the property and 30,000-square foot colonial style building. It will be built of stucco with asphalt shingled roof and decorative wooden columns. Centerpiece of the interior will be a 32-foot atrium to be approached by three corridors leading from the exterior. Richard Granfield of Stuart is the architect.

Tenants announced to date are Stuart National Bank and the Christian W. Bentele C.P.A. firm. There is additional space for leasing with completion scheduled in July or August. The office building faces on U.S.1 and will be directly across the highway from the DeBartolo regional shopping mall which is still in the planning stage.

Norman F. Wilson, Jr., general manager of Hartman, Tilton & Wilson, is president of the company. The other partners are Ralph Hartman, Jr., treasurer, and Ransom B. Tilton, secretary and vice-president. Al Winters heads the firm's Life Division which will also be headquartered in the new building. Edith Osterholm is office supervisor.

Hartman, Tilton & Wilson Insurance Agency originated with the W.B.Tilton Real Estate and Insurance Agency founded by Warner B. Tilton in Jensen Beach back in 1921.

The event was marred by the death of Bill St. Clair, a man who was a very important part of the committee, and a leader in American Legion affairs for many, many years. He will be missed.

The day itself was dedicated to Richard Neeson, who, like St. Clair, this year, died just before God and Country Day a year ago. One of the founders of God and Country Day, Neeson was a dedicated churchman and Legionnaire.

God and Country Day is a part of the rich cultural program in Jensen Beach, and should be continued through the years ahead.

The city should also ask the Florida Department of Transportation to rework projections for the intersection of PSL Blvd. and U.S. I to provide smooth transition into the highway there.

The present jury-rigged transition from the interstate into Ft. Pierce at Indrio Road is a mess, and offers little hope for motorists, sending them in nine different directions to get to Ft. Pierce.

It is going to take time and money to handle the traffic that will exit the interstate. First, the traffic will be heavy, with the interchange being the end of I-95. Later, when the interstate is extended into Martin County, the four-lane road will be needed to handle the public passage in the fast-growing area.

The city council should show more than concern; it should show action on positive planning for the future.

We have seen lights that operate on a push button system, stopping traffic only when there is pedestrian traffic waiting. This might be an answer.

In the interim, the town of Ocean Breeze Park might borrow the crosswalk sign that is supposed to be in the center of Commercial Street at the crosswalk to Jensen Beach Bank. It isn't in too good a shape, as motorists kept knocking it down. But it might slow down the motorists that speed through Ocean Breeze.

As the town waits for the DOT to get moving on the many traffic control problems of Jensen Beach, we urge the people to show more courtesy to pedestrians.

The FIT dock is needed

If anyone has followed the tedious, time-consuming effort of Florida Institute of Technology to get the proper permits and dot all the "i" and "t"s before proceeding with the channel and dock at our college, he would shake his head in frustration.

Efforts to block construction of the dock that is the cornerstone to completion of the college marine science program should bring about the public indignation the efforts deserve.

The ring-around-the-rosey obstructionist flap is galling.

First, there were objections that a channel dug from the proposed marina area to the Frances Langford Outrigger channel would disturb too much of the grassy beds FIT agreed with that, and moved the channel cut further out in the river, to deeper water, so that there was little effect on the grassy beds.

Now, the objection is to the 750-foot dock that is the result of moving out to protect the ecology.

It absolutely blows my mind.

Can anyone imagine spending four years trying to get permits to do the job properly? That is how long FIT has been working to do it.

Can anyone guess what this has cost the college?

First, the dock will cost $183,000. A few years back it would have cost $125,000.

Second, FIT spends about $25,000 a year just busing students six times a day, five days a week to Ft. Pierce, where the FIT fleet has to be docked.

Third, FIT spends close to $5,000 a year on dockage fees in Ft. Pierce.

Maintenance of the boats there, and the time wasted in busing students, teachers and personnel would boost the cost to the college up to more than $100,000 a year.

The four-year delay in getting the proper permits has already cost the school an estimated $350,000. (These are my ball-park figures, based upon daily cost estimates of the college.)

The delay even cost more, for when the Outrigger marina was being dredged last year, the dredge could have gone right over and done the channel and turn basin for FIT at a much lower cost than having to do it as a separate job, but the permits were not yet received.

Nit-picking at technicalities, such as the Corps of Engineers failure to issue a "green sheet" of the project, ignores the fact that FIT has tried hard to meet every government regulation the bureaucrats have devised, including the permits from the Corps of Engineers, the state and Martin County.

The FIT marina and channel will complete the development of a marine science program that we have all awaited. The construction will be done right, and it will be an addition of which all this community can be proud.

Having the FIT fleet docked right here at the campus is needed, both for the benefit of instruction and education and for the benefit of saving hundreds of thousands of dollars.

FIT itself is recognized as an environmental protection research facility. It is presently conducting erosion control experiments on the Jensen Beach and Stuart Causeways for the Corps of Engineers.

The officials of FIT would not undertake a project that would be detrimental to the character of the Indian River. They have bent over backwards trying to do what is required, at a high cost in money and frustration—but they have done it right.

Efforts to block the project are ill-timed and without merit.

Good news flies to my sick-bed

One wonderful advantage about having to sit back and letting the body recover – you have time to be on the groundwork of the nice things happening to your friends.

While I was in the hospital, I'd gotten the word from Lenny Laden and his Hildy, that "Lenny's Kids," were on the verge of big-time splashes all over the TV set, but I was still a little woozy from shots, pain killers, and all the stuff they load you with to make life bearable. Hence, when the grand event arrived, it was almost as new to me as it was to the other happy fans of our now nationally-famous entertainers.

sri sri sri sri sri

Monday evening, on the night of the official celebration of Washington's Birthday, all the area devotees of the American Broadcasting News got a shock and a thrill to see some of their friends and neighbors cavorting through a well-slotted vignette televised nationwide on the channel.

It was a plaudit to Lenny Laden, show-bis entrepreneur who for the past five years has been turning St. Lucie-Martin County-Indian River County "kids" in their sixties, seventies and eighties into crack vaudevillians.

I knew it was coming.

But Lenny had no warning as to when it was to appear.

I got the call from Lenny and his Hildy approximately two minutes before it went on the air–which was pretty quick advance notice, because the Laders had gotten the work only five minutes before, from Hollywood.

Short though the notice was, it was worth the rushing and shoving. Televised at Easter Manor in Fort Pierce, the show did a noble job of telling the Nostalgia Follies story – of the verve, excitement and enthusiasm that these great show people have engendered in our area–an epidemic of love and enthusiasm. Let's raise a great big cheer for our Galloping Grannies and our Nostalgia Follies kids. Their message is not only "never say die," it is "Let's give everything we've got while we've got it, and help everyone else to get with it, too."

The above was written last week, shortly after the Nostalgia Follies show hit the airwaves. Hence it was a multiple thrill to get a follow-up call from Lenny over the weekend with news that other eyes and ears in the state appreciated it as much as we on the local scene did.

Lenny was, with reasonable pride, crowing about a telegram he had received from none other than Gov. Bob Graham and his wife. Graham, in his thoughtful missive, told Lenny he and his wife "had the pleasure of watching you" on ABC-TV, and congratulated him for bringing this bright and inspirational program in the national eye. The young governor even went further by saying he looked forward to seeing the Nostalgia Follies kids at Sea World, the next time they're up there.

It took that trip to the hospital for me to find out a lot of things going on along the TV circuits, including another score for Lenny and the Nostalgia Follies. Len and Hildy came up to see me one evening (an interim I expected to get us all tossed out of the hospital for) with the big news that the Follies is going commercial—they were chosen to make a "do" John Jochem for Chevrolet. We can look for it any time now, the entrepreneur told me.

All of which was quite a coincidence, because I had to go to the hospital to find out that the lively and illiterate band music touting the Chevvie currently on our own Martin County High School band. This tidbit had been passed to me by roommate Dee Ellsworth, only the day or two before. Whatever your choice in your brand of cars, Chevvie deserves a big round of applause for showcasing local talent to sell its product. It's a great idea which other advertisers would do well to emulate.

Being caught short on a trip to the hospital can be a frightening thing, particularly if you're a loner, like I am. One of the items I don't budget for, in the normal course of event, is pretty lingerie. They went off the must list back when I opted for a life of solitude. The only such accountrements in my wardrobe inventory fit for the description were the pajamas, from my fancy and fastidious daughter-in-law's Christmas box.

And they were in the laundry.

On that afternoon Dr. Lowell Clark fielded me to Dr. Lawrence Crouthamil who fielded me into the hospital. I ran the nadir of embarrassment: toothbrush, yes; hairbrush, yes; makeup–well, some.

But pretties? Not a one. Glumly, I faced a future in a hospital gown.

In the depths of my depression, I hadn't counted on the good fairies rampant in the Jensen Beach area. The first one to fly in was Marg Parsons with the sexiest pink chenille gown ever to grace the Martin Memorial halls (along with a bushel of other goodies I'm still trying to do a count-down on.)

Next, anticipating my possible lack, came my special angel Peggy Meissner bearing a wardrobe thick enough to outfit the most determined Camille (including a red and white valentine gown especially designed for Cupid's arrival during my incarceration,) then dear Jeanie Morgan, The Mirror's little all-purpose red-headed angel, preferring an aqua two-piecer elegant enough to sex up every doctor in the house.

To top it off, my beautiful Samaritans–Good Samaritans that they are, plied me with a pink peignoir set with downright bridal overtones, borne in by Samaritan president Maxine Bailey.

If my wardrobe smacks of the boudoir when I get back at my desk, don't ask questions. They're my best clothes.

Send 'THEM' a message

"Tell THEM I want two Christmases a year."

That's a quote from three-year-old Kristin, daughter of Mirror typesetter Jeanne Ackley.

Jeanne says her daughter recently gave her the message for THEM when Kristin's older brother was enjoying the fruits of his fifth birthday. Apparently, Kristin felt if brother Ryan was going to get presents, she ought to have a good reason for getting some too.

I once had a English teacher who scolded me and fellow students whenever we'd arbitrarily use the words "them" or "they".

I remember once presenting a speech to the class and blaming a number of the worlds ills on THEM, meaning the movers and shakers of the world who seemed to be controlling man's destiny. It was a rousing speech, and I felt I had made a pretty good presentation of my point of view.

But my teacher thought otherwise. "When you say "them", name at least four of them or I won't buy it. "Them" can be anybody in the world, and if you're blaming someone or some group, name them. Be accountable if you're going to make charges, or they just won't wash with me," she said.

I was crestfallen, but it was a valuable lesson.

If you listen closely to most any conversation, you'll hear the ambiguous THEM blamed for any number of sins. I think that's probably because a lot of people feel their destiny is controlled by a bunch of nameless, faceless people. The U.S. Government seems to be full of "thems", though there are still lots of "them" said to be operating at state, county and city levels too.

Sometimes, folks get their thems confused. I remember when the school board initiated double sessions at Port St. Lucie Elementary school last year, an irate father called me to say he was going to raise hell with "them" until "they" ended double sessions. Then he proceeded to lambast the city council for the deplorable school situation.

Now, I'm not one to say the city council is blameless for a lot of problems in the city, but they're not running the school system and didn't make the double session decision. The council's recent review of the Midport project gave the council partial involvement in the school situation, when the Council considered the pros and cons of a school impact fee and the need for school sites in Midport. But the man's criticism of the council came before an impact fee was ever suggested. And, even if the council came out in favor of an impact fee, it would still be up to the school board to work out the mechanics of it and get the county commission approval to impose it (which isn't likely). Aside from that, the city council has nothing to do with the school system.

I told the man so, and suggested that if he was planning to complain, he ought to direct his complaints to school board members instead of the city council. He said he would do so, but I never heard of him making any complaints.

"Them" is a convenient group of people to complain about, because unless named, "them" can't rebut the complaints. Griping about what "they" did is about as effective as complaining about the weather.

Speaking of the weather, I'm sure lots of THEM folks up north might have grounds for complaint. However, these recent sunny days, with temperatures in the high 70s and low 80s, suit me just fine. If Jeanne ever finds "them" and delivers her two-Christmases a-year request from Kristie, I hope she remembers to tell them I think the weather's fine. Afterall, you don't hear too many compliments directed to them. Maybe they deserve one.

"How should I refer to you in my chronicle, as the discoverer of fire, or as the first man to pollute the atmosphere?"

SHANGRI-LA–that Utopian mountain retreat in Tibet, depicted in the novel Lost Horizon, is the theme chosen for the annual Martin Memorial Hospital Ball on March 10. Hostess gowns, in shades of azure, peach, citron and mint, were inspired by the robes worn by the Tibetan monks in the story. Jane Irons, extreme right, chairman of hostesses, and her assistants, chose this Shangri-la type setting to model their ball costumes. Hostesses, from left to right, are Ann Crary, Kim Turner, Karolee Cleveland, Marsha Holt, Lois Thomas, Edna Prew, and Wendy Lumm. (Photo by Bil Lingard)

Lenten programs at Community

The Jensen Beach Community Church will start a series of five Lenten programs Sunday, March 4 and continue them throughout the month.

The March 4 program begins with dinner served by the Mens Brotherhood at 5 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall. In the Sanctuary at 5:45, Dr. Sidney Powell, minister Emeritus of Tremont Temple, Boston, Mass., will deliver a monologue 'Nicodemus'. Dr. Powell is a resident of Stuart, retired, and living in Cedar Pointe.

Those attending the dinner preceding the monologue are asked to bring a "pot luck" covered dish sufficient for six persons. Table settings and beverages will be provided.

Dr. Powell's presentation is the first of a series of dramatic monologues by R. Blaine Detrick, who wrote the series given last year at the church during Lent. Assisting as co-producers are Louise Garrison and Esther LeMeasurier with costumes by Jane Hughes and Carol Johnson.

A freewill offering will be taken for Meals on Wheels, Meals for Millions, and CROP.

WWI vets will meet on March 2

Barracks 854, Veterans of World War I and their Auxiliary, will hold their regular meetings on Friday, March 2 at Houg Hall of the All Saints Church in Jensen Beach at 1:30 p.m. All WWI veterans and their wives are invited to attend and hear Mr. Russel Conner, executive director of the Martin County Council on Aging, speak. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

the process of preparing s" for abused infants and for eenagers.

Nancy Shadoen says the effort is a club project, but donations from anyone are welcomed. She explained that the state Health and Rehabilitative Services often places abused children or runaway teenagers in foster homes, and needs items for their stay at the homes. "We prepare kits with toothbrushes, toothpaste, clothing, other toiletries, and whatever else may be needed for a brief stay at a foster home. We started out preparing kits for abused infants, but now the demand seems to be for runaway teenagers who are staying at a foster home until arrangements are made for them to return home," she said.

She commented that any items that may be useful in such kits are gratefully accepted by the club. For more details, call Sue Allender at 878-1961.

SEEDS--Dr. Edwin A. Menninger, the Flowering Tree Man, stands by a Golden Shower tree from India, which grows well all over south Florida and bears festoons of bright yellow flowers in July. Free seed of this tree, with germinating instructions is available. Write the Flowering Tree Man, Box 107, Stuart, Fla., 33494, enclosing stamp for return mailing. Perhaps you would rather have a seed of the Royal Poinciana Tree (Delonix regia) with its spectacular burst of red flowers in June. Or instead maybe you would like to have seed of the Christmas palm (Vietchia merrillii) with its lovely red fruits. All these seeds are available free because I need your help in making Florida more beautiful. But don't ask for more than one kind of seed as Santa Claus is dead.

Funeral Facts

IS IT GOOD FOR THE FAMILY TO HAVE A CLOSED CASKET?

A. The closed casket is generally considered a form of denial. Confrontation with the body helps us with the reality of the situation and assists us in accepting the actual "fact" of death.

So frequently I hear people say, "It seems like a bad dream" or "I just cannot believe this really happened." So seeing and viewing the dead body vividly points to reality.

This is an important step in sound psychological and emotional healing. Until acceptance or a point of believability has been reached, people remain in a limbo state, neither recovering nor progressing at all. This frequently leads to an emotional breakdown due to unresolved grief.

For answers to your specific questions, write G. Wade Aycock, 505 S. Federal Highway, Stuart, FL 33494.

Riverside Villagers enjoyed East Chop

Riverside Village

BY M. JOHNSON

Over 40 residents of the Park enjoyed the boat trip on Wednesday. The weatherman cooperated as the East Chop pushed its way up the river, through the Locks and onto Lake Okeechobee and back. Several sunburned faces and noses resulted. The surprise of the trip was at the Locks. There looking over the fence as we proceeded up the locks were Carl and Betty Fritz, Mary and Orval Gerdes and Mary and Jerry Vanderbeke, residents of the park, waving a cheery hello.

Ken and Irene Bigham visited Friends on the West Coast for several days last week.

Oliver Clappison won the Jackpot in Bingo Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Bulter of Palm Beach visited the Henry Johnson's on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Beels of Petasky, Michigan, visited the friends in the park for a few hours during the week.

Come on friends, drop your notes in my mail box, 317 so we can keep a column on Riverside in The Mirror. I don't mind the trip to their mailbox if we have some news to publish. Where did you go, who visited who? How are the washers working? Bring your pail with you when you're washing. Who is putting their garbage in the dumpsters? We have gargabe pick up for garbage. Where do all those leaves come from.

ALL IN THE FAMILY–New mama Nancy Packard peers proudly at her new infant daughter, born the day before at Martin Memorial's new obstetric wing. Nancy, an MMH Licensed Practical Nurse, came down from New York to work at the hospital, met and married her husband Bruce while on the job. The nurses call the Packards their "self-made family. A wealth of enthusiasm, generosity are building blocks for Martin Memorial

By Sally Latham

Martin Memorial Hospital, which this year is marking its th anniversary, is celebrating not only four decades remarkable growth – it is raising a toast to a plateau befitting the theme of this ear's Hospital Ball–"Shangri La."

That hospital, which began 1939 with 25 beds, three octors and ten employes, has grown into one of the best community hospitals on Florida's east coast, with 260 beds served by 92 physicians, 600 employes and 713 auxilians, dedicated volunteers whose service and participation both physical and financial have contributed strongly to MMH's excellence.

The almost magical x-factor which makes MMH more than mere community service facility is the almost-total community pride and participation in helping to make the hospital grow. In many cities, the job of "prying out" dollars for hospital support is an arduous one, a thankless task at best for a board which annually "beats the bushes" for gifts from the moneyed few.

Not so in Martin County. The backing here comes from a generously supportive strata of wealth, true. But it also comes from the not-so-wealthy, who knock themselves out around the calendar on fund-raising projects and in giving services as auxilians. Martin Memorial is the heart-beat of the whole county.

A telling observation comes from the director of nurses, Rosemary Rich. An employe at MMH for five years, she told The Mirror: "When I was looking for a job, I visited several hospitals. Each hospital has a personality. When I visited MMH, I knew I'd found that something special here."

The big annual event, which last year raised $83,000 for improvements and land acquisition, is the annual Hospital Ball. Since the ball's inception in 1966, many of the area's most prominent leaders have poured energy and talent into making it the progressively most important social event of the season. And each year, the money raised has helped make the hospital successively more solvent for acquiring needed land and making needed improvements.

This year, the "Shangri La" ball under chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thurlow, Sr., will be held March 10 at the Sandpiper Bay. Again, the music will be played by Lou Feldman and the Vaughn Monroe Orchestra, perpetuating the memory of the great singer and band leader who gave so much to the cause before his death. His widow Marian, a former ball chairman gives her full time, the year round to the hospital, as head of the Hospital Auxiliary.

The Hospital Ball will be The place to be, on March 10, not only for the glamor and fun, but for the fulfilling experience of leanding to a good and worthy cause.

MEDICAL INTENSIVE CARE–Round-the-clock care is provided in one of the newer areas of Martin Memorial Hospital, funded by generous donations and projects like the annual Hospital Ball, set this year for March 10. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

St. Patrick's Day dinner and dance

The Italian and American Civic Association of Port St. Lucie will hold their annual Saint Patrick Day dinner on March 17 at the North Port Marina in Port St. Lucie. Corned beef and cabbage, dessert, and green beverages will be offered.

Dinner will be served from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m., and dancing is from 8 p.m. to midnight.

The pulic is invited, but urged to call early for tickets because of the limited number available. Tickets may be obtained by calling 878-1802 or 878-0049.

Correction on GDU bills

A typographical error was made in last week's story about higher water and sewer rates going into effect in Port St. Lucie.

The story noted that General Development Corporation would begin charging $9 a month, in its bills going out Feb. 28th, to its residential sewer customers. That figure should have read $9.90, which is the amount GDU originally asked the state Public Service Commission to approve.

It's also the amount the state PSC staff recommended.

The Mirror regrets the error.

Concrete fence may have to come down

An attempt to build a concrete block fence around a yard in the Viking's Landing subdivision in Port St. Lucie may soon be blocked by city officials.

City Building Department head Ralph LaChance noted that a man came in to ask if he needed a permit to build a wall. LaChance said he told the man that city ordinances prohibit building a fence in front of a home. "You can't build one any closer than 15 feet from the front wall of the house," LaChance said of city ordinances.

The building department director said three or four days later he found a fence under construction at a Viking's Landing lot owned by R.V.Tripp of P.O.Box 1448, Stuart. LaChance said a registered letter was sent to that address, saying it was illegal to build a fence on the front part of a lot, but said the letter was returned. He said he has turned the letter over to the city attorney for possible legal action.

Two new members join recreation committee

Two persons will be sworn in as new members of the city's Recreation Committee when the group meets at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 1, at city hall.

The new appointees, approved at the Tuesday, Feb. 27th city council meeting, are Robert Bouton and Robert Zingara.

In addition to the swearing in of the new officers, the committee is to discuss the condition and use of the concession stand at Sportsman's Park, hear of progress on lighting and fencing for a new little league softball field, and hear a progress report on the balance of the park too. Personnel scheduling during the regular season is also listed as an agenda topic.

The new members will join Robert Clemons, Walter McNally, and chairman Doug Bernhardt on the committee.

Music lovers feast on Bluegrass in the Bowl at FIT

NO SHIRT for the man and a spring dress for the lady provided this couple with an opportunity to get a tan during the bluegrass concert at the Jensen Beach FIT campus last Saturday. You folks up north, eat your heart out.

CHUBBY ANTHONY and Big Timber Bluegrass was one of four groups to perform during a bluegrass concert at the Jensen Beach FIT campus last Saturday. Chubby, second from right on the fiddle, was a hit with the young crowd of music lovers

SPECTATORS at the Bluegrass in the Bowl concert last Saturday at Florida Institute of Technology's Jensen Beach campus enjoyed the performances of four bluegrass groups. Though it was windy, it was warm and sunny, making for a perfect day to swing in a hammock and listen to music.

THE ART of spinning a Frisbee on the tip of a finger was demonstrated by a number of persons attending the Bluegrass in the Bowl concert at FIT last weekend. The spinner above was one of the more talented disc enthusiasts, though a female dog named Stanley seemed to outshine all others when it came to catching the flying object.

IT WAS A SHIRTSLEEVE CROWD that came to listen to bluegrass music at the Jensen Beach FIT campus last Saturday, and judging from the foot-stomping and cheers, the crowd loved what they heard. In spite of what some thought was a rather high admission price, there was a good turnout for the event.

RELAXED APPLAUSE–This young lady didn't even sit up for much of the bluegrass concert at FIT, but she showed her approval for the music with applause from a prone position. Like many others, she stretched out to soak up a tan while listening to some top-rate pickin and fiddlin.

Photos by Bob Fryer

THE BOWL–A depression in the earth, along the river at FIT's Jensen Beach campus, provided a perfect "bowl" for the bluegrass concert held there last Saturday. Though the crowd shown above was sparse, as the day wore on, the bowl nearly filled with music fans.

Little Mac's big shot gives Tigers district title

BY DONNIE WILKIE

After spending two nights struggling to keep up with area competition in the District 11-AAAA basketball championships, the Martin County Tigers stepped to the front of the stage when guard Ernest McIntyre's 20-foot shot with three seconds remaining dropped through the net, giving the hosts a 47-45 win over favored John I. Leonard High School of Lake Worth.

The final shot, set up by a three-minute delay offense in which the Tigers successfully campaigned for the last scoring opportunity, culminated a week of exciting action at the Martin County High School gymnasium, better know as "The Tiger Den."

Martin County defeated three foes to reach this week's regional and sectional playoff rounds, including upper-minded Twin Lakes. The Rams led most of the way during Friday night's semi-final contest, but in the end, the same "coolness" that pulled MCHS through the Leonard game saved them from their second straight semi-final upset in the district tourney and paved the way for their first district championship in six years.

Forest Hill was Martin County's first round victim, dropping a 91-68 decision to the Tigers, while Twin Lakes fell 58-53 two nights later. Leonard, meanwhile, demolished Palm Beach Gardens in Wednesday's first round, 77-65, then upstaged themselves with a near-perfect 76-44 battering of Fort Pierce Central.

The Tigers (28-4) spend most of Saturday night's final on the short end of the score, falling behind by eleven points late in the second quarter before rallying just before the half to trail by just four, 18-14 at the break. Needless to say, the MCHS-Leonard tussle was a defensive battle.

Very seldom have local fans seen two teams with as potent offenses as the Tigers and Lancers play such a defensive game. But a combination of nerves (producing 37 turnovers in all) and zone defenses designed to stop each other's high-scoring inside game kept the score low, although emotion ran high all night long.

Martin County jumped to a quick 6-2 edge in the title tilt as Charles Jones scored the game's first two baskets, while Leonard's Japeth Daniels and MCHS' McIntyre exchanged hoops. But Leonard went on to score the contest's next 14 points, while the boisterous section of Tiger fans sat in silence.

The hot shooter throughout the streak was Alvin Washington, who pumped in ten of the fourteen points. Jon Gwin had the other two baskets, and Washington added another after Moses Johnson had broken the streak with a Tiger score, giving Leonard an 18-7 advantage with a little less than two minutes remaining in the half.

But a Tiger spurt of seven points saved them from suffering the indignity of having only seven at halftime. After Jones sank two free throws, he came back for a slam dunk with 31 seconds remaining. Then, Leonard lost possession on a travelling call, and Johnson got a basket and a free throw on a three-point play with ten seconds to go, cutting the gap to just four, 18-14.

Finally, the teams got untracked shooting wise in the third quarter. Martin County, which had shot 5-for-17 from the floor in the first half, converted on seven of the attempts in the third stanza, while Leonard made eight of eleven. The result was that Leonard's four point lead held steady, and the teams headed into the fourth quarter with the Lancers in front, 35-31.

But the real story came between the 3:07 mark of the period and the start of the fourth canto, when the Tigers' championship hopes came crashing to the floor and sat on the bench in pain. Jones had blocked a George Jackson layup, but on his way down, was sideswiped by an unidentified player, forcing the big man to come down awkwardly on his right ankle. The severe sprain that resulted forced Martin County to desperately hand on during the final three minutes of the quarter, in hopes that the score would not get too lopsided while CJ was on the bench recuperating.

Finally, amidst chants of "CJ, CJ, CJ" from the Tigers faithful, the 6'8" center returned to the lineup at the start of the fourth quarter. Leonard scored only six points from that point on.

Johnson scored off the center court jump only four seconds into the final period, then tied the game with a clutch jumper 22 seconds later. But quick buckets by Ben Johnson and Daniels put the Lancers back in command of the action, 39-35, with 5:42 remaining. Allan Raines and Gwin traded baskets to make it 41-37, and when Martin County committed their final of 16 turnovers, the game seemed on ice for Leonard. But instead of stalling the time off the clock, the Lancers started their fateful string of three straight turnovers. A tip-in by Jones and a 20-footer by Raines tied the game at 3:39, and after the third Leonard turnover, the Tigers decided to freeze the ball, a move which paved the way for McIntyre's winning points.

But just one night earlier, it appeared the Tigers might not have the chance to score any winning points, because for 28 minutes, Twin Lakes, led by out-of-this-world shooting by Calvin Peoples, totally dominated the locallers. Not until Moses Johnson sank two free throws 4:08 remaining in the game did it appear that the Tigers might escape with a victory.

Twice, at both the 3:36 and 3:04 marks, Raines put the Tigers in front for the first time since early in the second quarter with key jump shots from the corner. Buty Johnny Jones tipped in a missed shot with 2:48 to go to tie the game at 52-52.

Fifteen seconds later, Wayne Wiley drove in for an uncontested layup that gave the Tigers the lead for good. Peoples attempted to tie the game with a shot from the baseline but his only miss of the second half was Twin Lakes' last gasp. Johnson grabbed the rebound, one of sixteen for the tournament, and McIntyre made four shots in a row from the foul line when Twin Lakes fouled in desparation. Martin County's 58-53 win, thus, was not your typical six-point game.

The other local team in the tournament, Fort Pierce Central, fared well in their first game, defeating Lake Worth 84-58, but came out cold against Leonard, falling behind 14-3, 19-5, 29-7....eventually losing 76-44. But a tribute to coach Bill Wright and his team was the fact that the Cobras, led by All-tournament selection Arthur Robinson, played their hearts out in the second half after trailing by 31 at the half, actually playing the Lancers evenly throughout the last 16 minutes.

Martin County will now advance on to the Region 6-AAAA championship game, which was scheduled for Tuesday night. If they won that game, against Fort Lauderdale-Piper, they are to face the winner of Region 5. The favorite in that region is Daytona Beach-Mainland, although Vero Bch and other Cape Coast Conference schools are also in that particular region.

A Martin County-Region 5 matchup will occur Saturday night, beginning at 8 p.m., at the gym of the team that wins Region 5. However, should Gainsville High School win the region, the game could be played at Florida Junior College or at U of F's famed Alligator Alley.

Tournament results are as follows:

First Round, Wednesday night, Fort Pierce 64, Lake Worth 59; Leonard 77, PB Gardens 65;

Thursday night, Twin Lakes 72, Boca Raton 51; Martin County 91, Forest Hill 68

Semi Finals, Friday night, Leonard 76, Fort Pierce 44; Martin County 58, Twin Lakes 53;

Final, Saturday night, Martin County 43 and Leonard 41.

All-Tournament Team as selected by Mirror Sports Editor Donnie Wilkie and other members of the press in attendance:

Tourney MVP: Moses Johnson of Martin County was voted the District 11-AAAA tournament's Most Valuable Player. His statistics for the tourney included: 25-for-42 from the field (shooting); 6-for-10 in free throw shooting; 16 rebounds; 15 assists; 5 fouls; 56 points; 2 steals; 2 blocked shots. He scored eight points in the fourth quarter to help Martin County avoid an upset against Twin Lakes, and scored 14 points against Leonard in the championship game, including four early in the fourth quarter to tie the game.

HOPE FOR BOATERS–The pilings for that new Jensen Bait and Tackle Marina are now moving into place. The dock will be able to berth 90 boats when completed, with 50 slips designed for this year for boats up to 40 feet. The dock should be a boon to boaters trying to find a place to berth their vessels in space-short Martin County.

Boaters are offered little, no room at the marina

BY DICK CAMPBELL

The growth boating in Martin and St. Lucie Counties has created a shortage of marina space for boaters that has reached the crisis stage.

Local marinas have just about the same answer for any boater, from the smallest to the largest boat; there is no room at the marina.

Most of the marina operators wish that there were more marinas to take up the overflow. Some plan expansion, however, many feel that the hassel involved in getting the permits necessary to expand does not warrant their involvement in expansion.

It is a pathetic thing for owners of boats to buy their greatest treasure, only to find that they have no place to dock. (It is said that the greatest day in a person's life is the day he buys a boat. The second greatest day is when he sells the boat.)

Bailey Boat is an example With 180 slips for boats, Wayne Bailey reports he has no slips available. Bailey has 75 slips. He might add 25 more slips "if I can get the permits and the money."

He added, "People are crying for dock space and storage."

Clark Collins, building a small marina at Jensen Beach Bait and Tackle, said, "I have had a thousand people in since we started construction on our dock. We will have 50 slips this year. 90 when we have it completed. We'll handle up to 35 or 40 feet. Our first phase will be completed by July."

The Boat House, at the foot of Commercial Street in Jensen Beach, reports that of 180 in-and-out stalls, only 20 are left "for very small boats." The Boat House is a new marina and boat storage facility, only open for two years, and is already close to full. Another 100 feet can be added on the present building, which the owners plan to construct this summer.

At Casa Rio Boat and Motor, the sixty slips are full.

Fred Stein, owner, admits that he would be hesitant to apply for an expansion of the marina, no matter how much it is needed.

"We have the best boating in the state, and yet a limited number of marinas. We would not apply for an expansion as we are classified as a non-conforming use, and zoning would prevent us from adding to our capacity of dockage."

Stein's dilemma is that of many others who find it difficult to get permits, despite the obvious need for more dockage.

Frances Langford's Outrigger Marina is a typical. It has only transient dockage, with only five of its 25 slips reserved for permanent dockage. The others are filled mostly with the larger, above 30-foot boats. However, The Outrigger added two small-boat slips this year for the little ones to handle just a little more, according to Allen Holley, manager.

The Monterey In-and-Out Boat Storage, with 150 stalls for boats 26-feet and under, reports that only 15 stalls are left. The owner admitted that Monterey and the Boat House in Jensen Beach "should be twinned up, doubled in size" to handle the demand. However, he plans no expansion in the future.

St Lucie Marine has 14 slips, full, and 150 stalls for in-and-out storage, with "only a few available." They have room on the concrete apron for 100 boats not under cover, with a limit of 26 to 27 feet. They hope to cover the area in a year or so for more covered dockage.

At the plush Sandpiper Bay Resort, the marina has 50 slips, with only transient dockage available. Cap Cain, general manager of General Development's community, said that the north Port St. Lucie Marina is full, and GDC plans a new marina at Midport, but that is in the future development stages of planning.

Wood's Cove, with 80 slips, has three slips available now. They plan to expand 15 to 20 slips in a year or so, saying that more marinas are needed in the county.

The pioneer boat-builder, Whitcar Boat Works has only six slips. All are full, with none available for years. Because of zoning, Whitcar cannot expand. However, the boat works gets many requests for dock space.

Carbia Martin Marine told The Mirror that of 32 slips there are no available, and no expansion is planned. Citing a need for slips, a spokesperson said she doesn't understand people voting against marinas "for they don't understand what is happening" in the expansion of boating in the county.

The City of Stuart has docks at the Chamber of Commerce building there, with none available. The city dock, next to Lord Chumley's Restaurant, has a dock, but a 24-hour limit on staying there.

The Bait Box in Jensen Beach has ten slips, and plans to expand next year. None of the slips are open, all rented to full time houseboat and boat owners.

The Snook Nook has six slips available, all taken by regular customers and owners on a year-around basis. No expansion is planned.

Zoning restrictions in some areas limit the boater by refusing to allow a boat on a trifler to be parked in the driveway (Sewall's Point), and the in-and-out storage companies limit the size of boats to 27 feet. Thus the larger boats offer a challenge to the area in where they may be docked.

The zoning of the two counties offers a barrier to future growth of the boating industry.

If people are to enjoy the waterways of the Atlantic, the Indian and St. Lucie Rivers, the Jensen Savannas, and Lake Okeechobee, something has got to give, and that means a new look by governmental agencies at the ever growing industry of water sports.

I-95 route gets reluctant Port St. Lucie okay

BY BOB FRIER

Although Port St. Lucie city council members didn't seem pleased with answers they got last week from a state Department of Transportation engineer, council members voted Monday night to approve a resolution allowing I-95 to pass through the a section of the city.

Two weeks ago city officials questioned design features of the superh highway when a DOT right-of-way agent met with the council. When he could not answer some of the questions, the council asked for a DOT engineer to meet with them and supply the answers. So, last week DOT engineer Tanzer Kalychi came and explained the reasoning behind the I-95 plans.

When asked why the proposed route was selected, Kalychi said several other routes under consideration would have cut through more platted lots than the 400 the proposed route will go through.

The I-95 route will generally run west of the city's western city limits, but will bisect a small portion of the city, leaving about 400 lots to the west of the highway. The DOT plans to pave a road that will run under I-95 to provide access to these lots.

City officials expressed concern that I-95 will funnel a lot of traffic down Savage Boulevard and onto Port St. Lucie Boulevard,and they wanted to know if the state planned to improve Port St. Lucie Boulevard.

Presently, a vase section of the city, containing about 90,000 lots that are platted but mostly undeveloped, is cut off from the eastern part of the city by the Florida Turnpike. Port St. Lucie Boulevard is the only road leading across the Turnpike.

Kalychi said the DOT probably would not consider taking over PSL Boulevard for a number of years, but advised the council to begin working toward that goal now. Even if the state takes over the road, it may still be years before funds area available to improve it beyond its present two-lane status.

DOT spokesman Mark Hines said I-95 should be completed from its present temporary end at Indro Road north of Fort Pierce to Orange Avenue in Fort Pierce by the end of this month. And, he said the highway should be opened to SR 70 (Okeechobee Road) in Fort Pierce, by the end of June.

Three construction projects, to extend the Interstate from SR 70 to the south St. Lucie County line, should be ready for letting bids by the end of September. And, Hines hoped that the contract for the route to continue into Martin County as far as Sr 714 would not be delayed too much beyond that date. However, he said it is back to the drawing board for DOT engineers to come up with plans for the route through the rest of Martin County which Governor Bob Graham recently approved. He hoped I-95 could be finished to the Port St. Lucie interchange by 1981 to 1983 and that work on all other portions of the missing link of I-95 could be underway by 1985.

TANZER KALYCHI–a state Department of Transportation engineer, came to Port St Lucie last week to answer city council questions about the proposed I-95 route through the city. Though council members weren't pleased with answers they got concerning possible improvements to Port St. Lucie Boulevard, the council approved a resolution Monday to allow I-95 to come through the city. Jensen may lose directional signs

The Florida Department of Transportation does not recognize that Jensen Beach exists at least on the Florida Turnpike. Now, the DOT is trying to keep people who finally find the place from getting to motels and resorts quickly.

Officials of the DOT have told Clark Collins, owner of Jensen Bait and Tackle (formerly Jensen Hardware) to remove the directional signs from the front of the building.

The building faces the dead end of Commercial Street in Jensen Beach. Directional advertising signs point the way to the three major resorts, Frances Langford's Outrigger Resort, Holiday Inn Oceanside and the Sheraton Resort Inn, and the restaurant, Admiral's Table.

The first indication that the signs had to come down came with a directive from the DOT telling Collins that he had to take the signs down in 30 days.

It seems that Collins also has a billboard on the south wing of the pioneer structure that is leased to City Sign in Stuart. State law forbids other signs within 660 feet of that sign. However, the billboard is on the building. So are the signs, on the front of the building.

The directional signs, of one or another business, have been on the building for years...back when it was Jensen Hardware. Collins bought the property three years ago and has just about completely renovated it, yet kept the early Jensen Beach character of it.

The DOT prohibits such directional signs, since they are not city or park signs, from being posted on state road right-of-way. (This exempts, of course, the church location signs that are illegally there.)

The DOT told Collins that he is in conflict with the sign he leases to City Sign of Stuart. Collins checked with his attorney, Jim Knight of Sewall's Point, and was told he would have to take the signs down or "go to jail."

The crux of the matter may come to light on September 1, when the contract with City Sign is up for renewal. In the meantime, Collins says he is going to take the signs down, making it harder for visitors to find the Outrigger, Holiday Inn, Sheraton and the Admiral's Table.

BEAMING–The people of Jensen Beach have gathered to watch the construction of the new Eckerd's Drug Store in Jensen Beach. This week, beams were hoisted atop the new building, located near Commercial Street and Sunview Road.

IRP averaging million-a-week

Sales of condominiums and villas at Indian River Plantation averaged almost $1 million a week during the last two weeks in February, according to P.J. (Pete) Nebhut, Jr., president.

Nebhut said sales of $1,819,900 were recorded between February 13 and March 1 as out-of-town visitors, mostly from northern states, flocked to the residential and resort community here on Hutchinson Island.

The Plantation executive said 16 two bedroom two bath Tennis Villas, located in the heart of the 195-acre island complex, were sold for $1,180,200. He added that four Fairway Villas overlooking the golf course added $377,300 to the two-week sales total, while three condominium apartments on the Indian River in River Village brought another $262,400.

COME TO THE FAIR–The glitter and razzle-dazzle of the Martin County Fair is on, and people are thronging to the big event at the fair grounds on Old Dixie Highway. Denise Dinkins, a Martin County senior from Stuart, was named "My Fair Lady" Monday evening, and will reign throughout the event which extends to Saturday night. The highlight for Friday will be the appearance of famous country singer Jeannie C. Riley, when a "Jeannie C. Riley Lookalike" will be chosen. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

Henry and 'Mother' take top national radio ...

AWARD WINNER--Henry Holland, owner of Stuart Chrysler-Plymouth, accepts the first place award for creative radio advertising his agency won recently from Don Duffy and "Mother." Duffy was the originator of the radio commercials in which Holland talks with "Mother," (Madeline Nataire), center. The award was presented by the National Auto Dealers Association.

A first place in creative radio advertising was won by Henry Holland and Stuart Chrysler-Plymouth recently in a national contest, it was announced this week.

The National Auto Dealer's Association Raido Advertising Bureau picked the humorous commercials created by Don Duffy, WMCF advertising executive, for first prize in radio commercial creativity and radio advertising excellence.

Three commercials were entered, featuring Holland talking with his "mother." The first was a humorous twist of the name of the new chief officer of Chrysler, Mr. Iacocca, in which "mother" referred to him as the name of a car.

The second commercial referred to the bridgetender in Stuart raising the bridge if someone didn't buy a car. The third was a humorous reflection of the pending election, in which Holland was running for "Public Relations Administrator."

The "mother" voice is that of Madeline Nataire, who had a problem changing her Long Island, New York voice to that of a southern girl. Mrs. Nataire is the wife of Fred Nataire, general manager of WMCF.

"I was really surprised," Holland said. "I am very much indebted to Don Duffy and WMCF for the ideas put forth in the ads."

The commercials, created by Duffy two years ago, center on current happenings. He writes the ideas down, and presents them to Holland, who then "changes them around to the way he speaks."

"We first discussed different things, how we would be able to create identification so that the association would follow," Duffy said. "With this institutional advertising we found the people reacted to it and recognized it. We just kept it up."

Holland added, "It proves its effectiveness. It is a means of keeping the name before the public. Later, when they are in the market for a car, they may come down to see that Crazy Henry."

Holland was one of the founders of Stuart Chrysler-Plymouth in 1964.

"I love the community and the people here," he said. "I was here when they finished the last four-laning of U.S. 1. We are a growing community, and I'm glad to see the restrictions we have on growth.

"We do need to start planning for better roads in the county. It is getting really critical here. Our roads are almost impassable in the winter months."

Letter to the editor

On behalf of the residents and staff of the Abbiejean Russell Care Center I wish to thank all individuals who participated in the Valentine's Day luncheon at the Abbiejean Russell Care Center.

There was a Rockathon, a Sweetheart Ball at which a husband and wife, residents of the Center, were crowned King and Queen. There were "walkers" unable to rock but putting in many miles in their wheelchairs.

Special expressions of appreciation are extended to Mrs. Mason's class at Dexter A. Moore School; Mrs. Dodd's class at Frances K. Sweet Elementary School; Rainbow Girls of Port Pierce; Assembly 9 Band; The Scootbies; ARCC Candystripers; RSVP members; IRCC instructors; residents and their families and particularly employees of the Abbiejean Russell Care Center.

This was a "Fun" raiser for Heart Day and gave us all opportunity to participate in providing funds for the Heart Association Community Services Programs. About 75 percent of the money raised is used in the local community. The other 25 percent will be used at the national level for research.

Sincerely,
Janet M. Lavery

Q. DO YOU THINK SPENDING MONEY FOR FLOWERS IS A WASTE?

A. Absolutely not! Flowers add much to any ceremony, especially funerals. They are an immediate sign of another's love and thoughtfulness for you and your family. Flowers convey a sentimental message in a very special way. They are never wasted. They are often the only way that a person has of expressing grief.

STUART–In the thirteen years since Dan Wallen took the head coaching job at Martin County High School, Tiger basketball fans have had a lot to cheer about.

A total of nine Suncoast Conference, six District, five Regional, one Sectional, eight Christmas tournament, and two state AAA championship trophies grace the shelves at Martin County. Wallen's teams have produced 221 victories in 289 games, and have given their fans near-paralysis with some of their last-minute, even last-second comebacks.

But since the Tigers moved up from the smaller AAA class into the AAAA division, which includes all the large Metro schools, they have not won a state title. In fact, only once in five previous seasons have they even survived their own District playoffs.

This year, however, has been a different story.

Showing the poise and dedication that must be present on a championship squad, the Tigers have not lost since a brief skid in January, wiping out all challengers and sliding through the bothersome District tournament without a loss. And, in last week's Regional and Sectional competition, the "look of a champion" remained, as Martin County easily handled competition from the South [Fort Lauderdale-Piper] and the North [Daytona Beach-Mainland] to advance to the final test-- the state championships.

Wallen has returned, and with one of his finest teams ever. Indeed, the word "team" applies as much to this group of players as to any that Wallen has coached. It is a team with a balanced scoring attack, fierce defensive players, a good big man, and superior outside shooting. In short, this team is a championship caliber squad.

Whether the Tigers win the championship this weekend in Lakeland will depend, however, not on their past achievements or on how talented they are. The state championship tournament is a new ballgame altogether, especially for a team loaded with seniors, but absent of visits to the tourney.

These Tigers have only heard stories about the past championships. It isn't like the MCHS team of 1973-74, that had four players remaining from the state title team of a year before. This team, blessed with six seniors, heads into tonight's [Thursday's] semi-finals having never played in a tournament game.

But at the same time, the current Tigers have more experience than many of the past editions. Moses Johnson has started more games [102] than any other Tiger except for Walter Campbell, the brilliant center who graduated in 1977. Center Charles Jones has started 92 times, which ties him for fourth on the list. Lem Johnson, Moses' brother, with 99, ranks third, while Arthur Kitchen's 92 starts matches Jones.

The schedule Martin County plays often gives it an edge in tournament play. Wallen even went as far as to say that the schedule might have been the major reason for the MCHS comeback against John I. Leonard in this year's District finals.

"Leonard really didn't play anybody outside the area," said Wallen on the night the Tigers beat the Lancers 43-41 for the right to advance to the Regional playoff last week. "They had never won a tournament [their two losses during the season came in the final of two Christmas tournaments against North Shore], and they probably got a little tight near the end of the game."

Last week's Sectional opponent, Daytona Beach-Mainland, had cruised through their District final and drew an easy opponent [Satellite Beach] in the Regional. The Bucs blew Satellite right off the map, 84-54, and thus faced their first real challenge against Martin County.

The anticipated opponent tonight [thursday] could be troublesome. Pensacola Washington, which had yet to play Jacksonville Raines in the Sectional at press time due to flooding, has a reputation almost equal to that of Martin County's. They were at Lakeland last year when all the marbles were on the line, and return with a burning determination to win it. So the clash between the Tigers and Washington would be a fierce one.

In Friday's other AAAA semi-final, Miami Jackson faces Lakeland. Throughout the entire playoff season, local fans have been rooting against Lakeland. Ever since their name appeared in the AAAA poll early in the season, fans have dreaded the possibility of having to play Lakeland in the state tournament. The reason is simple. It will be difficult at the least to defeat a team at home in such an important game. Martin County, though, shows little regard for that theory, having beaten Mainland in Daytona, some 200 miles away from the friendly Tiger Den.

Should the Tigers grab a lead, look for a slowdown strategy late in the game. With the exception of the Tiger-Mainland game, the four corner offense employed by Wallen has worked perfectly. Mainland, with its quickness, was able to cut an 18-point lead down to three in the six minutes that the Tigers used it.

Most of the Tigers are at their peak shooting-wise. Johnson shot 15-for-22 in last week's two games, with most of his shots coming from 20 to 25 feet away from the basket. He has adapted well to the guard position which Wallen knows he will have to play in college.

Ernest McIntyre, the leader of "The Tiger Pause," used his quickness to grab six steals against Forest Hill in District competition, and has shot just under fifty percent from the field in Regional and Sectional competition.

Allan Raines, the quiet contributor, came up dry against Pipe, but regained his shooting touch against Mainland, hitting on seven of twelve attempts. He has also been effective defensively against the Tigers' playoff foes.

Jones, the big man at 6'8", must remain as the dominant force in the game if the Tigers are to stay with Washington, Jacksonville Raines, or Miami Jackson. The Tiger center spent most of the third quarter on the bench against Piper, enabling the Bengals to stay in the game. And, against Mainland, the same foul trouble struck again, although the two quick fouls he was whistled for early in the first period were his last until late in the fourth stanza.

If there is any weak link in the Tiger attack, it can be found in Wayne Wiley, the Tiger who took the starting job at senior Mike Meyer midway through the season. Wallen sacrificed some scoring to have Wiley's rebounding skills on the court, and in the four corner offense, some people have questioned Wiley's ball handling.

Perhaps Moses Johnson said it best. Midway through the season, an article appeared in another newspaper that quoted Johnson as saying, "We've got to make it to Lakeland. We've just got to go." In that one quote, the three years of losing in District competition, of being highly-ranked but never involved in the state tournament, in fact, all of the disappointment of the past few seasons comes to the surface.

Johnson got his wish. The Martin County Tigers are in Lakeland, and now they only need to put all their past laurels out to dry and go out and win two basketball games. It's that simple.

Mulberry shocks Rams, Delancy in AA

BY DONNIE WILKIE

MULBERRY--They didn't get as much publicity as the AAAA Martin County Tigers, nor did they win quite as many games, but many area observers considered them just as much a threat to win the state crown in their class (AA) as the Tigers in theirs.

But despite a tremendous performance by guard Malcolm Delancy of Jensen Beach, the John Carroll Golden Rams saw their season end in the Region 7-AA playoffs for the second straight year, losing last Tuesday [February 27] to Mulberry, 56-55.

The upset defeat left Carroll's final record for the 1978-79 season at 19-9. They advanced farther in post-season competition than any other private school in the area except for North Palm Beach-Benjamin, a team they beat twice during the year.

Delancy scored 21 points on the night while cashing in on eight of sixteen attempts from the field, a much higher percentage than that attained by the rest of the Rams, who shot just 39 percent.

John Carroll had figured on Avon Park as their Region 7-AA opponent, but Mulberry's Panthers took care of the 1977-78 AA runners-up, 54-48 in District 13 play. Meanwhile, Carroll steamrolled all competition from the North in their district [Florida Air, St. Cloud and Melbourne Central Catholic], setting up the two teams' meeting in Mulberry.

With Carroll's conqueror of a year past sufficiently done away with, the Rams were aiming for a Section IV showdown with year-long nemesis Pahokee, and the trip to the state championships in Lakeland that followed for the winner. But despite all the conjecture and off-the-court analysis, Mulberry was in fact deserving of their spot opposite the Rams in the Regionals, and they proved it with a stirring fourth quarter comeback.

Carroll led for most of the night, charging out to a six-point margin early in the second quarter [15-9]. But for the rest of the first half, Mulberry delighted the standing-room only crowd with a 20-10 spurt that gave the Panthers the halftime lead, 29-25.

As was the case in the Regional playoff last year, the Rams came out steaming at the start of each half. But the second and fourth quarters were the undoing of perhaps the finest Rams team in years.

So true to form, Coach Marty Kilconnenns had his crew fired up at the start of the third quarter, and they played exceptional basketball in those eight minutes, holding Mulberry and their 6'7" junior center Greg Pollte to just five points, while scoring fifteen of their own. At one point, Carroll had built a 40-31 edge, their biggest of the game, and as the teams headed into the final period, the Rams still led, 40-34.

But the inside play of Pollte turned the game around in the fourth period, along with a full-court press that forced nine Carroll turnovers in eight minutes and some untimely misses from the foul line.

Pollte, while not living up to his name at all, poured in ten of his game-high 24 points in the final stanza, and his last two points, coming with 2:45 remaining in the game, cut the Carroll lead to just 51-50. Within a minute and a half, the Panthers had run off eight points in a row, and led 56-51.

Delancy, who for most of the season was held back offensively while concentrating on defense, broke the streak with one of his patented "rainbow shots" from 30 feet, and Carroll was back in the game...

Even more when the Jensenite launched another rainbow, this one coming with 45 seconds to play, cutting the deficit to just one, 56-55.

And even more when sophomore guard Tony Guzzetta tied up Bob Miller of Mulberry, forcing a jump ball. When Mulberry retained possession, Carroll was forced to foul.

Quentin Stancil stood at the free throw line with ten seconds left knowing that if he sank both ends of a one-and-one opportunity, Mulberry would be the Region 7-AA champions. Nevertheless, Stancil's first attempt went awry, and after a tussle for the rebound, Guzzetta emerged with the ball and headed upcourt for yet another Carroll attempt at victory.

The storybook finish was never completed. Guzzetta stepped on the out-of-bounds stripe on his way up the court, committing the ninth Ram turnover of the fourth quarter and sending any hope of a win out the window.

Forwards Joe Paschal and Larry Kosakowski each fouled out early in the last period, and their absence was felt by the Rams, who found themselves overmatched inside, both in rebounding and defensively on Pollte.

Behind Pollte's 24 markers, Mulberry was weak. Stancil was the only other offensive threat, chipping in nine points. Aside from Delancy's 21 points for Carroll, Kosakowski scored 14, while senior Anthony Crecco had eleven.

Salli and Vangie split the first two sets against June LaVigne and Connie Falkenburg, winning 6-2 and losing 4-6, then came on strong to win the last, 6-2. Sandalwood's other victory came when Gail Gaddy and Cindy Holmes took a three-setter from Audrey Schad and Barbara Garramone, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

The Plantation's Mary Hudson and Sally Snow stopped Camille Stanton and Jessie Perry, 6-0,6-3, and Sandy Thurlow and Nancy Dillard defeated Mabel Wasson and Susan Dubiel, 6-3,6-2. Terry Meinhold and Jean Schafer hung another straight set win on Sandalwood by beating EWarring ton and Nancy Miller, 6-1, 6-3.

Margie Miles and Lindi Rinaldi of IRP were extended before edging Helen Manchester and Doreen Neill, 4-6, 7-6 (5-4), 6-3, and Audrey Sax and Sally McCarthy had to come from behind to defeat Liz McNamara and Susan Lloyd, 6-7, (4-5), 6-4, 6-1. In the other match of the day, Kathy DeWindt and Suzie Fox defeated Rose Brown and Cherry Jones, 6-2, 7-5.

Sandpiper Bay men play best ball

The All- American colors of red, white and blue will prevail in Thursday's scheduled Sandpiper Bay Men's Golf play with 6 two-man partners alternating tee shots from each of the colored markers with scoring via the Stableford system.

A score of 53 proved best in last Thursday's play when three best balls of a foursome were calculated. The top effort was produced by the combo of Ken Kennedy, Evan Philips, Ray Mager and Frank Branca.

A Triple deadlock for second was determined by match of cards with scores of 54, and eking out the win were Elmer Hoffman, Chuck Heider, John Linabury and Archie Gates.

The other pair of teams which trailed included Al Backer, Fred Schechterle, John Green and David Moses; Jim Walkie Vin Walsh, George Hudock and Mark Vasey.

First PGA Tournament for Martin County

Martin County's first-ever PGA event, the final tournament of the PGA Club Professional Tournament Series, is set for March 8 and 9. The host, Crane Creek Golf and Racquet Club at Martin Downs, west of Stuart, is right on schedule with the many prior arrangements that must be made.

The Crane Creek Club, a part of the recently opened, 2300 acre Martin Downs community, is a par 72, 6837-yard course, and is regarded as one of the toughest courses in South Florida. For the tournament, it will be even tougher than usual.

"The greens will be the easiest part," says Jay Pyle, assistant pro at Crane Creek. "They're seeded with rye grass, so they should hold well. The rest of the course should be tight, and we've been doing a lot of fertilizing to get the rough to where we want it."

"Overall", he continued, "the course is in excellent shape, and should provide a very fair test of the golfers' abilities. But getting the course set up is the easy part."

120 PGA golfers, officials and hundreds of spectators are expected.

Jim Picard, golf pro, from Grosse Point Woods, Michigan was the winner, Feb. 27, of the first tournament of Series 5 at Indian Trail Country Club in Royal Palm Beach. The second was played at Wellington. It was back to Indian Trail for the third and on to Crane Creek's Golf and Racquet Club for the fourth and final event. Guaranteed prize money for each of the four tournaments in Series 5 is $30,000, with $4,000 going to the winner and $3,000 to the second place finisher.

Picard didn't have an easy win at Indian Trail. Jack Seltzer gave him a run for his money as they both finished 3 under. However, the play-off ended when Picard sank a 20 ft. birdie putt on the first hole.

Tee-off time at Crane Creek for both days of the tournament is 8 a.m. and admission is free for spectators. The tournament site is easily accessible, as it is directly across from the Stuart Exit of the Florida Turnpike.

The public is invited to the "Meet the Players" cocktail party on March 9th, at 3 p.m. and will have the opportunity to welcome these outstanding professionals to Martin County. Admission is $10 per person and proceeds will be donated to the Martin Memorial Hospital Ball Fund.

The hospital ball: a Shangri La evening

BY SALLY LATHAM

Saturday night is a rare opportunity for prospective party-goers in the area—the chance to take a trip to Shangri-La, that paradise made world-wide by the classic author James Hilton.

The great part of the adventure is that the price is right—a mere fraction of the ticket to that mythical Eden in the Himalayas—and with the entire proceeds going to the up-grading of the already excellent medical care in Martin County. The Martin County Hospital Ball, everyone who has attended in the past years will agree, is the best entertainment bargain from the Treasure Coast to the tip of the Gold Coast.

The ball will begin at 9 p.m. at the Sandpiper Bay's Grand Ballroom, which in a magical few hours will be transformed into Shangri-La by the talented Charles and Ruth Salisbury of Charles Interiors of Stuart, who for the past six years have been donating their artistry to the cause. They took over from Patricia Murphy [Mrs. J.E. Kiernan] who had set an unparalleled precedent in decor since the first ball held in 1966 under an oriental tent pavilion at the old Sunrise Inn.

This year's chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thurlow, Sr., are elated by the selfless cooperation of hundreds of people of all walks of life and means in assuring in advance the success of the ball, the undisputed social highlight of the season.

"Advance sales have been excellent," Mrs. Thurlow told The Mirror, "but so many have bought tickets and aren't planning to attend that there should be room for everyone."

People wishing to make last-minute reservations may contact Dagne Jochem, telephone 283-6891.

The ball is such a tremendous bargain, Mrs. Thurlow pointed out, because again the music will be by Lou Feldman and the Vaughn Monroe Orchestra. He and the excellent band of international fame will provide an evening of oldie-goldies interspersed with the "up-music" of today.

Feldman, a long-time friend and confrere of Vaughn Monroe, "inherited" the music and the rights to the Vaughn Monroe on the death of the great band-leader in 1973. Vaughn's widow, Marian Monroe, has made it possible for ball-planners to carry on the tradition.

The price of the ticket, per couple, is $150 a sum jai-alai or race-track devotees think nothing of parting with in a few hours, one admirer commented. And with it comes a delicious midnight supper. Drinks are extra, but few people interested in having a good time for the benefit of the hospital mind the cost, Mrs. Thurlow observed.

The hospital ball began as a tradition back in 1966, when attorney Robert F. McRoberts, Jr., then a member of the hospital finance committee, ventured the job of chairmanship.

The theme, that year, was "Racing with the Moon," one of Monroe's spectacular gold-record hits. Despite the fact that weather turned cold, and dancers had to "race with the wind" it was a "smashing success," McRoberts commented this week. It set the pace as the area's big social affair of the season, and raised some $16,000 for acquisition of needed hospital property and equipment.

Next came the 1967 ball, chairman of which was Mrs. Vaughn Monroe, who had moved here from the north with her famous husband shortly before. Mrs. Monroe, both before and since her husband's death, has been a year-around contributor to the work of the hospital, and for the past two years, she has been the president of the auxilians. The broad scope of talent and time given to the ball is self-indicative by the number and type of people who have given so much to the annual project.

In 1968, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Hudson [he's chairman of the board of First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart] took over, and tried having a full sit-down dinner, which didn't really work because people have a habit of not arriving on time. Financially, however, it was a great occasion, with the music of Ralph Flanagan's orchestra and the Garden Club of Stuart doing the decorating.

The Hudsons, busy members of many areas of the community, have four children, Dana [Mrs. Ronald Houck,] Dennis,Jr., also now with the bank, Susie, a student at Brevard College in North Carolina, and Drew, a student at St. Mary's School. Yet they found time for the countless hours it takes to run the big show.

The ball, in 1969, was headed by Rear Admiral and Mrs. Robert Gibbs, now living in a charming apartment at Mariner Key. At the time of their chairmanship, they were making their home in North River Shores, and Mrs. Gibbs ran the show with her husband, Mrs. James Fowler and the late Mrs. Fowler, from a sick-bed, yet thanks to the artful decorations by Patricia Murphy and the exciting Mardi Gras theme, they made the event a top-notch success.

In 1970, the job was taken by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bedell of High Point. They were raising a lively family of children [including photographer Robbie Bedell formerly of the Mirror and now of the Tampa Tribune.] The senior Bedell, a long-time veteran of Grumman Aircraft, has been a pilot with that firm for 38 years and is one of Grumman's most admired wingmen.

Others since that time have been Judy [Mrs. Franklin] Wolfe, who served in the chairmanship for two years in 1971 and '72, and the Lloyd Dutchers, who co-chaired with Mr. and Mrs. John Menninger in 1973.

Dutcher, one of the area's foremost real estate executives, is president of Dutcher, Higginbotham and Bass, has been responsible for some of Martin County's most tasteful developments. Mrs. Dutcher, modestly attempting to minimize their role in the ball's success in particular and the hospital's growth in general, feels that some of the key people have been too often overlooked.

She made particular reference to William Matheson, who not only donated regularly to the hospital support but who endowed it with the emergency pier recently dedicated, and to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Evinrude, who participated in the latter venture and who, too, have been regular and generous donors.

"We were new to the area when we were chairmen," she said, "but we had magnificent help from everyone."

In 1974, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick F. Schock III were chairmen; and in 1975 Mr. and Mrs. William Oughterson took on the task. The Oughtersons, parents of children Scott, an architect, Mrs. Mary Lou Creg, and Maurene, a teacher in Lakeland, disclaims much credit for the success in their year. Yet she found time to build a beautiful "Salute to America" ball, with the help of decorator Patricia Murphy.

"With the late donations, we reached $80,000," she and Bill recall.

In 1976, Dale Hudson, president of First National Bank of and Trust Company of Stuart and his wife had the responsibility. Again, "Racing with the Moon" was the theme. That year, the hospital was able to increase its service capacity to 202 beds, with 66 doctors, 635 auxilians, and raise the emergency room visits to 16,413, a far cry from the first year, 1939, when it began with 25 beds, three physicians, and no auxiliary members.

In 1977 came Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stein, Jr. Stein, owner of Casa Rio Boat Works, also gives generously of his time on the male team of the auxiliary. He still works in the program as does his busy wife.

Last year, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Tilton, the ball netted a grand sum of $83,000.

"Which we wouldn't have accomplished without the $10,000 from board chairman E.C.Wareheim," Mrs. Tilton said.

That ball was one of the most spectacular to be found from Miami to Paris, with its King Tut theme, dazzling with gilt and rich with the music of Lou Feldman orchestra. Tilton, a quiet man, is used to facing emergencies. He was one of the two topside surviving members of the "Black Sheep Squadron" on the Franklin, during the Pacific hostilities.

This year, the ball is dedicated to the auxilians, "without whom the hospital would be unable to survive," Mrs. Thurlow said. And she should know. She was one of the five original members of the Pink Ladies board.

The board of directors of Martin Memorial Hospital is headed by president E.C.Wareheim, with Les Combs as first vice president; William Oughterson as second vice president; William E. Owens as treasurer, and Mrs. W.A.C.Miller III as secretary. Directors include Ambassador Charles Adair, Mrs. Walter Bauman, John Duberg, Dr. Edward A. Geary, Dr. Robert O. Baratta, Alvin Hendry; Mrs. Monroe, Barney Poston, Dr. John F. Powers; Edward G. Stollenwerck, and E.Clinton Towl.

Honorary board members include Ralph Evinrude, W.Van Allen Clark, Mrs. Ross Whistler, Capt. Warren G.Corliss, Bernard Coker, Mrs. Mary Lolen Stokes, Nathaniel P. Reed, Claude O. Rainey, John Norris, Roland Merrell, Dr. Edwin A. Menninger, Ralph Hartman, Jr., and Patricia Murphy [Mrs. J.E.Kiernan].

Paper collection now at E-Center

The collection of newspapers, which until a few months ago was centered at the Winn Dixie Shopping Center, has been resumed, and is now located at the Martin County Environmental Center.

Sponsored by the Free Energy, Inc., the "paper chase" is a means of raising funds for Free Energy products, one long-term item of which is to build a windmill. It has also contributed extensively to energy education at the center. Last year, one of the highlights was Energy Week, held in May in schools throughout Martin County, and which proved a huge success.

The goal is not only to preserve and recycle paper but to help preserve the nation's forests.

"It takes 17 trees to produce one ton of paper," Jay Jarrett, director of the center said this week.

People may bring old newspapers to the van stationed at the center. Soon, outside containers will be established to accommodate donations when the van is closed, Jarrett said.

Geiger to speak to NARFE Wednesday

There will be a meeting of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees (N.A.R.F.E.) local Chapter 1104 on Wednesday, March 14 at 1:30 p.m. The meeting will take place at the Martin County Public Library.

Judge Dwight L. Geiger of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit will speak on the subject of "What is a Judge". The president of the chapter will report on the recent meeting of the Sixth District of the Fla Federation of NARFE.

Let Publix take you out to lunch.

Tomorrow's lunch "special" can be whatever's special to you when you brown-bag-it with Publix.

Team our huge selection of cold cuts, salads and cheeses with our Deli rolls and breads and create sandwiches you won't find on any restaurant menu — muenster and summer sausage on an onion roll, three kinds of cheese topped with a slice of pickle loaf on rye, a double-decker ham salad, egg salad on pumpernickel.

Add some fresh fruit from the Place for Produce and you'll have a brown bag special for lunch at school, on the job, in the park or any place you'd like to go.

And be sure to pack your lunch in one of our special brown bags (available in the papergoods section) because a brown bag lunch from Publix is always one-of-a kind.

High speed wrecks claim two lives

High speed was cited by Florida Highway Patrol troopers as a factor in accidents last Friday and Saturday that claimed two lives.

Twenty-year-old Michael Joseph Berger of Fort Lauderdale was killed early Friday morning when a 1973 Jaguar he was driving at a high rate of speed went out of control at the intersection of AIA and Sewall's Point Road.

FHP Troopers Steele Ritter and Byron Sickman report Berger was driving south on Sewall's Point Road and lost control of the car after crossing AIA. The car slid 86 feet, hit a tree, and came apart in several pieces. What was left of the car then travelled another 56 feet and came to rest in the southbound lane of Sewall's Point Road. Both Berger and a 9-year-old passenger, Deborah Jean Bowman of Fort Lauderdale, were ejected from the car. Ms. Bowman was taken to Martin Memorial Hospital and was admitted to the intensive care unit. On Tuesday she was still listed in stable condition.

A 16-year-old Port St. Lucie girl, Heather Baldwin of 172 N.E. Bracken Road, was killed in an accident in front of Edenlawn Plantation on SR 707 around 10 p.m. Saturday.

The girl was one of five passengers in the car driven by a white male juvenile. FHP Troopers Randy Stringham and Lou Ericeson did not release the name of the driver, but charged him with willful and wanton reckless driving and vehicular homicide.

The troopers report the youth was driving a 1970 Mercury at an extremely high rate of speed north on SR 707 when the car went off the left side of the road, travelled 118 feet and hit a palm tree, then travelled another 180 feet before rolling over on its top. The car then skidded on its top for another 288 feet. The girl killed in the wreck was ejected from the car.

Port St. Lucie residents who were passengers in the car, as well as the driver, were treated and released from Martin Memorial Hospital. The three injured passengers are Geani McKinney, 16, and Deani McKinney, 14, of 413 S.E. Skipper Lane in Port St. Lucie, and Deborah Davidson, 14, of 437 Ravenswood Lane in Port St. Lucie.

One dollar gasoline?

This column often comments on what the local seniors are talking about, this week will be no exception and the main topic of conversation, as could well be expected, was the $1.00 per gallon gasoline.

CHAPTER OF AARP

BY ERNIE CURWEN Tel.334-0756

One exasperated 1960 retiree, said, "What are they trying to do to us? First, our car insurance premiums went if we drive more than 5.3 miles per day, now if we drive our old 1969 gas guzzlers even that much, it is going to cost us an extra $15 a month, and where is that coming from, when the $200 to $300 Social Security check does not stretch far enough as it is?

"That is what I would like to ask Alfred Kahn, the Guide-Line advisor," said another of the same group, and furthermore," he seemed quite glib about it, saying that everybody had to realize that to lick inflation, they would have to be satisfied with less of more items for a day's pay." "Well," the senior continued, "if we had a $10G a day pay to start with, we could get rid of our old gas guzzlers and $1.00 per gallon gasoline would not be so bad."

The third senior summed it up with, "No matter what happens to the economy the 24.4 million elderly [11.1 percent of population] get it in the neck. Even, the inadequate cost-of-living increase comes a year too late, as promises of an increase next year based on present cost of living, does not help one bit with the current sky high prices. Maybe we should write to National AARP and get them to lobby for an effective Dept. on Aging."

Much of this chewing-it-over went on as the seniors were toiling away at the Congregate Meals, making huge Optimist Club bulletin boards with the names of the candy sale donors. The big boards were ruled off, then different seniors lettered in the names using 2 inch stencils. Many worked on the project under the supervision of Site 9 manager Dorris Walker with the encouragement of Vince Bacchino, supervisor of Langford Field. The many hours work was finished Friday, March 2, and the three boards are ready for display at the County Fair.

The Interagency meeting at Barnes Cafeteria, Friday, March 2, again was concerned with health service problems, according to a report by Leta Keith, AARP, legislator committee chairman.

Nilla Bullock, social worker at Martin Memorial Hospital pointed out that it was a crying shame, that there were not more nursing home beds available or a more complete Home Health Care Service, as many times the frail elderly have to be kept in expensive hospital rooms as there is no other place for them to go and get needed care.

Dr. Bush, retired, also commented on this situation, remarking that one of the first needs was a building. A day care center like there is in most northern states could take care of some of the frail elderly problems and an adjacent geriatric clinic could take care of many more, keeping them out of expensive hospital and nursing homes.

Then, at the Interagency meeting, there was another request for reader-recorders to make tapes for the blind. Men and women are needed to read books, magazines and articles, and typists are needed also. The Taping Service has moved to Commercial Street, Jensen Beach, so call Leta Keith, 334-4366 for details.

All these health service problems and ideas more than ever point out the huge task that is confronting the newly organized HCCC [Health Cost Containment Committee], as it can be seen they will need all the help they can get. Therefore, it is hoped that seniors interested in working on the committee,or have health service problems needing attention, will attend the next meeting Tuesday, March 13 at 10:15 a.m. at the Stuart Library.

Seniors often feel prices are higher here than elsewhere, and maybe they are right: Meredith, N.H. - 17 oz. cans of corn, green beans and peas 4for $1.00, here 3for $1.00; Chicken legs and breast, Meredith $.67, here $1.09; reliables were: Mildred Capanna, Lucy Prohaska, Herb Hiers, Helen Lauchley, Marion Curwen, Ethel Tucker, Ethel Rafuse, Pearl Wyse, Ernie Curwen and Wendy Morris got the March issue ready quicker than usual, and were congratulating themselves on their speedy work. Then it was found that there was a printing shortage, so our apologies to those that had to be missed.

The Martin County Fair will be under way as you read this, but if you get a chance to go, be sure to stop at AARP Booth C-3 and make yourself known. You can pick up latest brochures and have a chance to "Buy-a-Block" for $1.00 to help the Senior Center Building Fund.

The Tax Aid program is going great at the Stuart National Bank on East Ocean Blvd. Counselors will be there from 9 a.m to 1 p.m. every banking day until April 13, to help you with your tax return. Be sure to bring necessary documents and copy of last year's return with you and it is a good idea to write out the questions you want to ask. We sometimes do forget, you know.

Also, there will be a special counseling session, at Langford Field, Tuesday, March 13, from 2 to 4 p.m. for those who find it inconvenient to go to Stuart. Counselor Wm. Bailey will be there to answer questions and help make out your returns.

Don't forget your Defensive Driving Class, Saturday, March 10, 9:30 a.m. at the Environmental Studies Center, Indian River Dr., Jensen Beach. Graduates of this interesting 8 hour course [2 Saturdays] can save 10 percent on their car insurance [and on some other insurances, as well]. Also, along with saving some money, you might learn safer driving, thereby saving your life.

For details, call Colleen Watts at Adult Education, 287-6400, ext. 131.

Remember, there is a FREE blood pressure clinic, Friday, March 16, at Langford Field, 9 to 11 a.m. You are being given plenty of notice this time, as last month, the week after the clinic, quite a few said, "I did not know it was last Friday, nobody told me." Well, you are being told now, so mark down on your calendar. Also, this month there might be a nutritionist in attendance. Until further notice, this free blood pressure clinic will always be on the third Friday of the month.

The Santo Domingo trip that was being planned for the first of April had to be called off, as there were some unforeseen events making the trip a little too difficult to get lined-up in the time left.

A New Jersey, ASD [Assistant State Director] is in town and plans to attend our next meeting. Hope Mr. Peterson will like the way we conduct meetings in Florida, and hope he can tell us how they go about getting Senior Centers and low cost housing, up there in New Jersey, so that we can do likewise.

Do not forget the annual dinner, Tuesday, March 13, at the Stuart sure it was the most outstanding event of our life, and want to thank all their friends for the cards and good wishes, with a special thanks to the park management for all the work and thoughtfulness that went into making it such a lovely, happy celebration.

There were many Pitcheh parties after the reception and here is another to report.

The Shermans, Arnold and Margaret, held an open house party at their home, 13 Arbervitae. Their home was decorated with white ribbons and bells, the tables with golden Mums, carnations and roses. Food and punch were served buffet style, throughout the evening to the 41 friends and neighbors who dropped by.

They came from Spanish Lakes, Cedar Point and Ocean Breeze Park, and soon after the novel "photo registering" [each couple or person was photographed as they arrived], they became acquainted and had a very pleasant time together, wishing their host many more years of happiness together.

Sam and Kay Hathaway of 4 Mango Drive are down here for their second winter, but no doubt quite anxious to get back to their new 14x66 mobile home in the Great Hills Estate, Wareham, Mass. Kay found the move was a problem to squeeze 44 years accumulation of a large old house into a mobile home, and to garden a bit fixing the grounds with flowers and shrubs, under Sam's expert supervision. They were neighbors of the Dave Moores up north and followed them down here to be neighbors again. They are still fixing up their place, but soon plan some fishing, golf and card playing.

Ralph and Minnie Throgmartin of 11 Cypress Dr. and Caneville, Mich., have just moved here after 4 years in the old section, near their friend Emma Sasun. Before retiring Raleigh work in a tool and die shop and Minnie worked hard as a domestic engineer. Recently they had visitors, Robert and Michelle Cammereta of Sterling Heights, Mich. The week they were here was not the best for swimming, but they did enjoy Disney World.

Luther and Mart Weeks, 8 N.E. Sixth Street and Crewe, Va., have had some guests recently. First there was Mr. and Mrs. James Kelly of Boo Air, Va., who recently bought a winter home at 2 N.E. Fourth Street. Next, the ExOBPer, Mrs. Sarah R. Maxey, of Crewe, Va., stayed with them for two weeks, talking away old times as well as hearing the latest from back home.

LETTERS FROM OBPers

Grace Brunsell moved from West End Drive to 9204 Sixty-Sixth Street North, Lot Number 30: Pinellas Park, Fla. 33565, to be near her older sister. Slowly getting settled and would like to hear from her OBP friends.

THIS BIRD -was incorrectly identified in last week's issue of The Mirror as a Great Blue Heron, when any bird-watcher of average intelligence knows it's an Anhinga, not a Blue Heron. Though the Anhinga didn't seem to mind the warning sign about alligators, it was a little skittish of photographer Bob Fryer. Perhaps it took off to find a sign stating: Beware of humans.

Acupuncture without needles

How are we going to keep Marj and Gordon McIntyre here in Holiday Out after they return from Rio de Janeiro? Life here will surely seem very tame after the whirl they are enjoying in South America!

In her last letter Marj described the Carnival fever with music everywhere and the Carioca, [people born in Rio] dancing the Samba in the streets. This is the real native dance and the dancers go to Samba schools two or three times a week for a long time to learn it. They wear bikinis and of course their buttons show and every muscle in their bodies quiver. While the dancers perform the spectactors sing a rhythmic chant. It is wildly stirring and primitive.

McIntyres' daughter Bonnie gave a dinner party for fourteen guests, many of whom came in costume for the Carnival balls which started at 11 p.m. that evening. Admission to the balls is $100.00 per person.

All there are dressed during Carnival week and the celebration goes on night and day.

Another day they took a boat to the Island of Paquete which Marj said was very beautiful. There are no cars on the island, just bikes or horse drawn vehicles, and lovely restaurants serving great food.

They have been guests many times in sumptuous private homes. The South American hospitality is hard to equal.

A large and very interested group attended the demonstration of acupuncture without needles at Holiday Out rec hall last Tuesday evening. Several people who volunteered to try the machine claim they felt benefits from its use. The people who gave the demonstration were here in the park on vacation.

Another couple in the Park gave an informal and unplanned demonstration of their new smoke detector. They installed the gadget in their bedroom, had a good night's sleep and the next morning the wife decided to make toast over the gas flame. The alarm shrilled so loudly that their dog went into orbit, they dashed into the bedroom in a frenzy to try to find a cut-off switch [there was none] and pandemonium prevailed. Next the jittery cook tried the electric toaster with the same results. By this time the whole neighborhood was wide awake. Have not heard whether the smoke detector has been yanked out or our friends go out for all meals.

This is the time of year when we start to say goodbyes. Joyce and Elmer Edwards left for Maryland on Sunday considerably behind schedule. Elmer had decided 9 a.m. would be get-away time but Ryan and Jason the grandsons picked this morning to sleep until 8. Every other morning during their vacation here they have had the family awake at 6:30 a.m. Then daughter-in-law Joanne installed her watch and they had to tear the trailer apart until it was found. Sounds familiar doesn't it?

213 persons attended Pavilion Church on Sunday. Rev. Clark Thompson officiated, Bill Studebaker conducted the lay services. Guests were Grace Thay, pianist and Dee Brink, organist. A new guest singer, Rosette Charitan sang the Anthem. The offertory solos were beautiful. H.Outers attended the opening of the new Trinity United Methodist Church on Savanna Road. VENTURE HARBOUR

For the fourth successive year the fund drive to help the Jensen Area Samaritans raised more money than the previous campaign. On Thursday, March 1 the Samaritans officials were handed $1,724.50. All of the workers are to be commended for their efforts and the residents for their generosity in support of the valuable services rendered by the dedicated volunteers in the Samaritan organization. Everybody has learned to appreciate the efforts of the Samaritans.

Our sincere thanks to Bud Prew for planning another big affair. Bud and Lou Pre... the help of Edna and Tom Ortolano put on a super "Italian Night" celebration. JB Elementary triumphing on all sides

BY SALLY LATHAM

The Jensen Beach Elementary School is showing the other schools in the area how to play the game on a number of fronts these days.

Not only are the fifth grade boys going to town (thus far) in the county basketball tournament, the school has also copped the county spelling Bee, and scored high in the science department at the county fair last week.

The boys' fifth grade basketball team Monday night whopped the tar out of the Palm City Team (while, to be perfectly honest, the girls were losing handily to the Port Salerno Team.) If the local winning streak keeps up, the boys will go on in the contest for the big county trophy.

The county spelling bee proved a rather remarkable triumph on more scores than one. The first place in the county was taken by a fifth grader, Sandya Ramachandran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. Ramachandran of Jensen Beach – formerly of India, proving conclusively that "native tongue" is not necessarily a handicap.

Sandya won out over her peers throughout the county in the Lillian Dasson Spelling Bee, held March 2 at Murray Middle School. Each school had six contestants in the race, and all the Jensen students were winners. Runners-up were Susie Shelton, Beth Campbell, Christiane Norcryta, Jeff Hyde, Sandya, and Elaine George. Alternates were Stacey Sala and James Gallaher, also of Jensen Beach.

The JB science department took first place in a science fair held Feb 28 through March 2, at the school.

Winners, from first place and grand prize to second, third and honorable mention were:

Fifth grade, James Klett and Michael Long; Eileen Nehme; Tim Orr; and Bill Selmi;

Fourth Grade: Doris Harro; Jenny Parmalee; Brent Teal; Joy Zurawski and Mark Ekdahl;

Third grade: Sidney Lyon; Tommy Matheney, Lori Staker, Christopher Rizzolo;

Second grade: J.C.Bownds; Marcy Watson, John Parent;

First grade: Steven Hooks; Kevin Wissel, Adrea Harro; Jamie McCabe and Stacy Proctor; Kindergarten: Jenny Turek; James Harrell; Philip Chatiman.

Judges were Ray Roberts, Miss Lynn Essig and Mr. K Ramachandran. The winning projects were on display at the county fair.

Bond and Tilton gunning for Sebring victory

BY BOB FRYER

Last Saturday Martin County High School's basketball team won acclaim by capturing the state AAAA basketball championship.

Next Saturday, a pair of Martin County men are hoping to gain a little acclaim of their own, as they renew their pursuit of an international championship in quite a different sport.

Jensen Beach race drivers Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton are listed among top contenders in the small engine (GTU) class of competitors who will test the endurance of themselves and their race cars during the 12 Hours of Sebring next Saturday.

So far, a total of 82 teams of drivers have signed up to race their cars in the 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. event. Thirty-one of those cars are in the GTU class,a class that over recent years has been fiercely competitive and is growing ever-more popular as the price of racing successfully in the big engine (GTO) class escalates.

This Saturday marks the 27th year the sleepy south central Florida town will have its peace disturbed, and economy boosted, by the thousands of loyal race fans who converge on an ancient airfield a few miles outside Sebring.

Many Martin County fans are expected to join the crowds and urge on the Jensen Beach drivers who are competing for the year's International Motor Sports Association GTU driver's championship.

Bond and Tilton jumped off to a good start at the first race of the IMSA season in February when they scored an impressive seventh overall and third in GTU class finish at the famed 24 Hours of Daytona.

The hometown racers drove a flawless race and their number 60 Porsche 911 suffered virtually no mechanical ills during the 24 hour event. Only an amazing performance by two new, factory-prepared Mazda RX-7s kept Bond and Tilton from victory lane. Throughout the race, the Mazdas were never more than 20, but never less than three, minutes ahead of Bond and Tilton.

Sebring is round two in an IMSA season which Bond says "has somewhere around 17 or 19 races on the circuit this year.

In the previous years, Bond finished, progressively, fifth, fourth, then third in the final GTU drivers standings until a disastrous season last year, when he finished eighth. Tilton, Bond's racing partner and manager of Pinelake Village mobile home park in Jensen Beach, joined Bond several years ago, but hasn't ranked as high as Bond due chiefly to fewer race entries.

The pair work on a limited budget compared to most GTU competitors, but make up for much of that money handicap by doing nearly all preparation of their Porsche for races themselves. A team of Martin County friends form their highly effective pit crew.

This year, with sponsorship from West Palm Beach bicycle dealers E.J.Pruitt and Sons, Bond and Tilton are on a better financial par with their competitors.

Bond says he and Tilton are "still pretty much taking things one race at a time, but it looks like we'll make Atlanta [a few weeks after Sebring] and go out for some of the west coast races." In previous years financial constraints made trips to the west coast, which are almost mandatory for east coast drivers hoping to do well for the entire season, few and far between.

Bond said the Mazda car manufacturer left its team of Japanese drivers, who won the GTU class in an RX-7 at Daytona, behind. But, he said the top two RX-7s at Daytona are still in the country and will be entered at Sebring. Walt Bohren and an as-yet-to-be-named celebrity will drive one of the RX-7s, and Jim Downing and Roger Mandeville will drive the other. A non-factory RX-7, driven by former GTU driver champions Brad Frisselle and Bob Bergstrom, is also entered in the GTU class. Bond says he expects more of a showing from them than the factory jobs.

However, since Daytona, IMSA officials have imposed rules that will require additional weight to the Mazdas, or less horsepower, depending on which engine is used. If the Mazda fades, Bond and Tilton can still expect to encounter stiff competition from the huge stable of Porsche entrants. Over the years, Porsche has proved to be king of endurance contests. Bond and Tilton hope next Saturday, it will be their Porsche in victory lane.

Blessing of the fleet is planned for March 31

BY DICK CAMPBELL

What is termed the largest boating activity on the east coast of Florida, the eighth annual Blessing of the Fleet, will be held on Saturday, March 31, at 2 p.m.

Hundreds of boats will gather for the traditional "blessing" by religious leaders of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths.

There were over 300 boats in the 1978 blessing of the fleet, according to Kay Larson, publicity chairman of the event. Awards are given in various divisions of the parade of boats, including three of "best decorated," and one for the highest percentage of boats in the parade from individual yacht clubs. The awards will be presented in the annual boater's banquet at the Elks Club in Stuart on Sunday.

The staging area is south of the Evans Crary Bridge on the St. Lucie River. Boaters will gather between one and two p.m. in pre-designated areas. The parade of boats will get under way at 2 p.m., with the St. Lucie Sailing Club leading the parade.

The review boat will be Ralph Evinrude's 118' Chanticleer, if it has returned from Miami where it is undergoing maintenance. The committee should know by Friday if the work has been completed on the yacht. The "Fran E", Evinrude's charter sportfisherman, will be the press boat.

Judges of the boats will be Mrs. Vaughn Monroe, Evans Crary, Jr., and Tom Weber. The religious leaders handling the blessing will be Robbi Ben Hecht, Rev. Dr. John DiGangi, and Fr. Anthony Riffell.

A pre-recording of the Blessing of the Fleet will be broadcast over radio station WMCF at 2 p.m. to coincide with the actual blessing.

Spectators can view the parade from the Evans Crary Bridge.

Heart benefit tennis tourney set

The Martin County Tennis Tournament, benefitting the American Heart Association, will be held March 24 and 25 at the Indian River Plantation. The tournament will include men's and ladies' doubles competition, in A,B, and C classes.

Bill Owens, chairman of the event, said, "We are fortunate to have Tom Falkenburg, the tennis pro at Indian River, to act as our tournament director. Last year, the tournament raised over $1,000 for the Heart Association. We plan to have a lot of fun, and support a very worthy organization."

Owens thanked Indian River Plantation for furnishing the facilities for the tournament. In addition, the entry fee includes a cocktail party sponsored by the First Federal Savings and Loan Association. The party will be Saturday, March 24 at 6 p.m., following that day's matches.

Entry fee is $10. Entry blanks are available at all tennis shops, sporting goods stores, Indian River Plantation.

Sailfish Point plans outlined

BY BOB FRYER

Plans for development of the Sailfish Point project on the south tip of Hutchinson Island were outlined last week at a Stuart Chamber of Commerce coffee.

Several hundred business leaders attended the meeting and heard Chuck Meyers of Mobil Oil Estates, Ltd. describe plans to turn what was once the Seminole Shores project of James Rand into one of the most luxurious, and expensive, developments on the Florida east coast.

About 20 years ago Rand began development of the 550-plus acres of land that bulge out at the tip of the island. A huge marina, a marina building, a few homes and a duplex, a pier, cabannas, pool, and snack bar were built before the Rand project sputtered.

Cabbot, Cabbot and Forbes came close to developing the land in the early 70s, but a recession caused the firm to back out of its option on the land.

Mobil Oil Estates is said to have bought the land for about $12 million, and Meyers said last Friday that the firm will have spent about $19 million on Sailfish Point by the end of next year.

The project will be a private development, with gate guards and even television surveillance of the 6,000-foot-long beach to keep intruders out.

A total of 765 units, about 40 percent of them single family homes and 60 percent multifamily units, are to be built during the coming 10 years.

At present, the company plans to build a reverse osmosis water plant,to dig a large lake that will connect to the Indian River south of the marina entrance, and a Jack Nicklaus-designed championship golf course.

Specific plans for the marina are not firm yet, but Meyers said it is large enough to contain boats for all the project's units.

A clubhouse will be built near the ocean, about half a mile south of the entrance, and south of that, at the tip by the inlet, multifamily units will be built. Other condominium and townhouse units are planned for some of the beachfront land north of the club, as well as near the mouth of the marina. Single family homes will mainly be in the interior part of the land, though some may be along the beach too.

Meyers said the units would carry a high price tag, but didn't say how high. The company, he said, still hadn't decided whether to build some or all of the units or to have individual contractors build them. He did say some of the half-acre interior lots would go for a minimum of $65,000 to $70,000. He expected lots to go on sale by the end of this year and work to begin on some housing units around the first of the next year.

Access to Sailfish Point will be along MacArthur Boulevard. Meyers said the company will be required to widen that road to 20 feet and resurface it.

All units will be built on pads at least eight feet above sea level, but some other land may be as low as five feet above sea level.

Meyers said Mobil Oil Estates also owns about half of Mariner Sands, and will probably develop those 910 acres in about two years. He said the firm owns some 3,200 acres west of U.S.1 and south of Mariner Sands.

famous painters Ted and Taj Goerschner who were taken out in the "Kingfish Hole" by Dave Lamb of the Jensen Bait and Tackle, and who came back with a haul you won't believe! Only an artist would come home with three goatfish, which are almost never heard about in these waters. They're mostly Hawaiian showoffs, but Ted and Taj brought up three magnificent specimens of these prizes, red rarities with red spots which were probably mounted for painting by their captors.

The Goerschners also brought in five big blue runners, 22 spots, eight lane snappers, four mangrove snappers and a bucket full of grunts and groupers.

Other catches reported by Dave are: Wilma Pasquesline, 10 blues and a four pound flounder out of the surface on mackerel and shrimp; Dave Smid, a 22 pound snook from the Evans Crary Bridge; Gene Simmons, 33 blues and eight whitings on mackerel and clam.

For Tommy Stewart at the Snook Nook, it's been "blues blues blues," out of the surf. Ever since Monday morning, anglers have been rushing in to report great blues catches, with hardly a soul coming in with less than 10 each.

Hauls include: John Sawicki, 10 blues on Krocidil out of the surf; Dot and Al Simpson, 10 blues and 11 whiting out of the surf on mackerel and shrimp;

Walter Rohman, 14 blues on mackerel; Don Beal, a 15 lb. snook on a buck-tail jig (see what I told you--jigs and julips?) Willie Caitell, 13 blues on mackerel. Pete Rosati, 22 blues on cut mackerel; Bill Danzer, six blues on mackerel; Jack Tilmont, and Bob Emens, 25 blues near the Holiday Inn, on Krocidil; Melvin Brush, five blues on ribbonfish;

Also Frank O'Brien, seven blues on mackerel; Charlie Neff and Claud Metz, eight blues on Krocidil; Frank Serent, 4 blues on cut mackerel; Carmen Canazl, 30 whiling on clams; Joe Rivacuk, 22 blues on mackerel and on Krocidil;

And in the river: Sam Rennard, a 24 pound snook on live bunker; Sandy Adair and Floyd Gillam and Ed Wagner, eight trout on mackerel.

Incidental intelligence, by way of education, from Tommy about snook: One of the few salt-water fish you have to keep your limit on is the mighty snook, which cannot be taken on anything but a line or pole, and you can't catch (legally) more than four a day, or have more than four in your possession. So watch it.

Gilbert's Bar Sand

BY ALLEN F. BREWER

Pedro Gilbert was a pirate In free-hunting days of yore. Who dared to cross the shoals and reef Off St. Lucie inlet shore.

Today we call it Gilbert's Bar, Tho not with much affection; True to its name, one ne'er can tell Its locale prediction.

Its sand is quite a nightmare When boats run fast aground, In trying to make the inlet Where tidal waves abound.

But on the dunes sand is a boon, It forms the shore's protection; Where sea oats grow and flourish To defy the tide's reaction.

Now if man's to beat the inlet He must tame that fickle bar; Keep the surging tides from shoaling, Keep the channel course a jar.

How to do this is the problem, But technology's at hand; Build a jetty, wall or rock pile, Let's control that vagrant sand

Carol Kepp, a native of Cleveland, Ohio, studied art at Cleveland Institute of Art, Cooper School of Art and with Ted Goerschner of Maine. DO-IT-YOURSELF—PITFALLS

QUESTION: Three years ago I purchased a farm property adjoining my own specifically for protection and investment. Now that we have renovated the house and grounds considerably, I wish to sell.

My question: What precautions must I take if I propose to sell the property directly without listing it with an agent? I would like to realize as much profit in the transaction as possible—a profit which an agent's fee would considerably reduce.

ANSWER: I can give you only one precaution and that is to reevaluate some faulty logic. Although you might have some doctors' fees by removing your own appendix or setting your own broken arm, I'd never suggest you do it; the same is true of selling a property without the aid of a professional.

You've told me that you would like to realize as much profit as possible. The logical way to do this is to sit down with an investment broker specializing in the sale of your type of property. Retain him on an exclusive basis and enlist his aid in pricing your property realistically.

Do you have hundreds of prospects on file for your property? Do you conduct a regular professional advertising campaign as he does? Do you have the mortgage finance contacts to complete the sale? Do you know how to find properly qualified prospects for your property? Do you know that when negotiating time rolls around that you will most likely lose prospects with whom your trained broker might have closed a sale? Do you know how to smoke out a hidden objection which prevents a prospect from acting? Do you realize that you are at an immediate disadvantage because any prospects you happen to stumble across will want to buy below market value, since you are selling direct?

You may line up some prospects, but the right broker can bring you more qualified buyers in four weeks than you might uncover in four years. I am sure that you can make some kind of a sale on your own, but please don't cry when you find that even though you initially asked a high price, you sold your property at a price below what a broker could have obtained for you, even after the cost of his services!

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-4747, or stop by:

Tigers reign as state champions after Lakeland sweep

BY DONNIE WILKIE

LAKELAND– Fighting a partisan crowd of almost 8,000 fans, the Martin County Tigers overcame a four-point deficit in the last three minutes to defeat the "miracle" Lakeland Dreadnaughts, 75-71, and capture their first ever high school AAAA basketball championship.

Charles Jones, the tournament's Most Valuable Player, scored 30 points and grabbed 17 rebounds as the Tigers, who had not played in a state final since the double-title 1971-72 and 1972-73 seasons, won their 16th game in a row since a mid-season slump.

Lakeland High had captured the hearts of basketball fans in Lakeland, recording a 25-4 regular season record and winning five playoff games– all this with a team that starts no seniors and has only one on the bench. But the miracle season, which had continued with a 65-58 conquest of Section IV champion Miami Jackson Friday night came to an end Saturday as the determined Tigers refused to quit.

The Dreadnaughts' championship game defeat was even harder to swallow for the local fans since their other local favorite, the AAA Bartow Yellow Jackets, also lost in the final game, losing 62-52 to Ocala Vanguard, which took their second consecutive title in the AAA division.

In other play, Tallahassee Mackay won the A title as Steve Brown made a layup with ten seconds remaining for a 54-53 victory over Pompano Beach Highlands Christian, while the Pahokee Blue Devils lost their bid for an AA crown when they were defeated by unbeaten Vernon 58-54.

But the real story in Lakeland last weekend was that of the Tigers, who, despite having some of the most talented teams in the state in recent years, had not visited the state tourney since the present players began their high school careers. While the young Dreadnaughts were playing for a state title, the Tigers were playing for more than that, as seniors Moses Johnson, Ernest McIntyre, Allen Raines and Jones knew this was their last chance to win it all.

Despite some hectic moments in both the semi-final and final, they came through with flying colors, first downing Pensacola Washington 70-68 in overtime, then disposing of Lakeland.

Jones' 30-point performance in the final was only a continuation of excellence for the 6'8" Tiger center. He scored 32 points and equalled his 17-rebound output in Thursday's nailing of Washington. All in all, Jones was the single most dominant force in the tournament, a hefty compliment considering some of the talent that cluttered the court throughout the 12-game weekend.

The Tigers (22-4) fell behind early in Saturday night's final, as Lakeland's 6'7" junior center Tim Strawbridge scored Lakeland's first four points of the night to make it a 4-2 game. The Dreadnaughts were equalled three times in the first eight minutes, but never trailed. Both teams, however, reflected the importance of the game with red-hot shooting and sky-high scoring, as Martin County shot 65 percent from the field and Lakeland hit an even crisper 68 percent. The two squads shot it out, NBA style, until the Tigers' Jones scored on a tip-in of Moses Johnson's missed shot at the buzzer, tying the game at 27-all.

Two buckets by Johnson and a turnaround 5-footer by Jones gave Martin County the first six points of the second stanza, and a 33-27 lead. The Tigers kept the lead through the rest of the first half, gaining their biggest advantage when McIntyre made a ten-foot jumper from the baseline to make it 43-35. Alonza Allen, the Dreadnaughts' do-it-all star, scored six of his team's ten points in the second quarter, including a whip-and-pump-don slam dunk with 3:12 remaining. He also scored Lakeland's last points of the half to cut the Tiger lead to 43-37, but Jones' ninth basket in nine attempts gave the Martin Countians a 45-37 halftime edge.

Lakeland quickly closed the gap at the start of the third period, as Strawbridge, Wayne Peace and Duke Pearson connected for the first three buckets of the half. The Dreadnaughts hung close, tying the game at 47-47 when Jones was called for goaltending on Pegram's driving layup with 4:35 to go, and finally reasumed the lead at the end of the period when Peace connected from two feet away after two previous LHS shots had missed, and Lakeland led 54-53.

Allen and Peace brought the packed crowd to its feet at the beginning of the final quarter, as they recorded buckets to give the Dreadnaughts their biggest lead of the night, 58-53. Things continued to go wrong for the Tigers, who had committed seven third-quarter turnovers, as they missed their first four shots in the fourth period. But when Jones hit a layup and Johnson popped in a neat 20-footer from the left corner, Tiger fans could breath easier, although their forces still trailed 58-57.

Lakeland clung to its lead until 2:53 remained in the game, holding a 64-62 edge when Strawbridge was whistled for his fifth foul and had to leave the game. The departure of Strawbridge left a soft spot in the LHS defense, and the Tigers were quick to take advantage of it.

McIntyre tied the game at 64-64 with two free throws– the shots that resulted from Strawbridge's fifth foul - at the 2:53 mark, then was fouled again, by Allen with 2:28 to go. Only one of his shots were good, but Jones grabbed the rebound and was fouled by Allen. When both of his free throws went in, the Tigers led 67-64. Worse yet for the Dreadnaughts, Pearson could not find a man to pass to on the ensuing inbounds play, and when the Tigers regained possession, Jones hit another soft jump shot from Six feet and MCHS was in control, 69-64.

Martin County went into the delay offense with 1:45 remaining in the game, and it paid off when Lakeland was forced to foul. Although McIntyre missed the free throw, the Tigers got a basket when Wayne Wiley grabbed the rebound and quickly scored. Allen broke Lakeland's 2-minute dry spell with 1:05 to go when he contributed a single free throw, but Wiley countered with one of his own to make it 72-65 with 47 seconds showing on the clock.

Although Pearson cut the score to 72-69 with two quick baskets, the Tigers clinched the state title with when Jones drove to the hoop, scored and was fouled with 11 seconds left. His foul shot was good, and all that remained was a ten-foot shot by Tony Payne that cut the final margin to 75-71.

Behind Jones' 30 points, Johnson had 15, Raines scored 14, McIntyre chipped in nine and Wiley threw in seven. The Tigers shot an incredible 59 percent from the field, hitting on 33 of 57 attempts.

For Lakeland, Allen had 19, as did Pearson, and Strawbridge contributed 16. Peace connected for 14, while Payne hit just three.

The victory triggered a wild celebration at the Holiday Inn-South in Lakeland, as some 300 supporters of Tiger basketball flooded the motel's premises. About an hour after the party began, Wallen brought his championship team to the celebration, triggering even more delight.

But anyone who saw Thursday's semi-final game between Martin County and Pensacola Washington knew that Saturday's celebration almost didn't come about. The Tigers blew a seven-point third quarter lead, watching as Washington outscored them 22-10 to take a 58-52 lead with just four minutes left in the game. Once again, the never-say-die Tigers rallied, as Johnson's 20-footer cut the score to 58-56 with 3:12 to play. Then, Johnson connected again, this time on a 10-foot effort from the baseline at the 1:51 mark to tie the game at 60-60.

The Tigers did not assume the lead until 34 seconds remained, when Raines hit a pair of free throws to make it 64-62. After a Pensacola Washington time out, the Wildcats tied the game when Mike Maloney heaved a 25-foot jumper from the right side with eight seconds remaining, sending the game into overtime.

Jones quickly assumed command, scoring the first basket of the overtime and then throwing in two foul shots, giving the Tigers a 68-64 edge. Glen Washington cut the score to 68-66, but fouled out just seconds later, as had teammate Mike Johnson, who led the Wildcats with 21 points. Twice Pensacola had chances to tie the score, but could not. Finally, McIntyre grabbed the rebound of the second miss and went the length of the court for the clinching layup and a 70-66 lead. David Young's bucket with 23 seconds left made it 70-68, and when McIntyre missed a free throw with 13 seconds remaining, PWHS fans dreamed of another overtime. But Young's final attempt missed the basket entirely at the buzzer, and the Tigers marched on to Saturday's final.

The championship meant a lot to Wallen and the Tigers, especially since most of the current Tigers graduate this summer, leaving Wallen with an uphill battle when it comes time to defend the state crown next year.

Outboard Championship Race is coming here

For super reading..Look to THE MIRROR!

BY BOB FRYER

Boat racing fans will be getting an early start at the sport this coming May when two major racing events are planned in the Stuart area.

First, on the weekend of May 5 and 6, is the Stuart Sailfish Regatta, an event that is getting to be a traditional event here.

Then, on Sunday, May 13th, for the first time ever, a Southern Outboard Championship Race will be held here.

The Sailfish Regatta features inboard boats, while the Southern Outboard Championship Race will, naturally, be for outboards.

Sponsor of the outboard race is the Martin County Sertoma Club.

Already, club members have begun making preparations for the event, and they say they hope it will be their biggest fund raising event in club history. All proceeds from the race will go to charity. Sertoma Club President Al Zbrowski says some of the funds will go to the American Cancer Society, some to the Tri-Area Ambulance service, and the rest to various charities that Sertoma supports throughout the year.

The race activities will begin at 10 a.m. and last until 4:30 p.m. on Sunday and will be held either on the north or south side of the Stuart Causeway, depending on weather conditions.

"It's the first effort of this size and type for us, but we're looking for it to be a successful event," said Zbrowski.

The race is actually nine championship races, for boats in 11 different classes.

The main draw will be the Sports J inboard racing, with a total of 60 boats expected, piloted by drivers from all over the nation. Boats in that class can do 100 miles an hour on straightways, and the event here will be for the Southern Outboard Championship. Many drivers in that event are expected to go on to the World Championship race in Eufaula, Ala. three weeks later.

In the other classes, the racing will be for a Southeast Division championship, sanctioned by the American Power Boat Association. The Southeast Division includes Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama, Tennessee, most of Kentucky, Georgia, South Carolina, Florida, and parts of North Carolina and Virginia.

Local drivers, such as Homer Green and Jay Fathauer, will be entered in the main attraction, the Sports J race. Green, of Hobe Sound, says the race should be interesting because something of a rivalry has developed between him and Bill Seabold of St. Louis, Mo. It seems Green has been doing some very successful racing in a boat he designed, and in recent events Seabold's boat has shown signs of incorporating some of Green's designs. In the last Sports J race, held recently in Miami, Seabold beat Green, — Green is ready to outdo Seabold in local waters now.

Green holds the world speed record for one hour of running over a mile and two-thirds course and also the world record for five miles of competition on a closed course. He won the American Power Boat Hall of Champions title in 1976.

Seabold is one of two entrants for the Sports J race who has won the Randy Tilton Memorial Award, the highest award there is in outboard racing. The award was created in memory of Randy Tilton of Jensen Beach, who died while testing a race boat in Stuart. The other award winner entered in the race is Jim McConnell of Wenderlake, Ill.

Unlike the Sailfish Regatta races, where there is a time delay between races for cranes to lift boats in and out of the water, there will not be much delay between the outboard races.

Testing will take place from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m., and jet ski and midget races will be held for drivers 14 years old and younger between 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

From 12:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., there will be nine championship races, each lasting 15 minutes. These races will be for the EP, GP, SE, SO, Mod-50, Mod U3, JP, SST-120, Mod-U and Sports J classes.

Concession stands will offer beer, hot dogs and soft drinks, as well as race t-shirts.

A race queen will preside over the festivities, and entrants for that title are now being taken. You must be single and 18 years old or older. The queen will be selected on the basis of personality and appearance. Resume, full photos and general information about entrants should be sent to Stephan Cotton, 225 East Ocean Boulevard, Stuart.

Paid parking spaces will be available on the causeway on the east side of the Ernest Lyons (25 cent) bridge. The causeway will remain open to traffic throughout the event. Tickets can be purchased at the race or at the Holiday Inn on U.S.1 in Stuart, Frank's T.V. or S.F. Motion.

Ticket prices set for American Express Tennis Tournament

General admission prices of $3 to $8 per session have been set for the $25,000 American Express Indian River Plantation Classic which is expected to draw world ranked men's professional tennis players to the resort here on Hutchinson Island May 1 to 6.

Tournament Director Tom Falkenburg said $3 grandstand seats would be sold for the first three daytime sessions and the evening session on May 3. He said $5 would be charged for the singles and doubles quarterfinals the after noon and evening of May 4, while $6 would be charged for the semifinals and finals May 5 and 6. Falkenburg added that a season book of grandstand tickets for all eight playing sessions is priced at $38, a 25 percent savings over the daily price.

Box seat prices of $300 for a box of four also were announced by Falkenburg who said the price included reserved parking privileges and use of the tournament's VIP Lounge. He added that the tournament would be preceded by two days of qualifying play, April 28 and 30, to which admission would be free.

Jeffrey joing growing ace club at Sandpiper

The "bubbly" staff and frivolity abounded around the Sandpiper Bay golf resort this week following the third hole in-one recorded Monday when John Jeffrey pulled the golfers "dream shot", an ace on the tough, Par 3, third hole at the Stoner's Course.

Using a 5-wood on the 170 yard hole, which was playing more like a 200 yarder because of pin placement and wind conditions, Jeffrey's shot was exacting as the ball hit one third up the green and disappeared over a knoll. Believing the ball had traveled across the green, Jeffrey drove his cart to the back edge with no ball in sight. His partner, Ken Bochman, instructed him to look into the cup, where he found the ball.

A 20-handicap golfer, Jeffrey lives at the Sandpiper Bay resort just off another Par 3 hole, the 7th, of the Stoners course. Included in the foursome were Tess Francolino and Ted Bombach.

A PERENNIAL SUCCESS STORY–Mrs. Vaughn Monroe, center, gives thanks to the chairman and co-chairmen of this year's Martin Memorial Hospital Ball, for their homage paid to the MMH Auxiliary of which Mrs. Monroe is president. The whole evening rang with the memory of Mrs. Monroe's late husband Vaughn, whose music was the keynote of the ball before and since his death. (Staff photo by Sally Latham)

Hospital Ball an unparalleled success

BY SALLY LATHAM

Author James Hilton may have converted his version of Shangri La into several million dollars in royalties, but the Marin Memorial Hospital did the next best thing. It drew a cool $80,000-plus during a few evanescent hours of pure dreamland, for the benefit of everyone in need of medical care, now and in the future, in this area.

The extravaganza, held Saturday night at the Sandpiper Bay's grand ballroom, was the climax to cap all climaxes, in sheer swank and entertainment.

As Mrs. Vaughn Monroe, veteran booster of all MMH projects, said following the ball:

"Each one seems to surpass the last, and this one was perfect, from the front door back to the bandstand. Thus far, I haven't heard one complaint, and by this time I've usually heard them all."

For the occasion, the hall was decorated with a silvery bower of foliage, founains, and beautiful damoseis straight from the magical mountain created by the classic author. The decorators, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Salisbury of Charles Interiors performed a major miracle in legerdemain, infusing the ballroom with artistry which had to be put up and made to disappear in a frantic few hours. Yet no one had the feeling that it was anything but there forever.

Responsible for the beauty and the smooth functioning of the Hospital Ball were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thurlow, Sr., and their capable team. Mrs. Thurlow said with a touch of awe that "envelopes are still coming in today. We're going to top $80,000 with no trouble at all."

It was a true symbol to the generosity and cooperation of the citizens, rich and not-so-rich of Martin County, that such a success–both financially and aesthetically, could be brought about, Mrs. Thurlow commented.

One of the biggest attractions was the music of the Vaughn Monroe orchestra, under the baton of Lou Feldman. An old and dear friend of the late great orchestra leader, Feldman and his men were true to the Monroe style, although expanding and re-dimensionalizing it to suit the tastes of all dancers, from jitter-bug to disco. The floor was jammed throughout the evening, expressing the approval of the ball-goers attending.

Assisting the Thurlows in planning the ball were: Dale M. Hudson, treasurer; Mrs. Monroe, entertainment; Jackie Hartman, publicity; Dagne S. Jochem, reservations; Mrs. and Mr. Bud Jordan, business contributions; Roland Merrell, special gifts; Douglas Cook, Jud Deskins, Robert Green Donald Marsh, Jack MacAndrew, S.Tenny McGraw, Thomas Thurlow, Jr., Kermit Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. O.Franklin Wolfe, Jr.; Mrs. William Matheson, and Miss Jane Irons, chairman of hostesses.

Hostesses at the midnight breakfast, a delectable combination of seafood crepes, fruit, juices, and every imaginable kind of breads, were Karolee Cleveland, Ann Crary, Marsha Holt, Jane Irons, Edna Prew, Wendy Lumm, Lois Thomas and Kimberly Turner.

Invitation committee chairmen included Mrs. Charles E.Adair, Mrs. Walter J. Beuman, Mrs. Roy E. Bishop, Mrs. Gerald E.Bryan, Mrs. Horace R.Cole, Mrs. Lester M.Combs, Mrs. Frank DeStefano, Mrs. Richard E.Dilger, Mrs. Henry Hanbury, Mrs. Robert M Johnson, Mrs. Sam C. Kelly, Mrs. Rawson G Lizars, Mrs. Donald H. McConnell, Mrs. J. Stewart Mathews, Mrs. Frank Nebhut, Mrs. Jean Neese, Mrs. Roscoe Philbrick, Mrs. John Powers; Mrs. James Rossi, Mrs. Daniel E. Stalker, Mrs. Frederick Stein, Mrs. Dianne E. Stemle, Mrs. William J. Taylor, Mrs. Thomas Thurlow, Jr., Mrs. Ransom Tilton and Mrs. Northam Warren.

The ball was dedicated to the Auxiliar members and anchormen, faithful volunteers headed by Mrs. Monroe. And all those special gifts, Mrs. Thurlow, Sr., said, came from "everyone," people far too numerous to mention but who have been a blessing to hospital at every level.

"Whether they gave $5 or $5,000," the co-chairman said, "they were all important to us, every one."

The changing face of Jensen Beach

It wasn't too long ago that residents had to go out of town to buy what they wanted. There were no super markets, no men's stores, none of the many shops and services that now dot the landscape of this fair city. The picture is ever changing, with new stores springing up every week, and developers and investors putting together more and more rental spaces.

The development over the past five years has been in small spaces. Even the shopping centers have remained in character with the community, offering a line of four to fifteen stores.

The growth is there, however, with much of it centering around the Commercial Street-Savanna Road intersection. A new Eckerd Drug is now being built there. Also, Rio is getting its share of development along 707.

New homes spring up in many subdivisions. There are two developments along our industrial areas, one at Sunview and Candice, a string of mini-warehouses developed by John and Al Hendry. The other is the Pop Tilton Industrial Park, now sporting a warehouse complex developed by Martha Moore, with other sections awaiting development for real estate and construction firms.

Two new churches, St. Martin dePorres Catholic Church and Trinity United Methodist Church are well-planned in the complex with Jensen Beach Elementary School on South Savanna Road.

There is just about anything anyone could want, right here in Jensen Beach...close at hand.

CLOSE COMPETITION–When the Sandpiper Bay Ladies Golf Association scheduled three 18-hole rounds of golf to determine a winner for the club's President's Cup, they didn't know the competition would be so close that another round of 18 holes would be needed to determine a victor. The two women shown above, Coni May Lisabury, left, and Bea Jahn, tied after three rounds with net scores of 200. In the playoff, Mrs. Jahn won the cup by posting a net 70 to Mrs. Lisabury's net 80. The competition was over the Saints Course. (Staff phot by Bob Fryer) boot hat the Fair was a Tuesday. Senior Citizens friends stopped by to say the new to get literature ship applications, and all names into the drawing t prizes. Nancy Gorski, n representative was up ood to answer questions. g or not, there were very r. However, the seniors chance to talk, and talk a vengeance, and here are topics most discussed nted to know, "Did the really say he was the revocation of drivers those over 65 and those conserve gasoline, so that be plenty of gas left for the ida Tourist Industry"? they didn't believe such one senior pointed out, ause such an idea shows consideration is given to the ens part of the popula- ore better write to Florida ging. been often said, Seniors do much what they say does e, however the Folks in es, don't pay too much so they are overjoyed when no some "I told you so" these- President Carter is again try for a health cost nt bill, long after these costs over 1000 percent. These ack in 1973 were pleading in High Place to continue health costs, at least until could be set up (and they es of letters to prove it). the Hospital Association, r voluntary controls are ust fine as their cost only percent last year instead of t like they did the year his bill will not get by this year unless a lot of the rite to them for National AARP is only concerned with National Health Insurance at this time.

Here is another "I told you so." Seniors have been saying since 1973 that the country's number one problem is inflation, period, and have copies of letters to prove that they were asking Congress and National AARP to seriously consider setting up task forces in every organization and industry to find ways of continuing the "Better for Less" policy that made USA the greatest. Now, most economists, industry, Congress and even labor have finally come to admit inflation is the number one problem, not employment or interest rates.

Another senior said, "I see by a full page article in one of the leading weekly magazines that "Productivity: Only Real Cure for Inflation" explains that the growth of productivity has plunged from a 3.4 percent per year in 1955 to an 0.3 percent in 1978". Gleefully, he continued, "That is just what we have been telling the Folks-in-High-Places" for a number of years, if it costs more to make or do something, prices must go up and that is inflation". Still another senior remarked, "That makes more sense to me that all this talk about fiscal policy and monetary policy, which sounds more like locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen". Seniors interested in this angle should write Congress, asking for legislature that would encourage business and labor to seek better productivity".

There are many of these "I told you so" items that can be brought to the attention of Folks-in-High-Places, if the seniors want to talk about them they will be written up at some later date.

The HCCC meeting will be reported next week, but there are a couple Health Cost Containment ideas that should be brought to the seniors attention.

There is a mighty effort by some pharmaceutical companies to weaken the presen Generic Drug Substitution law, claiming that it is not working as promised. Maybe not, as some pharmacists don't substitute as required and others increase price of generic drugs to practically equal that of name brand, but here is some facts, per Drug Store News. It was found that chain drug stores passed on 100 percent of the saving possible and 19 percent of the independants passed on some savings.

However, this study showed that the substitution law, so far had caused a 32.4 percent drop in the average price of a prescription of $1.82 a single prescription This four-month study in 1977 of over 132,000 prescriptions concluded, that during that period, that law had given Floridians of saving of over $425,000. Therefore seniors should tell there representatives to keep law intact.

Venture Out St. Lucie

BY JACKIE PHILLIPS

Alles and Floyd Reynolds had as their guest for ten days, Margaret Randall, their friend from Elmira, New York. It was her first visit to Florida and she thoroughly enjoyed our Park and the ocean. Especially enjoyable were the places and restaurants visited: The Outrigger; dinner at the Sand Dollar Restaurant in Tequesta Saturday night to celebrate Floyd's birthday, with the Mills and Glazes.

52 happy people of Swordfish Lane enjoyed a wonderful "block party" Saturday afternoon and evening. Everyone helped to make it a success, especially the wonderful platters made up by the ladies. A "sing-a-long" was led by Tom Lanese and his violin. No one fell in the canal, which attested to the good behavior of all!

Derwood Dickinson, president of Venture Three, can be very proud of the favorable reaction of many lot owners who attended the Lot Owners' meeting this past week. Through his leadership, and help of his officers, the Park has made great strides in meeting the goals that have been set.

THE POWER HOUSE--The Jensen Beach Fire Department, which provides around the clock protection for our properties and lives, is suffering growing pains in more ways than one. The battery, seen at the central firehouse, is on tap for emergencies at all times, but needs more community support. In front of vehicles are Assistant Chief Will Bowman and Fire Chief Joe Luciano. Largest blessing of the fleet program expected

Interest and activity keynote the eighth annual Blessing of the Fleet and Marine Parade, set for 2 p.m., March 31, in the St. Lucie River.

Lon Wear, chairman of the event, said that more yacht clubs and private boaters had indicated that they planned to enter the boat decoration contest, and that a greater number of boats planned to enter than ever before.

"The response has been excellent, and we are looking forward to a spectacular showing," Wear said.

The event is being staged with the meticulous detail of an amphibious invasion, with designated areas for the various yacht clubs and even CB channels reserved for each group.

The boaters will begin gathering in the St.Lucie River, south of the Evans Crary Bridge, at 1 p.m. The clubs will be in numerical order for the 2 p.m. beginning of the parade.

The St.Lucie Sailing Club will lead the parade past the review and press boat, provided by Ralph Evinrude, who will use his 118' yacht Chanticleer (if it has returned from maintenance in Miami, or another yacht if it hasn't) and the Fran E charter boat for the press corps and communications officer.

The following is the order of organizations, and the CB channel designation: St. Lucie Sailing Club (1), Anchorage Yacht Club (2), Saints and Sinners Yacht Club (3), Coconut Point Yacht Club (4), Anchorline Yacht Club (5), St. Lucie River Power Squadron (6), Cross Roads Yacht Club (7), Soundings Yacht Club (8), Circle Bay Yacht Club (10), Yacht and Country Club (11), Riverland Yacht Club (12), Sailfish Yacht Club (30), Nettles Island Yacht Club (14), De La Bahia Yacht Club (15), Non-affiliated boaters (16), USCGA Flotilla 50 (17).

The boats will maintain a speed of five knots (if they are lucky) in parading past the reviewing boat.

At exactly 3 pm., the three religious leaders, Rabbi Mel Hecht, Rev.Dr. John DiGangi and Fr.Anthony Riffell, will perform the blessing ceremony, which, at the same moment, will be broadcast over Radio Station WMCF-FM 93.

Residents and visitors can watch the parade of boats from an excellent vantage point, the Evans Crary Bridge.

On Sunday, April 1, the boat owners and their guests will attend an awards banquet at 5 p.m. at the Elks Lodge in Stuart Cocktails will be served at 5 and dinner at 6 p.m. Tickets for the banquet are available at the Stuart Chamber of Commerce or any participating organization.

Donations are lagging

Expenses swell, donations do not

BY SALLY LATHAM

This year, as in past years, the older residents of the community have been responding in fine style to the appeal for financial support of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department--support which is needed in greater measure to help flesh out the skeleton county budget, to provide the area with the fine volunteer service it has boasted of in the past.

The support, according to Fire Chief Joe Luciano, continues to come in generously from the older residents of the community, who realize full well that their lives and property are being protected by the above-and-beyond volunteer skills of a department two-dozen strong, and that the monetary gifts, however large or small, and who know that their donations get the biggest bargain on the market today.

They know, for example, that the expertise of this small but extraordinary fire-fighting system is such top-dollar quality that we have the lowest fire insurance rates in this county and most others in Florida.

But, good as the financial backing is, the older order changeth.The older residents who recognize the value of the priceless protection they're getting are dwindling away--either taken by death or moving in with children elsewhere. And the "youngsters," the newcomers to the community who are building new homes throughout the Jensen area served by the fire department, don't realize the vital importance of their gifts to this volunteer organization.

In past years, the Chief said last week, by this time in the period following the onset of the drive which began in November, the response has been well over the 80 percent level. This year, unfortunately, only 500 responses have come in from the 1,300 letters sent out. Either people are unaware of the importance of the drive to their own households or they are giving secondary importance to something which should be getting top priority, fire officials feel.

The irony of the situation is that most of the younger family move-ins are filling up the area which the department has been fighting so long to serve. Until now, there has been no answer to the stumbling block of the railroad, when it came to getting fire fighting equipment to the west side of town. In case of a serious fire, the chief has said many times, a whole neighborhood could burn down while waiting to get trucks from the central station on Palmetto to Savanna Road, or to any of the shopping centers all growing up so rapidly "cross-town."

Now, at last, those people will be served, once the new combination fire hall and recreation center on Savanna Road is completed. It will contain bays for two trucks, and a full-time on-duty staff.

That station will be of the greatest advantage to the younger families filling up the community's western perimeter, so rapidly. Yet it is that area which is so slow, this year in responding.

Chief Luciano is quick to point out that the department doesn't lack in cooperation from the younger people. On the volunteer team are young men like Lou Slockbower, Steve Reheiser,Mike Quinn, and when school is in session, several students from Florida Institute of Technology join in to help fight fires. There are also others like Rick Campbell, just out of his teens, and Don Wilkie, a nurseryman, who closes down the shop and sends customers packing every time his "plec tron" starts beeping. Age has nothing to do with the quality or quantity of service.

But right now, it is the financial as well as the moral support of the community that is needed. True, the cost of living has gone up for potential donors, but the cost of running the station has also skyrocketed, the chief points out.

"When I started here," Luciano says, "gas was 25 cents a gallon. Now it's 75 cents. And a truck that cost $22,000 a few years ago now is close to $50,000."

It's not the size of the donation the chief cares about, although they definitely need all they can get.

"No matter how much or how little their gifts," the chief says, "we appreciate every donation.

New officer in charge offers excitement to postal workers

Jerry Kindred, a young man who came up through the U.S. Post office system in West Palm Beach, has moved into the Officer in Charge spot at the Jensen Beach Post Office, held by OIC Don Sivyer until last week.

Kindred reported for duty on Monday. He was transfered to the Jensen Beach post by his superior Don Pitts, head of the West Palm Beach Central office. Sivyer, he said, was moved to a higher but similar position in West Palm.

The change was necessary to comply with Post Office regulations which require that an Officer In Charge's tenure be limited to six months.

Kindred, a native of Harlan County, Ky., began with the postal department in 1967. He has been manager of Post Office Employee's training development Center in West Palm Beach. He began with the department as a carrier, and has most recently been area safety manager for mails.

A community-minded man, Kindred is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Masonic Lodge, the Shriners Legion of Honor, and the Postal Service Women's Advisory committee. He is attempting to instill the community spirit into the local post office by encouraging them to apply for the profile assessment system for advancement. He has also brough a lot of rah-rah into the office, to boost morale. Signs all over the place read: "I'm a postal employe, and I'm proud of it."

Of the recent reported malcontent within the Jensen system, he said he felt it "wasn't nearly what the Miami papers made of it." True, he said, there undoubtedly was some unrest and dissatisfaction, but "nothing that can't be worked out."

As to a permanent successor to the former man who quit because of alleged unsatisfactory conditions, Kindred says the new one should be named within the next six to eight weeks.

"They have the field narrowed down to five now," he told The Mirror.

Benefit Tennis Tourney is set

The Martin County Tennis Tournament, benefitting the American Heart Association, will be held March 31 and April 1 at Indian River Plantation. The tournament will include men's and ladies' doubles competition, in A,B and C classes.

Bill Owens, chairman of the event, said, "We are fortunate to have Tom Falkenberg, the tennis pro at Indian River, to act as our tournament director. Last year, the tournament raised over $1,081 for the Heart Association. We plan to have a lot of fun, and support a very worthy organization."

Owens thanked Indian River Plantation for furnishing the facilities for the tournament. In addition, the entry fee includes a cocktail party sponsored by the First Federal Savings and Loan Association. The party will be Saturday, March 31 at 6 p.m., following that day's matches.

Entry fee is $10. Entry blanks are available at all tennis shops, sporting goods stores, Indian River Plantation.

Aircraft frightens residents on beach

A single-engine Cessna made a diving run at two local residents last week, badly frightening the two, who have complained to the Federal Aviation Administration.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Simons of Skyline Drive, Jensen Beach, were walking their dog on the beach at Hutchinson Island, one mile north of Herman Bay when the incident occurred last Thursday morning.

Except for two fishermen, they were the only persons in the area. The high wing plane was flying north along the water's edge when it made a wide circle to the west and south, and then again proceeded low along the water's edge.

The Simons, both of whose are licensed private pilots, thought the aircraft was making an emergency landing on the beach, and raced on the dune, toward the grass.

"The plane headed directly toward us," Mrs. Simon said. The two sat down on the grass, and the aircraft suddenly put on power and zoomed up and off to the north along the coastline. It had been no more than ten feet off the ground, according to the Simons.

Ray Bates, Jensen Beach, was one of the fishermen who witnessed the event. He agreed that the incident should be reported to the FAA.

Simons was unable to read the aircraft identification number, and the FAA has found it impossible to identify the Cessna from the description offered by the Simons. Persons visiting the beach are asked to notify the FAA of any like incidents, and hopefully, to get the identification numbers of the plane.

Easter Egg Hunt is set for April 7

The annual Jensen Beach Fire Department Easter egg hunt will be held April 7 at Langford Park. Registration will be from 9:30 to 10 a.m. when the hunt will begin.

Children will be teamed by age groups, and the hunt will be for children from one to ten years of age. In case of a rainout; the hunt will be moved to April 14.

Jensen a 'Hotbed of champions'

Jensen Beach Elementary School is turning out champions almost faster than they can count them.

Last week, 10 year old Sandya Ramachandran, fifth grader, took the top elemetary school spelling championship, and this week, nine-year old Tommy Van Pool checked and checkmated all his fourth and fifth grade chess opponents.

Sandya Ramachandran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Ramachandran, is a native of Madras, India., and speaks fluently Tamil, Hindi and English.

Last week, she went up against "natives" from all over the county, and came in top speller. She will go on to the Middle School competition next week.

Sandy's father is an engineer with Ebasco at Port St. Lucie

Sandy's father is an engineer with Ebasco at the St. Lucie Power Plant. The family lived in Jersey City before coming here.

Tommy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom van Pool at 1599 N.E. 23rd St., Jensen Beach, started playing chess only a few months ago.

"Only four kids that I knew played," he told the Mirror.

Then it began to spread, and his teacher, Jim Nehls took him under his wing. Soon, Tommy not only had the hang of it, he had the best of most of his opponents. He went to the Elks' Club on March 19 to compete with the winners from other elementary schools, and won two trophies at the county level.

All friends of the church, including winter visitors, are welcome to both the pot-luck dinner at 5:45 and the concert. Reservations for the pot-luck should be made by calling the church office at 334-0716.

Jensen area Samaritans calling

BY NELLIE COOK

We think it is about time we let you know we are still around, and what the Samaritans have been doing since you last heard from us.

Early January was especially busy for us, as our young people from Florida Institute of Technology were away on their Christmas vacation. That meant that a few active members had to dig in tooth and nail to keep things going.

Mid-January saw the F.I.T. students back on duty, and a young married couple from St. Lucie County joined our squad. In addition to a home and two children, she attends school herself, and on one or two days each week drives from her home 22 miles from town just to work with us. That's our Mary Lou.

In January also we had two retired ladies from Riverside volunteer to clean the interior of our vehicles every other Saturday until they leave for the north about mid-March.

In February two of our EMTs, Vivian and Bob Hesslip returned from a three month vacation in California with their family, and five of our young working members took their EMT exams at North County Technical College. They will be receiving their state certification within a few weeks.

January and February are big months for us financially, for that is when a number of Parks put on their annual drives for donations to keep our wheels rolling for the year. This year they all have gone well over their expected goals. We say "Hats off to you folks!" You are the greatest, and we thank you." Your efforts on our behalf give us new vim and vigor to continue to serve you and show you we deserve.

The Samaritans were represented at God and Country Day by Samaritans of various ages. Would you believe from 18 to 72?

I am sure you all noticed the clean, well equipped vehicle parked at the main door to the auditorium, manned by three young Samaritans who were ready at moment's notice to cover any emergency that might occur.

All you folks who attended the Lions Pancake Breakfast on Sunday, March 4 also saw Samaritans busy taking blood pressures for free. Can't do it any cheaper than that, eh? You might be interested to know 412 people had their blood pressure checked. Of interest too, might be the fact that teenagers are also quite blood pressure conscious. They are already wise young folks we think. Hope they keep that concern through life.

Our regular monthly meeting was held in our squad building at 8 p.m. March 7 with 25 members present. Four new applications for membership were presented by the membership chairman, and the directors voted unanimously that they be accepted. Two of the four are members of the Rio Fire Dept. This brings to six the number of Rio Firemen who are also Samaritans. Oh, by the way, one of those is a lady, so better call them all Fire People. At the March meeting assistant night supervisor Tony Weisbecker resigned, and Evelyn Cotter from Pinelake Village has taken over his duties.

We have two teams of men from Ocean Breeze Park and one from Pinelake Village washing the exterior of the vehicles alternate Saturdays. We do need two or more ladies who are interested in helping the Samaritans by donating their time, for about one hour on Saturday mornings at 9 a.m. This would be to wash the interior of the ambulances. How about it gals? Call 334-4076 or 334-5312 for further information.

We now have an American flag to be displayed in our squad room. It was donated by Samaritan Wally. Thanks from all the membership.

Notice to all active EMTs and drivers. Owing to the increasing of gasoline prices, we are going to cut a few corners. So the monthly schedules will no longer be hand distributed. The schedules will be printed and put on the president's desk and available on or before the first day of each month. Please pick your copy up.

The only state certified para-Medic in Martin County, Michelle Gierasdorf a member of the J.A. Samaritans is now donating her spare time to running with the Samaritans, and helping conduct the training classes each month.

A NOTE OF CAUTION TO DRIVERS OF MOTOR VEHICLES. When you hear a siren, see flashing lights and see a person wearing a white jacket trying to cross the street, please let them cross. They are part of the Emergency Squad trying to get to the scene of illness or injury. Remember sometime they may be going to help you in time of need, or one you know and love. A minute's delay on your part will not make too much difference. THE SAMARITANS THANK YOU.

Judge John Carroll wins Sandpiper golf

The Chapmans, Tom and Irene were calculating scores of Thursday's Sandpiper Men's Association play late the wee hours of Friday morning in order to determine the winners of Thursday's play when members of the golfing group played in the regularly scheduled event which was classified as individual play, drop the three worst holes in the round and take five sixths of the posted handicap.

The checking and rechecking of all scores, perplexing as it was, the Chapmans reported that Judge John Carroll passed sentences on all rivals when he emerged with an 18-hole round score of 45 plus.

Mark Vasey, the diminutive Canadian lefthander finished in a deadlock for second with George Hadeck.

High and low honors were equally shared by Ed Gaudette and Dr. Gordon Castigliano with the "Doc" in another southpaw skieg to a 45.

Over 600 attended outdoor art show

Approximately 600 people attended Ocean Village's Second Annual Outdoor Art Festival held on Saturday and Sunday. According to Joe L. Krchnak, general manager of the 120-acre oceanfront community on Hutchinson Island just south of Fort Pierce, the show was a great success despite some inclement weather on Saturday that forced the display to move indoors.

Over 70 entries of painting and photography were on view, with a theme that celebrated the natural beauty of Hutchinson Island. A five-member panel of local experts served as judges for the event.

Awards were presented by Joe and Sylvia Krchnak at a ceremony held on Saturday afternoon. Charlotte Davidson of Vero Beach won Best-of-Show for her oil painting of seagrapes. First Place awards in painting went to Mabel Mayland of Spanish Lakes and Bob Scott of Fort Pierce. Tom Smoyer received a First Place award in the professional photography category wwhile Mark Harris received his in the amateur category. As an indication of the high quality of the entries, a total of nine artists received honorable mention for both painting and photography.

Tigers hold off Glades, 10-9

BY DONNIE WILKIE

GLADE-- David McCaughey of Randy Smith each homered as the Martin County Tigers edged Glades Central 10-9 in a high school baseball game played Saturday afternoon.

McCaughey's homer, a three-run one in the second inning, gave Martin County an 8-3 lead, but Glades Central charged back, scoring three runs in the fourth and two more in the fifth game to cut the margin to 10-9.

Smith's homer proved to be the winning blow for the Tigers, who now stand at 5-11 for the season. It came in the fourth inning, and made the score 9-8 at the time.

Brent Laycock [1-2] came on in relief for the victory, while starting pitcher Dan Alley lasted into the fourth inning, when Glades began their comeback.

The Tigers outhit the Raiders 9-5, while committing four errors. Glades Central made three.

JOHN CARROLL 3 FORT PIERCE 1

Jim Taylor hurled a three-hitter as the Golden Rams of John Carroll defeated the Fort Pierce Central Cobras, 3-1.

Taylor walked one and struck out three while winning his seventh game against only one loss. The Rams have won seven games in a row, after dropping a 3-4 decision to Suncoast three weeks ago, their only loss of the season. Their record is 13-1, and they are ranked number one in The Mirror's area ratings, just ahead of Forest Hill [11-2] and Lake Worth [9-4]. Fort Pierce Westwood stands fourth with a 7-3 mark, while Twin Lakes rounds out the field at 12-4.

In other action over the weekend, Westwood dumped Okeechobee 9-1; Palm Beach Gardens downed North Shore 5-4; Glades Day beat Benjamin 4-3, and Indian River Academy zapped Riviera 9-3. In girls softball action, Fort Pierce Central squeaked by John Carroll 5-4 and Glades Day smashed Okeechobee 17-5.

General AARP membership meet... March 15 at First Presbyterian ...urch was run through without a ...itch by "CMac" MacIntyre, presi... Well that is almost without a ...tch. It seems that Frank Edward..., who generally leads the Pledge ...as sitting so close to the podium that ...Mac could find him and asked ...rgil Smith to lead instead. Also he spoke on letters to ...aks in high-places" saying the ...tters to count....especially between ...w and into elections.

Then at the meeting move on, Ernie ...as asked to give a report on the ...ecent Eagle Bulletin activites. When ...e told them that the April issue would ...be his last, as publisher and editor, ...ey all stood up and applauded. ...omewhat dumbfounded he thanked ...em all for their cooperation over the ...e four years and asked that they ...ve the same support to Al Tucker, ...o is going to keep the publication ...ntact until another publisher can be ...arm-twisted into taking over.

The speaker was Ms. Nancy Gorski of Colonial Penn who came up from Hollywood to explain policies, the new Colonial Penn-AARP relationship and to answer questions.

The next health insurance enrollment period will be in May, so, Nancy did not spend much time on that topic, however she did point out that regardless of what other policies were in force Colonial Penn paid full benefits to the member.

Then in regards to the Colonial Penn- AARP relationship, she said there could not be an change until after June 1971 when present contracts expire. Nancy said that times have changed. Back in the 1950s when health insurance was first offered to the members, no other insurance company in the world would cover the elderly, but now that it has been found feasible to underwrite this type of insurance, everybody and his brother is getting in on the act. So it is just good business sense for AARP to scan the market and offer the best available to its members.

There were a number of interesting questions asked and here are some of them. Does Colonial Pen have a policy that covers physical therapy after medicare runs out? The answer is no, write and suggest it. (Maybe the VNA can help in Dus respect). Also if paid ahead insurance is cancelled, is there any refund? Yes, write letter giving policy number, wait 3 to 6 weeks, then if no answer write to her, Ms. Nancy Gorski, Colonial Penn Insurance, Room 204, 2741 N. 29th Ave., Hollywood, Fl. 33020 and she will get some action.

The drawing winners were: for the Buy-a-Block, Leta Williams, won Hot-Cold Food Service; Door Prizes were won by Marion Curwen, a shawl; and dolls left from Xmas Bazaar, Gene Shroup, Robert Mauoer, Wilson Gruber and Joe Belt. A fine meeting with refreshments served by Agnes Berg and committee.

It was a 'Super' party

The Irish really know how to put on a St. Patricks Day celebration. Ruth and Bill Hennessey with their many helpers gave us a super party on Sat. March 17. The recreation hall was beautifully decorated the music was exhilerating, the food was scrumptious and the singing waiters were hilarious. It seems our parties keep on getting bigger and better.

There are plans for one more big party, the spring fling, slated for April 1. Also keep in mind the art show on March 24 and the craft show and flea market on April 7.

Work will be starting very soon on the addition to the rec. hall. Next year with that completed there will not have to be such restrictions on the number of tickets available for the fun times that are coming up.

Aldyce and Bill Goetz are enjoying the visit of their grandson. Pat and Larry Belt had Larry's brother John and his wife Helen for a short visit.

A thank you to Ruth and Bill Hennessey for helping so much to make every party such a success.

I thought that I would never see.....a bunch of carrots as big as me. But I did! You see Ruth said 50 lbs is what we need to feed that mob that will exceed 170 - I do believe. Carrots were cleaned, potatoes scraped, cabbage cut, and corned beef cooked. The end result was super supper, and thanks to the Hennesseys a better St. Patrick Day's supper couldn't be had.

An active time of year

There is no doubt some snowbirds are jumping the gun to scurry home before Easter regardless of the cold and snow still up in the northlands. However, there are more young'uns around this year than usual, as some schools had to close because of terrible winter weather. So, there are just as many as normal to enjoy our balmy weather and the numerous park activities, that will be described below.

Then following the 6 o'clock dinner, president Jones thanked everyone for making this such a successful party and for the club's equally successful season in the courts. Next, program chairwoman Lenora Viland introduced the talented gals, Margret Hindman and Irma Fair, who "roasted" everybody in sight. Tom Elliott [piano] and Rael Mertz [mandolin] played several numbers. The dinner party ended with a sing-a-long to conclude with the singing of "God Bless America."

There was a Round Robin tournament last week, with the following results: First, main event, Pete Muller; Second, Fran Runyan; Third, Evelyn Grove; Fourth, Pearl Wheelock; and for consolation, First, Pete Hillman, second Rael Mertz.

The Central League ended their season in third place, as follows: Causeway, 48; Orchid Acres, 46; OBP, 43; Holiday Out, 41; Spanish Lakes, 33.

There will be a Gala Day, Any Doubles Tournament in Stuart on March 29, 30 and 31. Sign up on the bulletin board.

RAMBLING AROUND

Sometimes in order to fit "copy" into space available, some parts have to be deleted, and generally it comes out O.K. But, last week this had to be omitted from Mrs. Olinger's item, "that is being named in honor of her brother Admiral J.J.Clark. Following the affair, they all will attend an invitation luncheon and a dinner at the Embassy."

Bernie and Alma O'Neil, 13 Bay Drive, recently had visitors who flew down from Rochester, N.H. They were daughter Kathy Cavanaugh, and Diane Staples, and Mother-in-law Kay Staples from Worcester, Mass. They were here 10 days, so they had a chance to see Disney World, dine at Outrigger, and go to the beach for swim and tan. They enjoyed the Costume Dance and were delighted when Bernie and Alma won prize for the costume made by a granddaughter. But, too soon it was time to return to some of that 16 degrees below zero New Hampshire weather.

Roy and Nina Zegelhofer, of Pine St. have had plenty of visitors this winter. The latest were Ken Lewis and sister Ida Curtzer from New Philadelphia, Ohio, who are old friends, and stopped off for their first visit to OBP as they tour around Florida and on down to the Keys.

Then they had Bernie and Mary Gumm, who flew down from Wooster, Ohio for a visit. Also, Harold and Ruth Rendebush came down from Wooster too, and were joined by Bill and Mary Reamer who drove down. All have been busy seeing the sights, deep sea fishing, but all too soon had to return to 47 degree weather and snow still on the ground.

Bot, first about "eleven dollars" of the rent increase notice. It was a typographical error, it should have been "even dollars," so there was not such a big increase after all.

Also, the folks needing to make a pay phone call will find a telephone has been installed outside Clement Hall.

PARK EVENTS

OBP FOLLIES of 1975 had to give a repeat performance to give all OBPers a chance to see the superb show. Again, Monday night, March 12, the Clubhouse was packed to the doors. The acts were just as great as before, as testified by the rounds of applause.

THE CONCERT by John Leybeck, Sunday night, Marc 18 of all the Ol' Favorites on his splendid Hi-Fi system was enjoyed at the Shuffle Courts by many OBPers.

HOBBY AND ART SHOW seemed to be even better than ever this year, In the Clubhouse there was table after table of wonderful handcraft work and the walls were covered with paintings. By the size of the crowds Saturday and Sunday, March 17 and 18, every OBPer must have been there to remark on the almost unbelievable talent of their friends and neighbors.

ANTIQUE EXHIBIT is the next Clubhouse event, when on Thursday, March 29, the folks will bring their heirlooms to the exhibit so all can enjoy viewing their treasures.

CAMERA CLUB is winding up its season with some great meetings, such as last Thursday, March 15, when Paul and Peg Felton, by slides took the members to Quito, Ecuador and on to the Galapagos Island of Clarence Darwin fame to see the wierd animals and birds that were unafraid of man.

The annual elections were held, with the following results: Nina Ziegelhofer, president; Ernie Curwen, first v.p.; Hugh Garside, second v.p.; and Freda Peterkin, sec. treas. [Ernie C. anxious to step-down when some "new blood" will step up]. Nina, reminded the members that in order to keep the club vigorous, the members must take pictures on their trips and be willing to show them next season.

Remember Thursday, March 22 is the annual dinner meeting with Fred Peterkin showing old time park pictures and Ralph Ortt with Ann Buck leading a Sing-a-Long. The Semi-pot Luck dinner will be served at 6 p.m. Tickets for the meat are $1.00 (members only-30 new members signed up recently). Freda Peterkin will have the tables prettily trimmed with flowers by 5 o'clock, so folks can bring their place settings and beverage in any time after that. Around 5:30 the members can bring their servings for four, by the alphabet, as follows: A to J, main dish; L to R, a salad; S to Z, a dessert [last names beginning with those initials]. For tickets or additional information see Freda Peterkin.

SHUFFLERS, 84 strong attended the annual banquet Tuesday, March 13 at Stuart Holiday Inn where Irma Fair was general chairwoman and master-of-ceremonies, to be greeted as they arrived by Earl and Marion Burbank and George and Belva Dean.

The tables were gally decorated by Hazel Olsen and Kit Garside for St. Patrick's Day with shamrocks, top hats and derby's. After the social hour, president Bill Jones gave the invocation and introduced special guests Emory and Dora Holt. Emory is president of Central East Coast District.

Choral Concert is Sunday

A choral group sponsored by Indian River Community College will give a concert on Sunday, March 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the recreation hall here in the park. Directed by Mrs. Esther Plyler, the concert will consist of songs by the choral group, special men's octet, solos, duets and piano solo. Everyone is invited.

211 attended Sunday at the Pavilion Church to hear the Hobe Sound Academy Choral under the direction of Mrs. Bashan Mr. Enright, teacher, played the violin solo and accompanied the group. Rev. Thompson officiated.

Cards on Monday evening had six tables. Don Shockey 6250, May Flitton 5720, and Mary McGuire chalked up a 5530.

Shuffling notes: Final game of the season was played at Pinelake Village on March 14 with Holiday Out winning, 3-1. Final standings in the league places Holiday Out in fourth place in the nine team league, seven games out of first.

A hearty thanks is extended to the gals who played hostesses and provided all of the delicious food throughout the season. Was the talk of the entire league and enjoyed by all.

Riverside Village

BY M.JOHNSON

Carl and Betty Fritz have returned to Riverside after being called back to Connerit, Ohio by the sudden death of his brother. It was very cold and both are glad to be back in the land of sunshin

Jerry and Mary Vanderbeke have gone over to the west coast to see his brother who is in the Veterans Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lucia and daughter Kristy of Lansing, Mich. are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lucia of First Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Calver of Sebring, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elmers of Conneaut, Ohio and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith, Spanish Lakes, stopped for a short visit to say hello to Carl and Betty Fritz.

We had some visitors in the park from N.Y. They enjoyed our carry-in, people and surroundings so much they decided immediately to live in our park.

Personally I think they were so impressed with the terrific food at the carry-in.....like David Silverstein said, "Any park with so many good cooks has to be a terrific place to live. He and his wife Grace will live at 308. They will see us in the fall.....By the way, David plays a mean piano.

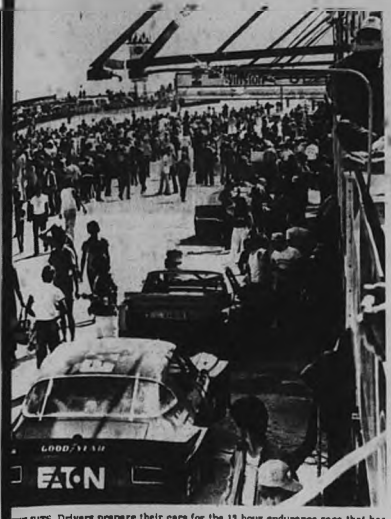
The first shuffleboard tournament held in the park is now history. It was made up of married couples and was in two divisions, the winners of each received a trophy and then a play off was held for the grand champion. The winners of the first division were Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Robanson with Mr. and Mr. Arlo Tracy winning the second division. Grand champions were Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Tracy.

A wonderful dinner was held at Mrs. Kerrs boarding house in Palm City and a good time was enjoyed. Gustav Schoeneberg, chairman of the shuffleboard, acted as the Emcee and presented the trophies to the winners. Great prospects are in store for next season.

Our prayers are with the Shapton family whose daughter-in-law is in the hospital in Fort Pierce seriously ill.

Les and Marion Johnson were visited by a school mate Dick Fent of Washington. Dick also visited with the Henry Johnson's.

Ethel Noggle won Jackpot Tuesday night with Betty Frantz.



THE PITS–Drivers prepare their cars for the 12 hour endurance race that has made Sebring famous, and brought recognition to Jensen Beach through the efforts of Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton.

Story and Photos
By Bob Fryer

TIRED, BUT HAPPY–Rusty Bond shows the strain as Ren Tilton perks him up following the Sebring race in which the local drivers finished first in class and eleventh overall.

Bond and Tilton victorious in almost perfect Sebring race

CLOSE QUARTERS–Tailgating is allowed in the Sebring race, and the Bond-Tilton number 60 did that in speeds that averaged 99 miles per hour.

Jensen Beach driver Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton drove a nearly flawless race in their Porsch 911 last Saturday to capture a first-in-class victory at the classic 12 hours of Sebring.

Bond and Tilton grabbed the lead about midway through the grueling event and held off all challenges from competitors in the small engine (G.T.U.) class for the duration of the race. They averaged 99 miles per hour in their winning effort.

Sebring was the second of 18 races on the International Motor Sports Association (IMSA) Calendar for the 1978 season. In the first event, the 24 hours of Daytona, the hometown drivers finished third in class and seventh overall. The third at Daytona, coupled with a first at Sebring, gives Bond and Tilton an early lead in IMSA point standings for GTU drivers.

In addition to earning points, the victory also insured continued sponsorship from E.J.Pruitt and Sons, a West Palm Beach Bicycle emporium, for Bond and Tilton.

"We could hardly have asked for a more perfect race." We had a minor problem with a header, and had one flat, but other than that everything went very well," Bond said between swigs of victory beer.

"Our sponsor couldn't be here tonight, but we'll call him soon, and I'm sure he'll be as happy about this as we are," Bond added.

In past years, the Bond-Tilton team has earned a reputation for consistently good finishes in the IMSA races they entered. However, due to a limited race budget (compared to most other GTU teams), they haven't been able to compte in many of the IMSA races in far away states. Bond said he and Tilton don't plan to enter all 18 races on this year's circuit, but said the win most likely means they'll be able to enter some events in west coast states. That may give U'em their best shot yet at capturing the GTU driver championship.

The team started in 44th place among the 72 cars that took the green flag. Among GTU cars, they were gridded in 12th place.

After an hour Bond moved the car into second place among GTU cars and was 30th overall. Three hours later, they were still running second in class, and had moved into 17th place overall.

Bond and Tilton swapped driving duties every few hours. About midway through the race, Tilton pitted for Bond to take over. By then the number 60 Porsch had a three lap lead over the closest GTU car. "She's running perfect, but it's still too early to get excited yet," Tilton said.

The Jensen team repelled all challenges and maintained their GTU lead for the duration of the race. They finished in 11th place overall.

About ten minutes before the checkered flag fell, the pit crew broke out oysters and began prying them open for a victory celebration.

The pit crew and a jubilant Bond greeted Tilton as he wheeled the car up to the Winners' Circle, and the celebration continued well into the night.

Bond and Tilton traveled 219 laps for 1,138.8 miles in the twelve hours. They had a four lap lead at the end over their class, with an average speed of 94.9 miles per hour, and an average lap speed of 99 miles per hour.

At the six flour point, a planned pit stop for five minutes allowed them to change the front brake pads, transmission fluid and change all four tires.

FAST RACE–Lucky number 60 is the Porsche driven by Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton to victory in their class and eleventh place overall in the 12 hours of Sebring race.

MMMMMM-GOOD–Rusty Bond takes a good draft of liquid as he watches the finish of driver who ended up behind his team in the 12 hours of Sebring race.

RELAX–With the race over, Ren Tilton sips a drink as he tries to wind down from the demanding endurance race at Sebring.

"Every customer's different. It keeps me on my toes."

"I make sure there's a big variety of sizes and cuts out there in the beef case — both U.S.D.A. Choice and ProTen. But not all my customers are big beef eaters, so I'm just as concerned with our pork, ham, chicken, lamb, veal — everything else. I think we've got better variety than any place in town."

Salt and pepper
All-purpose flour
2 onions, sliced
4 cups (two 1-pound cans) tomatoes

Remove excess fat from steak and cut meat into 6 pieces. Season meat and pat it on a well-floured cutting board. Cover steak with ½ cup flour; pound with a meat hammer or edge of a heavy saucer. Continue to turn, flour, and pound meat until ½ cup flour is taken up. Melt a little fat from steak in skillet. Brown onion in hot fat, remove, and brown steak on both sides. Put onion on top of steak. Add tomatoes, cover, and simmer for 2½ to 3 hours, or until fork-tender. Or cover and bake in preheated moderate oven (350°F). Remove steak with onion to hot serving dish. Nergard asks quiz address

Charles L. (Chuck) Nergard, representative, District 70, is preparing to send out a questionaire on some of the issues which face the 1979 Florida Legislature. The public's response to this questionaire is considered by Nergard to better represent the view of the majority in the legislative district. Due to the limit of the number to mail, Nergard wants anyone who is interested in filling out and returning the questionnaire to receive one.

Those interested can call Nergard's office in Fort Pierce (461-0300) with name and address, and the questionnaire will be mailed during the first two weeks of April for convenience to residents of Martin County and South Port St. Lucie—call the Jensen Beach office (334-0111) on Friday, March 23, between 9 a.m.-11:30 a.m. Requests by mail should be directed to 2300 Virginia Ave., Room 209, Fort Pierce, Fl. 33450.

Waterman to speak on salvage of a sunken treasure ship

Stan Waterman, world renown underwater photographer and explorer, will fly directly from the wreck of the 17th century Spanish galleon "Concepcion" to Florida Institute of Technology's Jensen Beach Campus where he will serve as key note speaker at this year's Underwater Symposium. Waterman has received exclusive rights to film the recovery of treasure and artifacts from the wreck, which sank in 1641 some 80 miles north of the Dominican Republic. To date, the "Concepcion" has yielded more than $500,000 worth of treasure to her salvors.

The symposium, sponsored by the Blue Water Dive Club and F.I.T., will be held Saturday, April 14 beginning at 10 a.m. In addition to Waterman, the event will feature Dr. Donald Atwood, director of NOAA's Ocean Chemistry Lab who will deliver a "State of the Oceans Address."

Other guest speakers will include Bill Barada, Environmental editor of "Skin Diver" magazine, who will speak on the "Old Men of the Sea"; Margie Bolton, who will discuss women in diving and diving during pregnancy; Jeff Prentice, of Harbor Branch Foundation, will detail the discovery and exploration of the Civil War Ship "U.S.S. Monitor"; also included is Hank Tonnemacher, diving supervisor for the West Indies Lab, showing some of his spectacular underwater slides and detailing his work with underwater habitats.

The moderator for this year's event will be Dr. Robert Pronk, head of the Science Education Department at F.I.T.'s Melbourne Campus.

There will also be an Underwater Film Festival, Friday, April 13 at 7:30 p.m. The festival will feature three hours of award winning films by such noted underwater cinematographers as Waterman, Al Giddings, and Robin Lehman.

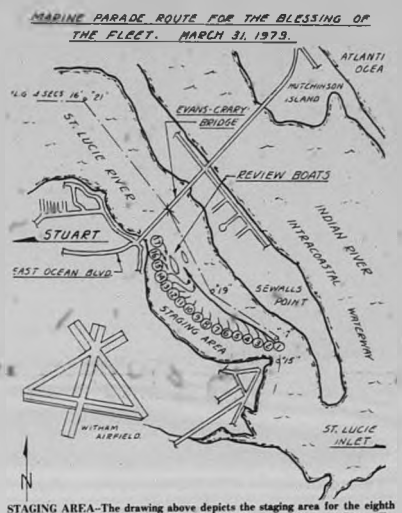
Both the Symposium and Film Festival are open to the public. Tickets for the symposium are available at the F.I.T.-Jensen Beach Bookstore, or by mail from: Underwater Symposium '79, Box 2108, Jensen Beach, FL. 33457.

Southern Gulf, $900,000, county, worth $624,578

The planning for a north county water and sewage system still seems bogged down with the diverse opinions of what Southern Gulf Utilities, the key to the plan, is really worth.

Southern Gulf is asking $900,000 for the system that serves Sewall's Point and Hutchinson Island, using water bought from the City of Stuart. William Bishop Engineering, the county's advisors on planning the system, sets the value at $624,578, with an additional $221,000 needed to update the system, making a total of $848,578, or close to the SGU figure.

It will take in the neighborhood of $5.4 million of an eventual $20 million to get the first phase of the north county system under way. Eventually, the wellfield in Jensen, south of Commercial Street, and the 2.4 million gallon treatment plant will feed water lines to the Jensen Beach Hutchinson Island area.



STAGING AREA—The drawing above depicts the staging area for the eighth annual blessing of the fleet, to the west of the channel in the St. Lucie River. The parade begins with the number one group, with other groups falling in line behind. Best viewing is from the Evans Crary Bridge.

Blessing of the Fleet will be on Saturday

BY DICK CAMPBELL

The St. Lucie River, south of the ...ans Crary Bridge, should be filled with boats Saturday afternoon as the ...ish annual "Blessing of the Fleet" ...emonies are held, along with a ...ecular parade of boats.

The flagship of the fleet will be the ...y Cygnus, brought from Ft. ...derdale for the event by Ralph ...ngrade. The Outboard Marine Cor...ration chairman leased the ship ...on he learned that his 118' yacht ...anticleer would not be out of ...ydock in time.

Hundreds of boats are being ...corated and prepared for the annual ...essing, which will be done by three ...ligious leaders, Rabbi Mel Hecht, ...r. John DiGangi and Fr. Anthony ...ech.

The boats will gather in pre-designated position, between markers 17 and 19 west of the channel, beginning at 1 p.m. At 2 p.m., the parade will begin with the sailing fleet of the St. Lucie Sailing Club.

The "Fran E" charter boat will be the communications and press boat for the ceremony.

Lon Wear, chairman of the event, outlined the planning for the blessing and the parade of boats. All sections of the parade will use CB channels for communications, and the organizations participating will maintain contact through those channels.

The order of the parade, and the CB channels designated are as follows:

St. Lucie Sailing Club [1], Anchorage Yacht Club [2], Saints and Sinners Yacht Club [3], Coconut Point Yacht Club [4] Anchorline Yacht Club [5], St. Lucie River Power Squadron [6], Cross Roads Yacht Club [7], Soundings Yacht Club [8], Circle Bay Yacht Club [18], Marina Cay Yacht Club [10], Yacht and Country Club [11], Riverland Yacht Club [12], Sailfish Yacht Club [20], Nettles Island Yacht Club [14], DeLa Bahia Yacht Club[15], Non-affiliated boaters [16], USCGA Floatilla 59 [17].

The boats will maintain a speed of five knots, and passing boaters are urged to maintain idle speed when passing through the area.

The ceremony will be broadcast over Radio Station WMCF-FM 93.

The Evans Crary Bridge is an excellent location to view the parade of boats.

On Sunday, the boat owners and guests will have an awards banquet beginning at 5 p.m. at the Elks Lodge in Stuart. Cocktails will be served at 5 and dinner at 6 p.m. Tickets for the banquet are available at the Stuart Chamber of Commerce or from any participating organization.

40-ton herd of pachyderms featured at Hoxie Circus

Elephants of all shapes and origins ...ll be featured when the Hoxie ...others Circus comes to the Port St. ...ucie Community Center on Tuesday, ...pril 3.

The 40-ton herd of pachyderms ...ludes African and Indian elephants, ...dult and baby elephants, and male ...d female elephants. Showtimes are ...:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. and will be ...onducted under the world's largest ...ound tent.

James Crawford trains, presents ...d supervises the elephants, and will present two troupes of pachyderms, assisted by "Tiffany".

During this year's circus tour, Crawford says his elephants will consume 5,700 bales of hay and 150,000 gallons of water. Other animals, domestic and exotic, will appear in the circus. African lions, chimpanzees, llamas and camels are included in the show, as are an outstanding roster of circus talent from all points of the globe.

Advanced tickets are now on sale at the Center on Prima Vista Boulevard.

Nergard's office relocated

State Representative Charles Nergard's office in Fort Pierce will be ...mporarily relocated to Tallahassee ...e end of this week for the ...uration of the 1979 state legislative ...ession.

Nergard can be reached during the ...ession, from April 2 through June 1, in Tallahassee at (904) 488-8749 or by writing to: 221 The Capitol, Tallahassee, Fla. 32304.

Nergard's answering service in Fort Pierce will also take calls during this period at his local office number, 461-0399, and messages will be answered from Tallahassee.

Shortage rearing its ugly head

...t appears that, from now on until ...e political football of gasoline gets ...cked off the next goal line, it will be ...ise to keep your gas tanks full. ...ppliers all over town are running ...w, and as a result, service stations ...e curtailing their hours to fit the supply.

Normally, on Sunday, you can find at least one station open on Sunday. But not this past weekend. All the doors and pumps were shut tight.

At the Gulf station on Indian River Drive, the spokesman said they'll be shutting not only on Sunday but evenings and Saturday afternoons.

"We just don't have the gas to pump," he said.

Some dealers, a little more sardonic about the situation claim the hold-up is simply a ploy to get the prices up before making it available again. Several companies are asking for 2 cent price raise by this coming Sunday.

Nergard seeks voter voice

Land use plan meet April 11

Public meetings on the proposed land use plan for Martin County will be held throughout Martin County in the next few weeks, it was announced by county officials.

The Jensen Beach area will have its public meeting on April 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the Hoke Community Room of First Federal of Martin County at Commercial Street and Indian River Drive.

Other meetings will be held on April 2 at Indiantown Middle School, April 4 at the Hobe Sound Community Center, and April 9 at the Martin County Administration Center.

Persons affected by the changes in planning, and the resultant changes in zoning, should attend the meetings, even though they have appeared and spoken before the planners before, according to Frank Wachs, county commission chairman.

Angler's Club to meet April 2

The Martin County Anglers' Club will meet April 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the First Federal Savings and Loan on Indian River Drive in Jensen Beach. A special program is planned. Wives are welcome.

Mirror's Coloring Contest

Kids, if you're a student at Port St. Lucie Elementary School or Jensen Beach Elementary, here's your chance to have a little fun and possibly win some money too.

The Mirror is conducting an Easter Coloring Contest for kindergarten through fifth grade children in the two schools. An entry blank, including a sketch to be colored, appears in today's issue of The Mirror on page 24, and will appear again next week.

A first, second and third prize will be awarded for each grade level for students in each school. Port St. Lucie students will compete only against Port St. Lucie students, and Jensen Beach students will compete only with their classmates. Each first prize is $5, while second and third place winners will each receive $1. Additionally, a grand prize of an additional $10 will be given for the best overall entry from each school.

Students may use crayons, paint or water colors on the Easter sketch. Only one entry per person is allowed, and the deadline for turning in entries is noon on Saturday, April 7. Entries should be turned in at stores that are sponsoring the contest. A list of stores sponsoring the contest is included on the entry blank.

No relatives of Mirror employees are eligible to enter.

Winners will be announced in the April 12th issue of The Mirror.

The name, address, phone number and grade level of each entrant should be clearly printed on the entry blanks.

BIG CLASSROOM—The Martin County High School gymnasium became the classroom for these fifth graders from Jensen Beach Elementary last week. They were rehearsing for a music show to be held at the gym this Monday night at 7:30 p.m., as part of the "music In Our Schools" week. They will be joined by the bands and choruses from Stuart Middle School and Martin County High for the performance. [Staff photo by Donnie Wilkie]

March is departing like a lamb

March, which came in like a lamb, is fooling all of us by going out like a pussycat. Weathermen says that, with the possible exception of some showers [which we need] toward the weekend, April shows every sign of arriving in a balmy mood, adding her blessing to the Blessing of the Fleet.

It will continue a bit on the cool side, true, but not to the detriment of boating or fishing. The fishermen will especially love it, because those winds which have been lousing up the angling are promising to go that-away.

Fishing, everyone will tell you, has been on the light side because of the breezes. The biggest catch was made by Don White, who brought up a whopping 26-¾ pound snook off the 25 Cent Bridge. Other catches reported to Dave Lamb at the Jensen Bait and Tackle are: Mike Burgess, ten black drum on live shrimp near the power plant; M.Ciramitaro, a nine and a half black drum off Jensen Beach Causeway; Dave Smid, a 24 pound snook on live shrimp off the Ten Cent Bridge; Peter Johnson, 12 whiting and six blues and three pompano out of the Jensen Surf.

Sand Perch, Dave says, are biting on small chum chunks at the Jensen Beach causeway. They're delicious pan fried, he says.

High and low temperatures for the past week have been:

NUTRITION NOTES FROM NATURE'S DEN

ALOE VERA

Aloe Vera is a cactus-like, semi-tropical plant belonging to the ...y family. Found all over the world, it ... brought to the New World by the ...panish explorers. It is, perhaps, one of ... oldest known and most used ...dicinal plants in the world to heal ...ns, bruises, skin abrasions, acne, ...burns, insect bites, etc.

... health, healing and beauty ...efits are attributed to the magic ...ir juice that comes from its leaves. ...he gel is 99 percent water. The ...remaining 1 percent contains more ...an 50 ingredients, including Aloin, ...esins, amino acids, saponins, ...enzymes, vitamins, enzymes, ...minerals, polysaccharides and miner... calcium, magnesium, barium, ... and bismuth.

The polysaccharide known as ...ye-cranide in combination with ...aloin is the pain reliever and ...healing agent. The polycranide is ...extracted as a powder from the aloe ... by a freeze drying method (a ...patented process). It takes 250 lbs. of ...he leaves to produce a pound of ...powder.

When a leaf is cut and put in the ...refrigerator the cut end will seal and ...this potency for several days. Once ... gel is removed from the leaf the ...it deteriorates rapidly due to enzyme ...action. The gel can be preserved by ...mixing it through a blender to make a ...juice then boiled to destroy the ...enzymes. Boiling, however, destroys ... polycranide as well and the gel is ...ineffective except as a laxative. The ...active ingredient then, is aloin, which ...is what Carter's liver pills and similar ...products are based on.

A WORD OF CAUTION – Do NOT ...use the whole leaf in making a tea or ...herbal preparation of any kind. The ...dry shell contains an irritating sub...stance injurious especially to the ...kidneys. This substance protects the ...plant from insect attacks.

There are many aloe preparations ...on the market and NATURE'S DEN at ... VILLAGE SQUARE SHOPPING ...CENTER has a wide assortment of ...these items for you to choose from. ...Open Monday through Saturday, ...from 10:00 to 5:00 and see Nature's ...Service Chest – the ALOE PLANT.

Trout-Snook are on Angler's Club agenda

Port St. Lucie Anglers Club members will hear fellow members Jack Prell and Roy Greenwalk talk about Trophy Trout and Snook during the club's next meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 3, at the North Port Marina.

Last year Greenwald won the Malmi Metropolitan Fishing Tournament with the largest trout caught in the spinning division, and Prell is currently leading this year's Met tourney in the same category.

Bob Tew, president of the PSL Angler's Club, has arranged for these and other experts to discuss fishing techniques, locations and gear at the meeting. All interested persons are invited. Refreshments will be served following the meeting. Charlie Hallander will speak on bridge fishing and Joe Carnes will talk about North Fork fishing.

Members and guests who were present for the last meeting were inspired by the guest speaker, Dr. Gary Petuit, a professor at F.I.T. He showed numerous color slides, discussed shellfishing as it is now and what to expect in the future. The slides showed many projects that are being carried out by F.I.T. An open discussion followed the presentation.

All members should mark Sunday, April 22 on their calendars as Cook-Out Day to be held at the marina between the hours of 4 to 6 p.m. Those attending will bring their own table service. Cups will be furnished. Tickets should be available by the April 3 meet. Those wishing to volunteer their services on the grill or otherwise are asked to call John Jankowski at 878-4647.

SIGN UP THIS SUNDAY FOR BIG LEAGUE BALL

Registration for the Port St. Lucie Big League team will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday, March 31, at Field One at Spartanus's Park.

The team, a young adult's division of the Little League program, will be sponsored by Helseth Engineering. All young men interested in playing baseball, who are 16, 17 or 18 years old as of July 31, 1979, are urged to register.

Watch it!
DANGER!
That ball is dangerous. It's hard and fast. It'll break and bruise; heaven help the player who takes his eye off the ball! When you see super jai-alai at Ft. Pierce, you'll see that every player watches the ball on every shot. When you play against the best, you'd better play your best. Jai-alai is dangerous, but it's got speed and action, too. There's none better than Ft. Pierce Jai-Alai. Don't miss it!

He is a past post adjutant here. Elliott, left, served in the Army Air Corps in World War One, was a charter member of the Superior, Wis. Legion Post, and was commander of the Menominee, Wis., Post 32, and for 12 years was post service officer until he moved to Jensen Beach in 1951. At right is Post 126 Commander Thomas Flanagan.

'Madama Butterfly' to be repeated in Vero Beach

Area music lovers who missed the sellout performance of the Treasure Coast Opera Society's "Madama Butterfly" will have a second chance to experience this production. The Riverside Theatre in Vero Beach has invited the Society to present "Butterfly" on Sunday, April 1, at 3 p.m.

The same roster of guest performers will be featured along with the local soloists and chorus in Puccini's tragic love story. Rose Wildes-Prather, who portrays Cio-Cio-San, will once again lead principals Carlos Barrena, Eleanor LaForge, Harry Switzer, and David Marshall from the tale's happy beginning to its tragic finale.

Tickets are available at Russell Music Stores in Searstown, Fort Pierce or Cedar Pointe Plaza, or at the box office at the Riverside Theatre in Vero Beach. For membership information and further ticket information, call 878-4141.

REBECCA DAVIS OF TEQUESTA, models an ebroidered gown of easycare cotton and polyester from the Clothes Tree. The Philippine import was one featured at the fashion showing in the famous Hilltop House, Fort Pierce. Fashion showings are a regular luncheon feature at the Hilltop House on Wednesdays.

Canoe camping is First Wednesday

If you're tired of the typical Monday-to-Friday routine, this month's First Wednesday presentation at the Environmental Studies Center will offer an interesting alternative: wilderness canoe camping. "Two Weeks in a Canoe" is the title of the presentation by Dale Jarrett to be offered at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 4 in the Center's auditorium.

Color slides and narrative will explain the pleasures and problems involved in two of Mrs. Jarrett's recent canoe trips. The first was a three-generation family trip through the Okeefenokee Swamp in winter, where the group endured sub freezing temperatures for much of the trip.

The second half of the program will recount the adventures of a four-woman tour of the 100-mile Wilderness Waterway of Everglades National Park. In this trip the women learned how to survive being stranded in their canoes for six hours on a mudflat and how to navigate fog-bound lakes by compass.

The presentation replaces the previously scheduled program on sea turtles which has been rescheduled for Wednesday, May 2. The Center's museum and wet lab will be open for visitation before and after the program. There is no charge for the series.

IRP ladies team thrash Lawnwood

Indian River Plantation's ladies B team in the Treasure Coast Tennis League thrashed Lawnwood, 6-0, in matches played Wednesday at the Hutchinson Island resort.

Hilda Pate and Helen Duval got the Plantation girls, who lost only eight games all day, off to a winning start by blanking Diane Johnson and Barbara Poznzak, 6-0, 6-0. Bryna Potsdam and Susie Buchanan dropped only one game in beating Sue Stolzer and Caroline Roland, 6-0, 6-1, while Bee Thomas and Ann Ferrer delivered another shutout by downing Ann Harkins and Dottie Damberg, 6-0, 6-0.

In the other matches, Sukey Beasley and Joy Allison stopped Jessie Brooks and Lee Martin, 6-1, 6-3, Barbara Zarella and Katie Norman topped Cleo Stern and Lola Kadivar, 6-1, 6-2, and Marge Jordan and Jacki Stanislaw won by default over Val Hentschel and Marion Neff.

Lieberth and Massey win President's Cup

Virginia Lieberth led all the way and Dick Massey rallied in the final round to win the 36-hole ladies and men's President's Cup golf tournaments played Tuesday and Wednesday at Indian River Plantation.

Mrs. Lieberth netted par 61 both times around the 18-hole layout for a score of 122 and 72 points under the Net Stableford System which gives players bonus points for scoring well on each hole. Francis Burgett and Irma MacKissic tied for second in the ladies division with 65 points after two rounds totaling seven over par.

Massey, a frequent golfing partner of Jerry Jack, saw Jack take the first day's lead in the men's division before firing a 77 on the second day to overtake Jack and win by one point, 74 to 73. Orrin Miller placed third with 66 points while George MacKissic was fourth with 64 points.

FOR HEART — Bill Owens, chairman of the Martin Heart Association, Dagne Jochem, a top winner in ass, and Dr. Richard Penick, an early round victim of the Heart Association tennis tournament at Indian River Plantation last weekend, are all smiles over the $1,000 netted by the tournament for the heart fund.

Beach and causeway may force appeal of Midport project

Martin County Commissioners decided Tuesday to ask the Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council to appeal the development order the Port St. Lucie city council approved last month for General Development Corporation's massive Midport project.

Commissioners expressed displeasure over two matters concerning the GDC project, and county administrator Jack Noble said unless GDC attorneys work out a compromise before then, the commission will request at the Thursday, April 12, meeting that the regional council appeal the development order.

Noble said county commissioners were concerned that the order did not adequately address the issue of beach access for proposed Midport residents and the issue of improvements to Indian River Drive and the Jensen Beach Causeway to handle increased traffic from Midport to the beaches.

There are seven public beach strips in Martin County which are closer to the Midport site than the closest St. Lucie County beach strip, and the latter strip only has parking for 10 cars. TCRPC staff members have in the past been critical of Port St. Lucie for not requiring GDC to come up with some form of compensation (perhaps by purchase of beachfront land for the public) for use of the beach by the expected influx of Midport residents.

Regional council staff members have also said they feel GDC should provide more compensation for improvements to Indian River Drive and the Jensen Beach Causeway to handle Midport traffic headed to and from the beaches.

The development order approved on March 13 makes no requirements of GDC regarding beaches and only requires GDC to provide some design and engineering work for Indian River Drive and the causeway.

Though TCRPC executive director Sam Shannon refused to say whether or not his staff would recommend TCRPC appeal of the Midport project until the recommendation was to be released Wednesday, Noble said one of Shannon's staff members indicated to the commission Tuesday that the recommendation will likely be to pursue an appeal.

The appeal, if made, must be filed within 45 days of the March 13 city county approval of the development order. Then, by law, the appeal process can take no longer than six months before the governor and cabinet make a final decision on the matter.

The Midport plans call for 2,001 units, including multi-family and single-family units, to be built on a 1,250-acre tract over a 10 year period. The land is east of U.S. 1 and on both sides of Walton Road. A huge shopping center plus school, church, fire, police, park, and hospital sites are included in the plans. The population at completion of the project is expected to be 5,003 persons.

The effect of the state takeover of the Jensen Beach Causeway for erosion control testing is another topic to be discussed, as is the proposed well field in the area west and south of Savanna Road and Commercial Street.

A recommendation on the future of the annual turtle watches in Jensen Beach is to be made in a report by turtle watch chairman Fred Hoeker. The state has opposed the turtle watches as being dangerous to continued turtle hatching in Hutchinson Island.

Other topics to be discussed include funding of the Independence Day celebration, a "Spring get-together", traffic, community development, tourism and purchasing.

GROWING LINES at service stations in Jensen Beach are getting common these days, and many station operators say they expect them to just get longer as allotments to the stations shrink. Limits on purchases and cut-backs in operating hours are occurring as a result of the fuel crunch. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

The road has been a menace to car suspensions for years, primarily as a result of deterioration to the road from heavy trucks delivering materials for the two nuclear power plants on Hutchinson Island.

...he job calls for resurfacing of Savanna Road from Silver Maple Road northward, through the intersection to a point just north of the Jensen Beach Plaza shopping center. Also, portions of Commercial Street on the east and west side will be resurfaced. And on all four approaches to the intersection, much needed turning lanes will be built. Other work calls for replacement of some asphalt sidewalk along the east side of Savanna.

Little concern shown in wake of nuke accident

The accident at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania seems to have caused little concern by local residents for the safety of the Hutchinson Island nuclear power plant, a random survey of the community indicates.

The Martin County Commission passed a resolution asking the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to report on the safety of the plant on a motion by Commissioner Frank Wacha.

According to Gene Van Curen, Stuart, district manager of Florida Power and Light Company, he has logged five calls in the past week relative to concern over the accident at Three Mile Island.

Martin Hodder, Miami attorney who has appealed again and again to stop construction of the second unit of the Hutchinson Island facility, announced that he planned to carry appeals to the Supreme Court. The second unit is due for completion about 1983.

However, work did halt on the second unit as four unions struck following the expiration of the laborer's contract Saturday night. The strike affects 1,400 workers at the plant who refuse to cross the picket lines.

Unit One of the Hutchinson Island plant has been shut down for refueling, an annual scheduled operation.

...lenty of gas at $1 a gallon?

...They may as well just go ahead and ...e it to a dollar a gallon and get it ...r with. Once it's a dollar, I imagine ...re will be plenty of gas," ...mented Eugene Rathgeber of ...sen Beach when asked what he ...ght of the growing lines at area ...vice stations.

...Rathgeber's sentiments seemed to ...shared by many, but not all, of the ...s questioned by The Mirror ...ently in a poll of opinions about the ... shortage.

...Earl Crawford of Sewall's Point said ... feels the shortage is real and ...mented, "We've just got to learn ...do with less energy. We've lived too ...g on cheap energy." He said in ...urope, the cost of gas has been high ...r a long time, and that America has ...en lucky so far.

...Crawford said the nation needs to ...crease its dependence on foreign oil, ...d when questioned if he'd favor ...tioning, he said he would, but feared ...t would take a large, monolithic ...easurecy to administer it" and ...ded he felt the administration had ...en unsuccessful so far in dealing ...ith the energy shortage.

...Jeanne Turner, a two year Jensen ...esident who moved here from ...Michigan, said she was in Michigan ...during the gas crisis of several years ...go and hopes it doesn't get that bad ...his time. She said she felt the gas ...nes probably won't get as long this ...-round, and expressed hope that ...ce the winter tourist season ends, ...hings will get better.

...Mike Gilliam, who owns a lot at Venture III on Hutchinson Island and who lives in Clifton Springs, N.Y., said he thinks the shortage "is a price deal." He was gassing up his truck last Friday and said he planned to park it until Monday, then return to New York, towing a mobile home behind. "I hear there is more gas up north then here, so I hope I don't have any problems finding it on the way home," he said.

Several gas station operators noted that some persons are heading back north early this year due to fright that the shortage will get worse.

Mrs. C. W. Choate, a five-year Jensen resident, said she was in Charlotte, N.C. for the last shortage and commented," I hope it doesn't get as bad here as it was there." She said she didn't think the shortage was real, but added, "I don't think they'll be satisfied until they get $1 a gallon."

Sara Brown, a clerk at the Lil Saints store on Commercial Street, said many persons with motor homes have been buying large quantities of gas, apparently getting ready for a return to northern states. She said that even though it's not her fault that the store has run out of gas a few times, people complain to her about that, and about price increases.

At the Cumberland Farms self-service pumps down the road, Karen Jones said the store got a delivery last Friday and was out of unleaded by 1 p.m. that day. She said the regular lasted through the next day, and commented that the store has been out two to three days a week lately.

A spokesman at Gold Coast Tire and Auto Center on Commercial said "we have gas. We ran out one time, but not because of a shortage." He said the station has never opened on Sundays, so the shortage won't affect that. "We're in fairly good shape," he said.

At the Riverview Gulf station on Indian River Drive, the weekday closing hour has been changed from 9 p.m. to 5 p.m., and the station is now closing on weekends, says George Cole.

Dale Engle at the Jensen Beach Texaco station on Indian River Drive said his station had been out of gas for a whole week, but he just got a supply in. His allocation from his supplier has decreased in March and April, though he says he feels the shortage isn't real. He also complained that he's having to pay as much for his gas as some of the discount stations are charging their customers. His prices are 79.9 cents for unleaded and 76.9 for regular.

Engle said the shortage is causing some folks to go back north early. He says she'll start closing at 1 p.m. on Saturdays, but also said he expected to run out of his April supply of fuel in two weeks. He plans to start limiting purchases to $10 a customer. By the way, he says he still has the flags used to indicate whether or not the station was out of gas during the shortage of a few years ago.

The Merchants station on Commercial Street closed last Friday, Saturday and Sunday because there was no gas to pump, Lloyd Hyde said the station will probably start closing on weekends in the future, and he complained that a lot of people are "topping off with $3 and $4 worth when they don't really need gas because they're afraid."

They were out of gas at Crane's Phillips 66 Garage in Rio when called Tuesday, and Eleanor Crane said even her supplier is out of gas. The station is not normally open on weekends, she said.

The Stell station on U.S. 1 north of Stuart has run out a few times, but plans to stay open on weekends when there is gas to sell.

The Cumberland Farms store on Commercial has run out several times, as have other Cumberland Farms stores in the area. So has the Lil Saints store on Commercial.

In Port St. Lucie, limits on the amount of gas purchases have been common at most all stations, and shut-downs on weekends, especially Sundays, are prevalent. Additionally, the stations are closing earlier on other days and most have run out of gas at one time or another.

Gas crunch worsens

BY BOB FRYER

As the lines at gas stations are starting to get longer, the supply of gas to local stations seems to be getting smaller.

A number of local stations have reported running out of fuel lately, and this has resulted in moves by station operators to close down on Sundays and sometimes on Saturdays, and to cut operating hours. Limits on the amount of gas a customer can purchase are also beginning to crop up.

A survey of many local stations indicated the following conditions: Skyline Standard on Commercial Street ran out of gas and had to close two days last week. On Tuesday, Bill Crooks said he expected to run out that night and said he probably wouldn't get a new supply until Monday, April 16th. "So, until then, our pumps will be closed."

Crooks said he contemplates no limiting of amounts of purchases. "We'll just sell until we run out again," he said, but added he wouldn't keep the station open on weekends once more gas arrives.

There are also no limits on purchases at the Snook Nook, but the bait and tackle store is now closing pumps on Sundays due to the shortage.

Mirror's Coloring Contest

Kids, if you're a student at Port St. Lucie Elementary School or Jensen Beach Elementary, here's your chance to have a little fun and possibly win some money too.

The Mirror is conducting an Easter Coloring Contest for kindergarten through fifth grade children in the two schools. An entry blank, including a sketch to be colored, appears in today's issue of The Mirror on page 15.

A first, second and third prize will be awarded for each grade level for students in each school. Port St. Lucie students will compete only against Port St. Lucie students, and Jensen Beach students will compete only with their classmates. Each first prize is $5, while second and third place winners will each receive $1. Additionally, a grand prize of an additional $10 will be given for the best overall entry from each school.

Students may use crayons, paint or water colors on the Easter sketch.

Only one entry per person is allowed, and the deadline for turning in entries is noon on Saturday, April 7. Entries should be turned in at stores that are sponsoring the contest. A list of stores sponsoring the contest is included on the entry blank.

No relatives of Mirror employees are eligible to enter.

Winners will be announced in the April 12th issue of The Mirror.

The name, address, phone number and grade level of each entrant should be clearly printed on the entry blanks.

PSL man shot at Windjammer Lounge, two men arrested

Nicholas Uhl, 32, of Port St. Lucie was shot in his head and arm during an alleged argument at the Windjammer Lounge on Hutchinson Island Sunday night.

Uhl was listed in satisfactory condition at Martin Memorial Hospital Tuesday evening, and two Perry, Florida men have been arrested on a charge of attempted murder in connection with the shooting.

St. Lucie County Sheriff's officials report Uhl and Jimmy Grover Taylor, 39, of Perry, allegedly got into an argument at the lounge and Uhl slapped Taylor. Deputies say Taylor's friend, Edward Tommy Lundy, 31, of Perry, allegedly passed a gun to Taylor and that three shots were fired.

Lawmen say Taylor and Lundy fled the bar in a truck and that an alert was broadcast to policemen to be on the lookout for the truck.

Deputy Jack Ivy spotted a truck fitting the description as the truck was headed north on Indian River Drive near Walton Road. He called for a roadblock and one was set up on the drive at Midway Road. The truck stopped near the roadblock and Taylor and Lundy were arrested.

They were each released Monday after posting $6000 bonds.

Washington official talks to Martin group

BY RAYMOND OWEN
A narrator at the Martin County Taping Studio

"If I were to condense my message to you in the fewest words possible it would be 'love of excellence.'"

So said William West, a training specialist from the Library of Congress in Washington, who spoke to the narrators, monitors and reviewers Wednesday afternoon in the new quarters of the Martin County Taping Studio in Jensen Beach.

Bill is eminently well qualified to explain what the consumer of Talking Books appreciates. Bill is totally blind.

"Your consumer has no way of knowing," he said, "what is on the printed page. The Library of Congress maintains standards of excellence not equalled by any country in the world so that he, the consumer, may have absolute confidence in the true presentation of the author's intent and the accuracy of pronunciation."

When asked how the narrator can produce a book to the Library's standards, he replied: "1. No mistakes; 2. Clarity (easy to understand); 3. Pleasant voice."

"The good narrator," he added, "has been blessed with a superior vocal capability; the monitor and reviewer are master diplomats and skillful technicians who assist the narrator to maintain the excellence required for a good Talking Book. This highly specialized team of three, supported by the director of the studio at Martin County have that inner drive for excellence."

West spoke of artistic accuracy. The narrator and his monitor must reflect the intent of the author and have sensitivity for the spoken language. They will be guided to excellent recording by their love of excellence.

The primary purpose of West's visit to Jensen Beach was to check the new recording booths and other equipment that has been recently installed by Walter Gojanovich and his Telephone Pioneers of America. West declared the booths exceed Library of Congress minimum standards. He was able to audition a few of the narrators and has taken a sampling of tapes with him for constructive evaluation.

Mrs. Marjorie March, who had worked with West in the Washington studio of the Library of Congress, will carry on the challenge he laid down. Mrs. March is the competent director of the local studio.

West's final word to the local volunteers was that they never forget that the Talking Book is a vital element to the survival of the consumer.

Letter to the editor

To the editor:

Your editorial on March 23, 1979, concerning the Teamsters Union and Sandpiper Bay Resort, has some very unfair and untrue remarks concerning a lot of people, who are members of the Teamsters Union, who live and work in this area, and who are good law abiding citizens of the community.

You fail to state the whole truth concerning the employees of Sandpiper Bay. These working people went to the Teamsters Union for help, because they knew that management was not being fair with them.

God help any employee who approached management with an issue. He would be "dumped" in a hurry.

You also failed to state the real problem. The greed of management blinded them to see the rights of working people, to a decent wage and good working conditions.

To further support my remarks I refer you to a letter dated March 25, 1979, from a Mr. Bill Pullen, general manager of Sandpiper, to all employees. In this letter he admits that management has treated the employees unjustly, and I submit his letter as evidence (Attached).

You used the word "Thugdom." I protest this remark very strongly. I've been a member of the Teamster Union since 1946 and a resident of Jensen Beach since 1972 and I know that people of Jensen Beach don't refer to me as a "thug." Are all the employees of United Parcel Services "thugs"? Are all the Teamsters employed at Pasco Services on Hutchinson Island Nuclear Plant "thugs"?

These people who you refer to as "thugs" are the very ones who deliver to your office in Jensen Beach and people who buy your newspaper and help support you and your newspaper.

Bear in mind, these so called Union "Thugs" are the ones who spend their wages and help promote the economy of the area.

QUESTION:

I am preparing a paper on trends in individual investor behavior. Would you comment on what you consider the near-term future of apartment house investments. Will the demand for apartment dwellings hold up?

ANSWER:

All of the available information on trends indicates that most experts expect apartment house construction to account for a higher and higher share of residential housing starts. The demand for apartments has increased dramatically over the past few years, and builders can't currently fill the demand at costs which are commensurate with return.

Certain groups which account for an increasing bulk of the population, such as married couples, older couples with grown children, and singles, are finding apartment living quite attractive. In addition, there is a trend toward living in a smaller amount of space because of economies in the cost to acquire and cost to maintain.

With these trends most experts expect a continuing and growing attractiveness in apartment house investments.

What is amounts to is simply an illustration of the law of supply and demand. If it is not economical to increase the supply of apartment dwellings, then the value of the existing supply of apartment dwelling units should increase as the demand increases. For these reasons, well-selected apartment properties should generally prove to be sound investments over the next few years.

Port St. Lucie's Safioti wins Hand-A-Thon

BY DONNIE WILKIE

FORT PIERCE — When it seemed as if the agony was over, it wasn't. And when it seemed as if it would never end, it did– with a sudden, surprising end at 3:38 a.m. Tuesday morning.

Port St. Lucie's Nancy Safioti, who for hours loomed as the overwhelming favorite with only two contestants remaining, won the Fort Pierce Toyota-WQVV Hand-A-Thon, as Fort Pierce's Edwin Smith, representing Rochester Furniture, dropped out of the running.

Safioti, who was picked as the Stuart Caboose's entrant, won the stated first prize of a 1979 Toyota Celica, as well as many other prizes which were donated by the businesses involved in the event. One such donation came from Jeanius in Fort Pierce, which gave the winner a three-day, two night trip to Las Vegas (everything paid for two people, including gambling money).

Late in the competition, Safioti earned five hundred dollars for wearing a "Joker's Wild" T-Shirt for one hour, and eventually winning the event.

The two survivors had withstood 48 hours, 38 minutes of painful stillness, watching as each of the other 28 starters fell by the wayside. Finally, his mind feeling the effects of the third straight day without any sleep, Smith began tinkering with the handle on the passengers' door of the first prize, a 1979 Toyota Celica worth over six thousand dollars.

The judges immediately disqualified Smith, who had violated the rule stating that no contestant may place both hands on the car unless warning the judges of the action beforehand.

NANCY SAFFIOTI

"Every time I looked over at him in the last few hours, I kept thinking we'd be jamming a long time," said a glassy-eyed Safioti after the victory, which in 84 hours, 38 minutes, shattered the previous local record, but fell short of the Guiness World Record by some fourteen hours.

"I really don't know how I did it,"

Mendieta will now receive specialized training in the aircraft equipment maintenance field. The airman is a 1978 graduate of Brewster (N.Y.) High School.

BEWARE! the "RUST MONSTER"
He works 24 hours a day

QUESTION
How and where does rust start?
ANSWER
Rust starts anywhere. Rust is formed by the union of oxygen in the air with iron or steel by a process called oxidation. Moisture is an important agent in producing the change. Anywhere you have unprotected metal parts, oxygen, and moisture, you can - and probably will have - rust, but rust may not always be evident. Rust can form inside hollow metal parts, below metal surfaces, and inside hidden seams.

NOW JUST THINK A MINUTE. Would you settle for a new boat if you couldn't find a used that pleased you? They're too expensive? Hogwash, pshaw and other oldfashioned expressions. That's an oldfashioned idea. A new boat and motor is a better idea because you, the purchaser, are absolved of responsibility in a breakdown or a defect. Who's going to help you when your used engine breaks down? Who's going to pay the repair bill? The dealer? No way.

We have used boats for sale. We'll sell you one. But we'd rather sell you a new one because we want you to be happy, content with the knowledge that your Cobia, Boston Whaler, or Johnson motor is fully warranted. Let us pay the extras. DON'T PAY NEW BOAT PRICES FOR USED BOATS.

Men's championship is still up for grabs

The championship of the Sandpiper Bay Men's Golf Association is "up-for-grabs" this year and should be closely contested by a half dozen low handicap swingers including a former titleholder, Col. Don McConnell, Col. Jim Healey, Col. Sam Dewhirst, Marv Jensen, Bill Peach, Dan Smozanek and Dick Whiting.

Last year's champ, Paul Aman is not included in the lineup this year and veteran followers of the game here are making Dick Whiting a favorite.

A comparative newcomer to the area, Whiting carries many golfing credits with him, having competed with the top amateurs in the Central States area for many years. The three retired colonels, McConnell, Healey and Dewhirst look to be in the thick throughout the 54-hole play on the Saints course, March 28, and April 5 and 12. All mentioned maintain low handicaps ranging from 4 to 8. The annual three day event is divided into four flights on a no handicap allowance.

Flights included: Championship 0-13 handicaps; 14-18 handicaps; 19-23 handicaps and the 2- and over handicaps.

Tom Chapman, chairman of the tournament committee reports that play throughout the season has been very heavy in the association events with an average of more than 180 golfers competing in the association's weekly events. The group has reached its limit of 350 members and already has a waiting list of more than 40 hopefuls.

Denny "the Monsignor" Long, a transplant from the Chicago, Ill area, a "dark horse" came out of the pack to tie for the first round lead in the championship flight with a net round of 77, deadlocking with Ed Leary, Col Don McConnell and Dick Whiting.

Carl Strock goes into the second week's play leading the first flighters with a score of 80 followed by Roy Hannum and Bill Kelso, each two strokes back while Jack Dink took the lead in the 2nd flight with a 88 followed by Graydon Smith, 98.

The third flighters are being paced by Rudy Brodman with 92, Sid Maves and Bill Hyde each with 94.

The low net scores for the day's play included a four way tie at 68 being shared by Bill Kelso, Col. Vic Wagner, Jim Premo and Carl Stock. Other daily prize winners in the net scoring department included, Denny Long, 67; Charles McNabb, Roy Hannum, Bill Kelch, and Rudy Brodman at 68. The sixty-niners were Ed Leary, Bert McDonnell, Vern Farrar, Jack Pink, Graydon Smith, Nels Howery and Bill Hyde.

At low net 70 were Sid Naves, Ray Mager, Frank Branca, and at 71 were Ben Libson, Al Kasell, Don McConnell and Gordon Ferguson.

Sandpiper Bay Ladies Golf

On March 27 the daily event at Sandpiper Bay Ladies Golf Association of Port St. Lucie was a "low net" inflights. Results were:

1st flight: 67 Kay Boas, 69 Jan Werges, Tie-72 Ros Vroman and Ann Thatcher.

2nd flight: 65 Emily Hofmeister, 68 Sally Lesher, 69 Fran Heiden, 70 Millie Cosentino.

3rd flight: 67 Irene Helmer, 70 Barb Ferguson, 73 Mary Kuhn, Tie-75 Helene Collins, Blanche Kaufman, Lea Bonne.

4th flight: 68 Ethel Osborne, 70 Sylva Barnwell, tie-71 Pearl Greaser and Gret Dalton, 72 Ruth Neighbours.

5th flight: 66 Bert Shaw, tie-68 Emma Krecke and Cora Hodock, tie-70 Dorothy Wolford and Doris Muller.

6th flight: tie 71 Grace Van Nostrand and Johanna Howery, tie-72 Iva Dean Bouck and Fran Hassell-Wade, tie 73-Ruth Snyder and Kitty Carlisle.

Results of the 1st round of club championship at Sandpiper Bay Saints Golf Course were:

Championship flight: 77 Jan Werges, 83 Kay Boaz.

1st flight: 86 Emma Hoffmeister, 90 Ann Thatcher.

2nd flight: tie-91 Irene Helmer and Sally Lesher, 93 Leona Green.

3rd flight: 95 Ethel Osborne, 97 Eylva Barnwell.

4th flight: 96 Bert Shaw, 98 Emma Krecke.

5th flight: 102 Dorothy Wolford, 108 Marquerite Hayde.

6th flight: 107 Iva Dean Bouck, 108 Marion Brandon.

Bond-Tilton go to Atlanta

BY BOB FRYER

Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton of Jensen Beach will renew their bid for this year's International Motor Sports Association driver's championship for the small-engine (GTU) class of cars this Sunday at Road Atlanta.

Currently, Bond and Tilton hold a healthy lead in the points standings over other GTU competitors, based on their third-in-class finish at the 24 Hours of Daytona and their class victory at the 12 Hours of Sebring. They each have 32 points, and their closest competitors have 20 points.

Road Atlanta is the third event on IMSA's calendar of 18 races this year, and since the GTU race this Sunday is a short one, many new entries are expected.

In past years, Datsun Z cars have performed well in GTU races of short duration and have generally avoided the longer ones, where the reliability of the Porsche 911s has prevailed for years. Three Z cars with top drivers are entered at Road Atlanta, and last year's GTU driver champ, Dave White of Tampa, has switched from his Porsche 911 to a BMW 320i for Road Atlanta. Three Mazda RX-7s, a new car that performed well at Daytona, will also enter Road Atlanta.

Since Bond and Tilton made such a good start in the new IMSA season, their sponsor is going to pay for the team to make a trip out West to enter three races after Road Atlanta.

In past years, without sponsorship of E.J. Pruitt and Sons (a bicycle emporium in West Palm), finances prohibited the Jensen team from entering many of the far-away IMSA races.

Of prime concern at Road Atlanta will be how well the Bond-Tilton Porsche 911 does in a short race. When it comes to endurance, the team is hard to beat, but in the short races, speed is often a greater asset than endurance. Most of the IMSA races are relatively short, so Road Atlanta could tell much about how good the Jensen team's chances are of taking the 1979 driver's crown.

CHAMPIONS — Shelly Walter and Carol Rafter defeated Polly Pharo and Connie Falkenburg 6-4, 6-1 to take the A division of the Martin County Heart Association tennis tournament, helping to raise $1,000 for the heart fund. The tourney was held at Indian River Plantation.

Optimists planning Junior golf tourney

The Optimist Club of Jensen Beach is conducting a golf tournament for area youth on April 7, at 1 p.m. at the Martin County Golf & Country Club. All entrants must be 15 years of age, but not more than 17 by midnight of July 20, 1979. Separate contests will be held for boys and girls. They will both be 18 hole contests.

The top three qualifiers from the boys and girls contests will compete in the Regional Tournament to be held in Hollywood in early May. The top three qualifiers from this tournament (both boys and girls) will advance to the State Finals to be held in Orlando on May 19.

The State Champion in each division will be sent to the Optimist Junior World Golf Championships in San Diego, California, July 17-20.

The only expense to the contestants will be a $2.00 entry fee. Certificates will be awarded the winners at the Zone and Regional levels and trophies will be presented to the top three winners at the State Finals. Anyone interested in participating in this program kindly contact Bill Mang, contest chairman, phone 334-0787.

NUTRITION NOTES FROM NATURE'S DEN

Many times people ask us, "Just what do you mean by "Natural Foods?"

Well, the answer is, natural foods are grown on soil fertilized with natural items, such as compost, manure, natural lime and rock phosphates. Today, most farmers are using high-powered non-natural chemical fertilizers, which give a quick, lucrious growth but fail to put the same quality in the food which you find from growth on naturally-treated soil. Proper natural foods are those not sprayed with poisonous insecticides. So many foods today have been sprayed with one or more poisonous sprays, the residues of which can get into our systems. Natural foods are unrefined, un-pasteurized, un-fragmented and un-adulterated with chemicals. 2000 or more chemicals are being used in our daily foods as coloring agents, buffers, hardeners, thickeners, thinners, softeners, etc. Natural foods still retain their original life as signified by enzyme factors and keep their natural inter-relationship with their original vitamin complexes, organic minerals, proteins, carbohydrates and fats. Whenever possible they should be eaten raw.

How can you tell if a food is "natural?" That is, one that has not been tampered with to prolong its shelf-life, etc.? The "life" of food is in its enzymes. When a food retains its enzymes it attracts other forms of life, like bugs, fungus, moulds, worms and bacteria. We should eat these food that do spoil, rot, sour, ferment, mildew or "go bad", but, of course, we should cut them before this happens! Remember, if nature's tiny creatures refuse to eat a food, then this is your guide to avoid it also.

Good nutrition depends on the quality of food as found through a natural state, not the quantity. For instance, in India where many people starve because there isn't enough food to go around, the food they do have is often found in its natural state and adequate as to quality, if not as to quantity. In India there is only a small fraction of the heart trouble found in the U.S. In China, where the people eat more of their food in its natural state than our highly-processed, refined and chemically-treated food, a doctor may never see a single instance of a bad heart condition in his practice.

Here at NATURE'S DEN we strive to have that all our food is in its natural state, grown on organic soils and devoid of chemicals of any kind. We don't claim super powers for our products. (We let our customers do that). The results of eating natural foods are nutritional only. Here is a simple three-step program to help your body heal itself.

1) Keep the body clean on the inside.
2) Eat more natural foods with at least 50 percent eaten raw.
3) Compensate for any deficiencies from eating "empty calorie" food with natural vitamin and mineral supplements.

Trinity Church holds Consecration

A Consecration Service was held in the sanctuary of the Trinity United Methodist Church Sunday, April 1, in the new church facility at 2221 NE Savanna Road, Jensen Beach.

The service was led by Rev. D. Clark Thompson, pastor of Trinity, and included special music, "The Twenty-fourth Psalm," by the Chancel Choir, The Order of Consecration led by Rev. Edward Dinkins, Jr., the Sermon "The Church's One Foundation by Bishop James W. Henley, and the Offertory solo by Rosalie Bryson.

Bishop Henley presided over the Florida Methodist Conference when Trinity was formed as a church in 1960, and participated not only in the consecration of but the building of the old Trinity facility on Arch Street. He retired from the ministry in July 1972.

Rev. Dinkins is the District Superintendent of the Melbourne District of the Florida Methodist Conference, of which Trinity is a part, and he has worked closely with Trinity in their relocation.

At the beginning of the service, attended by 370 members and guests, Rev. Thompson introduced Frank Wacha, chairman of the Martin County Commission, who was present for the service, as well as Ron Kirchman, contractor for the construction of Trinity's new facility. Rev. Thompson also read greetings from the following persons who had been invited to the Consecration Service, but unable to attend: The White House; Skip Bafalis, House of U.S. Representatives; Governor Bob Graham; Rev. Neil Gunsalaus, past minister of Trinity now at Lake Placid, Fla.; Rev. Henry Blackburn, former District Superintendent of West Palm Beach District of Florida Methodist Conference at the time of the consecration of the old Trinity facility; and, Rev. Charles Hamilton, Pompano Beach, who led Trinity congregation in a financial campaign a year ago.

At the end of the service, a reception was held by the young adult Kitchen Class for all attending.

The regular monthly meeting of the United Methodist Women was held at 9:30 a.m., Monday, April 2, 1979 in the Fellowship Hall of Trinity United Methodist Church on Savanna Road with 43 members and guests present.

A business meeting preceded the program, which included an Easter Playlet presented by Ruth Bowden, Esther Jiran, Ruth Tomasick and Alice Simes. Mabel Grant sang "The Old Rugged Cross."

Hostesses for the meeting were Ruth Baker, Iva Smith and Ruth Tomasik.

Good Friday services at 1 p.m. on April 13

Theme of the program will be "The Seven Last Words." An offering will be taken by the Ministerial Association for transient persons.

Although several churches in the area will be having their own services, this is the only community-wide service being held. A nursery will be open for small children during this one-hour service. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Stuart National and Salerno National Banks plan merger

Jack T. Williams, president of Stuart National Bank, and Charles R. Harris, president of Port Salerno National Bank, jointly announced a plan to merge Port Salerno National bank into Stuart National Bank.

According to Williams and Harris, the boards of directors of both banks have unanimously agreed to recommend the proposed merger to the shareholders of both institutions. Prior to the submission of the merger plan to shareholders, a preliminary approval is required from the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency. Upon consent of a majority of the shareholders, the plan is subject to final approval by the Office of the Comptroller.

The present combined resources of the two banks are approximately $120,000,000 and if the proposed merger is completed Stuart National Bank will have seven office locations in Martin County.

According to Williams and Harris, the proposed merger will benefit customers and shareholders of the two banks because it will result in an expanded number of offices for the customers of each institution, greater depth of service and improved efficiency of operation. There will be no personnel changes due to the merger, according to officials.

Port Salerno National Bank has been an affiliate of Stuart National Bank since its founding in 1973.

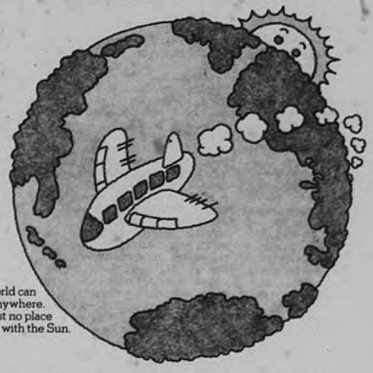
IF YOU'RE TRYING TO SAVE, YOU'RE NOT ALONE.

One savings account doesn't fit all. The fact is, we have savings accounts to fit everyone's every need. They're all in this brochure and all available at Sun Bank. Come get one. We'll give you a perfect fit.

MEMBER F.D.I.C.

What's in this for you? $40,000 insurance on your savings. It doesn't cost you anything. And it's nice to know it's there.

See the family on vacation? They set up a special savings account to get them there. Very smart. Okay, nobody move now... CLICK!



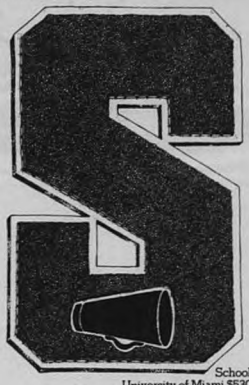
Where in the world can savings get you? Anywhere. There's just no place on earth you can't get with the Sun.

1. Instruct Sun Bank to transfer given amount on given day each month from checking account to savings account.
2. Record automatic deductions in checkbook, avoiding temptation, building savings.
3. At year's end, count accumulated savings.

SAV-O-MATIC

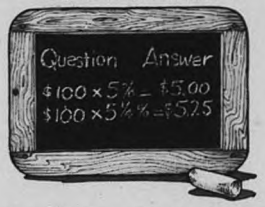
The moon shines bright on SunBank 24 machines across the state. So when you want your savings, the Sun is up all through the night. Weekends and holidays, too. You want convenience? You want the Sun.

What's a nest egg? Everything it's cracked up to be. It's financial security for whatever, whenever; it's peace of mind. And remember: nest eggs grow in the Sun.



This is the house that Jack bought, thanks to his Sun Bank savings. His savings helped him furnish it, repair it and add to it, too. Is there any way under the Sun you can do the same? You bet there is.

"What," asked the math teacher, "is the difference in interest between a bank and a savings and loan on a regular savings account?"
"A quarter of a percent," the student replied.
"Correct," said the teacher. "Now, how much does ¼% earn on $100 in a year?"
"$4.00?" queried the student. "3.00? $2.50?"
"Wrong," said the teacher. "It's about 25¢."



School year 1978, tuition, room and board: Harvard $7500; Duke $5750; University of Miami $5300; Notre Dame $5140; University of Florida $3420; Florida State University $3100; And you still need a reason to save?

SOUND: Phone being dialed; ringing in receiver.
VOICE: Sun Bank. May I help you?
YOU: Hello. (CHOICE 1) Please transfer (state proper amount) from my Sun Bank checking to my Sun Bank savings. (OR CHOICE 2) Please transfer (state proper amount) from my Sun Bank savings to my Sun Bank checking.
VOICE: Certainly.
YOU: Thank you.
VOICE: You're welcome. Goodbye.
SOUND: Phone hanging up.

Into each life, they say, some rain must fall. But when you're saving with us, the Sun comes shining through.

At Sun Bank, we pay the highest interest rate allowed by law. And we do it on every savings account we have.

"Gosh, Hal!" said Tom, excitedly. "How did you ever get a swell boat like this?"
"Nothing to it, chum," Hal responded. "I just put my mind to it and saved at Sun Bank."
"Sun Bank savings!" exclaimed Tom. "There's the way to that computerized tennis racquet I've been planning..." (to be continued)

What are some interesting no risk plans for $500 or more? How much can your money earn in 6 months? In 30 days? For the answers to these intriguing questions, ask about Sun Bank certificates of deposit.

If you're trying to save, you're not alone at all. Thousands of Floridians are doing the same thing. In all sorts of ways. For all sorts of reasons. At Sun Bank, we do everything we can to help you save. And we pay the highest interest allowed by law. So come to the Sun. With our help, you can stop trying to save. And start doing it.

Record number of boats are blessed in ceremony

BY DICK CAMPBELL

Just before and after the eighth annual "Blessing of the Fleet" last Saturday, motorists traveling across the Evans Crary Bridge must have done quite a bit of blessing themselves. Traffic backed up both ways as beach bound bathers waited for sailboats and yachts to clear the raised span.

But all was a festive celebration as the over 300 boats that filled the St. Lucie River south of the bridge. Small boats, large boats, sailboats, power boats, canoes . . . all held a party theme as the pontoon boat of the Port Salerno Fire Department chugged back and forth among the boats circling and anchoring near the 110' Cygnus review boat and the Fran E communications charter boat.

Both the Cygnus and the Fran E were brought to the review by Ralph and Frances Evisrudo, hosts to the blessing of the fleet. Evisrudo planned to have his 116' Chanticleer for the afternoon, but it was still in Miami for repair and renovation.

All CB channels were buzzing with directions to the sixteen different organizations participating in the parade of boats. The parade took more than two hours, and featured both outlandish and beautiful decorations.

At 2 p.m., Rabbi Mel Hecht, Fr. Anthony Riffel and Rev. John DiGangi held the traditional blessing, which was broadcast over WMCF-FM. They then blessed and waved at individual boats throughout the parade as 35 guests of the Evisrudos watched and wined and dined aboard the smartly dressed Cygnus.

Evans Crary, Jr., Tom Weber and Marian Monroe judged the parade for many awards to be presented the following day.

The best decorated craft was judged to be the Wind Rose, owned by Jim Stewart and Tom Wetzel, representing the St. Lucie Sailing Club. Second place went to the Anchorage Yacht Club's Sempre, owned by Fred Stunt, and third went to another Anchorage Yacht Club entry, the Shangri La, owned by Dick McCaffey.

The Saints and Sinners Yacht Club, which featured costumed hosters dressed as either angels or devils, had the highest percentage of hosters in the parade. The Anchorage again won with the most decorated boats.

The 301 boats that participated in the parade topped all previous figures of the event, which has grown steadily since its founding.

Even after the parade had finished, the hosters rafted and celebrated together, slowly winding their way up or down the St. Lucie to their home port. The afternoon was perfect, with even the twenty-knot winds helping flags and bunting to flutter a salute to the event.

GDC pays $1,048,510 in property taxes

Daniel Knowles received a check for $1,048,510 last Friday, but he won't get to spend it on anything.

Knowles, tax collector for St. Lucie County, received the check from Cap Cole, the general manager of Port St. Lucie for General Development Corporation.

The check represents the amount of property taxes charged to GDC last year for all of GDC's land in the county.

The money goes into the county general fund, and county commissioners have already decided how to spend it — when they adopted this year's budget last September.

Chamber opposes traffic, commercial

BY DICK CAMPBELL

Opposition to the north county comprehensive plan mounted Monday night as Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce directors passed two resolutions objecting to the lack of a traffic routing system and to a wide, six-hundred foot deep strip of commercial zoning from Warner Creek to U.S.1.

The comprehensive plan projects a 74,000 population in the area.

The opposition was led by Fred Meeker, who cited the lack of a transportation plan, the loss of roads bisecting the large land mass north and south of Commercial Street, and failure to plan four-laning of Commercial from Savanna Road to U.S.1.

Meeker also objected to the change in the plan that would allow shopping centers to proliferate along the three mile stretch on both sides of the road, even though the plan calls for service roads alongside the centers.

County Commissioner Frank Wacha, who the Chamber announced would be at the meeting to discuss the plan, did not appear. Wacha had told The Mirror last week that he had not been asked to be there, and added that he already had other plans for Monday night.

Wacha is certain to be at the Wednesday night (tonight) public hearing on the north county comprehensive plan at Hoke Hall of First Federal of Martin County in Jensen Beach. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. The results of the meeting will be published next week.

Also to be at the meeting will be Alvin Hendry, district one representative on the Martin County Planning and Zoning Board. Hendry admitted to The Mirror Tuesday that he had not seen the new, rewritten plan for the north county area before Monday, and said the planning and zoning board had not reviewed it.

"Did your board or you have anything to do with the revised plan?" Hendry was asked.

"Nope," he answered.

"Were you asked by the county commission to work on it?"

"Nope."

Hendry said that the board was advisory to the commission, and he believed that the commissioners wanted to handle the comprehensive plan themselves.

The Chambes directors heard Meeker tell of a list of roads serving the north county area that had been abandoned. He outlined that only a north-south road on a mid-point section line would be constructed, and Cuthbert Road extended to South Savanna Road on the plan. Also, Britt Road would be extended to Savanna Road.

Previously, planning indicated that there would be no more north-south and east-west roads, including roads that would offer crossings of the FEC Railroad tracks near Park Road.

The new plan does meet a previous objection to the phasing out of businesses along SR 707 and Indian River Drive by lumping all of them into a commercial-residential character.

The Chamber resolutions passed Monday night ask the county to include a complete transportation plan with the comprehensive plan, and the elimination of the commercial strip along Commercial Street from Warner Creek to Main Avenue, near U.S.1.

Jensen churches plan variety of Easter services

BY BOB FRYER

The death and resurrection of Jesus Christ will be observed by many Christian churches in the Jensen Beach area this week, with several sunrise services planned on Easter Sunday.

The annual Good Friday Community Service will be held this year in the new facilities of Trinity United Methodist Church, 2221 N.E. Savannah Road in Jensen Beach. The program begins promptly at 1:00 p.m. led by the Martin County Community Chorus, whose director is Mrs. Esther Plylor. Assisting the chorus will be representative ministers of the Martin County Ministerial Association: Rev. D. Clark Thompson, Rev. Grover C. Henley, Dr. John DiGangi, Dr. Carl E. Pollhein, Rev. A. V. Socker, and Rev. Robert E. Lee. Theme of the program will be "The Seven Last Words."

An offering will be taken by the Ministerial Association for transient persons. Although several churches in the area will be having their own services, this is the only community-wide service being held. A nursery will be open for small children during this one-hour service. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Sunrise services on Easter Sunday will be held at Ocean Breeze Park, at the Jensen Public Beach, at Sandpiper Bay in Port St. Lucie, and at the First United Presbyterian Church in North River Shores.

Trinity United Methodist Church will hold its 14th annual Easter Sunrise Service at the ocean on Jensen's Turtle Watch Beach, Easter Sunday, at 6 a.m. The service will include special music by Rosalie Bryson and the sermon will be delivered by Rev. D. Clark Thompson.

This Sunrise Service on the Beach has become a traditional part of Jensen Beach's community life.

The second annual Easter Sunday sunrise service will be held at Sandpiper Bay Resort, with the Rev. A. V. Socker of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church of Jensen Beach officiating.

The service begins at sunrise (around 6 a.m.) at Green Ridge Point, directly behind the main hotel complex. Should there be inclement weather, the non-denominational service will be held in the Florida

Ballroom in the conference center across the street from the hotel.

A non-denominational Easter Sunday sunrise service will be held at 7:30 a.m. at the Ocean Breeze Park clubroom, with Rev. Milton Fronsoe of Jensen Beach Christian Church officiating.

And, a sunrise service will be conducted at 7 a.m. at the grounds of the First United Presbyterian Church in North River Shores. Dr. Carl Pollbein will officiate, and a breakfast will follow the service.

Aside from sunrise services and the community Good Friday service, area churches are scheduling many other activities from now through Easter Sunday. Here is a list of the services planned:

The North Stuart Baptist Church will participate in the community Good Friday service, and on Sunday morning will have worship services at 8:30 and 11 a.m., with Sunday school at 9:30 a.m. Special Easter music will be presented Sunday night at 7:30.

First Baptist Church of Jensen Beach will also participate in the community Good Friday service at Trinity United Methodist. And, on Sunday, an Easter service will be conducted at 11 a.m.

At St. Martin Catholic Church in Jensen Beach, a solemn liturgy is planned for noon on Good Friday, with confessions planned from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and a "Stations of the Cross" ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

On Saturday confessions will be from 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., when the solemn Easter Vigil Mass will be held. Sunday masses are planned at 7:45 a.m., 9 a.m., and 11:30 a.m.

The Jensen Beach Christian Church will hold Easter services at 9:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m., and special Easter music will be provided.

The Jensen Beach Community Church is participating in the community Good Friday service and will hold Easter services at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. Sunday.

The All Saints Episcopal Church in Jensen Beach will have a holy communion at 7:30 p.m. on Maundy Thursday. "The Seven Last Words" is the title of a service to be conducted from noon to 3 p.m. Friday. An Easter Vigil service is planned for 8:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday services will be at 7:30 a.m., 9:15 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Jensen Beach plans holy communion at 7:30 p.m. Maundy Thursday. The church will be open for prayer all day Good Friday, with a Tenebrae service planned for 7:30 that evening.

The church's youth group is planning a breakfast from 7 a.m. to 8:15 a.m. Sunday, and regular Easter services will be given at 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Maundy Thursday communion services will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Trinity United Methodist Church in Jensen Beach.

The annual Good Friday Community Services will be held this year at Trinity, beginning at 1 p.m., featuring the Martin County Community Chorus and sponsored by the Martin County Ministerial Association. The theme of the Good Friday program will be "The Seven Last Words."

At 7:30 p.m., Friday, a Tenebrae Service will be presented. Joyce Rathgeber, president of Trinity Youth urges all members and friends to attend.

On Easter Sunday, the regular Easter worship services will be held at 8:30 and 11 a.m.

The First United Presbytarian Church in North River Shores plans a communion service at 7:30 p.m. Maundy Thursday, and will hold its regular Easter service at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Jehovah's Witnesses worshipers were to have commemorated the death of Jesus Christ at the various Kingdom Halls at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 11.

Coloring contest deadline extended

We goofed.

We're not sure how we did it, but we managed to state on the entry blanks for The Mirror's Easter Coloring Contest that the deadline for turning contest entries in to sponsoring stores was noon on Saturday, April 12.

There is no Saturday, April 12 this year. We had planned to make the contest deadline on noon of last Saturday (April 7) and to publish a list of contest winners on Thursday, April 12th. Since we flubbed, we have decided extend the contest deadline to noon on Saturday, April 14. Winners will be announced in our Thursday, April 19th edition.

So, kids, if you haven't turned in your entry yet, do so soon. Already, scores of entries have been received, and many of the entries show signs of high-quality work.

Waterman to speak at FIT on salvage of sunken treasure ship

Stan Waterman, world reknown underwater photographer and explorer, will fly directly from the wreck of the 17th century Spanish galleon "Concepcion" to Florida Institute of Technology's Jensen Beach Campus where he will serve as key note speaker at this year's Underwater Symposium.

Waterman has received exclusive rights to film the recovery of treasure and artifacts from the wreck, which sank in 1641 some 80 miles north of the Dominican Republic. To date, the "Concepcion" has yielded more than $500,000 worth of treasure to her salvors.

The symposium, sponsored by the Blue Water Dive Club and F.I.T., will be held Saturday, April 14 beginning at 10 a.m. In addition to Waterman, the event will feature Dr. Donald Atwood, director of NOAA's Ocean Chemistry Lab who will deliver a "State of the Oceans Address".

Other guest speakers will include Bill Barada, Environmental Editor of "Skin Diver" magazine, who will speak on the "Old Men of the Sea"; Margie Bolton, who will discuss women in diving and diving during pregnancy; Jeff Prentice, of Harbor Branch Foundation, will detail the discovery and exploration of the Civil War Ship "U.S.S.Monitor"; also included is Hank Tonnemacher, Diving Supervisor for the West Indies Lab, showing some of his spectacular underwater slides and detailing his work with underwater habitats.

The moderator for this year's event will be Dr. Robert Fronk, head of the Science Education Department at F.I.T.'s Melbourne Campus.

There will also be an Underwater Film Festival, Friday, April 13 at 7:30 p.m. The festival will feature three hours of award winning films by such noted underwater cinematographers as Waterman, Al Giddings, and Robin Lehmen.

Both the Symposium and Film Festival are open to the public. Tickets are available at the F.I.T. - Jensen Beach Bookstore.

Also, a limited number of seats will be available at the door. Tickets for the Film Festival will be sold at the door only.

An ESP lawyer talks on probabilities

BY SALLY LATHAM

John Sobesky, patent lawyer who addressed a group here recently on patents and probabilities, is an expert on all the natural and unnatural laws at work in the universe -- including Murphy's old Tried and True.

It was demonstrated for him at the onset of his speech for MicroDot Incorporated, at Sandpiper Bay.

"It was a very dry one," he told The Mirror last week, "and the people meeting in the next room broke out in all their gungh-ho, old-school-tie songs. If anything could kill a speech, that was it."

Murphy's Law, of course, is the one which assures us that if anything at all can go wrong, it will.

Although Sobesky, a patent attorney for the firm of Harness, Dickey and Pierce of Birmingham, Mich., may have had to cover a dull subject on the day of his talk here, he is far from dull on any issue he may tackle. In addition to his distinguished record as a patent lawyer for people like the Beatles, he is a serious student of the laws of extra-sensory perception. It is very much in his field, because the quirks and similitudes of invention go too far and fast to accept them as mere coincidence.

John, cousin of The Mirror's Advertising Manager Peggy Meissner, and son of Mrs. William Sobesky, Cedar Pointe, has that rare combination of investigative mind and a well studied imagination. In his studies, the pursuit of his patent cases, he has found far too many paralleling inventions and identical ideas erupting in different parts of the world for them to be written off.

In his studies, the pursuit of his patent cases, he has found far too many paralleling inventions and identical ideas erupting in different parts of the world for them to be written off.

A friend of several of the nation's great in the field of parapsychology, he is an avid student of its impact. Right now, he says, he's into a book on ESP titled "The Silent Pulse," which explores the subject in depth.

In his patent work, the Beatles suit involved the weighty subject of T-shirts, the visiting lawyer told The Mirror. "It was a great battle, that simply wore itself out," he said with a quiet grin.

MIRROR EDITOR-PUBLISHER RICHARD CAMPBELL, (right) examines information on ESP as presented by visiting Patent Attorney John Sobesky.

NUTRITION NOTES FROM NATURE'S DEN

ITHIN - pronounced less-i-thin (the accent on the first syllable is a substance that apparently protects against accumulation of cholesterol. Actually, the word comes from the Greek LIKITHOS, meaning the yolk of an egg; for lecithin is found in abundance in egg yolk. We all know that egg yolks are also high in cholesterol, but here we have another one of Mother Nature's balance for good health. Cholesterol without Lecithin can be harmful. In nature the two substances are found together so when the cholesterol tends to coalesce or lump together the lecithin breaks it up, combines with it, and keeps it finely divided so that it can be circulated throughout the body as a perfectly stable "emulsion," that will not solidify or congeal. Unfortunately, when the various fats and oils are processed, pasteurized and homogenized the lecithin is destroyed and only the cholesterol remains.

Lecithin is what biochemists call a lipotropic agent. It is an essential part of all living cells, both animal and vegetable. It is found in brain tissue and, as we said earlier, in egg yolk. And for commercial purposes it is extracted from soybean oil. In Lecithin we find two important B Vitamins, Choline and Inositol. These two vitamins are called lipotropic factors because they regulate the deposition of fat in the liver. Inositol also seems to be an important factor for healthy skin and hair.

Because Lecithin is a natural emulsifier of fat it prevents cholesterol (which is fat) from collecting in clumps and attaching to the walls of blood vessels causing arteriosclerosis. Thus, lecithin is a good preventive of hardening of the arteries by its emulsifying effect on cholesterol.

The more scientists learn about Lecithin, the more they respect it. Lecithin has been found to sharpen our mental faculties, calm our nervous system and is important in keeping bile cholesterol in solution. Gallstones consist mainly of cholesterol that has precipitated out of bile solutions, so supplementing the diet with Lecithin might help prevent the stones from forming.) The protective sheath around nerve fibers is rich in Lecithin. And the brain needs Lecithin for its normal functioning. In Lecithin deficiency, the fatty sheath covering the nerves is depleted, resulting in fatigue, nervous exhaustion, headaches, insomnia, etc.

As well as the two B Vitamins mentioned earlier, Soy Lecithin also contains a large percentage of Phosphorous in the form of Phosphoric Acid. This substance forms a part of all bones and is very high in brain and nerve tissue. The Phosphoric Acid found in Lecithin is absorbed into the body with ease through a chemical reaction taking place in the liver.

Lecithin is not a medicine. It is a food and should be included in your daily diet either naturally by eating seeds, grains and nuts or by supplements. At NATURE'S DEN we have Lecithin in capsules, granules and powder, (as well as seeds, grains and nuts). So it is easy to add this important food to your daily diet. The granules are your best value. However, for convenience, the capsules are easy to take. The powder is very good for making drinks, since it is water dispersible and blends easily with any liquid.

GOP Women to meet April 16

The Republican Womens Club will hold their luncheon-meeting on Monday, April 16 at La Pavilion Restaurant, U.S.1, 12 noon. Guest speaker for the day will be Dick Campbell, editor of the Jensen Beach Mirror.

To the Editor:

Congratulations on your thoughtful essay on the character, responsibility and interrelationships of newspapers to their communities and readers which appeared in the April 5 Mirror under the title "Cancel My Subscription."

After graduating from Syracuse University School of Journalism in New York State, I became news editor - photographer - darkroom technician - folding machine tape mender of the Camden Advance-Journal in upstate New York, working for a very wise, well educated, experienced and dedicated editor. He saw his role much as you do. "This thing needs light," he headlined one editorial on a municipal cover-up attempt on an important development.

He told me once that a New York editor once told him to try using "damn" instead of "very" for a more effective and memorable impact. He's right; try it. That makes a "damn" lively sentence, huh?

Anyway, I always enjoy your column, and find the Mirror a well edited and written paper.

P.S. The same editor told me that he thought country editors traditionally used roll-top desks so if a critic approached armed with a buggy whip or gun, he could climb in and roll down the top for concealment and protection.

Real Estate Investing by Paul G. Zinter Realtor GRI

CASH RETURN VS. EQUITY BUILD-UP QUESTION:

I have heard two conflicting opinions on investing in real estate. One says, "Look only to the cash return on real estate as a criterion for buying." The other says, "Cash return isn't necessarily the only criterion. Your money will grow over and above the cash return, and this must be considered." I'm sure that, as a broker, you will take the latter position. Your opinion and reasons, please.

ANSWER:

You're right. Equity build-up for most investors is as important--if not more important--than cash return. Original equity is a fancy way of saying down payment. As your period of ownership increases, two important factors normally increase your equity. The first is the continuing mortgage loan reduction. The second is the appreciation or increase in value of the property. The spread between these two (loan balance and market value) is your equity. As the spread becomes greater so does your equity.

Even if the value doesn't increase, or in rare instances, actually decreases, it is still possible to sell at a profit!

Let's say you buy an apartment house for $100,000 with $80,000 in loans. After several years you sell for $90,000 ($10,000 less than you paid). Your loan balance then is $65,000. Your original down payment was $20,000. When you sell your equity is $30,000. Income-producing real estate is the only investment that I know where you can sell "at a loss" and still make money! An old friend once said, "You don't wait to buy real estate--you buy real estate and then wait."

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-0747, or stop by:

Sports News

BY DONNIE WILKIE

In a fitting conclusion to the annual Martin County High School basketball awards banquet last Thursday, All-American guard Moses Johnson signed a state letter of intent, giving his basketball services to Florida Southern University.

Johnson signs

The Moccasins (18-12 last year and the Sunshine State Conference champions), ironically, play in Lakeland, the site of one of the state's biggest state tournaments ever, in which Johnson's MCHS Tigers won the championship, defeating Lakeland High. It was also the site of one of the state's biggest rip-offs ever, as the local Lakeland monopolized the voting for the all-tournament team, naming three of the Dreadnaught players and passing by Johnson.

Johnson made the Lakeland press look very bad a week later, when he and teammate Charles Jones were named to the All-American team.

Southern, with an enrollment of 1800, is an NCAA Division II school, but is currently upgrading their schedule in hops of moving up to Division I, with the likes of Florida, Florida State, Holy Cross and South Carolina on their 1978-79 schedule.

Head Coach Hal Wissel expects Johnson to have an excellent chance to step into the starting point guard position, as the Mocs' player at that position will graduate this summer.

Johnson ranks second on the all-time Tiger scoring list, with 1655 points, a total exceeded by the only other four-year Tiger letterman, Walter Campbell. Johnson's 108 starts also places his second only to Campbell.

But while the future of Johnson is now settled, those of other Tigers, Jones, Ernest McIntyre and Allan Raines are not so certain.

Jones, the most recruited senior in Florida, has visited Florida and Penn State, but Clemson is reportedly also in the running. The feeling among area coaches, though, is that the 6' 8" center will end up at the U. of F., playing for Gator coach John Lotz.

McIntyre, however, is limited in his choice to Division II schools. Whereas Johnson could have attended any school he wished, McIntyre's grades pegwents him from signing with a Division I school. The frontrunner for the moment seems to be Manatee Junior College in Bradenton, although local favorite Indian River and Cape Coast area Brevard are still strongly bidding for Mac's services.

In the case of Raines, there may be no school at all waiting for the ------e shooting, small forward. The problem is: first, his height. Raines promises to be no taller than six feet, and his ballhandling abilities (or lack of them) dictate he not play guard. Second, his grades are not all that spectacular; and third, he rates only fourth most recruited player on his own team, behind Johnson, Jones and McIntyre, and seldom do four players from Martin County (or anywhere) get offers from colleges. Raines' best bet, if not his only one, would probably be to enroll at IRCC, where coach Mike Leatherwood has said "he could walk on and he might be able to make my team and contribute."

Buying wave at IRP produces $5 million in sales in 10 days

A wave of buying, including purchases of new and unannounced properties by present owners, resulted in $5.4 million worth of sales of condominiums, townhouses and villas at Indian River Plantation during the 10-day period March 23 to April 1, according to the company.

Plantation president F. I. (Pete) Nebbiet, Jr. said $2.6 million worth of one and two bedroom townhouses and condominiums were sold in a new section of the Plantation to be called Lakeside, while sales of apartments in a luxury beachfront group of condominiums called Ocean Terrace totaled $1.6 million. Nebbiet said the remainder of the sales came from the purchase of apartments in River Village, which borders the Indian River, and the Fairway Villas located on the Plantation's 18-hole executive gold course.

Noting that neither Lakeside or Ocean Terrace have been announced to the public, Nebbiet attributed the sudden spurt in sales over the 10-day period to the company's policy of advising property owners of future building plans as soon as possible. "We have always felt an obligation to give our owners advance information," explained Nebbiet, "so they may purchase additional property or tell their friends about opportunities to do so before new products are announced to the public. About one fourth of our sales during this period came as a result of that policy, so it appears to be a good one."

Nebbiet said ground breaking for Lakeside, a community of 75 one and two bedroom condominiums and two story townhouses at the northern end of the 196-acre Plantation, is scheduled for mid-August of this year. The new units will be bordered by a lake and the golf course and will be priced from $60,000 to $145,000, he said.

Ocean Terrace, which also will be started in August, will offer 24 two bedroom luxury oceanfront apartments and eight single bedroom units in one four-story building, according to Nebbiet. Designed by architect Tom Wells of Aspen, Colo., the beachfront buildings will feature wrap around porches so that each apartment, in effect, is a corner unit. Prices for the luxury apartments will range between $82,000 and $250,000, Nebbiet said.

Brig. Clark shares art at Elliott Museum

Brigadier General Stanley Clark, Sotheby Park Bernet director, newspaperman, soldier, and sailor, who has been travelling the world for more than 55 years, shared his experiences at Elliot Museum Friday evening.

He has seen the rock paintings of the Australian aborigines, the strange monuments of Easter Island, some of the treasures of the Indian princes, of Persia and the Middle East, Turkey and Greece. He has travelled in every country of Europe, has seen the great museums and viewed treasures in the homes of ordinary people.

Over the past 30 years, as press and public relations director of Sotheby Park Bernet, Stanley Clark has been loaned by the company to carry out the press work for H.M.Queen Elizabeth's Buckingham Palace Gallery, for London's Royal Academy, the Covent Garden Opera, Blenheim Palace, birthplace of Sir Winston Churchill; Hatfield House, home of the Salisbury family; Pensburst Place; Dytchley, the Anglo-American conference centre, and Leeds Castle, the great house in Kent given by Lady Baillie to be a centre for an Anglo-American medical seminar centre and the centre for meetings of Foreign Ministers.

He is the author of "Palace Diary", the authorized story of a year in the working life of Queen Elizabeth II, and of "The Man Who Is France", the biography of General de Gaulle which was published in the United States by Dodd Mead (two hardback editions and in paperback).

Since the late 1950s Clark has been closely concerned with the great spread of public interest in the fine arts. He has seen innumerable discoveries of rare and valuable pictures, porcelain, silver and jewellery, books and manuscripts, furniture, coins, arms and armour and works of art of all kinds, many from small homes. Some of these previously uncared-for pieces of fine art have made their owners rich.

Some tips on living here

This year perhaps more so than usual, there are many newcomers and courses many visitors for over winter. Some of these folks are not familiarized with mobile home park living, so here is a couple of tips.

Please walk your dogs "over the road," "don't let your cat out, to chase your wonderful neighbors, and slow down when driving through the park, especially going north on Sixth Street as some of the elderly can't step as quickly as they did years ago. This is the friendliest park in the country; let us keep it that way.

Ocean Breezers remembering Harry's Silver Dollars of 1963 are chipping behind the Senior Citizen $2.00 bill drive in great style, surpassing other areas in efforts to show the public that seniors do contribute much to the economy by spending only $2.00 bills during April. (See AARP column for details).

PARK EVENTS

Bingo game goes on when all other park activities cease. Every Monday and Wednesday nights the OBPers troop down to clubhouse long before 7 p.m. starting time, so they can socialize with friends and play cards awhile.

Saturday Night Dance is going stronger than ever with a larger crowd and more enthusiasm. Last Saturday night, well after the usual 10 o'clock quitting time, they were having a hilarious time with a "broom dance" after practically dancing their feet off, at all types of square, folk and ballroom dancing. Proving Ocean Breezers do have fun, whenever they get together.

Camera Club president Nina Zigelbaber wants to make the 1979/80 season the best ever, so she is asking the members to watch out for interesting scenes and events around them this summer and record them on film. Lineups at gas pumps; signs of high or low prices; controversial environmental projects; protest marchers; something different and of interest in their area. Write to Nina, here on Pine Lane, telling what you have cooking.

Shufflers are back on summer schedule with the noisy quartet holding forth early every morning of the week, but minus the loud one, George Lavagie, who moved to Spanish Lakes a while ago.

George Dean's "Northerners" responded to the whip and extra practice sessions to reduce the "Southerner's" lead. The score now stands, North 89, 78 for Ruel Mertz's southern rebels.

RAMBLING AROUND

Ken and Kathleen Cooley of 2 SW Sixth Ave. and Wilkinsburg, Pa. had some victiors recently from the town where Kathleen was born and went to school before she came to USA in 1927; in fact they were schoolday chums. Sam and Marie Thomas from Pontardawe, South Wales were the guests for three weeks during March. When asked what impressed them most about Florida, they said, "Disney World, Kennedy Space Center, but most of all the friendliness of the folks in Ocean Breeze Park, who had a cheerful 'Hello' for them, at all times." They had visited the Cooleys in 1971 at their Wilkinsburg home and Kathleen returns these visits when she gets a chance.

There was something doing at Ursula Togneri's the other morning. Ursula had been up late the night before, on a trip to Ice Capades with Canfields and Ethel Lowe, so wasn't too bright-eyed when there was a knock on her door at daybreak, and some guests walked in.

First there was Ursula's daughter and husband, Jean and Bob Pingree from Greenfield, Mass. and grandson; then in came another daughter and grandson, Christopher; all escorted by daughter Peggy and her son Keven. This was a case of guests had come to breakfast.

However, they retaliated by giving Ursula a birthday party Sunday, April 9 at the clubhouse with all Ocean Breezers invited. It was well attended you can be sure, as folks wanted to wish Ursula the best and find out her age, but she wasn't talking. However, everybody had a grand old time.

Leland and Irene Wasnich of 16 SW 7th St., who came down here in 1938 from Reading, Mich., had many visitors this winter. At one time there were: Irene's son and wife, Derwood and Mary Beem; granddaughter and husband, Linda and Ernie Ash with great-grandson Christopher along with another grandson Larry, wife Edith and children Edith and Timmy Lori. It was the beach, every day for them.

Lona Merrill of 27 SW Fifth Ave. and Laconia, N.H. took Irene Burgess, Betty MacNab and Mae Langto to Vero Beach not long ago to see ExOBPers, Charles and Flora Lord. They were both fine and active and sent their "Hellos" to all their friends in Ocean Breeze Park.

Barney and Nat Chase of 12 Mango Dr. and Concord, N.H. had their grandson drop in for a short visit not too long ago. Grandson Barnard Chase had a chance to come down to Florida with a friend who starts YMCA units, so took the opportunity to visit here. They missed the turn off on their way down and ended up in West Palm, got directions there and ended up at the last beach on Hutchinson Island, asked directions there and made it to OBP that time. Only had a two hour visit, but that was time enough to go out to eat to celebrate Bernard's 18th birthday.

Ken and Marion Wheeler are staying at 31 SW 7th St. on their first visit to Florida. They are friends of Ed and Ethel Heinolds, and up there in West Boylston, Mass. they had been hearing so much about OBP, they had to find out for themselves. They admitted, that it was all it was cracked up to be and more. Also, they took the cruise to Lake Okeechobee, visited Cypress Gardens, Passion Play and went fishing at every chance. By the sound of their comments, they will be back next year, we hope so anyway.

Bill and Dot Lohle, of 15 Banyan are newcomers to the park and will intend to spend their summers back home in Kirkwood, N.Y. (near Birmingham). They have three sons, Howard, Ken and William of Jensen Beach who enticed them to come here. Also they have six grandchildren, four boys and two girls, so in no time they will be having plenty of visitors. Bill a retired iron worker, way up high there on big tall bridges and Dot was an experienced domestic engineer raising a fine family. Now that Bill is off those high places he is enjoying the fishing here and has time to catch up on his reading.

Robert and Viola Adwell of 9 Bead Ave. are down here from Milford, Ill. Last year they were with Viola's sister Kathy Trumble, helping her fix up her place. Liked OBP, so now have a place of their own. As they have two children and five grandchildren and two "gresta" they will soon have their allotment of visitors. Robert is a retired postal worker and Viola another "D.E." They have not been involved yet, but plan to next year.

Time to bite the bullet

This week is a "Potpourri" time with a number of senior interest items coming to our attention. But, first let us hear what the seniors were saying about President Carter's speech on energy.

No, I liked it, some saying, as usual the 1% profiteers will get it in the neck for it and we will have to pay the higher gas prices, but will get no tax rebate as the don't have enough income to pay taxes in the first place. Another said, "We were telling them five or six years ago that this would happen if they didn't get a tough energy bill on the books. Now it looks like the only thing to do is to 'bite-the-bullet' and go along with the President."

However, to a senior, it was no windfall profits for the oil companies. One said it is bad enough for them to contrive this mess in order to get gasoline up to $1 per gallon, causing inconveniences for every tank fill-up, without making a big profit to boot.

The much disgruntled 1980 retiree, pointed out that this was one time when the seniors must write their Folks-in-High-Places, giving them courage to refuse to yield to the oil lobby pressure, and arrange to get their campaign contributions elsewhere.

Write to: Sen. Lawton Chiles, Jr., Rm. G-233, Dirksen Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510; Sen. Richard Stone, 1327 Dirksen Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510, and Rep. L. A. "Skip" Bafalis, U.S. House of Representatives, 408 Cannon House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515. Write today, or at least clip out these addresses as a reminder.

One senior with an optimistic disposition, remarked the TV commentators don't scare all the people all the time, as he heard Sunday morning that the voters of Austin, Texas say go ahead with their nuclear power plant. Those Texans of Alamo fame are willing to trust themselves to find a safe way to handle nuclear power. They are the descendants of the folks who wouldn't let harsh wilderness keep them confined to the East Coast of America. He further said, I bet there are enough folks like them to pull us through this present energy setback.

Senior Consumer, March 1979, lists a number of recommendations for legislative action at the state level to help the elderly. One of particular interest, on Page 4, asks for legislation to "contain health care costs," by encouraging the use of adult day care centers and hospices for terminally ill (that is what the local HCCC is striving for).

Senior Citizen News, April 1979, has an item on containing hospital costs right on page one. It states that all voluntary efforts by the hospitals have failed completely, except in nine states that had some kind of mandatory laws. These were the states of Colorado, Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, Washington and Wisconsin. These states in 1977 held their cost below a 12 percent increase while the other states were experiencing a 16 percent increase. Seniors better write to Sen. Chiles on this one.

Senator Chiles in his latest "Memorandum" goes into great detail about the proposed medicare/medicaid changes. One of particular interest to our local, was the repeal of the 3-day hospital requirement in order to have medicare coverage for home health care. Also, it is proposed to repeal the 100 visit limitation. Tell the senator what you think about these changes, but write separate letter on each subject.

The National AARP Legislative report of Jan./Feb. 1979 indicates that they have finally got the message on Social Security vs. Social Welfare projects. They advocate that the welfare and social adequacy elements should be gradually phased out. Then, they went on to advocate changes so the benefits would be strictly in relation to the contributions, which would leave the 1980 retirees still further behind the 8-ball, as their contributions in non-inflation, non-social program time were small, but regardless of that, they still have to buy same goods as the later retirees in the same inflated market place. 1980 retirees better write to National AARP Legislative Committee, Peter Hughes, Counsel, 1909 K Street, Washington, D.C. 20049.

CHAPTER EVENTS

The $2.00 bill project should have been the main concern of the members last week, as the program got underway. But, reports as to its effectiveness were mixed. Clerk in Post Office said that she had seen more $2.00 bills last week than since they were issued a few years ago. Teller at bank asked a senior what was the idea, all the retirees are asking for $2.00 bills. But, then some check out cashiers when asked about it, said what do you mean, she had not noticed any difference and a hardware store clerk said she had not even seen one $2.00 bill in two days. So, Martin County seniors better get going and spend only $2.00 bills during April.

In case some seniors missed out, here is the idea. Younger folks often feel that seniors continually ask for more and more free services, but contribute nothing to the economy. But seniors, with their Social Security and pension checks contribute nearly six million dollars to the local economy each and every month, so by using only the much hated $2.00 bills, it will soon be quite evident, that the seniors do pay their way and then some.

Your correspondent has been acting as money changer at places where seniors congregate and at check out lines, distributing $750 in spare time (muggers, don't bother, only small quantity handled at a time).

It is felt that with considerable more effort by the seniors, a little luck and a few "hot" publicity stunts, this could develop into a nationwide project. So, let's each of us do our share.

Also if you encounter any especially interesting events concerning the $2.00 bills, let us know and they will be written up. Tell us about any purchases requiring 25 bills or more; what did the clerk say when you offered a $2.00 bill for your cup of coffee every morning of the week; who is going to buy a new car this month with $2.00 bills? Think up something astounding, let us know what it is and we will help you put it over. Let us put Martin County on the map.

The May issue of the Golden Eagle News Bulletin is now assured. Herb Hiers, advertising manager, reports that the advertisers are responding well and expects a full quota of 18 before the deadline.

Also, the bulletin now has a full staff, as follows: Business Manager, Al Tucker; Editor-in-Chief, Boyd Smith; Committee Editor, Betty Taylor; Circulation Mgr., Mildred Capanna. Therefore, all chairmen and members with items for publication, be sure they are ready for the editors at general meeting time.

The April Bulletin was mailed out on picnic day, so all members are now up to date on events. This was the last issue of an advertiser serise of six, so extras were printed to use up the preprinted covers, also there was an extra page in anticipation of publishing By-Law amendments (had to be deleted at last minute for changes). So, in 4½ years the bulletin has grown from 4 pages 400 circulation to 12 pages 900, with no cost of living increases.

It looks like again in the excitement of getting the big issue of the bigger bulletin out on time, the drawing for the Buy-A-Book was forgotten. It is for a year's subscription to the Jensen Beach Mirror. Better luck next month, maybe three drawings to catch up?

All you last minute tax filers, remember you must file by Monday, April 16, and the last session of the Chapter FREE Tax Aid service will be Friday, April 13, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Stuart National Bank, main office, East Ocean Blvd.

Most of the seniors of Jensen Beach area have probably received a questionnaire from "Chuck" Nargard, our representative in Tallahassee. Be sure to fill it out carefully, as it is our chance to let Folks-in-High-Places know what we want them to work on.

123 attended farewell dance

Holiday Outlines

BY RUTH BOWES 334-4946

ASSISTED BY PEG RAY ELIZABETH O'DONNELL

The Farewell Dance of the season was enjoyed by 123 people dancing to the music of the Fred Rhodes orchestra.

Committee member Ray Nealis was responsible for rounding up the great door prizes donated by generous Jensen Beach merchants and won by the Smiths, Arenas, Hollands, Brownes, Greens, Desrosiers's, Vinebergs and Bates.

Committee members responsible for making the dance so enjoyable were Dane & Gene Riley, Bus & Norma Vineberg, Ray & Doris Nealis and Roy & Bea Leonard.

The Committee wished everyone a safe trip home and a safe return to Holiday Out in time for the Welcome Back Dance on Nov. 29th.

Bowling For Fun scores: Rusty Baxter high game 153, Bert Schippers high series 423. Henry Schippers won both the high series game for the men's division with 183 and the series with 504.

Bruce Gingrich, son of Thelma and Ike, ran the best half-mile in the nation in the City of Palms Invitational in McAllen, Texas recently. Gingrich made the 800 meter run in 1:47.17, bringing his outdoor record to 5-0.

To capture the full magnitude of Gingrich's run consider this: No Southwest Conference athlete has ever dipped into the 1:47's since the inception of the meet in 1915.

Bruce is a junior at Rice University in Houston, Texas. He was here to spend the Christmas holidays with his parents and saw plenty of local scenery on his daily runs around the area.

Jim Lewis won another shuffleboard trophy last week. He won 6th place consolation prize playing with Evelyn Haubert as partner in the draw doubles tournament at the Stuart Shuffleboard Club.

Captain Ed and 1st Mate Lorraine Storck returned to the Park last week after a leisurely trip to the Keys aboard their cruiser, "Cloud Nine." Enroute to Marathon they anchored awhile at Bill Boggs State Park at the south end of Key Biscayne to visit friends from New Jersey who were there. Their next port was Flamingo, headquarters of Everglades National Park. From Flamingo they set a course for Captiva Island and Cayo Costa for shelling. Still taking their time and enjoying each moment they headed back East to Holiday Out via the rim route across Lake Okeechobee.

The Hobe Sound Bible College Ensemble directed by Mrs. French and their pianist were guests on Palm Sunday at the Pavilion Church. It was enjoyed by 139 in attendance. Rev. Clark Thompson officiated. Martha Lewis performed the Lay Services. Grace Thau, pianist, Dee Brink, organist, were at their best. Next week we will have services an hour later at 9:45 a.m. Our guest will be Rosalie Bryson, singing. Rosalie also will sing at the Sunrise Service at Jensen Bch. Telcs at United Methodist Church on Savannahs in Jensen. We bid goodbye to Mr. Mark Summer, after 7 years of service as Head Usher, has retired, with our regrets. Mr. Lester Ullmann has agreed to carry on in Mark's place. We Welcome Les.

The Fun Show played to another standing room only on Sunday. Swelling our Bldg Fund by $281.56 from spectator donations. Thank You All!

The Easter Bunny will arrive Sunday 15, on the lawn at the Rec Hall at 8:00 a.m. Prizes will be given. Dyed & hard boiled eggs will be accepted on Sat. at the Rec Hall at 2:30 p.m. Estimated the Bunny will need 47 dozen. So please be generous and join the fun. There are many youngsters in the Park on Holiday.

Recreation Committee at work for program of coming season of 79-80. The following ladies have worked on the calendar: Pinny Bennett, Bea Leonard, Martha Lewis, Vergual Smith, Catty Ullmann, Jack McConnell, Rec Director from the Board, Lena Black, Rec Director, and Kitty Tonis Co-Chairman who thanks all of them for their help, so we may have a very enjoyable coming season. Closer than one realizes — only six months.

Bingo results, 115 attended, coveralls — Jean Boalter, Bertha Lamoe, Keith Horden, Sadie Whaley, Jack Joseph, Jack Norton.

Just listening to the good folks who live in our Park, and representing nearly every State in the Union and Canada, you realize that we all do hear odd phrases meaning the same. "Do you have any little gems in your neighborhood to share with us"? Ours is "Cultch" junk under the trailer, "Cultching Sales" getting rid of junk, "ayee" yes, "coa-ka" corker as it's a "knee slapper." "Hydro" electricity, "chesterfield" sofa or davenport, "fridg" refrigerator, "serviette" napkins, "fussinaround" fixing things, "tota" carry, "flatten out" going to bed, "whomp you" hit you, "piddling along" going slow, "grots" get rid of 4that stuff, "red up" clean up, "don't tota it, chunk it."

The Ralph Taylors had their annual sausage & pancake breakfast on Palm Sunday. 20 guests gathered on the patio.

Mr. & Mrs. Gerald Green & sons came down from Drayton Plains, Mich. with their motor home to spend a week with Mr. & Mrs. Schorly Green.

Nancy & Ted Lontz, Lot 473 are enjoying a visit from their daughter, Judith Ann Sullivan and grandson Master Dennis. After a winter of Cape Cod good old Fla sunshine feels great. However the Lontz trailer will never be the same after their departure. The neighbors will have more cookies. It only took Denny one day to find out where the handouts were good. And Denny is only 2¼ years of age.

Those who attended the joint Art Show at Venture 5 & Holiday Out saw a sample of Bus Vineberg's Photography. As a current exhibition hanging in the Fort Pierce Art Gallery for the next 3 weeks, he has been awarded 3 first prizes, 4 second prizes, 2 third prizes, and an award for the best black & white print in the show.

La Verne Bentley celebrated a birthday on 4/3, sorry I got the news late.

Frank & Millie Piaan just made the deadline fixing their beautiful porch. Their company arrived from Sherman Oaks, Calif. for a few days & loved our mode of living.

Millie & Chuck Armock returned from Sarasota after spending 5 days visiting Millie's cousin. They enjoyed it all but the traffic jams over on the W. Coast.

A Welcome to Francois & Anna Bilodeau, who recently purchased lot 384 W. Marlin and celebrated their 54th Wedding Anniversary on 4/4. There were 16 new found friends from the Park in attendance.

Irene and Joe Marshall left the Park 4/5 after a three month stay, heading back to Ottawa, Canada. They caught the largest blue fish in the Park this year. He registered his catch at the Snook Nook, 11 lbs. and 34½ long. He will be back next year to top his record.

Wes & Ruth Arbo and Jack & Lil McConnell were in Las Vegas, Nevada. Wes was having fun. They will be back this week. So we will find out the results.

Anniversary Congratulations for — Kay & Ray Johnnee, 54th 4-9, Orville & Josephine Blan 4-11, Florence & Ronald Levins 4-12, Mae & Austin Williams 4-14.

Happy Birthday Wishes -- Lishee Smith 4-11, Sue Allen, Roseanne Yobuck, Jim JR Momber, Wilmuth Devore 4-13, Joyce O'Tuel 4-14, Elizabeth O'Donnell, Ed Duncan, Thomas O'Mara Sr 4-15. —

QUESTION AND ANSWERS ABOUT YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Q. I remember reading last year that a new way of figuring social security benefits would go into effect in 1979. How does this new method work?

A. The new method of calculating social security benefits applies to workers who reach 62, become disabled, or die after 1978. Under this method, actual earnings for past years will be adjusted to take account of changes in average wages since 1951. These adjusted earnings will be averaged together and a formula will be applied to the average to determine the benefit amount. Under the old method, benefits were based on average earnings over a period of years, using the actual dollar amount at past earnings. So that no one now nearing retirement will be disadvantaged, the law contains a guarantee. Under the guarantee, retirement benefits for workers who reach 62 after 1978 and before 1984 will be figured under both the old method and the new method. The benefit paid will be the higher of the two calculations.

Q. I've heard that the deductible and the daily amounts which Medicare hospital insurance doesn't pay were raised for 1979. What are the new amounts?

A. Starting January 1, 1979, the Medicare hospital insurance deductible is $160, increased from $144. This means that for the 1st through 60th day in each benefit period, hospital insurance pays all covered services except the first $160. From the 61st through 90th day in each benefit period, hospital insurance pays for all covered services except for $40 a day (up from $36 a day). For each inpatient hospital reserve day used, hospital insurance pays for all covered services except for $80 a day (up from $72). And, for the 21st through 100th day in a skilled nursing facility, hospital insurance pays for all covered services except for $20 a day (increased from $18).

Q. When I became eligible for Medicare, I decided not to take the medical insurance part. Now, I've changed my mind. Isn't there a special time of year when people can enroll in medical insurance?

A. Yes. People who turn down Medicare medical insurance during their initial enrollment period and then decide they want it later can sign up during a general enrollment period -- January 1 through March 31 of each year. If you enroll during a general enrollment period, your protection won't start until the following July and your premium will be 10 percent higher for each 12-month period you could have been enrolled but weren't.

Q. My husband has permanent kidney failure. If he's eligible for Medicare, when will his coverage start?

A. Medicare coverage can start the first day of the 3rd month after the month a course of maintenance dialysis treatments begin. Under certain conditions, coverage can start earlier if a person chooses self-dialysis or needs a kidney transplant.

If you have any questions please call 283-5708 or 464-5700.

Airport committee oks G-S

The Martin County Airport Committee approved the extension of Golden South commuter air service to Witham Field Monday on a 4-1-0 vote.

The committee voted to approve with one member, representing the West Sewall area, opposing it, and Airport operator Harold Strauss abstaining to vote.

Doris Sheridan, representative of the Martin County Economic Development Council, said that the next step in getting service would be to research the local industries and businesses to learn how many Stuart area people would be using the commuter service to West Palm Beach and Orlando.

A presentation to the Martin County Commission will be made "in two to three weeks," for approval, and then the airline must apply to the Florida Public Service Commission for approval of the stop at Witham Field.

The Ft. Pierce-based Golden South airlines now operates from Ft. Pierce to Orlando and to West Palm Beach. There are applications for service from West Palm to Tampa and Sarasota, and to Melbourne.

JENNIFER HARRELL, an eight-year-old second grader at Jensen Beach Elementary School, was selected as the grand prize winner in the Jensen Beach Mirror's Easter Coloring Contest. For the honor, she is to receive a $15 cash prize. A complete list of contest winners for each grade level is included in the story in today's issue of The Mirror. (Staff photo by Mary Meissner)

Inlet project is under way

BY BOB FRYER

Years and years of hard work by thousands of community residents to seek permanent improvements to the hazardous St.Lucie Inlet finally paid off last Friday.

U.S Senator Richard Stone announced on Friday that a $7,290,310 bid for the inlet improvements was awarded to Wilkinson and Jenkins Construction Company of St. Petersburg. The firm is to begin work on the project by May 25 and is expected to take about 18 months to complete the job.

Scores of lives have been lost in boating accidents in the treacherous inlet, and countless boats have sustained damage or been lost totally in the turbulent inlet waters. However, that is expected to come to an end when the St. Pete firm finishes the job.

The initial work to be done will be dredging the inlet channel. The dredged material will be transferred to the shores of north Jupiter Island, to restore that island's eroding coast.

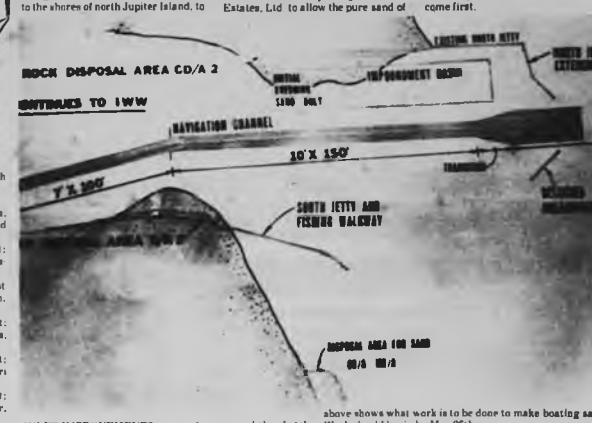
The north jetty will be extended to 1,600 feet, a 1,200 foot jetty, with a walkway for fishermen on top of it, will be built on the south side of the inlet, and a 400-foot-long detached breakwater will also be built offshore on the south side of the inlet.

A sand trap, to catch sand drifting from north to south, will be dug, and that trap will be periodically dredged to add to Jupiter Island beach renourishment.

Eventually, dredging will extend well inside the inlet to the crossroads area, where the Indian and St. Lucie rivers converge before sweeping eastward to the ocean.

A last-minute problem nearly snagged the inlet project--a project that has come close to final approval on numerous occasions in years past, but never got the green light until Friday. The 11th hour problem centered around a plan by Mobil Oil Estates, Ltd. to allow the pure sand of the inlet bottom to be taken for Jupiter Island renourishment in exchange for the oil firm to be allowed to take less pure from the crossroads areas for fill of its Bailfish Point project. County commissioner Tom Higgins went to Tallahassee late last week to work out final agreement on the sand exchange deal, and when that agreement was reached Thursday, it cleared the way for awarding the bid--which was the lowest submitted--to the St. Petersburg company.

Not only will the project make passage through the inlet safer for boaters, it may also speed development of a state park on the north end of Jupiter Island. The state bought the land, along the north three miles of the island, for a state park in the 1960s, but until now it hasn't been developed. On several occasions, when state officials were asked when the park would be approved, they responded that the inlet improvements would have to come first.



INLET IMPROVEMENTS are on the way, and the sketch above shows what work is to be done to make boating safer. Work should begin by May 25th.

Jennifer Harrell wins grand prize in Mirror's Easter coloring contest

When Jennifer Harrell entered the Jensen Beach Mirror's Easter Coloring Contest, she made a mistake, and had to cover the mistake up by using a darker shade of brown than she started out with.

The correction, plus the meticulous attention to detail, paid off though, because Jennifer's entry was judged the best of all 246 entries submitted in the contest.

By being judged as the best entry for second graders at Jensen Elementary, Jennifer is to receive a $5 first prize, and by capturing the grand prize for the best overall entry, she is to collect a additional $10.

Jennifer's two-tone Easter bunny, sporting a multi-colored jacket, captured the hearts of The Mirror's panel of judges. But it wasn't an easy decision. "We had so many outstanding entries. It was really hard to narrow the field down to first, second and third prize winnes for each grade, and the decision for the grand prize winner was very tough. Jensen Beach Elementary is especially blessed with students of superb artistic talent," said Mirror General Manager Peg Meissner.

The first prize winners for each grade level are to receive $5 each, while second and third prize winners for grades through 5 will each receive $1. The winners will be contacted in the next couple of days to make arrangements for delivering the cash to them.

The following in the first winners:

Kindergarten: Louis Taormina, first; April Johnson, second; and William Drescher, third.

First grade: Paula Desito, first; Heidi Burrows, second; and Christopher Harman, third.

Second grade: Jennifer Harrel, first (and grand prize); Carmen Pittman, second; and Danny Taylor, third.

Third grade: Shawnna Biddle, first; Matt Collins, second; and Lisa Harris, third.

Fourth grade: Terri Schelling, first; Michele Johnson, second; and Keri Desito, third.

Fifth grade: Bunky Anastasia, first; Eddie Duff, second; and Billy Koerner, third.

Mirror editor Richard Campbell said he is extremely pleased with the turnout of entries for the contest, and said he plans to offer the contest again next year.

A similar contest, with a different sketch to color, was conducted in the Jensen Beach Mirror's sister paper, the Port St. Lucie Mirror. In that contest, a total of 290 entries from Port St. Lucie Elementary School students were submitted and Donna Hayes, a six-year old first grader, won the grand prize.

Tree seedlings go on sale this Saturday

A total of 6,000 tree seedlings will be sold, at 60 cents each, by the state Division of Forestry at the Martin County Agriculture Center on A1A beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, April 21.

The tree sale is to be the largest of its kind in the county, according to Forestry official John Shannon, and he said if things go according to past experience, he could be sold-out by noon. "In fact, I would advise people to get there by 8:30 a.m. to have a good choice of trees," he said.

The trees are sold on a non profit basis, with the purpose of the sale being to beautify the community. Bald cypress, South Florida slash pine, red maple, red mangrove, beach acacia, cat's claw, silver dollar eucalyptus and box elder are among some of the varieties to be sold, but Shannon said he only has 100 of the mangrove seedlings and only 50 of the red maple.

Shannon says he has about 20 copies of Dr. Ed Menninger's books on trees which will also be offered for sale.

The Agriculture Center is on A1A

Peg Meissner is named Mirror General Manager

Margaret "Peg" Meissner has been named general manager of The Mirror Newspapers, it was announced this week by Dick Campbell, editor.

Mrs. Meissner will remain as advertising manager, a post she has held since November, 1977. She joined The Mirror in January, 1977, moving up to the advertising manager post on the retirement of her predecessor.

The dedication and professionalism of Mrs. Meissner has brought her the respect of all who work together at The Mirror," Campbell said. "Her new responsibilities will give her the authority that she has already earned through her effort to improve the quality of The Mirror."

She was formerly associated with the News Tribune in Ft. Pierce, and the Appleton (Wi.) Post-Crescent. Prior to that she was advertising director of an Oshkosh, Wisconsin department store.

A commercial and fine artist, Peg provides much of the original art designs for The Mirror advertising. She has exhibited paintings in Martin and St. Lucie Counties, with her latest exhibit held recently at the Port St. Lucie Bank, in conjunction with a display of photographs by her husband, Frederick Meissner, staff photographer at Indian River Community College.

Mrs. Meissner is a member of the Art Associates of Martin County. She lives with her husband in Stuart. Her daughter, Mary E is an advertising salesperson at The Mirror.

CLOSE ENCOUNTER--The Goodyear blimp skimmed just above the ocean last week as the huge flying machine motored its way back to Miami after a trip to Disneyworld. For those who frequent the local beaches, sighting the blimp isn't too unusual, as its pilot often cruises along the coast on the way to and from points north. But last week, the pilot seemed more daring than usual, and brought his craft down for a close peak at sunbathers. The photo above was shot at Stuart beach, where swimmers climbed a set of stairs for an even closer view of the already close blimp. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Richards leaves controversy behind, wants top spot

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Two and a half years ago, on a typical August day in New Jersey, a 23-year-old Californian threw the tennis world on its ear, demanding entrance into the world's biggest and most prestigious tournaments for women, despite the fact that she is a transsexual, had once been one of the United States' top ranked men's players and over players.

Over a period of time, Renee Richards, nee Richard Raskind, succeeded in gaining the respect of many of her former detractors. Since [illegible] up with it."

Richards estimates that she has "four to five years left as a top-level player. Hopefully, I can get to the top in two or three and then stay there for two more." Asked what the high point of her career has been, she replied that she "hasn't got to the point yet where I can recall one really memorable moment. If I had beaten Chris (Evert) in the final at Seattle (on the Avon tour this spring), I think that would have been it. But I lost to her in three sets. I haven't really experienced my emotional high yet."

RENEE RICHARDS

[illegible]rst tournament in South Orange, New Jersey (1976 Tennis Week Open), in which 25 of the original 32 entries withdrew in protest of Richards' appearance, she has gradually gained acceptance into almost every tournament she has wished to enter, including the U.S. Open at Flushing Meadow, New York.

The controversy, it can be said, has, if not ended, at least cooled sufficiently, allowing the now 44-year-old Richards to set her sights on another goal — being the world's top ranked women's player. It is a quite understandable goal, although in the face of a landslide of good, young players (Evert, Navratilova, Austin, Shriver), one must wonder if it is a realistic one.

"I don't really know if I can be the best player," said Richards, who has spent a lot of time recently in the Jensen Beach area training for the tough summer tennis schedule. Her coach, Frank Froehling, lives in Stuart, and Renee plans to move to Jensen Beach or the surrounding area if she can "find the right place. I'd like something along the river, with a lot of land."

"Physically, I know I'm capable of playing with the best players. Emotionally, though, I need to improve. Whether I can put it together emotionally remains to be seen. There's an unknown factor in there somewhere, and I don't know if I

There are many intangibles in Richards' tennis game. She has a rocketlike serve which can utterly baffle opponents when it finds its way into the service court. But sometimes, the serve betrays Richards.

Also, she has an unexplainable tendency to tire late in matches. This almost seems to disprove what some of the other women on the tour used to say. After all, the concern over Richards' entry into the women's ranks centered around her strength. But in many matches, the 44-year-old Richards has wilted in the second and third sets, after playing almost unbeatable tennis in the opening set.

"I'm not sure what happens," says Renee. "We (she and Froehling) don't exactly know what happens. I'm in good shape physically. I jump rope, exercise, run; my weight is good . . . It may have something to do with nervous energy. We feel like after two sets I've burned up all my nervous energy. What I need to do is relax more and become less tense as the match goes along."

While in Jensen Beach, Richards said she worked on "just about everything," trying to improve every facet of her game, before going to Hilton Head, South Carolina, for last week's Family Circle Cup Tennis Classic.

But despite her new ambition to be number one, there are still reminders of years past, no matter where she goes, as some fans and spectators make sly little remarks about her past. While talking with Richards, this reporter mentioned that he had heard a remark at courtside during her exhibition match with Alan Quay of Fort Pierce. One fan said to another: "He is hitting to his backhand." It obviously was not a slip of the tongue.

"I would certainly prefer that people didn't say those kind of things," replied Richards, although cracking a smile when hearing of the comment. "If they insist to call attention to what I used to be, then I can't stop them. I've gotten some people to understand, but one person can't change what the whole world thinks. In a way, I realize I kind of asked for it by going out and doing what I'm doing. When you walk out on the court, you're putting yourself in the spotlight."

"I think even if I was the number one player in the world, there would still be some people who would be making little comments, although maybe fewer people would make them. You just can't change the mentality of the world."

"After all," asked Richards, "what can I do? Run out on the court and stomp my foot and jump up and down?"

Richards was, in the days of Richard Raskind, an excellent baseball player, swimmer, and football player. She even once claimed that pro baseball scouts were quite interested in him (Raskind). Raskind graduated from Rochester Medical School in 1959, and became an eye surgeon in New York City. Shortly, Raskind also became a top tennis player, too. In 1966, Raskind made an attempt at a sex change operation but decided against it at the last minute. Nine years later, in 1975, Raskind became Richards, courtesy of Dr. Roberto Granato, who performed the surgery in New York. She moved to Newport Beach, California to start a whole new life.

But after entering a small-time tennis tournament and winning easily (as a woman), a reporter uncovered her past. Richards decided at this point to bring it all out in the open and to join the women's tour. She did so when she played in the Tennis Week Open in 1976, winning three matches before losing in the semi-finals to Lea Antonopolis, 7-6, 3-6, 0-6. Again, typical Renee. Fast start, [illegible] tired finish.

Many of the women players protested vigorously at Richards' admittance in tournaments. Rosie Casals, noted for saying things few athlets dare to utter, was one of the most outspoken. But as time wore on, the arguments turned into apathy, if only because Richards didn't overwhelm everybody she played.

Now, she ranks 13th, if you go by the recent Avon Tour which concluded four weeks ago.

"I was disappointed to finish out of the top eight," commented Richards, "but all in all, it was an encouraging tour. With two weeks left, I was 11th, so with a match here and there finishing differently, I could have qualified for the championships at Madison Square Garden."

"Being a tennis player on this level is so difficult. Some people don't realize that. If anything, or any part of your game is weak, it gets exposed immediately. When you first come on the tour, all of the other women watch you intently. And if you've got a weak spot, they know right away. You can't last more than two weeks on this tour unless every part of your game is exceptional."

Asked about Beth Norton, the young player who stormed off the court in Ohio two years ago while being soundly beaten by Richards, Renee countered, "I haven't seen much of her lately." From the smile on her face, you could tell why. Norton has been almost nonexistent in the tennis world since that day, playing on the lowly Avon Futures tour, for young hopefuls.

But one has to wonder about the future for Richards. At 44, her age is a definite factor. You won't see Chris Evert on Center Court at Wimbledon when she is 44. Should Richards become a force in women's tennis, though, will the players and fans who have cooled down start their protests again? No doubt, there are many who would rather see her drift away as just another freak in American sports; another midget baseball batter, or fantasy football team.

If she refuses to do that, though, she can only be admired as a shining example that you can be what you want to be in America today.

Arm wrestling a trout

By SALLY LATHAM

I've heard about snagging fish, gigging them, gaffing them or whatever. But this is the first time I've heard of a trout being arm-wrestled out of the river.

That's just what a Tarheeler name of Johnny Jenkins did last week, and they're still talking about it along the banks of our waters. Johnny, it seems, was angling off the big dock with a live mullett, when he snagged a big sea trout which obviously was bent on business.

Just as Johnny was making progress with the trout, the float on his line busted, leaving the mullett to its own devices with the giant, which later weighed in at around 12 pounds.

John wasn't about to be outthought by that fish. He took out his wallet, walked the line around to the other side of the dock, and went in after the monster. It took him five minutes (which seemed longer) but he arm-wrestled – literally, that big turkey right out onto shore. It was a sight many a fellow angler would have given shark's teeth to have photographed including this one.

Other hauls reported by Dave and his crew at the Bait and Tackle Shop included a 10 pound snook caught by Linda Spears; a 16 pound snook landed by Doc Spears at the North Port marina; a 10 pound snook at Jensen Beach marina.

Lots of whiting and blues are running around, too, according to Dave's spies.

Tommy Stewart says the blues and whiting are all over the place, and getting better all the time. Catching have included: Danny Habba and Bill Rodwen, 22 trout out of the river on Trout Touts; Tracy and Oscar Tippetts, a 31 pound jack on ballyhoo; Hal Kelsey, 34 trout to seven pounds out of the river on MiroLure; Emil Becker, a 15 pound snook out of the St. Lucie River on MiroLure; Bud Knoebel, a 38 pound wahoo offshore on live mullett;

Steve Rebeiser, 62 blues in the river on Krock, Dil Tony Battaglia, 25 blues in the surf; and Joe Ionieri, also 25 blues in the surf.

Letters to the editor

To the editor:

At their quarterly meeting on April 4, 1979, the Martin County Fire Chiefs' Association discussed the current danger of backyard burning with the weather as dry as it has been over the last few weeks. Each day without rain and each day of high winds to dry the vegetation makes the chance of a disastrous fire more eminent.

The Chiefs would like to bring to the attention of the citizens of Martin County that the County recently adopted Ordinance 94, an ordinance regulating burning in Martin County.

This ordinance states that each fire chief may prohibit in his fire district any or all fires regulated under this ordinance when atmospheric conditions or local circumstances make fires hazardous.

The ordinance also states that it is unlawful to start or maintain a fire outside of any structure or land in the unincorporated areas of Martin County without a burn permit. This permit is issued by the Fire Chief in whose fire district the fire is to occur. The permit will be valid from sunrise to sunset.

It further states that the fire shall be located 50 feet from any structure and adequate provision shall be made to prevent the fire from spreading or the fire can be contained in a waste burner located in a safe position at least 15 feet from any structure. The fire is to be constantly attended by an adult person until the fire is extinguished with a garden hose connected to a water supply adequate to extinguish the fire.

Anyone issued a permit to burn who allows the fire to become a fire hazard to life or property so as to necessitate extinguishment by a Martin County Fire Department shall be liable to Martin County for all costs incurred by the County in the extinguishment of the fire.

Violation of this ordinance is a misdemeanor pursuant to Section 125.69, Florida Statutes, and is punishable by imprisonment for up to 60 days or a fine of up to $500 or both.

The Martin County Fire Chiefs would like the cooperation of all Martin County citizens in helping to prevent the destruction of our beautiful woods. On March 30, 1979 400 acres burned. The fire came dangerously close to homes. Watch you live cigarettes and matches. It takes only a spark to wreak untold damage.

Sincerely yours
Joe Luciano
President

Experienc riumphs over youth

It was a cliffhanger, but when the dust settled, the Spanish Lakes Softball team emerged victorious, 10 to 9, over a team of young girls from Martin County.

The softball game, played last Thursday afternoon before about 200 Spanish Lakes spectators, was a contest pitting youth against experience. And the oldsters came from behind in the bottom of the ninth inning to claim the victory.

But the men proved to be the long-ball hitters, and it was a collection of four-baggers that brought the men back and finally put them ahead.

Going into the top of the ninth inning, the men led 8 to 6. The girls then scored three runs to take a 9 to 8 advantage.

BEWARE! the "RUST MONSTER"
He works 24 hours a day
QUESTION
What can I do about rust in my car?

ANSWER
Take care of your car. Dirt holds moisture — a dangerous rust agent. Wash your car thoroughly ... including those "hard to reach" spots. If you see rust forming, act fast. Rust may be removed from metal by the use of a polishing powder provided the rust has not been forming for too long a time. A thick coat of rust will require the use of an emery wheel, a grindstone, or a file for its removal. If you have a severly rusted section, it may be necessary to replace the rusted section with new material.

ROB CRUTHERS

Carruthers bird carving on display at library

Bob Carruthers is showing a collection of hand carved wood ducks, hawks and song birds that are either stained to show the fine grain of the wood, or painted in appropriate colors. Carruthers began his hobby of carving birds while still a member of the New York City Fire Department.

Now retired, he lives in Jensen Beach and has more time to devote to his hobby. Through the years he has carved dozens of birds and has won many awards and ribbons at the various shows where he has exhibited.

Although he paints in oils, he has a special love for working with wood and enjoys taking a block of wood and transforming it into a thing of beauty.

Before he starts a carving Carruthers researches the bird he plans to do by reading about it, getting pictures and if possible observing it in the field. Each bird has its distinctive characteristics and that is what he wants to capture in his carving.

This interesting and attractive collection of bird carvings will be on exhibit throughout the month of April in the Martin County Public Library.

HCCC works in dark

The April HCCC (Health Cost Containment Committee) meeting was held Tuesday, April 10, 10:15 a.m. in the Library with the usual group of willing workers in attendance. Dr. Charles Bush, Chairman, reported that our correspondent had to be in Charlotte, N.C.! that there was considerable discussion regards to site and taking care of the "walking ill." Both Dr. Bush and Dr. MacCallister at the diagnosis of illness and subsequent treatment should go hand in hand, but for a start some kind of referral would have to do.

That led to a discussion regards to an "Out-Patient" service at local private hospital and that in turn brought up the subject of a County Hospital, that is sure to be needed in 10 years, if Martin County growth continues at its present rate.

This was all very interesting, but still the committee felt it was working more or less in the dark, until they knew in greater details, just what were the health needs of the area.

Therefore, HRS (Health and Rehabilitive Services) will have a questionnaire drawn up for a county wide survey.

There will be FREE Blood Pressure Checks, Friday, April 20, 9 to 11 a.m. at Langford Field. For details, call Pearl Wyse, 334-5806. Also, the Colonial Penn insurance consultant will hold a forum to answer all questions in the Port St. Lucie Community Center, 9:30 to 12:30, Friday, April 20. For details, call Al Cammisa, 283-2455.

The Treasure Coast Congregate Meal and Recreational Programs are getting better each week.

Coming up soon more of the same thing, with Dick Aumiller and Henrietz Mikell teaming up with guitar and accordian for some good ol' country music on Thursday, April 19

CHAPTER EVENTS

The ExCom/Board meeting, Thursday, April 12 was the main chapter event of the week. Secretary Dot Snyder reports there was a quorum so the following business was transacted.

A new bulletin format was submitted by Boyd Smith, Editor, for approval, and it was approved. Herb Hiers, Advertising Manager, reported that 15 of the advertisers were all lined up for the next series and others were promised. Al Tucker, Business Manager, says he has worked out a time schedule with Russell and Schmoyer the prints, so proofs of ad changes can be approved in time to get out a May issue of the Golden Eagle News Bulletin. Also, Boyd made the point, that there won't be much news in the bulletin unless chairmen and members submit items before the April 23 deadline.

The $2.00 bill project was mentioned and members were asked to get behind the effort and make it successful. This is an effort to show the general public that seniors do contribute to the economy of the area by using only $2.00 bills for all purchases during the month of April.

A mighty fine group of Tax Aid Counsellors wound up a very successful season at 1 p.m. Friday, April 13. They had helped seniors as follows: made out complete returns, 150; made out part of returns, 200; answered over 300 inquiries on specific items and took care of more than 40 telephone calls on special questions.

The Legislative Committee has been asked to draw up a list of legislative items that are important to seniors, that are to be taken up by Congress or Tallahassee in the near future, along with the names and addresses of "Folks in High Places" who might be in position to vote in favor of the Aging Americans. This list will give the members the "What", "Who" and "Where", but the "When" will be up to each one personally.

Speaking of Legislative matters, don't forget to return the Question-naire that "Chuck" Nergard sent out last week. One interesting point, he asks for ideas on what should be done with the $500 million state surplus, and lists 7 items for suggestions. None of the 7 are for anything that could be of interest to seniors. So, it behooves the seniors to return these questionnaires with "write-ins" on items that could be of value to the retirees, especially the 1960 breed. Expanded home health care, more Medicaid funds, Senior Center funding, etc. Let Chuck know what seniors are really interested in. Charles L. Nergard, 221 The Capitol, Tallahassee, Fla. 32304.

The general membership meeting will be at 1:30 p.m., Thursday, April 19, in the First Presbyterian Church, North River Shores. After a short business meeting, the famous Ridgeway Singers will entertain, then there will be refreshments and drawing for door prizes and Buy-A-Block tickets.

NUTRITION NOTES FROM NATURE'S DEN

So many of our customers ask us about BEE POLLEN, ROYAL JELLY, AND PROPOLIS -- just what they are and what are they supposed to do for you? Well, let's discuss them one at a time, for each substance has its own unique characteristics.

First, BEE POLLEN. To begin with BEE POLLEN is a natural food which the honey bees gather to feed their young ones. It is collected from the male sperm of flowers in microscopic amounts formed into small granules and treated by the bees by adding some nectar. It is a highly nutritive substance, containing all the 22 amino acids, plus 27 minerals, 12 vitamins and Rutin, which acts to increase the strength of the walls of the capillaries. It contains no fat or carbohydrates. Scientists say that bee pollen has a calming effect on nerves and increases energy and blood circulation. It aids in regulating intestinal functions, so is good for constipation or diarrhea. Some of the world's oldest people in South America and the Andes use bee pollen every day.

ROYAL JELLY is the substance fed the queen bee and is the reason given for her extraordinary powers. In animal studies ROYAL JELLY fed to pigs and roosters increased their life span by as much as 30 percent and chickens laid twice as many eggs. ROYAL JELLY contains 20 amino acids of which cystine is the one found in greatest amounts, followed by lysine and arginine. It contains very high values of the B complex vitamins (especially pantothenic acid) with traces of vitamins A and C. It also contains large amounts of acetylcholine which plays a vital part in the functioning of the entire body, provoking adrenaline secretion and acts as a chemical mediator for the transmission of nerve impulses. (This may explain why ROYAL JELLY seems to stimulate glandular secretions and act as a tonic for the nervous system.) ROYAL JELLY seems to have some sort of antibacterial property which may be due to its naturally high acidity. Scientific reports indicate the beneficial effects of ROYAL JELLY must not depend on its vitamin content alone, but on some type of enzymatic or catalytic action of an as yet unknown factor or factors working in combination with a coenzyme through a process not yet defined, which stimulates or speeds up cell metabolism and body processes. The fact remains that ROYAL JELLY is a wonderful natural food, worthy of being a regular staple to your diet.

PROPOLIS is a resinous substance gathered by bees from the leaf buds and bark of trees and is used by the bees to maintain and disinfect their hives. Most of the PROPOLIS for human use comes from poplars and each batch is analyzed to insure it is free from any contamination. Laboratory tests have shown that the substance chrysine which occurs in both poplar buds and leaves and PROPOLIS have almost identical antibiotic properties. PROPOLIS is an age old remedy that is once again gaining recognition. Its antibacterial properties have been reported on from many countries. It is available in many forms including skin creams, toothpaste and capsules.

Here, at NATURE'S DEN we have all three of these remarkable food substances. Stop by and learn some more about nature's non-toxic remedies.

75 joined the Easter Egg Hunt

137 attended the H.Out Pavilion Church on a bright, sunny Easter Morn. Rev. Clark Thompson officiated. Guest, Rosalie Bryson, sang the Anthem and Offertory beautifully. Grace Thau, pianist, accompanied Rosalie. Dee Brink was organist and Bob Barton conducted the Lay Services. After the service our usual Easter treat of coffee and doughnuts was served. A time to socialize, as many are departing for homes away. We will have services on the 22nd & 29th at the usual time of 8:45 a.m. Everyone is invited to enjoy these Services.

The Easter Egg Hunt was held at 8:00 a.m., Easter Morn at the H.Out Rec Area, with 75 children participating. Children under five were taken to the pool area hill by bunnies of H.Out — Lena Black & Catty Ullmann. Winners of this group, 1st prize — Heather Merrill, 2nd prize — Christopher Clugston. Then children from five to eight looked for the silver egg, 2nd prize, Chester Kuhn, nine to twelve — Gold egg 1st prize, John Pica. These activities were under the directions of Olive Taylor & Bob Long. We wish to thank everyone for the egg donations which made the egg hunt possible. There have been many children enjoying our Park this past Holiday and adults and visitors, too many to mention by name. We all had a beautiful weekend. Hope you can all return another time.

There wasn't any Bingo on Friday eve, due to the 2 hr blackout on the Island. It was strange to see all the lights off, it was a dark, no moonlight night.

Arden and Doris Berry recently returned after a three month trip. They spent 1 month at Mission, Texas visiting friends, then a thirty-eight day R.V. vacation by Caravan into Mexico, enjoying all points of interest. They then returned to the States and spent a week in Tempe, Arizona. They enjoyed the entire trip.

The Arbos & McConnells enjoyed a lovely trip out West. They left H.Out on a Sunday morning arriving at Wesley's estates in Tuscon, Arizona on Wed. afternoon. They enjoyed many nights in Tuscon, visiting the Colonial Caves, the Mts, the big Flea Markets and the Elks Club which has a most impressive Bldg there. Visited Old Tuscon, where all the Western movies are made, and the Desert Museum. They had a pre-Birthday surprize party for Ruth and a Going Party at an Ice Cream Parlor; it was a lot of fun. They also went on a 4 day tour to Las Vegas, stopping at Boulder Dam. In Las Vegas they saw the Mickey Finn Show. Wes was very lucky on the machines. They spent a day in Mexico, where Ruth enjoyed spending Wes's winnings. On their way home they stopped over in New Orleans. Jack did not like driving thru Houston's traffic. They did not get to the Date Farm in Tuscon, but a few days after being home both couples received a basket of dates from Wes's niece. Um, Um.

Easter Sunday Sunrise Service once again saw The Arbos, at the beach in their Winnebago, serving Orange Juice, Coffee and Doughnuts to the early risers.

Holiday Outlines

ASSISTED BY PEG RAY ELIZABETH O'DONNELL

Vergual and Harry Smith have been especially active this past week. Their daughter Margaret and her friend Anne Kaat are here on vacation and the schedule has included, playing golf, tennis, swimming, walking the beach, sampling new restaurants and of course, touring the shops. Tiring but fun.

We are sad to report that lot owner Ben Maciorowski died Thursday in Roswell Park Hospital in Buffalo, N.Y. Our sincere sympathy is extended to Arlene, their son Bob and daughter Monica.

Winton Olson was pleased with his catch of two good-size whiting in the surf early one morning last week. He left the fish in a pail outside the trailer while he went inside to announce his success but alas, a crafty racoon, disliked whiting would be just the thing for his/her breakfast! The coon naturally selected the largest fish and carried it off in triumph.

Now Winton can talk about "the one that got away" and be believed . . . there were amused witnesses to the skullduggery.

It would take too much space to name all the 63 people who gathered for the annual Easter dinner in the far North end of the Park. Hosts and hostesses were Clancy & Peg Guthsell, Roy and Bea Leonard, Frank & Anne Houghton and Pat and Marian Kime. They arranged a menu that featured delicious ham, plus vegetables, salads, on and on, topped off by pecan pies. This was the last of the big bashes this season but hosts and hostesses have already been named for the big Thanksgiving dinner to start next season's festivities.

An excellent Sunrise Service

Easter Sunday did not "dawn" bright and sunny as the PA system called all OBPers to church service in the clubhouse, but that was just fine with them, as it was a slight promise of some much needed rain. There were many children visiting "gramps" and grandma for the holy day.

Lil'Bit Lane was almost full again as transients and those visiting OBPers put up for a few days at one of the most beautiful spots along the Indian River, to enjoy what John Ross the mailman calls the best weather of the entire year.

Remember, FREE Blood Pressure Checks, Friday, April 20, 9 to 11 a.m. at Langford Field House, by the Martin County Health Department Nurses. Mark down the time and date, so you will not forget.

A quick, meager survey (Correspondent has been up to Cherokee, N.C. for a week) indicates that OBPers have been spending only $2.00 bills, as "good senior citizens should," so keep it up right through until April 30 and show the merchants that seniors do pay their way.

PARK EVENTS

There was a little lull in park activities last week, sign at Shuffle Courts, read, "No Bingo. No Exercise Class, No Saturday Night Dance." But, all normal events will resume right after Easter.

However, there was the usual Easter Sunday Service in the clubhouse at 7:30 a.m. From 6:30 on, the folks were urged to get up and get down to the service and "that" they did: men wearing jackets and ties, some for the first time since the Christmas Service and the ladies in their best "bib 'n' tucker."

The clubhouse was well filled by the 7:30 church time, when Rev. Milton Feaney gave the invocation, that was followed by the singing of the "Old Rugged Cross." The "Scripture" and "Message" were given by Rev. Fronsoe and Ralph Ortt was soloist, accompanied on piano by Bessie Thellig.

After the service, the OBPers trouped home, wishing each other a very happy Easter as they walked and talked with their friends and neighbors.

Shufflers are the busiest folks around the park with Pot Luck games every Friday night at 6 p.m. under the direction of Pete Hillman and Pearl Wheelock.

Then, there is that red hot North South Battle, that had a history shattering battle last week, leaving George Dean's Damn Yankees leading Ruel Mertz Southern Rebels, 101 to 94. It looks as though George has brought up his heavy artillery, but watch out next week, Wednesday and Saturday at 1 p.m. when it is rumored, Ruel will employ his most secret weapon.

HOSPITAL AND OBITUARY

Thelma Cadwell, 14 SW Fifth Ave. went to Martin Memorial Hospital last week for examinations but is now back home resting. Clennal Richardson of 25 SE 9th St. is still in hospital.

RAMBLING AROUND

Dot Snyder, 18 Oak St. came down here from Sewell, N.J. where she did have her winter home, but this is now home for Dot. She has "family" nearby, so often has visitors, such as mother Mrs. Edgar Walters of Lantana and sister and her husband, Eleanor and Steve Ersek of Lake Worth. They were here for Easter and did enjoy our area. Dot is an ardent hobbyist and had many new things to show her family. One novel item was place mats made from Christmas greeting cards. When not working on hobbies Dot will be monitoring some CB channel, delivering Meals on Wheels or taking care of her AARP secretary duties, and other volunteer work.

Mae Langto, 31 SW Fifth Ave has had a visitor for the past two weeks, Mrs. Anna LaRoek. Anna will drive Mae's car up to Vero Beach, so they can take the Auto-Bus back to Clayton, N.Y.

Margret Weeks, 25 Cocoa St. came down here from Massachusetts 34 years ago and has been on the go much of the time. Recently, she took off with son and wife for three weeks in Guatamala. They flew direct from Miami to Guatamala City and then took off on side trips to all points of interest.

A lil' ol' DC-3 took them to an open spot in the jungle, so they could visit the Takal Temples and Pyramids and observe antics of jungle monkeys and parrots. Also, they visited the most famous ruins at Copan, even deeper into the jungle, this by bus over the worse roads imaginable.

Next by hired car they explored Antigua the ancient capital, Chichicastenango where there were pagan-christian services at Santo Tomas Church. Also, they spent time at volcano surrounded beautiful Lake Atitlan where they took the mail boat to indian villages. Then, way up north and high up they went to Huehuetenango at 12,570 feet where they saw face masks used for protection against the cold winds. It was a wonderful trip and Margret would highly recommend it.

Gladys Baier, of Bermuda Dr. has had many visitors this winter. Not long ago, sister Esther Elliott of Beverly, Mass. stopped by for 5 weeks. Then, a son and wife; Allen and Nancy Elliott flew down from Connecticut for an "eating-out" visit. Now, another son, W. Foster Glover, of Beverly Mass. came up from Singer Island for a short visit and again a lot of "eating out". So, Gladys has had a busy winter.

George and Betty Ryder, of Fifth Ave. and Marcellus, N.Y. had a daughter visiting recently, bring the news that Betty is now a great Grandmother, as of Thur. March 29. So, of course to celebrate, they will be off on another Airstream Safari, this time with the Andersons and the Ballinghoffs to Everglades City and Flamingo.

Mrs. George (Dorothy) Underhill of 13 Fourth Ave. came down here from Nashua, New Hampshire by the way of a home on Skyline Dr. They had some visitors the other day, Raymond and Lillian Petters, also of Nashua, who stayed a week. They spent most of their time at the beach, as they had to soon drive back to a lot of rain and cold weather. The Underhills have 3 children and 14 grandchildren scattered from New York to California, so next winter they are sure to have many visitors.

Clarence and Velma Pyshes, of 25 SW 10th St. came down here from Bangor, Penn. to see how they would like it, after 37 years in the business of manufacturing ladies blouses. They liked it. So, Clarence went "at-it" and remodeled their place, doing an excellent job in making it modern and attractive. They have plenty of family, 3 children, 9 grandchildren, and 7 greats, so they too will have plenty of company to help them with their surf fishing, or just walking the beach.

LETTERS FROM OBPERS

Ruth Bowden, 1 Arbor Vistas, just had a nice long letter from Bernard Kapuza of Seventh and Broad. Bernard said he was overwhelmed when he was appointed "Press Communications Coordinator" for the 1980 Olympics at Lake Placid, N.Y. They have taken an apartment in Lake Placid, as a son is taking care of their home in Williamsburg, N.Y. Bernard says he is looking forward to a very busy time until the Olympics, Feb. 13-24, 1980.

Elmer and Dorothy Rains of Pine St. wrote to Nixons and Ziegelhofers, saying, good trip home to Pisgah, Iowa and a morning temperature of 28 degrees. No problems getting gasoline, once out of Jensen area, and prices for "reg" mostly 69.9 cents.

THANK YOU

We wish to thank all our wonderful neighbors and friends of Ocean Breeze Park for their memorials, cards and kindnesses.

We also wish to thank the volunteer attendants with the Jensen Beach Samaritans and the nurses and aides with the Visiting Nurse Assn. for their excellent and courteous attention to our mother, Anna M. Larson during her illness.

Thank you all very much.

Social Security answers

Q. I remember reading last year that a new way of figuring social security benefits would go into effect in 1979. How does this new method work?

A. The new method of calculating social security benefits applies to workers who reach 62, become disabled, or die after 1978. Under this method, actual earnings for past years will be adjusted to take account of changes in average wages since 1951. These adjusted earnings will be averaged together and a formula will be applied to the average to determine the benefit amount. Under the old method, benefits were based on average earnings over a period of years, using the actual dollar amount of past earnings. So that no one now nearing retirement will be disadvantaged, the law contains a guarantee. Under the guarantee, retirement benefits for workers who reach 62 after 1978 and before 1984 will be figured under both the old method and the new method. The benefit paid will be the higher of the two calculations.

Q. I've heard that the deductible and the daily amounts which Medicare hospital insurance doesn't pay were raised for 1979. What are the new amounts?

A. Starting January 1, 1979, the Medicare hospital insurance deductible is $160, increased from $144. This means that for the 1st through 60th day in each benefit period, hospital insurance pays all covered services except the first $160. From the 61st through 90th day in each benefit period, hospital insurance pays for all covered services except for $40 a day (up from $36 a day). For each inpatient hospital reserve day used, hospital insurance pays for all covered services except for $80 a day (up from $72). And, for the 21st through 100th day in a skilled nursing facility, hospital insurance pays for all covered services except for $20 a day (increased from $18).

Q. My husband has permanent kidney failure. If he's eligible for Medicare, when will his coverage start?

A. Medicare coverage can start the first day of the 3rd month after the month a course of maintenance dialysis treatments begins. Under certain conditions, coverage can start earlier if a person chooses self-dialysis or needs a kidney transplant.

Tony Battaglia demonstrates the fine art of surf casting

When a man catches 1,055 bluefish season and says things have been , you know he must either be a or an avid fisherman — or both. Fishermen are legendary for aching the truth, and size of their ches, but last week Tony Battaglia Port St. Lucie demonstrated why count of 1,055 blues is fact, not ion.

Tony gave a surf casting demonstra- for about 50 members and guests the Martin County Angler's Club Friday, and made a believer out of them.

"I would say he was casting about 200 yards, maybe more," estimated Tommy Stewart of the Snook Nook.

Tony made it look easy. "It's all in the pole, you have to let the pole do the work. If you fight it, you won't get any distance," he said.

Using a 13.5 foot lamagiass rod and a new Penn 750 reel, Tony was consistently casting a silver spoon, against a stiff wind, way past the breakers. "Use a full spool. Never cast with half a spool because you won't get the distance, and you'll fray the line," he said.

Another tip was to lay the sinker, or spoon on the sand, behind you, before casting. By starting from that position, you're not likely to lose your bait by the snap of the line, and, you'll get more leverage from the rod to make a longer cast. However, be cautious against letting the spoon or sinker get washed over by a wave and covered with sand before casting.

"The secret to blueflshing is to get to them. Sometimes they're way out on a bar, and you have to be able to get to them to catch them," Tony said.

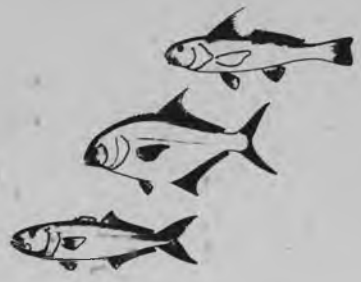
Though he's only been living in the area for about two years, Tony is regarded as among the best blues fishermen around. Several persons at the demonstration said Tony's casts reminded them of Teddy Bloom, a long-time blues fisherman who recently died. Bloom caught thousands of blues in the surf around here.

Most fishermen will tell you this has been a slow season. Tony agrees. "I caught 1,519 last season, and only have 1,055 so far this season. But I'm still hoping to get more before it's over," he said.

When Tony lived at Pinelake Village, he gave most of his fish to residents of that mobile home park. Now, friends and neighbors around his Port St. Lucie home are eating plenty of bluefish, thanks to Tony.

Several persons asked him for tips on snook fishing, but he replied, "There are plenty of experts around here on snook, but I'm not one of them. I mostly fish for blues, though I think I might get to snook before too long."

Of bluefishing, Tony said, "I love it when they hit. They're monsters. They're devils. They're about the best fighting fish in the surf."



SHOWING HIS FORM as a talented surf caster is Tony Battaglia of Port St. Lucie. He's one of the top blue fishermen around these parts, and last week he gave a demonstration of surf casting for the Martin County Angler's Club.

TTING THE HOOK, is what Tony Battaglia appears to be doing here, though actuality he was just showing how it's done and had no fish on.

HE PROPER PLACEMENT of hands on a surf casting rod is essential for a od cast, and Tony Battaglia shows above how it's done.

LONG POLE, at least 10 to 13 and a half feet in lenth, was recommended by Tony Battaglia as the best size rod for surf casting along Hutchinson Island.

A CROWD OF ANGLERS gathered at the Park-n-Fish park on Hutchinson Island last week to view surf casting demonstration by expert bluefish angler Tony Battaglia of Port St. Lucie. The program was sponsored by the Martin County Anglers Club.

North Martin land use plan gets little reaction

BY BOB FRYER

A land use plan for north Martin County, which could ultimately yield a population of 74,000 in this area, met with little adverse reaction last week, but could face stiffer opposition next month when county commissioners consider adopting the plan.

Tom Mumford, county director of planning and zoning, outlined the north county land use plan to a crowd of about 60 Jensen Beach and Rio residents last week.

After announcing that the plan could yield a 74,000 population, Mumford was quick to qualify that statement by saying that this "would only happen if there was a total build-out. In other words, if all the land in the area was developed to its maximum potential under the various land use categories, that's the population it would produce. That may not happen for another 50 years, or may never happen."

The land use plan is one of nearly a dozen "elements" in a comprehensive plan which state law requires the county to adopt. A series of county commission hearings will be conducted on the land use plans for the various areas of the county from May 7-9, and a second set of hearings will come shortly after those. The commission has set a July 1 deadline for adoption of the land use element of the comprehensive plan.

Mumford noted that the plan outlined last week was similar to a land use plan his staff drafted for the north county area two years earlier. However, there were several important changes made on the new plan. For one thing, the new plan shows a commercial land use designation for the entire length of Commercial St. from Indian River Driver to U.S.1. The old plan showed a low-density residential land use for much of the land along Commercial west of Warner Creek. The commercial strip is to be 300-feet wide on each side of the road and is to have service roads for the businesses running parallel to Commercial Street.

The plan of two years ago didn't include the strip of commercial land along Commercial Street, Mumford said, because it was expected a huge regional shopping mal was to be built at U.S.1 and Britt Road. "The DiBartiole mall was to have been here by now, but it doesn't appear it's going to happen," he said.

Parallel service roads along U.S.1 from Commercial St. to a point near the Roosevelt Bridge are shown in the land use plan to accommodate commercial strips of land along that highway.

In Rio, along SR 707, some land now designated residential is being changed to an industrial buffer category, and along portions of Indian River Drive, a special land use category has been created to allow both residential and specialized commercial uses next to each other. Mumford said this was done to comply with existing conditions along Indian River Drive.

Much of the land between Savanna Road and U.S.1 is designated for residential development of from two to five units per acre.

When asked what road improvements were planned, Mumford said those plans are in the works now, and will not be considered by county commissioners when the land use plans are up for adoption. However, he said the amount of growth to be allowed in an area is to be linked with services available, such as roads, water and schools.

County Commission chairman Frank Wacha and commissioner Bud Bagwell were at the meeting, but offered few comments.

Art Young, owner of the Holiday Country Club, was the most vocal in his opposition to the plan, saying it was, in effect, "zoning."

"It's illegal, unfair and inequitable," Young said. He added that he plans to continue using his golf course as a golf course, but said if the gas crisis or other factors make such a use unfeasible, he did not want the golf course land "to be forever designated a golf course."

Mumford said by law the comprehensive plan must be reviewed every five years.

When asked if any more beach strips are planned before the area population swells from its present 12,200 to 74,000, Mumford said, "I understand the beach committee is about to get fired up again."

Mumford also commented that the county commission may soon consider lowering the maximum density of housing units per acre allowed in the county from 15 to 10 units.

The meeting last week was primarily informational, with most comments going from Mumford to the crowd. However, in light of recent Chamber of Commerce objections to the plan, it's expected that during next month's adoption hearings, many north county residents may voice their concerns over the plan.

TOM MUMFORD, county planning and zoning director, points out features of the north county land use map. If all land is ultimately used to its maximum potential under the plan, the north county population could swell from its present 12,200 to 74,000. Public hearings on the land use plan will begin next month. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

We're the only supermarket in Florida that offers you two kinds of beef.

At Publix, it's up to you. We carry regular U.S.D.A. Choice Beef and we carry ProTen, pretendered beef.

You'll find plenty of variety with both, whether you're shopping for steaks or economy cuts. And no matter which kind you take home, you can be sure you're getting quality, Western, grain-fed beef.

You can be sure of one more thing. If you're ever unhappy with a purchase, we'll make it good. It's that simple.

And if you'd rather have your beef custom cut, all you have to do is ask.

It's easy to get exactly what you want at the place for beef, because you make the decisions.

Nuclear energy question draws debate

PRO

PL man defends safety f local nuclear plant

BY BOB FRYER

he nuclear power plant accident happened at Three Mile Island likely to happen at Florida Power Light Company's nuclear plant on tchinson Island.

hat was the message of Harry ndehette, district FP&L manager t Lucie County, when he spoke to out 100 members of the Indian River ne Freeholders Association last ndehette gave the freeholders a on the mechanics of a nuclear r plant during the meeting, and ined out several differences be- the Three Mile Island plant and nuclear plant on Hutchinson nd. It is those differences, as well number of other factors, which ndehette says he feels makes the tchinson safe.

The firm that built the Hutchinson nd plant, for one thing, is not the ne one that built the Three Mile nd plant, though both plants are ilar in that they are "pressurized er reactors".

One of the malfunctions that led to accident at Three Mile Island was lve which was apparently shut in auxiliary feedwater system. ndehette said "Our (auxiliary feed- ter) valves are padlocked open," d added that if they were found ed, the company could lose its nse to operate.

Another valve that malfunctioned at ree Mile Island, by sticking open, is e same type valve used at the local nt. After the Three Mile Island ident, a check was made of the lves here and they were all found to working correctly, he said.

"For some reason, the emergency ling water for the reactor turned ," Schindehette said of the Three le Island accident. He speculated at this may have been due to a gauge ect. "We have different instru- entation; we have three gauges to ll us what's happening, not just e," he said.

"Up to the emergency cooling stem failure, there would have been ss of containment (of radiation). the (nuclear fuel) rods got exposed diation gas came out," he said, and ded that at the Hutchinson Island nt, if there was a failure, "our con- inment building would close itself off d isolate everything."

Schindehette blamed a hysterical dia for "haymaking" on the Three le Island accident. He said that the ssible in the reactor that caused ncern at the Three Mile Island acci- nt may not have been a hydrogen sible afterall, but said officials had assume the worst (that it was a hydrogen bubble) in order to safely deal with the situation. And, he said if a bubble formed in the Hutchinson Island plant, it would form "at the highest point in our system, in the pressurizer," and not in the reactor it self, as it did at Three Mile Island.

Schindehette said another feature of the local plant is more water in storage to be used for cooling. He said this gives the local plant operators an added 30 minutes to act to correct problems such as those that occurred at Three Mile Island, and he said with that extra time, chances are, there would have been no loss of containment at the Pennsylvania plant.

"The safety devices worked on cue," he said of the Three Mile Island plant, but he said a total of eight factors "went wrong" at that plant, adding, "but there was still no injury or death."

"This may be a left-handed compliment to the industry," Schindehette said in reference to his comment that nobody was hurt or killed by the accident.

Schindehette said the degree of radiation released at the Three Mile Island accident was less than the amount of radiation persons living in Denver's atmosphere are exposed to from the sun in a year.

"Nuclear power is essential to the energy needs of our country," Schindehette said, adding that although nuclear power "has its risks," people have to decide "what standard of living do we want and what risks are we willing to accept."

Schindehette fielded questions from the audience and said the Nuclear Regulatory Commission would be called in whenever a nuclear plant accident is about to cause offsite contamination, but he said "our people question the validity of the NRC coming in and taking over, when the employees know more about the specific plant than anyone else." He said Florida is one of 10 states to have its nuclear power plant emergency plans approved by state and federal officials.

When asked what is done with radioactive spent fuel, he said the spent fuel is stored on site and there is room for an eight year supply to be stored there. He said if the federal government does not decide by then what to do with the spent fuel, the plant would have to close down.

When asked why a siren isn't used to warn people of an accident here, Schindehette said he did not feel it would work and said it would probably just confuse or panic tourists in the area if it went off.

BILL WAXLER

Air Show Sunday, May 6 at Sailfish Regatta

One of the highlights planned for the 12th annual Stuart Sailfish Regatta is a demonstration of stunt flying by two area pilots, the precision flying will get underway at approximately 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Spectators will see Stuart resident Bill Waxler, Lt. Col USAF ret., and John Lillberg of Riviera Beach.

Waxler is a former member of the Royal Canadian Air Force who gained experience flying "beaufighters" which are twin engine night fighters for the RCAF before signing up with the US. Air Force.

John Lillberg owns and flies a Pitts Special which is the most powerful and exciting stunt plane ever made.

Doing both duel and low level flying demonstrations, their exhibition over the North Fork is bound to be a real "throat clincher" for spectators at the Sailfish Regatta.

Martin County Chorus in State competition

The Martin County High Chorus will be competing in state competition May 3-5 in Miami. The chorus has worked hard and recently received a superior rating at District competition.

Opus 79, the top ensemble, received two superior ratings. One in each regular and special category. Special category is mainly your popular music and regular is mostly concert and of a higher degree of difficulty.

Several soloists also competed. Cathy Haston and Kathy Reitz received superiors in both regular and special category. Susan Rogers and Sterling Kendall received superiors in regular category. Several other soloists received an excellent rating. Lori Higbee received a superior in Piano competition. Cathy Haston, Kathy Reitz, Susan Rogers, Sterling Kendall and Lori Higbee will be competing at State.

The Chorus still needs several thousand dollars to be able to go to the state contest. The members have worked hard on several fund raising projects and have over $2,000 at present. Any one wishing to help support the Chorus can send contributions to Martin County High, 2801 Kanner Highway, Stuart. Anyone needing more information can contact Mr. Ron Staley, director at 287 0710 or Kathy Reitz, President of the Chorus at 287 1643.

CON

Anti-nuclear power talk at Conservation Alliance

BY BOB FRYER

The dangers of nuclear power and the chaos of the Three Mile Island accident were highlighted in a speech by Valerie Prime last week before the Martin County Conservation Alliance.

"Anti nuclear forces have become more popular to belong to (since the Three Mile Island accident)" Mrs. Prime said, adding "It's almost the popular cause among young people."

Mrs. Prime said it's becoming increasingly difficult for dialogue between anti and pro nuclear forces, and her implication was that the difficulty comes from the pro forces.

Of the Three Mile Accident, she said there were three defects: "Plant design, plant construction, human judgement, and inspection of the plant."

Mrs. Prime said in order to save millions of dollars in taxes, the certification of the nuclear plant at Three Mile Island was granted just before a deadline late last year, and she called the certification "a rush job".

During the accident, a disagreement arose between the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the utility firm, and the plant designers as to the cause and effect of the accident and as to whether and how to evacuate nearby residents, she said.

"For two days the NRC didn't know who was the top executive of the utility company, and didn't get a map of the site area for four days," she said.

"The NRC couldn't figure out how the nuclear accident could have happened. But all agreed on public relations. During the meetings, they whispered the radiation levels so they wouldn't be heard on the tape and they wrote down a list of other suspect plants so they would not be on tape," she said. And, she added, "While an explosion was still possible, the President was flown to the plant to reassure the public."

"The utility reacted by saying nobody was hurt, and compared the radiation to what you'd get after living a year in Denver," Mr. Prime said, and commented that at the recent Florida Power and Light Company annual shareholders meeting in Port St. Lucie, "FP&L decided the NRC demands for stiffer regulations are too stringent."

In three cases of decommissioning nuclear plants, she said in rebuttal to industry claims of reduced power costs by nuclear power, it has cost more to decommission the plants than to start them.

She called for an investment by this country in research for solar power "to a meaningful extent", and said if we have to have nuclear power plants, we ought to have smaller ones, where the effects of accidents, if they happen, would not be so potentially disasterous.

Also, she said "We've got to consider the energy future based on a stable economy and non-growth." Though she said it may sound far fetched, we need more stringent birth control. "As long as we go on increasing (our population), there's a limit to the amount of conversation you can do."

She said by 1985 our country will be receiving 2,000 shipments of radioactive materials, and she said already the disposal of such materials is causing a severe problem. "Forty million tons a year of hazardous wastes are produced that we don't know what to do with and we've obliterated more species of life in this century than in the last 2,000 years."

At the recent meeting of FP&L shareholders in Port St. Lucie, FPL chairman of the board of directors Marshall McDonald said, "And, there is and must be growing recognition that the possibility of undesirable tradeoffs have to be a way of life and progress. Without some compromises of acceptable tradeoffs, many of you would have traveled a dirt road, probably with a horse and buggy, to get here today."

Mrs. Prime commented, "I'll choose the dirt road and horse and buggy provided there are other living creatures about me, so I can go in harmony with the world."

Sea Turtles Show is set

"The Sea Turtles of Hutchinson Island" is the topic of the final program in the First Wednesday series of free lectures at the Environmental Studies Center, 2900 NE Indian River Drive, 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 2.

Presenting the illustrated talk on the endangered specie is Ross Witham, marine biologist and project director for the Department of Natual Resources Marine Research Lab in Jensen Beach. Witham has for several years incubated thousands of green turtle eggs, raised, tagged and released the yearling turtles from local beaches in an effort to increase the local population. Next week's program will be an update and progress report on the continuing program.

A native of Stuart, Witham spent several years conducting research on the Florida spiny lobster and authored a number of articles on both the lobster and green turtle in the Quarterly Journal of the Florida Academy of Sciences and other publications.

His presentation will be non-technical in nature and will be of interest to a general audience.

The Center's museum and wet lab will be open for visitation before and after the lecture. There is no admission charge but a small donation is welcomed.

Easter brings changes

By SALLY LATHAM

Easter, with her usual subtle way of doing things, did it again this year. She prissied in, flounced her skirts, and turned the weather around just enough to make it interesting.

Although Easter Day itself was amazingly good tempered, considering that Palm Sunday had also been beautiful, it presaged the approach of the long-needed rain which horticulturists and conservationists alike had been crying for. When it did arrive, the rainfall brought with it a cooling-off just prominent enough to remind natives and tourists that Yes Virginia, Florida does have a happy weather diversity, if you wait around long enough for it. The cool weather promises to hang around for a few more days, keeping rainfall on the horizon.

For a couple of days this week, the fishermen were discouraged by the temperature drop, and stayed away from the best fishing holes. But Ron Ellis at the Snook Nook predicts they'll be back in a day or two, and the fish will be out there waiting for them.

Among the catches on Ron's chart are: Ed Wagner and Charlie Arenl, 28 trout out of the river on Trout Touts: Mike Ulman and Mike Ripley, out with guide Russ Bolton, two snook, two trout and three snapper on jugs tipped with shrimp; Fred Eberhardt, a snook on Kroes; Roy Greenwald and Jack Prell five trout on miroiures;

Steve Stuhli, and companions, five trout on shrimp; Wisner Miller, four snook, two trout and three snapper on nylure; Charlie Neff and Tony Sataglia, both 16 blues on Krok; Rose Frye, a seven and a half pound snook off Jensen Beach Causeway; Paul Machunakey, a 20 pound snook, wading, on a miroiure.

High and low temperatures during the past week have been:

REFINANCING PROCEEDS NOT TAXABLE

QUESTION:

My wife and I are retired and own an apartment building which is worth about $60,000. It has no mortgage on it, and we wouldn't sell it under any circumstances. However, we do need $10,000 to pay off some other obligations. I'm just afraid that if we get a mortgage on the property the taxes on that amount would be too much. What would you do?

ANSWER:

I can see that your mind is steadfastly made up not to sell your property—no matter how attractive the alternatives might be. Assuming, then, that the only question you want answered is the tax consequences of your obtaining a mortgage on your property, the answer is easy and clearcut—there will be no tax. Surprisingly, many people do not realize that the proceeds of financing or refinancing which go into their pocket are not taxable. The reason for this, of course, is that is financing or refinancing a property there is no taxable event, i.e., no sale.

. I would suggest, however, that before you make such a move you solicit the qualified opinion of a real estate counselor. He may analyze your situation and open your eyes to other more profitable and practical solutions to your problem.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-6147, or stop by:

Edward Kepp, Jr. dies in accident

An accident along St. James Drive early Sunday morning claimed the life of Edward J. Kepp, Jr., 21 of 141 Sagamore Terrace, Port St. Lucie.

Florida Highway Patrol Troopers Hal Murphy and Mack Bozeman report Kepp was driving south on St. James at a high rate of speed when his 1972 pickup truck went off the road, hit a guardrail, and rolled over two and a half times. The troopers said the truck traveled 232 feet before coming to rest upside down. The accident occurred around 2:45 a.m. Sunday.

The accident occurred about seven tenths of a mile south of Midway Road, near the north Port St. Lucie city limits.

Kepp, who was alone in the truck, was dead at the scene, officials said.

His death marks the 16th traffic fatality in St. Lucie County this year.

EMPHASIS

COST OF REGULATION IS MORE THAN PUTTING MAN ON THE MOON!!

A Washington University professor has calculated the annual cost of regulation to be $97.9 billion; it cost about $25 billion to put a man on the moon.

We don't quarrel with all regulation. Some price, safety and operating regulation is necessary. In recent years, however, there has been a flood of new regulation. Much of it contradictory. Overlapping. Counter-productive.

Example: There are 427 boards, agencies, commissions, councils and bureaus that have energy-related authority under the auspices of the new federal Department of Energy. The Code of Federal Regulations that lists all federal regulations is now 73,000 pages and growing by 5,000 pages a year.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN TO YOU?

Simply put, about $2,000 of the gross income of a family of four goes to pay the costs of regulation which are hidden in the price of every product you buy, including your monthly utility bills.

There's one thing about the U.S. taxpayer—he's alive . . . and kicking!

CUT BACK. CUT OFF. CUT DOWN TO SAVE.

Higher oil prices will mean higher prices for just about everything. Gasoline. Heating oil. Plastics. Fertilizers. Pesticides. Electricity.

Low sulphur residual oil, the kind FPL uses to produce approximately 50% of our electricity, has increased from $2.34 per barrel (January 1969) to $17.45 today. Regular sulphur oil went from $1.92 per barrel to $14.03.

Meaningful conservation will help. There are pamphlets on how to "cut down on" automobile usage. And electricity usage. You can get the booklet "How to save money on your electric bill" at any FPL office.

Bond-Tilton finish 8th in 6-hour Riverside

Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton finished a disappointing eight in a six-hour race at Riverside, California last Sunday, and lost their first and second place rankings in the driver's points standings.

Don Devendorf and Tony Adamowicz teamed up in a factory-prepared Datsun Z car to win the GTU (small engine) class victory. The win, coupled with a first by Devendorf two weeks ago at Road Atlanta, puts Devendorf in the GTU points lead with 40 points. Bond, who had led the standing until the Riverside race with 33 points, picked up three points for the eighth place finish, and is now second in the drivers' points standings with 36 points.

Tilton shared driving duties with Bond and also got three points, to rank him third in the standings with 35 points.

RansomTilton, Ren's father, said the Jensen Beach racing team had a problem with the shocks on their Porsche 911, making it difficult to finish the race. he also said the car had two flat tires, and that eliminated their chances of a high finish.

There are 18 races on the International Motor Sports Association race circuit this year, and the Riverside race was the fourth event of the season. Next week, a short 75-mile race will be held at the Laguna Seca race course at Monterey, California. Tilton is to drive in that race, then and Bond will tow their car to Hallett, Oklahoma for another race before returning home.

For the last several years Bond and Tilton have been strong competitors in the GTU class in races they could afford to enter, but a limited budget kept them from travelling to many of the distant races.

This year they are receiving sponsorship from E.J. Pruitt and Sons, a West Palm bicycle emporium, and the financial help means they'll get to enter more races and, hopefully, make a strong bid for the GTU drivers title.

Ren's father said the winning Datsun Z car qualified for the race with an engine that Ren told him would probably only last about 20 minutes, then switched engines for the six-hour race.

The winning Datsun finished 10th in overall competition, with Bill and Don Whittington driving a Porsche turbo to the overall victory in the GT (big engine) class.

Finishing second in the GTU division were Bob Bergstrom and Brad Frisselle in a Mazda RX-7. Both Bergstrom and Frisselle have been GTU points champions in past years.

Third in GTU were Bill Koll and Bill Bean in a Porsche 914-6, in fourth place were Roger Mandeville and Jim Downing in an RX-7, and in fifth place were Ed Parks and Stu Fisher in an RX-7.

May 3 is 'Junior Night' for Pro Tennis Tourney

Junior tennis players will get a chance to see world ranked men professionals in action free of charge Thursday evening, May 3, during the $25,000 American Express - Indian River Plantation Classic at the resort.

Tournament director Tom Falkenburg announced that junior players from area schools and colleges will be admitted free of charge to the tournament on that date, if accompanied by their coaches or other school representatives. He said play that evening of the six-day tournament, which runs from May 1 to May 6 at Indian River Plantation, will consist of third round singles and second round doubles matches. Play will start at 7 p.m. and continue until all four matches are completed, he said.

Falkenburg said coaches wishing to accompany their players to the tournament should make arrangements for tickets by calling him at the Indian River Plantation pro shop, 286-3700.

Anglers sign Kingfish petition

A total of 99 signatures were placed on a petition at the Port St. Lucie Angler's Club's recent meeting to express favor for state legislation to set and enforce limits on the taking of king makerel by roller gill net commercial fishermen.

The petition states the concern of the signees of a depletion of the king mackerel in Florida offshore waters, and states that this species of fish belongs to all people, not just commercial fishermen.

A bill is proposed in the state legislature to limit the depth of water the commercial roller net fishermen may operate in.

Plantation Ladies blank Hobe Sound

Indian River Plantation's B team lost only two sets while running up a 4-0 victory over Hobe Sound in Treasure Coast Ladies Tennis League action at the Hutchinson Island resort.

Sandpiper honored Nunes

Mark Nunes who has served as assistant golf pro at the Sandpiper Bay courses under Chuck Johnson for seven years played his "Swan Song" with golf sticks Thursday posting an even par 72 against a field of 170 players in the "Beat the Pro" event staged by the Sandpiper Men's Golf Association on the 18-hole Saints' Course.

Testimony of Nunes' popularity and the diligent efforts of Tournament chairman Tom Chapman and wife Irene, the entire day proved fruitful for Nunes and a total of 68 players. Nunes was presented a cash purse of $760 and the 89 members who "beat the pro" with net scores will each receive three golf balls. It was also reported that Nunes received $257 from the Sandpiper Women's Association and an undisclosed amount from the Wednesday Women's League.

In a unique pattern designed by chairman Chapman, Nunes played the 18 holes with six different foursomes, starting the first three holes with a combine of Doc VanSickle, Jery Gould, Cy Edwards and Jim Edelman. He joined the other five foursomes in the following order: Augie Ruppel, Warren Thorpe, "Shug" Hickman, and Jim LaMont; Bob Hannah, Don McConnell, Bob Wilson and Al VanNostrand; Jim Healey, Jim Waldie, Graydon Smith and Harry Minglin; Norm Nardone, Gordon Fergusen, Don Estes and Ed Polidor; the final three holes included a pair of birdies and a par for Nunes while playing with Chuck Johnson, Seymour Fleming, Dick Whiting and Tom Chapman.

The lowest net scores of the day were produced by John Ford who racked up a net of 59 including his 28 handicap. He was trailed in that department by "Eagle Eye" Tony Guarino who had a 63-30 for 63.

The day's play produced many notable rounds with Holiday Ed Leary breaking par by one shot recording a 71. Newly crowned champion Dick Whiting had a 73 followed by Col. Don McConnell, 74; Bill Conklin, 76; and a trio deadlocked at 77 included Squire Shaw, Bill (ERA) LaBrutto and Ed Sarkesian. Rob Cruso, newly appointed assistant pro had a 78.

All 68 golfers who "beat the pro" must consult the listing of winners which will be posted in the pro shop at the Saints course.

The next event for the Association golfers will be Partner's Chapmen "Scotch" Foursome using a one fourth combined handicap.

DAVID JOHNSON crosses the tape in the Port St. Lucie 5000 meter race last Saturday. Johnson finished first among 30 entrants, coming in in 17 minutes and 47 seconds. The Port St. Lucie Exchange Club sponsored the race and plans another one in the fall. (Staff photo by Peg Meissner)

David Johnson wins PSL 5000 meter race

David Johnson, an Indian River Community College student from Palm City, captured the title in the Port St. Lucie Exchange Club's 5000 meter race last Saturday, completing the distance in 17 minutes and 47 seconds.

Less than a minute behind, with a time of 18:36 was Peter Worth, who had third-place finisher James Shearer hot on his heels at 18:44.

Rounding out the top finishers were Don Swift, fourth; Ronald Sonoda, fifth; Don Swift, sixth; Robert Gore, seventh; David Mook, seventh; Wayne Whiteson, eighth; Jim Powell, ninth; and Paul Miret tenth; and Jeff Fox, eleventh.

In the over 40 competition, Jim Turbyne turned in the best time at 23:24, followed by Art Roberts, clocked at 26:21. In the under 16 bracket, Victor Nynes came in with a 24:02 timing.

In the girl's division, Toni Powell was first at 34:00, while Christie Wilson was only a second behind.

Jeff Fox of the Exchange Club said 30 runners turned out for the event Saturday, and said the club plans to conduct another run in the fall. "Next time we'll get letters of invitation out to running clubs and will have it on a day when there are no other races in the area," he said, indicating that a race in Ft. Pierce on Saturday kept several runners out of the Port St. Lucie event.

The course, covering 5,000 meters or 3.1 miles, was from the Port St. Lucie Elementary School down Marion Drive to Bayshore Drive, north on Bayshore to Floresta Drive, then east onFloresta to Curtis Street. The course then turned south to Marion and east to the school.

EDDIE JUSTICE may not be as good as Reggie Jackson yet, but he appears to be following in the superstar's footsteps. In a game last week at Langford Park, Eddie hit three home runs for his Ray Cooke little league team in its win over Knights of Colombus, 10 to 6. Eddie also pitched for four innings in the game and played shortstop for two innings. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

Venture Three

BY JESSIE SHAVER 334-2714
Coordinator VITA AUTENRIETH

The Frank Wilsons from Chapleau, Ontario, formerly of Lindsay, Ontario, Canada, have joined us for a short but memorable Holiday.

Jacki Phillips & Mai Calahan. They have been ill and under the weather for awhile.

A letter arrived at th Kirkbrides from Mabel & Jack Fogelman of Grand Rapids, Michigan, informing Jackie & Gil of their safe arrival on the tenth.

By way of Port Charlotte en route to Clinton, New Jersey our friends Stu and Nell Sergent stopped to visit their youngest daughter Kim.

VENTURE THREE NEWS

Since all planned social activities are over there is nothing to report on combined activities. The shuffle board court is used most every evening by Lois and Clyde, and Edna and Andy. The last regular meeting of Venture III Board was on Wed. April 18. There are several directors still in the park, so if necessary, a special meeting could be called, but many left that day or the next. Do hope all of the departing ones have a safe trip to their summer homes, or vacations and return early in the fall.

VENTURE HARBOUR NEWS

Edith and Dick Painter have taken off in their trailer, to the Carolinas and Alabama, for a few weeks. Bud and Lou Prew also, have gone to N.C. in their mini-home, for a week or so. Evelyn and Clarence Arnold were here to visit daughter, Betty Drinkard. Mary Lou Bernard is recovering very well from her accident. It is farewell to Barbara and Stanley Clark until next January. Also, happy summer to Betty and Edsel Phabe. After tearing off her old porch and putting on a beautiful new one, Bernice Foster has gone north far awhile. It is good to see Ernie and Unabelle out so much again, now that they have HONEY to take for a walk every day.

INDIAN RIVER NEWS

BY ROSE CURTH

First, some good news for Dr. Asline's friends. Marian called one of our neighbors, to let us know that they had a good trip home to Mich., and Dr. is fine. Ruth and Bill Hennessey will be spending the summer assisting in the management of a campground in the Berkshire mountains in Mass., Laurel Ridge Farm campground is located in the East Otis, Mass, and Ruth and Bill hope that any of their friends in Venture III traveling to the northeast, will consider a stopover there.

So many of our neighbors are leaving soon, so we suggested a "going away party", and this is what happened: First annual Indian River Block party and picnic was a huge success. Approximately 140 people of all ages attended. Nobody complained of the noise, because everybody was there. Beautiful looking salads, relish trays, and cupcakes loaded the food tables, and the chicken was expertly barbecued by the men. A special treat were the appetizers of chicken livers and hearts, which Bill Hennessey toiled over. The beer was also an additional surprise, and didn't last long. Have to order more next year. Everyone attending agrees, that this should be an annual affair. Committee planning and organizing this great day, consisted of: Hennesseys, DeSmits, Lawsons, Knoebles, Clarks, Wilsons, Callahans, and Paul Gulliett. To the Hennesseys, very best wishes for your new summer job, but be sure and come back to Venture III in the fall. To everyone, Have a good summer and come back for another Happy Season.

It's cold up north

This Easter season was especially joyous because of the number of family visitors sharing the lovely weather.

Mae & Austin Williams daughter, Nancy Etts and her husband Joe and grandchildren Timothy & Thomas left last Wednesday after spending two weeks here. The Etas called when they reached home in Cold Spring, N.Y. and said the traffic was very heavy enroute and that the temperature was only 30 degrees. While they were here Nancy planned a surprise anniversary party for Mae and Austin and invited twenty-five of their friends. A beautifully decorated cake was the highlight of the party.

Helen & Clarence Knechtges were hosts to several family members. Visiting from Livonia, Mich. were daughter Janice, son-in-law Stanley Goodman & their daughter Nancy. From Detroit, their nephew Charles Blanchard, his wife Dee and their daughter Debbie and from Plymouth, Mich. friends Pat and Bob Bowers. Another Knechtges daughter & son-in-law, Shirley & Bob Osinghar, had their daughts Gail & her husband, Larry Cranston visiting from Livonia, Mich. The entire Knechtges clan and friends enjoyed Easter dinner at Frances Langford's outrigger.

Pinney and Zoe Bennett's daughter Kay & son-in-law Gerald Carson and grandchildren Jon and Jamey were here for a ten day holiday and left reluctantly Sunday for their home in Fletcher, N.C.

Bob and Mary Lou Pohl and grandchildren Tom and Karen from Albany, N.Y. were here with Alan for two weeks. When the family decided to take an excursion to Cape Canaveral, Mary Lou begged off and went to West Palm Beach Mall for the day, spent some money, bought some goodies and had a ball. Sort of Queen for a day! Biggest thrill of the whole trip for Tom was when he fished for the first time in his life and caught a couple of large sailor's choices.

O'Donnells had Mac's sister Anne Kopman and her friend Eleanor Pearsall from Sea Cliff, N.Y. visit them. Anne and Eleanor had a great time playing tennis each morning, swimming, riding the O'Donnells' clunky old bicycles and enjoying the sun.

Seems as though everyone had a great time and we hope they'll all come back again next year.

It is time again to say adieu for another season. Many are leaving for home and vacation. We are sorry to see them leave and will be happy on their return. Good fun and good health to each is wished by your three columnists, Betty, Peg and Ruth. Do send your tales of adventures back to us so we may send it out to all who receive our paper. We thank you for past cooperation.

62 attended The Pavilion Church on Sunday. Rev. Clark Thompson officiated. Harold Landis conducted the Lay Services. Grace Thau's sister Mr. Eleanor Hamilton of Cincinnati, Ohio, sang a duet with Grace, who accompanied at the piano. George Bares was the organist. There is one more service on the 29th. Don't forget to set your clocks up one hour for next Sunday.

The last Bingo of this season was attended by over one hundred enthusiasts. Wes Arbo split a coverall. A first for Wes!!

Cards on Monday nite--Spack Clinger was 1st 6870, Nell Swanson 6270, Erma Barton 6000, there were 4 tables.

I am in receipt of a heart warming letter from Mr. & Mrs. Henri Bonin telling all their friends at H. ut that Mary, has finally received the verdict. She will have to depend upon Hemo-Dialysis the rest of her life. Mary & Henri do no know how to thank their H-Out friends for the deluge of get well cards and wishes. Bless all you people of Holiday-Out who cared enough to send all those heart warming messages.

RAMBLING AROUND

Ron and Catherine Cumpsty, Board and Fifth Ave., who came down here from the northland in 1940 to live, had some visitors recently, who had not been here for years. They were Catherine's sister and husband, Micky and Joan Cheney from far away Spokane, Washington.

Micky had not been here for 30 years and Joan for 20, so they could hardly recognize the place, however their old friends the Beagles were still on the same spot. They have done the sights from Daytona to Key West and will return to Spokane by the way of Winter Garden. Joan works for the hospital where a cost containment plain is working out very well.

Hazel Wilson, 15 SW 6th St. cam down here from Kingwood, West Virgina in 1951 and says I think it here very much, especially when her son and wife, Karl and Louise Wilson of Ft. Meyers, Fla, come over for a visit, even if the grandchildren and "greats" could not make it this time. Hazel says they had 3 delightful days of sightseeing and eating out.

Freda Faverkin of 1 SW 6th St. along with being Secretary-Treasurer of the Camera Club is much involved with the Jensen Beach Garden Club. So. IAST WEEK* SHE WENT WITH THE Clubs past president, Mrs. Arthur C. Mills, Jr. to the fifty-third annual convention of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs, at the Diplomat Hotel Hollywood, Fla. It was 2 very busy days, according to Freda, but equally enlightening, so they both enjoyed the trip very much.

Ray Stiles of 5 NE 8th Ave. came down here years ago from Pittsburg, Pa., so frequently has relatives down for a visit. Last week it was Ray's daughter, husband and family, John and Peggy Fox with children James and Mary. They stayed Delphin Inn for one week and during a week of excellent weather they went out fishing on the "Lady Stuart"; hired a boat for some river fishing and spent a lot of time in the swimming pool

They drove down for the 10 day visit of perfect weather and when here the boys spent most of their time sightseeing in the area, while the 15 year old girls spent most of their time at the beach. It just happened that Irene Coates had grandchildren visiting at the same time, so they all got together for fun at the beach and in the park.

Carrol and Lois McDuff of 6 Almond St. just spent their first winter here, although they have visited for the past 3 years, as they are relatives of OBPers who settled here in 1949. They have Carrol's cousin Ray Kane visiting for the month of April. Carrol has had some luck with Popano fishing, so will show Ray how it is done, also they will spend some time at the "tracks", and of course eating out at all the favorite places.

Edna Strominger, 23 NW Almond St. attended the All States Easter Party at Clement Hall last Sunday. It was the farewell party of the year with 24 from many states, sitting down to a ham pot luck dinner, they they played cards and games until it was time to eat again. After a happy day, they parted with well wishes for a pleasant and safe summer.

Irvin and Blanch Boardman, now of 19 Mango St. are down from Concord, N.H. to see how they like it. Al Forest, Blanche's brother, said, " Try it and you will like it". So, that is what they did and now they are interested in buying a place, They have been down Miami way since 1950 but find it much nicer here. As they have 9 children and 7 granddchildren, they soon won't lack for company. Both say they want to get involved in park activities and volunteer work, so they will be finding themselves welcome with open arms.

Bob and Helen McCall, of 10 Kay Lina Dr. came down from Edgerton, Wis. awhile ago and they are sure glad they did, for back home the area is all flooded out. Recently, they had "family" visiting them. Son, wife and grandchildren Frank and Sandra McCall and children, Angie and Robbie, so no few down to enjoy 2 weeks of excellent weather. They claim that Jensen Beach area is the best in all of Florida and they ought to know as they have visited all around, Disney World, Dodger Town, visiting relatives in Ft. Meyers and eating out; just everywhere.

LETTERS FROM OPBers

Ken Bartlett, 11 NW Cocoa received a letter from Dorothy Calder, of 17 Cocoa received a letter from Dorothy Calder, of 17 Cocoa from their hometown, Menasha, Wis. They drove up last week in three and a half days to find the old snow was still on the ground, ice hadn't gone out of the lake, 55 degree weather and no flowers or dube, miss the warm breezes of OBP. Inn. So, it was all too soon they had to go back to Riverdale, Georgia, where Ray will visit them next summer.

Nancy Roulier, 19 Almond St. who came down here in 1967 from Camden, Michigan had some delightful visitors down from Adrian, Mich. last week. They were her grandchildren, Kenneth and Melissa Solmonson and their friends; Rene Wright, Michael (Condon and Brad Walton.

Medicare is up again

Most Seniors received their annual greetings from Medicare saying there will be another increase is paymants, this time up to $8.50 per month. One Senior who had retired in the 60's remarked that he could remember when it was only $0.50. Could that be true. a 1700 percent increase. Who remembers?

Anyway, for once health costs were not the main topic of discussion, last week. it was gasoline prices, as anything that interferes with the use of their beloved cars is of vital concern. The TV reports of over $1.00 gas in Hawaii and that such prices were within the legal guidelines were lamented angrily, but it was the horendous variation in local prices and the TV reports that 50 percent of the stations checked were over charging, this they found the most unsetting.

Some seniors, asked others, what was that "800" number they were to use if they thought gas stations were over charging. None could remember. A disgruntled senior, said, "what good would it do anyway, there couldn't possibly be enough inspectors to check even 10 percent of the gas stations that might be out of line."

Such things as a box of detergent jumping $.70 were cited as examples, and they again stressing that until Mr. & Mrs. John Q. Public set up a howl, the gouging wouldn't stop.

The May issue of the Health Planning Council's "Community Health Notes" had for a lead item, "May is High Blood Pressure Month". The article stated that 24 million Americans were affected by high blood pressure or hypertension. it was called the "Silent Killer" contributing to the mortality of heart failure, heart attacks; strokes; and kidney disease. Although hypertension is largely a treatable disease, there still remains a huge number of unidentified, untreated people, who should have attention.

There fore, this area is fortunate in having the monthly FREE blood pressure clinic by the Volusia County Health Dept. at Langford Field, on the third Friday of each month, 9 to 11 a.m. This clinic has been in operation for over a year with atendance increasing from a dozen or so to over 100. Also, every other month there is a nutritionist on hads to advise about special diets. Next Clinic, Friday, May 17.

There was a slight "SNAFU" at the April clinic, due to a misunderstanding; there was no key available until 9:20. But, the 50 or more people lined up in the bright sunshine and socialized while they waited. those that had lamenese problems were very patient as they held up the building, so the nurses thank you all for being so cooperative. They assure you that steps will be taken so this will not happen again. Those wanting further information, call Health Dept. 287-2277

The Treasure Coast Congregate Meal - recreational programs are becoming very instructive. Last week Jerry Simon of Gray Panthers explained how the Canadian Health insurance program worked, even for USA visitors.

Then, last week Bruce Ferguson of Social Security explained the lastest changes in that program and gave the new times for the Stuart Office. They are, 9 a.m. to 2 a.m., every Monday and Wednesday at the United Methodist Church. Educational Building on Colorado Blvd. The telephone number is 283-5700. For information on these programs call Site Manager Doris Walker 334-2570.

CHAPTER EVENTS

The main event of last week was the General Meetin, Thursday, April 19 at

First Presbyterian Church. Invocation by Ethel Tucker; Pledge led by Frank EDWARDSON; SINGING "America the Beautiful" with Leta Keith at the organ and the meeting was off and running.

The different Committees made their reports; most said there was not much new and what there was, would be reported in the May Bulletin.However, there were a few new committees that reported as follows;

Leon LaRoche, past First Vice President of 1977, will go to an instuction seminar on "55 Alive/Mature Driving", then come back and teach the rest of us. It has been found that although the Older Americans have a better driving record than other age groups, they do have special problems in regards to sight and reflexes. So, pilot programs are being set-up in California, Florida and Illinois, by the US Dept. of Transportation to help the elderly cope with their special driving problems.

Virginia Malone, the new Tour Chairman is trying to arange for a bus load of AARPers (38) to go to Disney World, for the May 7, ceremony honoring the 1,000,000th AARPmember of Florida. The cost will be about $20 for the bus and admission, interested, call Virginia 287-6654.

Colleen Watts, of Adult Education Dept. explained some of the new program they have in mind for next fall and assured the members that the Defensive Driving classes would continue on the first two Saturdays of each month, 10 a.m. at the Environmental Center, Jensen Beach, as long as there ar between 10 and 20 members interested. For registration call her, 287-6400 Ext. 131.

The Ridgeway Singers under the direction of Dr. Barbara Anderson were delightful as they sang 10 numbers from "Heljo Dolly' to "Your land and My Land". The applause should have convinced them that a areturn engagement was in order.

Mighty inboards like this one will race at Regatta this weekend

Annual Sailfish Regatta to be Sat. and Sun.

More than 90 of the world's fastest inboard hydroplanes are expected to race in the 12th Annual Stuart Sailfish Regatta on Saturday and Sunday, May 5 and 6.

The regatta is sponsored by the Stuart-Martin County Chamber of Commerce and is sanctioned by the American Power Boat Association.

There will be 17 races featured on Saturday, including an hour-long Grand National Marathon race. On Sunday, there will be 16 heat races and the regatta crowd of spectators will also be treated to a spectacular air show above the race course.

Nine classes of inboards, including the 7-liter hydro with a kilo record of 140 mph will be competing for the largest purse in the nation for limited inboards.

The races being each day at noon and admission is $2.50 for adults and children under 12 are admitted free.

Bleachers will be set up in front of the course, which is on the St. Lucie River just north of the Roosevelt Bridge. Parking is available on the southbound lanes of U.S.1, while the northbound bridge span will be used for traffic in both directions. Parking is also available at the Stuart City Hall, the Stuart Youth Center, at the Thirsty Whale, and on the east side of the railroad tracks, north of the bridge. The Marine Patrol will arrange for an area for boaters to watch the races.

Dick Crippin, the voice of the Tampa Bay Bucs, will be calling the races.

Boats from Canada, New York and Ohio are entered in the races.

An awards party will be held Sunday evening, one hour after the final race, at the Martin County Fairgrounds on A1A south of Stuart.

$13,000 in prize money is offered for the regatta. The Jensen Beach Bank is sponsoring the Jensen Beach Cup race, Florida Institute of Technology's Jensen Beach campus will supply divers to rescue any racers who have the misfortune of capsizing in their boats. The Penzoil Gumout race division is the national sponsor for the event.

Twenty-five-year-old Patsy Canningham of Stuart will reign as the Sailfish Regatta Queen.

The plan does call for eventual access roads to run parallel to Commercial Street to keep shopping traffic off the main road into Jensen, but Mumford said much of the road planning for the north county area, as well as other areas of the county, won't be done until after the land use plans are adopted. He said the land-use plans may have to be adjusted later, depending on what the county commission finds acceptable in the way of road plans.

The land-use plans, the road plans and a number of other plans, for such things as energy conservation, utilities, water, and recreation are all part of a comprehensive plan that state law requires the county to adopt by next July. Mumford said he hopes a consultant will be hired to work on some of the other "elements" of the plan, and said if the commmission approves that the overall plan could be adopted well before the July 1980 deadline.

Mumford said there is a "good cross-mix" of land use classifications for the north county area, and said the area was planned to be "pretty much self-contained." He also said the planners tried to keep the tourist orientation character to Jensen Beach.

Energy Fair is delayed one week

A one-week postponement of the 2nd Annual Martin County Energy Fair was necessitated to avoid conflicts with other activities such as the Sailfish Regatta, it was announced today.

The Fair, to be held at the Environmental Studies Center in Jensen Beach, will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, May 13. It was originally scheduled for May 6.

A wide range of displays and exhibits is anticipated as reservations for space come in from commercial firms and community organizations. Everything from sun dials to a solar-powered engine, from a wind generator built out of oil drums to an energy computer will be on display.

Also included in the festivities will be various competetive events for children in attendance and a continuous energy film festival in the Center's auditorium. There is no charge for admission to the fair, sponsored by the Center with funds received from the state Office of Environmental Education.

Display space at the Fair is also available without charge to any interested firm, club, group or individual wishing to participate. Further information can be obtained by calling the Center, 334-1262 Monday through Friday, 8a.m. to 4:30p.m.

Square dancing begins May 7

Square dancing lessons will begin the Monday, May 7, at the Jensen Beach Elementary School for all those interested.

Classes will include children over 9 years old, who will provide their own squares. There will also be beginners classes and an adult class of those providing their own squares.

The classes run from 7-8:30 p.m. for beginners and 8:30-10:30 p.m. for an adult workshop.

For further information, contact Jack Hoskin at the Jensen Beach Elementary School, 334-5446.

Rains delay opening of AmEx Tournament

BY DICK CAMPBELL

The rains that came on Monday and Tuesday didn't dampen the spirit, or the tension of the $25,000 American Express Indian River Plantation Classic. They did delay Tuesday's opening play.

A morning wave of misty rain paused long enough for a few matches to get started, but then the rain returned, and play stopped. The threat hung over the courts throughout the afternoon as the challengers proceeded to continue their games.

Some of the top players in the world will be competing between today and the sunday finals. They compete for points and money, with the winner getting top prize money of $4,000 in singles, and $1,500 to split in doubles.

Host pro Tom Falkenburg said that any one of the top fifteen men in the tournament could beat any of the top players in the world on a given day, and action on the courts proved that exciting and diverse tennis would be the order through all matches.

The matches began Sunday with two days of qualifying, with tennis hopefuls competing for eight spots on the 64-player draw.

Play continues today (Thursday) and Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. On Saturday, survivors will play from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and the finals will be held Sunday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Falkenburg praised the support of the community in putting on the tournament.

"It is great. We had our boxes sold out long before, and the local tennis players are helping out as linesmen (and Women) and the youngsters are handling ballboy and ballgirl well," Falkenburg said.

Results of the early matches, delayed by rain, were not available for the early deadline of The Mirror, but, according to Falkenburg the tournament was already a successful effort of community support and involvement.

There too many in the age group the ability to qualify as y Medical Technicians, and o were, were not interested at the time when the State that a State Certified y Medical Technician be on bulance run.

ecruiting Ocean Breeze, for one of the Samaritans financial backers and two men come weekly to clean ior of our vehicles. I am just what can happen.

ve have a Night Crew almost entirely of young who climb out of their beds s at all hours of the night to , then go to their jobs the

But how about the many young married, and able bodied middle-aged retirees who are not showing any interest in our Ambulance Service. Are they going to force the Samaritans to dissolve for lack of volunteers, while they sit back and do nothing?

The week of April 22 to 28 was Volunteer Week. Did you volunteer? Are you willing to give your time to help man our vehicles, and keep our wheels rolling? The Jensen Area Samaritans, ranging in age from 19 to 72, take care of you in time of need, your parents, the older folks in their illness and injuries, your children when they need care day or night, and, yes, some of our young married go to the rescue of your teen agers involved in accidents involving serious injuries.

They care. Do You?

Ten persons who are working people, plus students from F. I. T., compose our Night Crew. Are you among them? If not, why?

If you were watching Channel II Wednesday April 25, you no doubt saw administrator of M.M. Hospital, Guy Cromwell, Dr. Dan Lucas E.M.S. Emergency Medical Physician, and George Krauss, President of the Martin County Samaritans and also our Vice President.

The three gentlemen carried on a very informative round table discussion relative to Volunteer Services. George Krauss quoted J.A.S. as having 21 E.M.T.'s and 12 Drivers. He was correct as per out last roster.

However, the picture has changed, and as of today, April 30, we have 12 E.M.T.s who work on a regular weekly basis, some times many more times per week. 5 E.M.T.s are students and work as their college schedule allows. One qualified R.N. who has been a member for one year, but has never been active on a vehicle, and one whose ability is limited.

We do have 12 drivers, but 6 of those are part time only as their work allows. So, you see, our squad is sorely in need of help, especially drivers. To qualify as a driver, one must have a Florida drivers license, a defensive driving card, and either a Medical Self Help, or Standard First Aid Card. Not too tough is it?

Are you the residents of this area aware that if Jensen Ambulances close their doors, there is no alternative service, and none will be available in less than two years? Are you aware it will be a County Service costing in the neighborhood of one million dollars, a tax addition for you. Plus, you will pay anywhere from $40 to $100 for one way service to or from the hospital in Stuart, and far more if a long transport is needed.

It is up to you. Do you Care?

In 1978, J.A.S. made 947 emergency runs, plus 200 transports. Think about that please.

Half-fish wins No Hook Tourney

BY BOB FRYER

Motorists passing along U.S. 1 next to the Reef Bar Monday evening did a double take as they spotted three self appointed commedians fishing in a huge water puddle by the bar.

Why were they wetting a line in the puddle, you might ask. Well, maybe it would have been better not to have asked. But Peg Meissner, general manager of The Mirror Newspapers asked, and as the saying goes: Ask a foolish question and you get a foolish answer.

The three anglers replied that they were just participating in their annual International No Hook Championship fishing tournament.

Seems the three jokesters, who drive moving vans and stop off for refreshment at The Reef when passing through town, have been staging their mock tourney for several years.

A dude calling himself Red Ryder and sporting an enormous red beard and Stetson had seemed to be the lazy-man's angler. He sat in a chair to do his fishing. His partners, who claimed to be Curt Gowdy and Tom Jones, stood up, as they wouldn't be dragged into the puddle in case they landed a big one.

The trio of anglers had bright plastic bobbers on their lines. Two of them had no hooks, but Gowdy sported the tail-end half of a dead fish at the end of his line. He apparently won this year's tournament by reeling in the same half-fish numbeross times. Apparently, some sort of fresh-water shark must have gobbled up the other half of the fish.

The winning trooper requested that the car be donated by the radio station to the family of a Florida Highway Patrol trooper in Miami who is dying of cancer.

Fishing and weather

BY SALLY LATHAM

April, which had its ups and downs, downed itself right out of existance, both for the tourists fast dwindling from the scene, and for the fishermen along the river.

Ask any angler what the fishing has been like this week and they'll give you a glum "cool". But with the advent of warmer weather toward the weekend, it's due for improvement, they say.

Temperatures in the past week have held to the mild eighties during the day, but dropping to the sixties at night. The much needed rain splashed by, but is expected to clear in the next two or three days.

The best catches of the week were made by Bobby Grant and a group of friends, who boast about 18 snook and five trout from the river, but they're not telling where.

Charly Areni came in with one eight pound bass and 15 trout; Walter Lindell snagged four trout on live shrimp, bu by the power plant, and Rocky, Miles and Jim brought in 26 blues from the river. John Fountain brought in 32 blues from the surf, with a #2000.

Highs and lows for the past week have been:

Marine sport fishermen may soon be licensed

Savannah, Ga. 31401. Telephone (912)234-8062.

There is a strong possibility that most of the coastal states will have some type of licensing program for marine recreational fishermen in the near future, according to Dr. Frank Carlton, president of the National Coalition for Marine Conservation.

The pros and cons of a licensing system are among the topics that will be discussed at the Fourth Annual Marine Recreational Fisheries Symposium being held at the Bahia Mar Hotel, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., May 7 and 8.

"More than 150 anglers, industry representatives, members of the Federal, State, and local governments will attend," said Carlton. "This is an excellent time for the recreational fishermen to make their feelings known about this controversial subject. I urge all who are interested in management of recreational fishing to come and express their ideas."

The symposium is sponsored by the International Game Fish Association, the National Coalition for Marine Conservation, Sport Fishing Institute, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, and the National Marine Fisheries Service.

Additional information concerning the symposium may be obtained by writing Marine Recreational Fisheries Symposium, P.O.Box 23298,

SELLING INHERITED PROPERTY QUESTION:

After the recent death of a distant uncle, I inherited a pretty good sized commercial building. It's all rented to good tenants and gives me no problems. However, I could use the money in my business. An investor has offered me a price that I consider fair, and it's in line with the appraisal we obtained.

I have wrestled with the offer for months. My problem is this—my uncle owned the property for a long time, and I am afraid that the tax on my gain might prevent me from selling. Any suggestions?

ANSWER:

I'm sure that a quick call to your accountant or tax adviser will reveal that you don't have much of a problem at all. With the facts as stated, your tax basis for the property should not be much less than fair market value at your uncle's death or one year later.

Although the most recent changes in the tax laws affecting your situation could create a problem as years progress, these laws are being phased in. Assuming that your offer is approximately equal to the fair market value, you will be required to pay little or no capital gains tax. The major tax required, which may have already been paid, is the more favorable estate tax. If the offer you have in hand is favorable to you, I would suggest that you make that call to your tax adviser before the buyer becomes disenchanted with your procrastination and looks elsewhere.

Plantation edges Mariner Sands in women's tennis

In other matches Danni Geisler and Georgette Sweat of Mariner Sands defeated Martha McCarthy and Connie Fallenburg, 6-0, 6-3; the Plantation's Kathy DeWindt and Marge Miles downed Kathy Breeden and Louise Scianna, 6-2, 6-3 and Audrey Sax and Sally McCarthy of IRP stopped Jean Law and Jean Wamnes, 7-5, 6-4. Mariner Sands' last win came when Judy Rodenbaugh and Irell Rohl beat Lindi Rinaldi and Barbara Garramore, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3 and the Plantation's last victory was a 6-4, 7-5 win by Jean Schafer and Terry Meinhold over Josefa Lund and Ann Munson.

Close matches were the order of the day as Indian River Plantation edged visiting Mariner Sands, 5-3, in first division play in the Ladies Treasure Coast Tennis League.

Three matches went to tie breakers before the issues were settled, including a three-setter in which Nancy Dillon and Sandy Thurlow of the Plantation nipped Jennifer Scitari and Grace Christensen, 6-2, 5-7, 7-6 (5-4). Jan Santagatta and Sue Shell of Mariner Sands picked up a close one over Sally Snow and Mary Hudson, 7-5, 7-6 with the tie breaker score 5-4, while Fran Quinn and Gail Taylor nudged Elsie Bertolini and Barbara Romero, 6-4, 7-6 (5-1), for the Plantation.

Rinker's 70 wins

For Martin County golf coach Bob Collins, it was good news, and also bad news.

The Tigers' dream of another state golf championship in the girls' division came to a dramatic, Hollywood-like end last Friday afternoon in Jupiter, as they lost the District tournament, bowing to Cardinal Newman of West Palm Beach by a slim, but decisive one-stroke margin.

The only good news of the day for Tiger fans was that All-State golfer Laurie Rinker qualified for the state championships this week as an individual, winning the championship at Jupiter with a round of 70, while teammate Shelly Babb contributed a 74 to the Tiger effort, good for third place overall.

Cardinal Newman's Diane Headings finished second, with a 73, three strokes behind Rinker and one ahead of Babb.

Newman's five players shot a combined 328, beating MCHS' five by one shot, as they shot a 329. Katina Gates finished at 91 for the Tigers, while Dana Leighton had a 94 and Sandy Johnson shot 95.

Only the winners of districts around the state qualify to play in the state championships, which begin today (Thursday) in Sarasota. The only exception to that rule is for the winner of the individual title, who qualifies whether his or her team won the team title or not. Rinker qualified in that manner.

Martin County swept through the 1977 golf season, going undefeated and wiping out their competition in the state tournament while bringing the state title trophy to Stuart. But only Rinker and Babb, played on both that team and this year's edition.

Newman's Crusaders will be one of the favorites in the state tournament, which stretches through two days (today and Friday).

In the boys' competition, North Palm Beach-Benjamin shot a team total of 311, beating second-place St. Andrews by three strokes. Martin County finished seventh, while John Carroll was eighth, and Ft. Pierce Central fifteenth.

Jensen Beach's Al Meir led the Tiger boys with an 83, while Art Morris shot 86. The other three varsity golfers, all from the Jensen Beach area, also shot decent scores. Eric Anderson finished at 87, and Rick Johnson and Bill Mang each recorded 88's.

Benjamin, a private school which is often noted more for the presence of golfer Jack Nicklaus' two sons, Steve and Jackie, will also make the cross state jaunts to Sarasota for the state tournament this week.

Bond-Tilton fall farther behind at Laguna Seca race

BY BOB FRYER

The hopes of Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton for a national drivers' championship title dimmed Sunday when Tilton managed only a 12th place finish in a 75-mile race at Laguna Seca Raceway at Monterey, California.

The Jensen Beach racing team has made the last several years sought the national drivers title in the International Motor Sports Association's series of road races.

Until this year they have competed with a financial handicap that has prevented them from entering many of the IMSA events in far-away states. This year, they still don't have major sponsorship comparable to that of national firms or car manufacturers who support many of their competitors. In spite of that, Bond, (who has driven at the racing game a little longer than Tilton) has managed to finish IMSA seasons ranked fifth, fourth, third, and eighth respectively in the last four years of racing in the IMSA GTU (small engine) class. And, as a driver in the IMSA races long enough to allow driver swaps, Tilton has also racked enough points to finish in the top 10 in the GTU class for the last three years.

This year, Bond and Tilton landed the sponsorship of E.J. Prutt and Assoc., a bicycle emporium in West Palm. It's not comparable to the big-time sponsors' contributions to many of the teams in the GTU class, but it helped them afford a trip out West to compete in the last two IMSA races.

Two weeks ago, Bond and Tilton shared driving duties in their Porsche 911 at a 6-hour race at Riverside, Calif. In that race, Bond was ranked first in the GTU points standings and Tilton was just one point behind in second place. But a Datsun Z car driver, Don Devendorf, scored his second straight class victory at Riverside, picked up 20 points in the standings, and moved ahead of Bond and Tilton with 40 points. An eighth place finish for Bond and Tilton gave them each three points, making a total of 36 for Bond and 35 for Tilton.

Then came Laguna Seca. Devendorf did it again, sweeping the 75-mile race and adding another 20 points to his total. As the race was so short, and because Bond had driven the last short race at Road Atlanta earlier in April, Tilton drove. He finished 12th. However, since points are only awarded to the top 10 finishers, he got no points.

There are 16 races on the IMSA circuit and the Laguna Seca race was only the fifth one of this season. So, it's still too early to count Bond and Tilton out of the running.

But unlike the 24 Hours of Daytona, the first IMSA race of the season where the Jensen drivers picked up 12 points each for a third-in-class finish, and the 12 Hours of Sebring, where they took a class victory and each got 20 points, Laguna Seca is far too typical of the type of racing ahead for much of the IMSA calendar.

The problem is, it seems, the Porsche 911 is built for endurance races. The Datsun Z cars and the Mazda RX-7 cars are less durable but extremely quick in short races. IMSA has a lot of short races on the circuit, and only a few long ones.

At Laguna Seca, as at Road Atlanta and, to some extent at Riverside, the Datsuns and RX-7s dominated.

"There was only one Porsche 911 in the top 10 at Laguna," Tilton said.

Unlike past years, when mechanical failures spoiled some of the Jensen Beach team's efforts, the number 60 Bond-Tilton Porsche had no causes to stop for repairs at Laguna Seca. "There were no problems, the car was just slower", Tilton said, explaining that the Z cars (prepared with factory sponsorship) simply ran away with the show. And the Mazda RX-7s, were also noticeable quicker than the Porsche 911s.

"Denais Aase (a top 911 driver whose home track is Laguan Seca) used to run away from everyone with his second-hand 911. He had a 911 at the race that was about as fast as you could make one, and the best he ran was fifth until he blew an engine. Those Mazdas carry about the same weight as we do, but have about 40 more horsepower than you can get out of a 911 engine," Tilton said, adding that he would constantly find himself fighting to overtake Datsuns and RX-7s in curves, only to see them zoom past him on straightaways.

Tilton sounded genuinely disappointed after Laguna Seca. With many more short races left on the IMSA calendar than long ones, perhaps he was just being realistic about the chances of a Porsche 911 to compete on an equal footing with the Japanese cars. But he and Bond haven't tossed in the towel yet. They're still in second and third place in the points standings, and still plan to enter a number of the remaining races. Two weeks from now they'll run a sprint race at Hallett, Oklahoma. Then, they may enter a slightly longer race at Lime Rock, Conn. and a 250 mile event at Daytona on July 4th. The latter race will mark an approximate halfway point for the IMSA season, and perhaps that will be a better time to assess their chances for a driver's crown.

'C. J.' signs with Marshall

BY DONNIE WILKIE

It came with an abruptness that even startled Martin County High School basketball coach Don Wallen, who very rarely can be found in such a state.

Chales Jones, the state's most coveted center, if not its most coveted player of all, announced Monday just before press time that he had decided to take his 6-8, 235 pound frame to Marshall University, in Huntington, West Virginia.

Wallen, who was rumored to be "rooting" for Jones to sign with the University of Florida, as were many other local basketball fans, issued a brief statement on Monday just after the announcement was made by the Jones family.

The tall center, who so dominated opposition in the state championship tournament in Lakeland that Southeastern Conference hopefuls Auburn, Vanderbilt and Florida, along with Atlantic Coast powerhouse Clemson and independant Penn State all made strong bids for his services, was voted just this past weekend to the first team of the All-State AAAA squad, selected by members of the Florida Sportswriters Association.

In that voting, Jones was the leading vote getter, topping fellow first team members Frank Poindexter (Orlando Evans) James Thomas (Fort Lauderdale Nova), Frank Burnell (Jacksonville Ribault), Derrick Floyd (Miami Northwestern), and Glen Washington (Pensacola Washington). Martin County had to cope with Nova's Thomas during the St.Petersburg Sunshine Classic in December and then Washington when the Tigers beat Pensacola Washington in the AAAA semi-finals at Lakeland in March.

Others who faced Martin County during the season and made the AAAA squad were; Alonza Allen (Lakeland final game, AAAA title tourney),and Mike Johnson (Pensacola Washington). Allen and Johnson made the sportswriters' second team.

Being selected for third team honors were Isaiah Singletary (ClearwaterSt. Pete Classic) and Sam Henry (Daytona Beach Mainland sectional championship game). Martin County's Moses Johnson was voted Special Mention, one step above Honorable Mention, while teammate Ernest McIntyre was given Honorable Mention status.

Tiger opponents named to the Honorable Mention squad were: Herb Harris (Daytona Mainland), Tim Strawbridge (Lakeland), Jon Gwin (Lake Worth-John L. Leonard, district final opponent), Mike Maloney Pensacola Washington) and Johnny Young (WPB-Twin Lakes, district semi-final opponent).

For Jones, the decision to attend Marshall was admittedly his own, as he was quoted on Monday. Citing the basketball-crazy town of Huntington, as well as a "better situation there," Jones left many of the drooling SEC and ACC scouts all wet, to coin a phrase.

This signing apparently ends the race for MCHS talent, as other stars Johnson and McIntyre have already given their services to four-year schools. McIntyre signed two weeks ago with Salem College in West Virginia, and Johnson signed with Florida Southern University at the Tigers' basketball banquet four weeks ago in Stuart. Southern is located in Lakeland.

The only other standout senior, Allan Raines, is apparently lacking in the department of drooling scouts, although local junior college coach Mike Lestherwood (IRCC) says "Allan could maybe make our team as a walk-on and contribute."

OTBALL ALREADY?–Yes, these diehard pigskin players are at it again, as ch Fred Chase opened spring practice for his Martin County High School Tigers. The team, 8-2 last season, plays in a jamboree at Fort Pierce's Lawnwood Stadium May 25, and is looking forward to a 1979 district 10-AAAA showdown with powerful Merritt Island. (Staff photo by Donnie Wilkie)

NEW OWNERSHIP- Dave Taylor, right, became the new owner Monday of the Chevron station at Skyline Drive and Commercial street. Taylor hails from Califon, N.J. and was introduced to this area by his neighbour, Mrs. Jeannette Evart, left. She had been visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rhodes, for years, and after raving about Jensen Beach and getting Taylor and his wife, Susan, to come down, the Taylors bought the station from Bill Crooks. Mrs. Euart was Taylor's first customer. (Staff photo by Bob Fryer)

LET'S BE FRIENDS- Two unidentified Martin County High School football players show the meaning of the word "hit" during drills at the MCHS practice fields last week. It was a rough week for many hopefuls who turned out for spring practice, mandatory for all football players. The Tigers, who were 8-2 a year ago, are aiming toward a district title, which means a showdown with state powerhouse Merritt Island. First, though, comes a jamboree in Fort Pierce on May 25.

Gold coat professionalism, combined with true midwestern hospitality, spelled success for Century 21 Lucieland Corp.'s grand opening party Friday evening at their newly redecorated office building located at 20000 So. U.S.1 in Port St. Lucie.

Six of the ten office personnel hail from Iowa. Broker Stan Hicks, his wife, Lee, their daughter, Debbie Cleveland (office receptionist), Mrs. Hick's sister, Peggy Morrow, and her husband Al Morrow, along with Sales Manager Duane Halderman, all are from Des Moines, Iowa. David Cleveland, son-in-law of the Hicks, and head of the Lucieland Corp. Construction Division, comes from Omaha, Nebraska, Ken Lombardo from St. Louis, Missouri, Terry Gallagher, broker-salesman from Indianapolis, Indiana and Vic Nassar from Stuart completes the staff.

"To say we are highly pleased is an understatement!" said Halderman. "The response has more than exceeded our expectations, which in turn further encourages us to pledge all our efforts to serve our clients in the true professionalism of Century 21."

Upon arrival the 310 guests were guided by the neighborhood professionals through the handsome office building.Gracing the interior walls were original oils, courtesy of Betty Frazier of Port St. Lucie. Concluding with the Construction Division of Lucieland Corp., guests enjoyed a social hour beneath a large canopy tent, where a bubbling champagne fountain fronted a table spread with miniature hors d'ouevres.

Pat Duncan, Marketing Consultant and Rick Grimaldi, Treasure Coast Broker Development, were among Century 21 dignitaries on hand for the gala event.

Hicks has lived here for five years. Prior to his U.S.1 location his office was located at 767 S.E. Whitmore, Port St. Lucie. In addition to his Century 21 office. Hicks is a partner in the exclusive Hidden River Estates Subdivision, bordering the north fork of the St. Lucie River. "We invite any and all to stop in and see our new office, have a cup of coffee, and meet our family of associates," Hicks said.

PORT ST. LUCIE BANK President Herbert Haughton and Mrs. Haughton congratulated Lee Hicks on the occasion of the Lucieland Open House Friday evening, to celebrate the new offices at 20,000 U.S. 1 and their association with C Century 21.

THE LUCIELAND OPEN HOUSEcelebration brought out many friends to the new offices on U.S. 1, including Richard and Rita Hey and Fred and Ruth Adler.

GIVE ME A "T" - There were cheerleaders wherever one looked last week at Martin County High School, as dozens of aspirants for spots on the 1979-80 squads turned out in force for the annual tryouts at the school. These three hopefuls, led by Jensen Beach's Suzan Thorburn, in the middle, took time out from the practice to try their hands at vertical showmanship. (Staff photo by Donnie Wilkie)

A SAURIAN VISITOR has decided to take over the home of one of the Mirror writers. Mr. Flibbertigibbet, as he is becoming more fondly known, is not only suggesting ideas for stories, but has decided to run the whole joint!

Savings are a piece of cake. Help us celebrate.

Pierce. The Tiger girls were impressive, as nine girls qualified for the Regional meet this week. (Staff photo by Donnie Wilkie)

ALMOST, BUT NOT QUITE - Martin County High School distance runner John Moffo tried with all his resources to overtake Ken Buwalda of John I. Leonard High School in the two-mile run at last week's District II-AAAA track championships in Ft. Pierce, but he could not do it, finishing third (the leader is ahead of both runners pictured), but setting a school record in the process with a time of 10:00.96. (Staff photo by Donnie Wilkie)

Tigers parade into Regional

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Led by their strong girls squad, the Martin County High School track Tigers qualified twelve athletes for this Friday's Regional Championships at Lawnwood Stadium in Ft. Pierce

Bruce Wells' Tigers made their best showing in District competition in years at last Thursday's District II-AAA meet, held at the same Lawnwood complex, as nine members of the girls team earned spots in this week's stepping stone to the state championships later in May.

Meanwhile, rival Fort Pierce Central also qualified 12 athletes, but in a somewhat different manner, as the boys ruled the roost sending ten competitors to the Regional while only two girls made it through the rough competition last week.

The Tiger girls came up with a sweep of the discus throw, as Kathy Power threw 119'9", while teammate Carolyn Knott, just a sophomore, finished second with a toss of 117'3". The boys furthered the cause of MCHS "power" as Greg Wright hurled the discus 148'7" to win the district crown. He also won the shot put event, setting a school record in the process with an effort of 53'9". Knott finished fourth in the girls event, with a put of 34'4½".

The MCHS mile medley relay team of Heather Flinn, Christane Wilson, Toni Powell and Sherri Kessler turned in a fabulous time of 4:36.94 to take third place in their event, and qualify as a team for the Regional this Friday.

The same team, minus Kessler and plus Laura Flinn, Heather's sister, took fourth in the mile relay with a time of 4:28.32.

Aside from Wright, the boys sent only two athletes up the ladder in state competition. John Moffo ran a school record 10:00.96 in the two-mile event, won by Boca Raton's Mark Kampa in 9:56.34. John I. Leonard's Ken Buwalda grabbed second, just three tenths of a second ahead of Moffo. But the MCHS record holder will have a chance to avenge the defeat in the Regional run.

John Hornburger was the other MCHS boys qualifier, leaping six fet in the high jump to take fourth place.

Evelyn Karafotias qualified for this week's meet by finishing fourth in the girls' long jump, as she flew 15'9". Diane Elwer cleared 4'10" in the high jump to finish fourth, while Toni Powell missed the Regional by placing fifth.

On the Fort Pierce Central boys side, Jimmy Reese and Jerome Rhyant placed in the top four in the shot put, as Reese's put of 51'8½" was second only to the effort of MCHS' Wright. Rhyant tossed the shot 48'9" to finish fourth. Frank Hightower also qualified for the Regional meet with a jump of 6'6", a Central school record, in the high jump, good for second place.

Reese also finished second in the discus, with a toss of 146'8", while Robert Burgess' 10.27 second dash in the one hundred yard event was good for third place.

Bobby Plain leaped 22 feet in the long jump, good for second place, while teammate Vernon Phillips finished fourth in the event at 20'3".

Phillips was victorious in the 220-yard dash, beating his competition with a time of 22.86. Central also qualified for the Regional meet in three relay events - the 440 yard relay, the mile medley, in which they took first place, and the mile relay.

The regional meet will be hosted by Ft. Pierce Central for the first time ever this Friday at Lawnwood Stadium, as teams from District 9, District 10 and District 12 challenge the winners of last week's meet. Meet time is 4 p.m.

Island phone numbers changed on Saturday

On May 6, the prefixes to telephone numbers on Hutchinson Island changed.

The new building, located at 10990 South A1A, Jensen Beach, was built to help alleviate the work load on the central office located in Stuart.

"The area was just getting too large for the central office to serve," said Roy Ramsey, District Network Manager.

The telephone lines extend the entire length of the island. The only area that will not be serviced will be the nuclear power plant, reason being "because of the magnitude and complexity of the plants' communications," stated Ramsey.

It is not known whether the power plant will eventually connect up to the new system.

The old 283, 286 and 287 prefixes have become 225, and the 334 numbers on the island have changed to 229.

This change was brought about by the rapid population growth in the surrounding area.

The new Southern Bell directory includes the listings.

It took until Monday, however, to iron out some of the minor problems related to the switchover. In some cases, the telephone number rang, and was not interrupted by the recording giving the new number.

Sutton assured The Mirror that the transition was made with a minimum of problems, and by Monday all previous telephone numbers were being correctly interrupted with the new number given by a recording.

Martin county to offer Southern Gulf $850,000

Southern Gulf Utilities, which now provides water to parts of Hutchinson Island and Sewall's Point, came a firm step closer to ceding the system to the county, in action Tuesday at the County Commission.

The county voted to make an offer of $850,000 to buy the system, now privately owned by the Miami-based concern. Negotiations have been in the wind for several years, but this is the first time specific terms have emerged in official conversation.

"This is the first real offer," County Commission Chairman Frank Wachs said after the meeting. "All else has just been conversation."

The proposal included stipulations that Southern Gulf make some maintenance improvements before the county takes over.

If the deal goes through, it is expected to alleviate all sorts of problems now faced by developers in the Hutchinson Island area, where water shortages have limited the height and extension of high-rises and other residential expansions.

Low pressure problems have inhibited growth in many areas in the path served by Southern Gulf, which has also had its problems in supplying the promised water to both Hutchinson Island and Sewall's Point.

Robert Russell, vice-mayor of Sewall's Point, was elated in the firm step forward.

"With this area growing the way it is," he said, "it's high time the county got into the water business."

It would not only be an effective move for the county and the city of Stuart, but for the entire area, he commented, adding, "It would also possibly save money in the long run."

Girl stabbed, raped

A 18-year-old Jensen Beach girl was kidnapped, raped and stabbed Sunday after she reportedly gave two men a ride in her car.

Martin County Sheriff's officials report the girl, who was stabbed five times, was in stable condition at the Palm Beach -Martin County Hospital in Jupiter on Tuesday morining.

Arrested in connection with the case are George W. Calloway, 26, of 42nd. Avenue, Stuart, and Timothy Wayne Barnhill, 18, of Okeechobee. Both are charged with sexual battery, kidnapping, attempted first degree murder, and trespassing. Calloway is additionally charged with possession of less than five grams of marijuana, possession of qualludes, and carrying a concealed weapon.

The men are being held in the Martin County Jail without bond on the sexual battery, kidnapping and attempted first degree murder charges.

Detective Mario DeLudos says the two men made contact with the girl at a convience store shortly before 7 a.m. Sunday and rode in her car with her to Stuart Causeway.

Then, DeLudos reports, the trio drove back into town, out SR 76, and down SR 711 before turning off into a wooded area, where the girl was allegedly raped and stabbed.

Lawmen say the two men left the girl and fled on foot, and that a passing motorcyclist spotted the girl along the edge of the woods and took her to a nearby house, where an ambulance was summoned.

A two-hour manhunt, involving two shifts of deputies, was conducted before the two men were found on Hobe Groves property and arrested.

Lutheran Pastor resigns

The Rev. A. V. Socker, for four and a half years pastor of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, has resigned to accept a call to another church.

During his pastorate the congregation has grown from a handful of worshippers to a membership of over 300, and has moved into its own beautiful sanctuary on U.S. 1 just north of Stuart.

Dr. Royall Yount, President of the Florida Synod, will appoint a pastor to Prince of Peace. In the meantime the Rev. Edmund Moeckel and the Rev. Robert Carl, assisted by the Rev. Evens Carlson, all three members of the congregation, will take care of the needs of the congregation.

Bafalis calls for outside probe of Jensen Post Office

Although local post office officials seem to have ironed out morale problems, there is still evidence that there may be some service problems related to the Jensen Beach Post Office, and a new investigation has been called for.

Jack McDavitt, aid to U.S.Representative L.A."Skip" Bafalis, said in the last few days there have been a few complaints received by the congressman concerning the Jensen Beach Post Office.

When stories appeared in The Jensen Beach Mirror several months ago about alleged morale problems at the local post office, The Mirror called for an investigation of the situation. Congressman Bafalis pledged to look into the matter.

When a check was made last Friday for an update on complaints to Bafalis' office, McDavitt said that complaints recently reported to Bafalis' office have prompted the congressman to ask for a new investigation. He said the complaints "indicated that the investigation made earlier was superficial and that they still have problems there."

"We've written the U.S Postal Service again saying it might be a good idea to have somebody else take a look at it--preferably somebody from the outside who can give an objective look at things," McDavitt said.

When told that local postal workers seem to feel earlier morale problems are pretty much resolved, McDavitt said he hoOpes that is the case, but added, "The important thing to us is not how the employees feel, but what the service is like. They're a service operation, and the idea is to make sure the job gets done."

"The problems between the people and the officer in charge don't concern us except as to how it affects the service the public is getting. They have their own mechanisms for dealing with problems among themselves, but want to make sure that the service to the public is what it should be," McDavitt said.

He noted that Congressman Bafalis is now waiting on a response to the Postal Service officials to his letter calling for a new investigation, and said he'll relay that response to The Mirror once it is received.

Local postal workers say morale better

BY BOB FRYER

Although Jensen Beach Postal workers say the local office is not totally problem free, they say conditions are much better now than they were several months ago.

Since last September, when former Postmaster Harold Salzler stepped down from that post to take a job at the office as a letter carrier, the post office has had three officers-in-charge while waiting for a new postmaster to be assigned to duties here.

Salzler reportedly took the lesser position to escape the pressures of the postmaster's job, as did predecessor, Ray Lorenz, a number of years ago.

In late January, The Mirror cited alleged morale problems, delays in getting mail out, poor management, and the arbitrary return of mail without attempts to deliver it locally.

Mirror editor Dick Campbell and news editor Sally Lathaga looked into the situation and reported on the apparent turmoil at the local post office in a series of stories and editorials.

Last week, several local postal employees were interviewed and, based on their comments, morale seems to be up and the incidence of problems down.

Larry Barraga, a clerk at the post office and steward of the Local 1213 clerk's union, commented that while morale was "pretty bad last year, many improvements have been made in recent months. "We had really bad problems, but we have come a long way since then. Management is totally different now. The people are pretty high-quality people here."

Barraga said, "Then (when Salzler was postmaster), there was favoritism and no equality in job assignments. We had mismanagement in the past, but with the last three officers in charge the majority of morale problems have improved. Now, management is aware of the problems and has made a legitimate attempt to solve them. They've gone to bat and met the problems."

The steward said in the past some of the employees needed more training to do the jobs they were assigned to do. A training program is now under way, and a cross-training program is to be implemented soon.

Barraga and Norman Hodges, a local clerk who is vice president of the local clerk's union, both agreed that the cross training program should be especially valuable. They explained that with cross training, it will mean more employees will be capable of helping fellow employees with jobs they weren't trained to specialize in. Instead of having a situation where only one person is able to do a specific job, in the future the cross training program should mean other employees will be able to help out if the man specifically trained for a particular job gets bogged down with a work load. This should result in a more efficient operation and better service to the patrons of the post office, they said.

The post office has received a new vehicle to help with the training program, Barraga said, and Hodges added that a new employee will soon be hired to help with the work load.

"Up to six or eight months ago, there was mandatory overtime up to the point of exhaustion, and there was no relief in sight, and that brought on a lot of the morale problems," Hodges noted. But with the promise of a new employee and with the seasonal decrease in the volume of mail, things are better now, he said.

Pat Grove, an administrative clerk at the Jensen post office, responded, "No problems," when asked about present conditions.

One factor that may have contributed to earlier problems is that employees have been waiting since last September, when Salzler stepped down, for a new postmaster to be assigned to the post office. When Salzler left, Don Sivyer was brought up from a post office in Homestead to serve as officer in charge. Regulations provide that an officer in charge may only work at a post office in that capacity for six months.

When Sivyer's six months ended, there was still no postmaster appointment, so Jerry Kindred, a training supervisor from the West Palm Beach sectional center, was named the new officer-in-charge. He served until last week, when Joseph Furiato, manager of retail sales and service at the West Palm Beach center, was sent in as the third officer-in-charge.

When contacted to see if there had been any improvement in morale since the problems came to light earlier this year, Furiato explained that he was brand new on the job. However, he quickly met with postal workers and responded by saying the former problems seem to have been ironed out. And, when asked why he was brought in to replace Kindred, he said it was because Kindred was needed for a training program for teaching postal workers how to operate sorting machines, and not because of anyone's dissatisfaction with the job he did while here.

Furiato said a new postmaster should be appointed for the Jensen Beach Post Office "within 30 to 90 days."

"In an office of this size, and I've worked in them this size before, you usually find the people to be unique and hard working and most dedicated, and it seems to be the case here. In a smaller office, the people benefit because by being in a small town, the workers get to know their patrons and vice versa. Many of the patrons here know their carriers by name, and that's good," he said.

Furiato commented about one rumor reported earlier, that the local post office may lost its first class status, that "This is just not the case. There is no chance of that."

Barraga noted that there may never be a time when there are virtually no problems in the office.

"Jensen Beach is no longer Sleepy Hollow," he said, adding that while it may be impossible to have a "completely smooth" operation, the present problems are minimal and are of the sort to be expected in any office.

ALL SMILES AT THE P.O.- Postal workers at the Jensen Beach Post Office say morale problems are behind them, but US. Representative L.A. "Skip" Bafalis has called for a new investigation of alleged service problems at the local post office. Shown above, from the left, are: Norman Hodges, a clerk who is vice president of the local postal workers clerk's union; Pat Grove, administrative clerk; Larry Barraga, a clerk who is steward of the local clerk's union; and Joseph Furiato, the new officer-in-charge. Legal flap cancels land plan meetings

It's back to the drawing boards for the Martin county Commission and the land use plan. The Tuesday and Wednesday public hearings on the land use plan were cancelled Monday when commissioners learned they had to go back to square one.

County Attorney Jack Carmody told the commissioners that the legal requirementsof the state were not met in the hearings held.

The county commission, under state law, was required to appoint a "Land Plan Agency" to do the planning. The commission had appointed itself as the agency, but failed to meet as such an agency. Thus, Carmody interpreted, the county would have to start all over again.

Two public meetings will be held, the first bing May 30, to approve officially what had already been approved. The commission will convene as the land plan agency, hold the two meetings, and submit the plan to state officials in Tallahassee.

Ater the proper time for the state to comment, more public hearings on the plan will be held.

Energy Fair is May 13

The Energy Fair to be held May 13 at the Environmental Center will have everything from sundials to electric cars onexhibit.

There will be twenty different exhibits including such things as solar water heaters, solar engines, insulation and wind generators.

The Fair will run from 1-8 p.m.

County Administrator Jack Nobel told The Mirror that it probably would be late in the year before all th requirements are met and the plan approved. The state has mandated that all counties and cities have comprehensive plans complete by 1980.

Andrews explains delinquent tax roll

Ever wonder what the delinquent tax roll is all about, and how you go about acquiring property that the taxes are overdue on?

Starting today in the Jensen Beach Mirror, and continuing for the next three weeks, you'll find the Martin County delinquent tax roll.

"What we're doing is advertising to sell tax certificates on each unpaid tax for 1978. There's a separate certificate for each amount not paid as of June 1, 1978," explained Alvin Andrews, Martin County Tax Collector.

When bidding on the tax certificates starts, the bidding begins at 18 percent interest and goes progressively lower still no more bids are offered. Whoever submits the lowest bid then pays the delinquent tax and receives a tax certificate indicating the amount of tax paid and amount of interest bid.

During the next two years, the person who is delinquent in taxes can come to the Tax Collector and pay off the past due tax, plus the amount of interest on that past due amount that was bid on by the holder of the tax certificate, plus advertising and paperwork expenses. The holder of the certificate is then, in turn, paid off the amount of the tax, plus interest on that amount at whatever rate the certificate specifies.

If two years pass without the person who is delinquent in taxes paying off the tax, the holder of the certificate can then begin a procedure to have the property in question sold at an auction on the courthouse steps. Anyone, including the holder of the certificate, can bid on the land, and the deed for the land goes to the highest bidder. If someone other than the certificate holder bids highest, the amount of the delinquent tax, plus the specified interest, goes to the holder of the certificate before the deed is issued to the new owner. Also, advertising and paperwork expenses are collected by the count clerk from the amount bid before the deed is issue.

"People bid on tax certificates as a long-term investment; it's an interest bearing thing," Andrews said.

Summer weather busts out.

By SALLY LATHAM

The weatherman, who has been taking a long spring vacation since Easter, decided to bust loose with an h-of-a-yell this week, livening up the landscape with everything from lashing rains and probable tornadoes among the diversions.

The big blinger came Tuesday afternoon, following a decided drop in temperatures from the eighties to the low 70s, moving in with a front that downed limbs and brought reports of tornado touchdowns from two places throughout the area - one in Stuart and the other at Fort Pierce Beach. Nothing was hit, apparently, but gave trailer residents their usual good scare.

The weather upset also drove all the fishermen off the river, where they'd been making some very nice hauls of trout during the past few days. One of the most talked about catches was made by Jimmy Jay, who bagged a palometto, a rare variety of pompano. It'll be stuffed and hanging for inspection on the wall of Dave's Jensen Bait and Tackle within the next few days.

Other catches reported by Dave include; a 31 pound snook, a ten pounder and a four pounder caught off the Palm City Bridge by Craig Kurdita; a three pound pompano at the Crossroads, caught by M. Reicher; four trout to three pounds caught by Charlie Arensi on Trout Touts, in the Flats; two dozen pompano by Henry Dorer in the surf on sand fleas.

Tommy Stewart says the trout are running hot and heavy in the river - or were up to Tuesday's storm. Catches included; John Mazza, eight trout on Banana Lure; Bud and Ray Detmil, nine trout on live shrimp; Fred Rein, three trout on live shrimp in the river; Ed Wagner, seven trout on Trout Touts; Fred Peterson, an eight and a three-quarter trout on live shrimp; Charlie Kessler, and Johnny Crawford, a snook and two snapper on shrimp;

Also Bob Schelks, one 10 and a half pound snook on shrimp, off the Outdoor Resorts dock; Tom Deodato, 10 trout out of the river; Robby Davey, and Trippp Saunders, nine trout and ten mangrove snapper on live shrimp.

Clarence Karschner, 12 croakers and five whiting out of the surf on cut shrimp; Tom Hargrave, 11 whiting and one croaker on cut shrimp; Bob Sauers and Tom Hilly, 12 whiting, three snapper and one pompano.

Also Audrey Stout, 14 whiting and two pompano on shrimp; and Ron Ellis, 10 whiting and eight croaker.

Chuck at the Bait Box reports an unusual catch by Rob McAndrew. He says the youngster caught a nine and a half pound blue fish off the wall on the south side of the causeway on a cut ribbon fish. "It was real long and skinny, and probably would have gone 14 or 15 pounds if it had been filled out," he said.

Chuck estimated the fish to be about 36 inches long. "I could hardly believe it was a blue, it was so skinny for its length, but you could tell from its head what it was," he said.

Musical Charade' appearing at F.I.T. Sunday

MOVE FAST—If you want to see Musical Charade, that is. The band, featuring all local talent, has been playing at the Sheraton Resort Inn's Sandbox Lounge on Hutchinson Island for over four months, but they will play no more after Saturday evening's performance. Members of Musical Charade are: (across front) Dale Voitel, Beverly Brame and Jimmy Goulet. The drummer, just behind Voitel, is Billy Cunningham. The band will perform at FIT this Sunday from 12 noon to 4 p.m., but without Miss Brame, who is leaving after Saturday to pursue her career as a secretary and as a part-time singer. (Staff photo by Donnie Wilkie)

BY DONNIE WILKIE

The marquis, if F.I.T. had one, would probably say something to the effect of "Musical Charade, Sunday, May 13." But the story of this local band goes far beyond the words contained on any marquis.

Musical Charade is currently concluding one of the longest stands of any band to play at the Sheraton Resort Inn on Hutchinson Island in Jensen Beach. Their final performance will be this Saturday night, at 9 p.m., although they will also take the stage on Thursday (tonight) and Friday as well. Since January 4, they have delighted crowds with their all-around musical talent, and, most important to their employers, these crowds have been huge.

But, with the record companies of America becoming increasingly interested in their music, Dale Voitel, Jimmy Goulet and Billy Cunningham feel that it's time to move on to bigger and better things.

For Beverly Brame, the bigger and better things will have to come to Stuart, because after Saturday night, she will no longer add her wonderful voice to Musical Charade's music. According to Voitel, she will probably not appear with the band during the F.I.T. performance.

Since their nearly one year stand in Niles, Mich. in 1975, Voitel and Goulet have "paid the price" that all bands must pay before they become nationally know. They played with a band in Miami called "Wham," and they played at Stuart's infamous Oasis, which was raided by local police during one of the band's performances.

"That was about the strangest thing that's happened to us," said Voitel last week. "We just didn't want to get involved with anything the bar was doing, so we just got our stuff together and left."

In virtually no time at all, the band, with Miss Brame in tow, was booked at the Sheraton's Sandbox Lounge, beginning a surge of success for them.

"Playing the Sheraton is great," continued Voitel, "because just about everyone who sees us knows us from around town." Of course, Charade has benefitted from the winter tourists, who annually pack the Sheraton and often visit the Sandbox.

But now that the band is losing its female vocalist, the music of Musical Charade, up until now a mixture of just about anything from mellow, soft tunes to upbeat rock and roll, will take a turn toward the latter.

"Honestly, I'd rather sing more of the Barbra Streisand type stuff," said Miss Brame, Saturday night during one of the band's two breaks. "Not only that, I like to live at least a semi-settled life, and the life of a traveling band just isn't made for somebody like me."

Currently, she works as a secretary for the Martin County Sheriff's Department by day, then sings with the band by night. Needless to say, it has been a hectic four and a half months for her.

Asked what she intends to do once the band leaves the Sheraton, Miss Brame admitted she will probably continue to sing, at least on a local basis, maybe as part of a duo.

In recent weeks, Capitol Records has expressed interest in the band's original works, which include their first single "Call Me Tonight," which was expected to be released either yesterday (Wednesday) or today, although they are not directly involved with its release.

"If we could sell a couple of commercial tunes and get an album out, maybe we can get a good image going. I'd really hate for people to just label us "a rock and roll band."

Nevertheless, that is the direction that Voitel and Goulet, as well as drummer Cunningham are going. "We're going to be a high energy band," adds Goulet, who, says Miss Brame, is "one of the most spontaneous" people she's ever met. In addition to the humor which he adds to the show every night, Goulet often shows his extensive abilities with a guitar. After all, playing a guitar with your teeth and backwards, behind you back, isn't something that the average musician does.

In the next couple of weeks, the band will add a keyboard player, and maybe even another female vocalist. "There's a good possibility that we'll be hooking up with Linda Ford," added Voitel. Miss Ford has been working locally, and has been quite popular herself at clubs like the Greek II in Stuart.

But, said Voitel, "we get more results when less people are involved. It's easier that way. After all, the three of us have been together now long enough to know just about what everybody's going to do at any time."

"We've worked with so many bands in the last two years - it's incredible," says Voitel. "But now we're on our own."

"I suppose if we couldn't make it as a middle-of-the-road rock band that we could go out and write some disco, just for the bucks. We've already had an offer to do that. But you perform better if you like the music you're playing, and we like rock best."

Which is probably what will be heard at F.I.T. this Sunday. The band likes playing these special events around the county. In March, they played nearly all afternoon at a March of Dimes event in Stuart, and, according to Voitel, they could be a part of the grand opening of "The Flying Fool" hobby shop in Stuart.

"We'd like to relate to the college students in town," added Voitel. "They hardly ever come to the Sheraton, because they have a place on campus, and they have to study so much. But we just want them to know we're still in there kicking."

Voitel also added that another March of Dimes benefit performance might be in the works in the near future.

"This summer, you might say, is a critical period for us. All we have to do is learn some original stuff, and go out and get it recorded."

Cunningham analyzed the situation, saying, "we all have jobs we could go to at any time. But for us, this is our job. This is what we want to do; it's what we like doing."

"We know that the real money is in the big cities," concluded Voitel, "but we like it down here. We've lived here for awhile, and we like the environment. Everybody's our friend. It's comfortable and relaxing here - the weather's great, and we can grow with the town..."

County Commision supports Golden South Stuart service

The chances of Golden South Airline providing regularly scheduled commuter service to Stuart were improved Tuesday as a result of Martin County Commission action.

Commission Chairman Frank Wachs reports the commission voted to authorize a letter of no objection be written in connection with the Fort Pierce based airline's request to serve Stuart's Witham Field.

Wachs said Golden South must still get permission from Grumman Aerospace Corporation for use of Witham Field for commercial operations, but he said in effect, the commission vote is an indication of support for bringing the airline to Stuart. He said the proposal is for two flights a day south to West Palm Beach and Miami and two flights north to Fort Pierce, Melbourne and Orlando.

In other action, the commission agreed to accept $60,000 from General Development Corporation as compensation for the impact the proposed DGC Midport project will have on Martin County roads and beaches. Wachs said this means on Thursday morning, the commission will ask that a Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council appeal of the Midport development order be dropped.

A low bid of $47,495 by W. Darley was accepted by the commission for purchase of an all-purpose fire truck for the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department.

The commission okayed a request by Indian River Plantation officials to build a six-foot high chain link fence between IRP building and the beach. Wachs said the fence will be along the construction setback line, west of the dune line.

The commission also voted to ask the state Department of Transportation for a traffic study at U.S. 1 and N.W. 14th Street. The Palm Lake Civic Association asked for the study.

Martin wins IRP title

It was a fast and furious match, with the eighth seed defeating them fifth seed in a tournament marked by upsets at the $25,000 American Express Indian River Plantation Classic last Sunday.

Following a week of eliminations, the tournament came down from the 64 draw to a match between Billy Martin and Rick Fagel, both fantastic tennis players. Martin took the court and the tournament in style, with a 6-2, 6-0 victory that belied the competitive nature of the young players.

Martin earned $4,000 for his effort, while Fagel had to settle for second place $2,000.

Cropfield wins Sailfish

One of the world's fastest hydroplanes won the Stuart Sailfish Regatta Sunday as thousands of appreciative fans lined US 1 alongside Roosevelt Bridge, and hundreds of others rode the turbulent waters of the North Fork of the St. Lucie River in their boats.

Jim Kropfeld, a Cincinatti -based racer, averaged 90 miles per hour to win the first place honors in the 225 cubic-inch class effort. He was followed by Allen Vordermeier, Ft. Lauderdale, driving a fast-design hydro that could not make the turns as well as Kropfeld's craft, coming in third overall. Second place went to Jim Hedden of Miami, who was a steady performer in the races.

Wheeler Baker took first place in the 280 cubic inch class with four straight wins. Bob Craig took second with his 280 class hydro, and Bill Boyance of Ft. Lauderdale took third in 280.

SDS impressive in Civic debut

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Chris Crook smacked three hits and knocked in two runs last Wednesday night, as SDS Sports made their Civic League debut a successful one, downing WSTU Radio 11-2.

Teammates Roger Welker, Nick Barker and Frank Knott all added two hits to the SDS attack as the youngsters, hoping for a state championship in the boys' 14-18 age group, recorded fourteen hits in all.

David Bocchino's triple opened the game with a flash, and Crook's first hit gave SDS a 1-0 lead moments later. Then, after two outs had been made, Barker lined a single and Pop Delancey followed with another hit, scoring Henry Harriel from second base. Doug Hughes wrapped up the first inning barrage with a double, scoring both Barker and Delancey, giving SDS a 4-0 edge before WSTU even batted.

As it turned out, though, the advantage of being on the offensive didn't do the broadcasters much good, as SDS' spectacular defensive play wiped out any hard-hit balls they could produce.

Sacrifice fly balls added one run in the second and third innings, as SDS led 6-0. Then, the youngsters put the game away with a three-run rally in the fourth frame. Two more runs in the fifth made it 11-0 before WSTU could even score.

WSTU finally did get on the scoreboard in the fifth inning, as Knott dropped an easy fly ball in left field, allowing Jeff Webber to score. SDS' pitching, provided by Bocchino, continued to shut down the WSTU hitters (Bocchino had retired the first eight batters of the game before anyone reached safely) until the broadcasters strung together three hits in the sixth inning.

WSTU, now 0-1, will attempt to even its record this Monday night, when it takes on the Stuart Baptist Church. Admittedly, the radiomen face an uphill battle, because the Baptists won their first game, 23-4, against Andy's a week ago.

For SDS, one of the league's three strong teams, comes that same Andy's squad, which is currently 0-1. SDS, needless to say, is a prohibitive favorite.

Jensen Rio Fire Department was scheduled to meet the Optimist Club of Jensen Beach on Wednesday, May 9.

MORE SOFTBALL... The Deck surprised many of the Langford Park softball fans Monday night, pounding out 27 hits en route to a convincing 27-6 thrashing of Headquarters.

John Cooway led the charge, smashing four hits, including a double and a triple, while collecting four runs batted in as well.

Teammate Barry North rapped three hits, while third baseman Mark Poorman collected five runs batted in, making him the Civic League leader in that department as of Tuesday, May 8. Scott Siegel performed well coming off of the bench, ripping two hits and knocking in two runs.

The Deck (1-0) got off to a slow start, allowing Headquarters to score twice in the top of the first inning. Bob Komara and Bob Stowell connected for back-to-back triples against Deck pitcher Chris Slater, giving them the early lead.

But the Deck bounced back in their half of the first, scoring thrice as Roy Owenby doubled, Bill Busch singled, and Poorman tripled.

Headquarters tied the game in the second frame at 3 all, as Kenny Fields doubled in Kirt Brautiham, but after that it was all Deck.

The Deck's defense also sparkled throughout the evening, as shortstop Al Killian and left-center fielder Larry Pharo kept many of Headquarters' hottest shots from becoming hits. Many felt the turning point of the night came when Killian turned a hard ground ball off the bat of Eric Botka into an inning-ending double play in the fourth. The Deck proceeded to put the game away moments later, pounding the stunned Headquarters squad for six more runs.

The Deck will be strongly-tested by the Jensen Beach Optimist Club in their next outing, scheduled for next Wednesday night at Langford Park.

Sandpiper Men in Best Ball Tourney

Members of the Sandpiper Bay Men's Golfing association have been scurrying all week seeking a partner for this week's scheduled event "Partner's Best Ball."

Many of the low handicappers have been deluged with invitational calls, however, regulars who have studied past similar events believe the winners will be a pair of middle handicappers. Play is on 18-hole Saints Championship courses today. The front nine of the Saints was closed May 7, 8 and 9 to complete a reconditioning program.

Competition was keen in Thursday Foursome play, when two best balls were used in the unique format of alternating red, white and blue tees. Winners by one stroke over three other foursomes included the team of Roy Hannum, Hal Roberts, Warner Zagsobordt and Bill Hyde, finishing at 26 under par for a tally of 118.9

A match of card was required to determine second place and the "Lady Luck" found the team of Tom Chapman, Bob Heller, Larry Kimmell and "Shug" Hickman in the slot. They were followed in prize earnings by the teams of Dr. Oscar Rozett, Bob Wilson, John Rowerson, Jack Welch and Col.Sam Dewhirst, Vin Metzger, Lenny Appell and Dr.A.C.Hoffmeister.

In the also ran slot was the combo of Norm Nardone, Chuck Heiden, Myron Thomas and Harry Kessler.

Erstwhile Tom Chapman led the individual scoring parade for the day with a 73 followed by Col.Sam Dewhirst,75, Jim Oram,78, Tom Woods, 77.

Venture Three

BY JESSIE SHAVER 229-2714

Coordinator Harriet Price 229-[illegible]

Frank and Gail Lawson (and Roe) have returned from Virginia, where they spent about a week visiting with their children and grandchildren. Ruth and Bob Stuart are taking a vacation in Europe. Yvonne and Bud Wiencke are heading for N.J., in their mini-home, and hope to sell their home there.

Marge and Bob Owens are on the way to cold Michigan for the summer.

The one letter received this past week was a newsy one from Elaine Gleason. She reported that the Campbells, the Wards and the Gleasons are all safely at home in Northern Indiana. However, the were greeted with cold weather and rain. Only a few flowers were in bloom. She says she thinks next year June 1st will be departure time for her. She and George are planning their trip to England and Scotland in July, but in the meantime they are still in the throes of remodeling.

George surprised her by finishing the kitchen and family room. She says she is hoping to get her "Indiana" (not Florida) room ready to use as soon as the weather warms up. She sends regards to all Venture Three friends.

Keep the news coming if you want to read what everyone is doing.

Hear that Jackie Phillips has recovered very nicely from her "under the weather" spell. Hope she continues to do so. Lois Bonar and Fran Tener have been golfing frequently, getting up at 6:30 a.m., two days to do so.

Happy Mother's Day greeting to each and every Mother of Venture Three on Sunday.

BOATERS!!!! Quite a few Manatees have been seen lately in our canal, so will you please slow down, and watch for them, and be careful not to run into any of them.

Anniversary congratulations to Harriet and Lee Price on May 15.

Meals on wheels in jeopardy

M.C. COUNCIL ON AGING

Since so many drivers have left for the north for the summer, the Meals on Wheels program is in jeopardy. They must have 6 drivers at once. If you can drive 1½ hours once a week and want to show you care, call 283-2242. You will deliver from 3 to 14 meals and will be reimbursed 14 cents per mile for gas. This is a very rewarding program.

At the AARP picnic May 8, the group got out 800 copies of the new 12 page bulletin, on time.

BRIEFING FROM Sen. R. Stone

Sen. Stone attacks gas price gouging. The senator said he wants the government to step up its price monitoring in Fla. Senator Stone has long advocated crude oil price decontrol, however it should be accompanied by a windfall profits tax.

Our state legislature is trying to fill the bill on Professional Regulation by forming a new department, D.P.R. The professionals are retained but some laymen are to be added.

It has been proven in case after case that doctors will not discipline doctors, funeral directors will not regulate funeral directors, etc.

A birth certificate will be required for the proof of age.

For further information, contact Mrs. Patsy Lord at 334-8561.

Paul Deci9of 2257 N.E.Center Circle and Mark Raymond Sawusch of 3555 Skyline Drive in Jensen Beach are included among 1,900 students named to the Dean's List at Florida State University for the winter quarter.

The Dean's List is an honor roll of students who maintain an A or B average for all courses taken during a quarter.
